THE LUMBER TRADE.

ANNUAL REVIEW—MIRAMICHI LUMBER RETURNS.

(From Singleton, Dunn & Co's Timber Circular, 9th January, 1878.)

The year 1877 was about the most unsatisfactory one the timber trade in the Clyde has experienced. At its commencement dealers were gratified by the fairly prosperous year they had had in 1876, and influenced by this and the very moderate stocks then shown, operated on the market freely, and negotiated contracts for f. o. b. business to a full average during the first two months of the year Before the spring months were over, however, disputes between masters and workmen in the shipbuilding yards had assummed such a serious aspect that the most sanguine felt that in this section of our business little good would be done during the year. This strike and lock out lasting for about seven months, while reducing the consumption of timber in the shipyards to a minimum, had a most depressing effect on all the principal branches of trade in the Valley of the Clyde, and thereby further diminished the consumption of wood goods. To make matters worse the hitherto brisk trade in the housebuilding, almost simultaneously with the strike in the shipyards, began to collapse. From April until the end of the year builders accumbed, involving dealers in timber to very large amounts. As may readily be understood these losses had a very disturbing effect, and the earliest result on the general market was the determined abstinence from buying (except for small and pressing wants) on the part of the dealers. It is felt that more failures in the building trade will yet take place, but the timber dealers, having learned caution by their past experience, are not likely to be involved to any serious extent. What they have most to fear, (and the present heavy stocks will suffer from the same cause) is, that there is no chance of a speedy revival in the building trade. Manufacturers in the city and neighborhood are dull through the continued scarcity of shipping orders, and, in consequence, the consumption of deals for box making is very moderate. The furniture trade, too, has been in a depressed state during the past year, and its prospects are most discouraging. We much regret the necessity of recording so much of an adverse character in the past year's history of our trade, and this feeling of regret is much increased by our inability to point to any important feature which might help to brighten the prospect for the year we have now entered upon. The shipbuilders and their men have come to an understanding ; but the work on hand wont keep them going long, owing partly to the strike, but mainly to the prevailing dearth of fresh orders, only some eight or ten ships having been fixed for several months past. Throughout the city there are very extensive railway operations in progress, absorbing a large amount of labor but little wood material. Importations from the north of Europe were lower last year, caused probably by the quantities of low-priced yellow and red and pitch pine and deals sent here from America, and it may be hoped that the very low prices now sought for these latter goods will force more attention to them, and give them entire precedence over European woods.

THE ORANGE BILL.

The Conservative party in the Local House has dropped the Orange Bill. Very good. If the step had been taken from a calm and deliberate consideration of the circumstances and in the general interests of the country, the Orange body would have been entitled to high commendation, but unfortunately there is reason to suppose it was abandoned in view of the Commons elections, and from the consideration that it might injure the Conservative cause in Quebec. The allegation that it was dropped because there was not time to get up the petition is simply ridiculous. No sensible person can believe that Mr. Merrick was telling the truth when he made the statement in the House that want of time was the reason for dropping the Bill. Mr. Merrick told a deliberate falsehood when he made that statement, and much as we respect his public character he will in our estimation for ever more have his name clouded with the shadow of a lie. It is eleven months since the Grand Lodge met and declared the Bill should be brought up year after year until passed, and for Mr. Merrick to say eleven months is not sufficient time to get up the Petition was simply monstrous. The fact must be plain to everyone who looks at this matter with calm reason and dispassionate judgment, that the Orange Body is simply a Conservative Club, which makes religion subservient to politics, and converts unsophisticated and unsuspecting countrymen into unconscious tools of a political faction. If any Orangemen who reads these lines should feel annoyance at being spoken of in such plain terms, let him take action and demand an explanation from his superiors in the body why the Orange Bill was dropped this session. Any explanation we will publish at once, but until such explanation is given all unprejudiced persons will without doubt, ascribe it to a political dodge.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

THE MIDLAND AND VICTORIA RAILWAYS.

From the report of the Commissioner of Public Works for the Province of Ontario for the year ending 31st of December, 1877, we take the following in reference to the work of construction performed on the Midland and Victoria Railways :—

VICTORIA RAILWAY.

The connection of the Victoria Railway in the Town of Lindsay with the Whitby, Port Perry & Lindsay Railway, has been completed, and both roads now use a Union station in Lindsay. The extension in Lindsay is 1,442 miles, and therefore the whole length completed to Kinmount is 33,442 miles.

Grading and bridging are in progress on the next section of 10 miles, extending from Kinmount in the direction of Haliburton, and a considerable amount of heavy rock excavations have been carried on. I am informed that the iron is on hand for the section, and that some of it is laid.

The rough character of the surface along the line which is in the Laurentian formation after the first twenty miles north of Lindsay, will render a large average of curvature necessary on the railway beyond Kinmount.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

The Midland Railway, which now has trains running between Port Hope, on Lake Ontario, and Wabaushene, on the Georgian Bay, has a further extension of the line in progress of construction, so as to make the final terminus of the road at Midland Bay, a very good harbour on the waters of the Georgian Bay, Lake Huron.

The length from Wabaushene to Midland is under 14 miles, and I am informed that a large amount of grading has been done there during the present year.

The total number of Methodists in the United States is over 3,315,000 ; in Canada, 161,172 ; in Great Britain and her colonies, 907,404. In all the world they they number 4,383,888. The increase in lay members for 1877 throughout the world is given as 211,309.

Some days ago Sarah Cameron, a young lady of the Township of Lancaster, laid an information here "that on or about the 11th day of October, 1877, Henry E. McKeehan, of the township of Lancaster, clergyman, did commit an indecent assault upon the person of complainant. A warrant was at once placed in the hands of Constable High, who proceeded to Lancaster, and made the arrest. Mr. McKeehan is the minister at Lancaster, of the congregation which refused to join in the late Union, and constituted its allegiance to the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in connection with the Church in Scotland. He is a man of family, and has been for many years in the ministry. He was brought before Mr. Justice Gwynne, at Cobourg, on Monday last, and admitted to bail, himself in $400 and two sureties in $200 each. The case was adjourned to the 15th inst. at Peterborough."

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.
An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Films, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.
THE AMERICAN EYE-SALVE is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. RINGWORM and OLD CHRONIC SORES, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the AMERICAN EYE-SALVE. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications The proprietors of "Dr. J. PETTIT'S AMERICAN EYE-SALVE," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.
There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.
The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch ; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.
They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure ; but with these it is entirely different ; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.
They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.
They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive ; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS, PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.
Prepared by GEORGE E. MITCHELL, Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists. 36-tf

"The battle is not yours, but God's." II. CHRON., XX., 15.

"Satan hindered us." I. THESS., II., 18.

The Temple of the Lord had long
In ruins lain,
When to God's prophets came the word,
To build again;
So humbly the Lord's house they repair,
That they His holy name may worship there.

No sooner had the work begun,
Than there arose
Tobiah and Sanballat, who,
The work oppose;
So when we would show forth our saviours praise,
Lo, Satan hinders in unnumber'd ways.

When busy in the vineyard, too,
Satan draws nigh
And stirs the idle crowd to raise
The taunting cry:
"Enthusiasm! how much will fade away
Their zeal, a'en as the meteor's passing ray."

And when beside all waters, we,
The seed would sow,
He raises in our hearts mistrust,
Whether 'twill grow,
Or for long labor here what have we got;
Ah! surely we have spent our strength for naught.

Would we in greater earnestness
Resolve to pray,
He tempts our wand'ring thoughts that he May turn away
The blessing sought, by making faith so weak,
We scarce expect e'en though we seek.

Woes, Satan hinder us, it shows
That for the Lord
We're doing service, and we know,
E'en as His word
Hath shown to us, that if we would obtain
The crown, that we must strive the prize to gain.

Shall we yield him the conflict, so
Our Saviour lives
Still by his presence on the earth,
And to us gives
Strength to defeat our greatest enemy,
And to achieve a glorious victory.

THE INFALLIBILITY OF THE CHURCH.

LECTURE BY REV. FATHER HENNING.

(From the Montreal Witness.)

A large audience gathered in the Mechanics' Hall, to hear the lecture delivered under the auspices of the Catholic Young Men's Society by this celebrated Redemptorist Father. He was introduced by the President of the Society, and said that the Church was maligned as a tyrant because she stands forth to the world and says, "I am infallible." The Church is infallible in its teachings because it teaches that which Christ first taught it, and Christ was infallible. Infallibility is not, nor has it anything to do with, sinlessness. The Church holds, and has always held, that no one was ever sinless. If the Church excepts anybody it was the Virgin Mary, because she was the mother of Christ. The Church does not, then, claim sinlessness for Pope or her bishops, or any other of her members. The Church is protected by God, and because, she is so protected she cannot err, and therefore cannot teach error. We know that "without faith it is impossible to please God," and "he that believeth not shall be condemned." Faith is the acceptance without hesitation of all that God has revealed to us, no matter how He has revealed it. We are asked to accept the faith of Christianity, which we cannot understand because the voucher for our reason is the veracity of God, and common sense tells us that the reason of God is greater than the reason of man. To prevent error faith requires a witness given by God; that witness must be universal, unmistakable and infallible. If that witness could err and lead us astray how can we rely upon it? Faith requires an infallible interpreter; therefore God has given us one. Besides a witness and an interpreter we need an infallible judge, for without one charity could not reign, and if not charity then God could not reign, and the devil must reign supreme. Jesus Christ has a witness, an interpreter and a judge, and if he has it must be one of these four—The Church, the Bible, reviewate judgment, or reason. It cannot be the reason of man, because that is fallible reason is infallible in its own sphere, but the moment it gets out of its own sphere it is no longer infallible. Reason cannot teach us in spiritual things any more than a man can take hold of his own bootstraps and lift himself over a fence. Perhaps it is the Bible, without an interpreter. If men say that the Bible is an interpreter they must mean their own private interpretation of it. The Episcopalian takes his Bible and reads there that Jesus Christ is the Son of the living God; the Unitarian proclaims that Jesus Christ is not the Son of God. The Methodist reads that after this world there is a place of eternal punishment; the Universalist says there is not such a place as hell. This is heedless they depend upon their own interpretation. Some time ago a minister of Brooklyn proclaimed that he did not believe in such a place as hell. It raised a storm through the country some believed, some did not; so when theyfound they could not agree they all came to the conclusion that the Bible needed revision. This shows that the sects do not hold the Bible (objectively taken) as the rule of their own faith. If not the Bible perhaps it is private reason. Brigham Young professed himself personally inspired by the Holy Ghost; a man of Munster, who depended upon his own private reason, ran naked through the streets, saying that he was inspired by the Holy Ghost, and there were many who believed him. The Quaker sits mum during half a meeting, and then, rising suddenly, speaks, believing himself to be inspired, and God knows what nonsense he has been talking. The witness interpreter judge then can only be an organic church. Jesus Christ chose from all the people who followed Him about Judea (seventy-two) and gave them power to teach, and out of these He chose twelve, and gave them powers that the others had not, and again of these twelve chose one more, and then sent them into all the world to teach. This was the church founded by Christ. The organism of the Catholic Church of to-day is identical with that Church which Christ founded. The Catholic Church is the universal witness; the sun never sets on it. It is also an unmistakable witness; not even a Protestant child is mistaken as to which is the universal church; and it is the only church which in consonance of its infallibility. Its councils are infallible because they represent the church, and the Church is infallible as the head of the council. History teaches that some of the popes were very sinful men, but as the head of the Church a pope is infallible. The pope is not infallible when he speaks some miserable subjects, but he is infallible when he speaks upon any spiritual or moral point. The Church has ever been persecuted, and is suffering persecution in Germany at the present day. For three hundred years the Church has been persecuted in Ireland, but that will never destroy it, for it is the faith. The faithful have always held the indissolubility of the Church, and always will.

THE BIBLE IS A DEAD BOOK

The lecturer then spoke of the Church as a temple, three which one of the Holy Fathers spoke of, and described the various persons present on the platform present-ing a striking contrast.

MURDER IN LINDSAY.

One Woman kills another on Unpremeditated Crime—Fatal Kicks and Blows.—Heart Disease or Manslaughter?—The Jury disagree.

Last Wednesday evening, between seven and eight o'clock, a crime that is rare in the annals of the country occurred in Lindsay—one woman causing the death of another more advanced in years, by severe kicks given in a petty quarrel. It appears that the murdered woman, a washerwoman named Mrs. Connell, left her house on Colborne-st, shortly after dusk, accompanied by a little girl living with her, and went to Mrs. Davy's near by, to enquire if they had seen any person knock at her door to alarm and annoy her and then run away. On returning they met Mrs. Burke, on the sidewalk opposite Mrs. Davy's—another name—and charged her with the offence in question. Mrs. Burke denied the charge and an altercation took place in which very hard language was used. Mrs. Burke shoved her opponent against the fence, and Mrs Connell with her open hand slapped Mrs. Burke's cheek. She then sat down on the sidewalk and defied Mrs. Burke to kick her. The latter did so several times whereupon Mrs. Connell screamed and in a few minutes expired. The bruises were not apparently very severe. The neighbours intervened, and Dr. Kempt was called but could do nothing, and the authorities were notified. The murdered woman was about fifty years of age and was sober and industrious but in poor circumstances. She lived with a little girl—not a relative—in a log cottage on Colbourne-st, her husband, it will be remembered, having been scalded to death on the tug Novelty some four years ago. She has grown up children living in Oswego and a son in the shanties to the north. Mrs. Burke has the reputation of being quarrelsome with her neighbours.

A jury was empanelled at the house of the deceased by Coroner Poole, and after hearing a portion of the evidence adjourned until a post mortem examination was held, after which the inquest was resumed.

Drs. Kempt and Burrows who made the examination found the body in a healthy state generally, except the heart, which was larger than it ought to be, being a disease known as weakness of the heart. The evidence of both doctors went to show that the deceased might have lived for years, but any mental excitement or physical effort in the state of her heart would cause syncope—or fainting—which might result in death. Dr. Burrows swore that the slight abrasions would not of themselves be sufficient to cause death or any serious consequences.

The jury, sixteen in number, remained some hours, but failed to agree upon a verdict. We understand eight were for finding a verdict of manslaughter and committing Mrs. Burk for trial, while the other eight were firmly for a verdict setting forth that Mrs. Connell died from the effects of heart disease, and the excitement of the quarrel, and possibly from injuries, received during the quarrel. The jury were discharged and Mrs. Burk was not committed.

We understand steps will be taken by the authorities to have Mrs. Burk brought before the Police Magistrate. The affair has naturally occasioned great excitement in the East Ward.—Post.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

Under existing circumstances, ourreaders will no doubt be interested in a description of Constantinople's means or facilities for resisting a siege. It may be that the Russians will not find it necessary to attempt to force an entrance into the Ottoman capital, but should they, a protracted siege, and a severe struggle would be inevitable, provided of course, that the Turkish troops would be numerically strong enough to man the defences and guard the passes. We are led to make the above remarks, by perusing the following extract from an exchange:—

"Approaching Constantinople from Adrianople, as we gather from the letter of a London correspondent who has been lately over the ground, the country seems to have been marked out by nature as a defence for the capital. Four parallel lines of hills of great strength, stretch out and in advance of these is a terrace abounding in points of vantage ground for the defenders of the city. The railway from Constantinople to Adrianople supplies the means of easy and rapid transport to these outlaying works; while a valley making a branch line, should be cut. Just beyond this point rise the great mountains close by the coast of the Sea of Marmora. From this point stretch out the two defiles through which the Russians, if ever they determine to run out their policy "on that line," must inevitably pass. On the left lies the Bay of Buyuk Chekmedejer, piercing the land for about six miles with an impassable flood of water. Then a plain spreading nine miles more, part of it a deep morass covered with reeds; and further to the right, undulating lines covered with brushwood, beyond which lies the calm rated Derkis Lake. From this point the country is covered by the guns of the new redoubts which were erected early last year under the direction of Colonel Baker. The natural position of Constantinople, as an authority, is of such strength that the lines of Terres Vedras could not for a moment compare with it. New and much more powerful forts and lines, armed with the best modern artillery have been recently constructed. These extend even beyond the limits of the "long wall," (as it was styled) constructed by one of the ancient Emperors of the East, and are so placed that Constantinople may be beyond the reach of a bombardment, even with the most formidable artillery, as the whole of the valley and the head of the bay could without the slightest difficulty be cleared of anything that might be held enough to enter it. Of course, the Turkish fleet would play an important part in the defence of the capital. The sea defences are more formidable than the land. The Bosphorus is a winding channel, only nine miles in length. Its defences consist of numerous batteries, mounting nearly 400 heavy guns. The greatest width of the Straits does not exceed two and a half miles, while at its narrowest point the concentrated fire of 166 guns can be brought to bear upon the hostile ship or fleet. The Dardanelles, forming a longer and wider entrance to the sea of Marmora, is not less strongly fortified. These formidable batteries would have to be reduced before any naval force would think of forcing either of these passages.

A $502 ROOSTER.—That famous $50,000 cow which was so much talked about in this country a few years ago, has found a rival in point of propertiesonte pecuniary worth in a $502 chicken. The English Agricultural Gazette says that a game cock was recently sold for the above excessive price, and suppose that in the future the rearing of silk chickens would prove a very lucrative source of income. The same journal, we notice, says that over $13,000,000 worth of eggs were imported into England in 1876, and yet the supply was short of the demand. Eggs is an article for profitable poultry, and a wider field for the growth of the trade in eggs possesses vast encouraging features.

"What did you get?" asked one trader of the other, who had been to the sale of the late "estate." "I got nothin'," was the reply. "What was it?" enquiry inquired the successful one. "A cold chamber!" bitterly rejoined the other, as he trampled on.

AWFUL WARNING TO YOUNG HUSBANDS.

A young wife in Michigan had just got settled in her new home. All seemed fair and promising, for she did not know that her husband was a drunkard. But one night he came home at a very late hour, and much the worse for liquor. When he staggered into the house, the wife who was greatly shocked, told him he was sick, and to lie down at once, and in a moment or two he was comfortably settled on the sofa in a drunken sleep. His face was reddish purple, his breathing heavy, and altogether he was a pitiable looking object.

The doctor was sent for post haste and mustard applied to his hands and feet.—When the doctor came and felt his pulse and examined him, and found he was only drunk, he said—

"He'll be all right in the morning."

But the wife insisted that he was very sick, and that severe remedies must be used.

"You must shave his head and apply [illegible] to the [illegible] and [illegible] one who will."

The husband's head was accordingly shaved and blisters applied.

The patient lay all night in a drunken sleep, and notwithstanding the blisters were eating into his flesh, it was not till near morning that he began to beat about disturbed by pain.

About daylight he woke up to a most uncomfortable consciousness of blistered agony.

"What means this?" he said, putting his hand to his head.

"Lie still—you mustn't stir—you have been sick."

"I'm not sick."

"Oh, yes you are; you have the brain fever. We have worked with you all night."

"I should think you had," groaned the poor victim. "What's the matter with my feet?"

They're blistered."

"Well, I'm better now; take off the blisters—do," he said pitcously.

He was in a most uncomfortable state—his head covered with sores, his feet and hands still worse.

"Dear," he said, "if I should ever get sick in this way again, don't be alarmed and send for a doctor, and above all, don't blister me."

"Oh, but I will; all that saved you were the blisters, and if you have another such spell I should be more frightened than ever; for the tendency, I'm sure, is apoplexy, and

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 14, 1878.

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

Mr. Anglin has been re-elected Speaker of the House of Commons, though not without objection on the part of the Opposition. Sir John Macdonald protested that Mr. Anglin could not take his seat, and was not a member of the House, till he had been formally introduced to the Speaker. On this technical point the leader of the Opposition had evidently prepared himself, his speech showing much study of constitutional points, which, as is usual with him, he tried to twist to his own and his party's advantage. In this, however, he was most unsuccessful as the sequel showed. He held that as there is no regular rule laid down in Canada in this matter the British practice should be followed, whereas it is well known that the procedure here in the opening of the House differs in several essential points from that followed in England. In any case Sir John's contention is a ridiculous one, and was properly treated as such by the House, as it will also be by the country. The identity of the newly nominated Speaker with the Hon. Mr. Anglin re-elected a short time ago could not be mistaken in the House. So evident was this fact that all the fine-spun quotations of the Opposition leader, referred to by him as "precedents," were but so much moonshine to those who heard them put forth with a mountebank air befitting the man who advanced them. Well might the Opposition try to avoid a vote; for what man of any independence of mind would suffer himself to be made the willing victim of such a farce? Mr. Masson's plea, that there could be no vote when there was no second candidate nominated for the Speakership, availed nothing. The Premier met the dodge in the proper spirit. He was dignified in his references to the constitutional points raised, and answered by him; yet he treated the author of the affair with the ridicule he desired, when pointing out to him that his own contention made him ineligible to sit in the House, because he was not formally introduced after re-election in 1875, he having been unseated for bribery. This was the climax of the ludicrous, and the members of the House laughed long and loud, as well they might. The vote showed a majority of sixty-three in favor of Mr. Anglin's return to the Speaker's chair.

RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT IN THE STATES.

The chief executive officers of the United States Government have no means of supporting their policy in the Legislature by voice or vote. Far from its having been considered necessary, as in Britain and her Colonies, that the members of the Cabinet should have seats in either House, it has not been thought well that they should have any connection with those Houses, or that their continuance in office should at all depend upon their having or retaining the confidence of the representatives of the people. To a very large extent the Government of the States has been a personal one, with the responsibility resting almost exclusively upon the President and the members of his Cabinet, who are more his personal servants, dependant for place on his continued favour, than his responsible advisers; and on that account, in a very important sense, his masters. This arrangement has always been felt to be attended by very considerable drawbacks. It, no doubt, has brought into the service of the country, and has enabled them to do good work, those who might never have been able to secure seats in Congress; but it has at the same time interposed a wide gulf between the legislature and the executive, and has given the government too much of a personal character to be entirely compatible with Ministerial responsibility and popular control. Mr. Hayes apparently has felt the necessity of a change; for we are informed that he is to recommend in his forthcoming message to Congress the introduction of a law giving the heads of the various executive departments seats on the floor of the House of Representatives, with power to speak, but not, we presume, to vote, on the various subjects brought under discussion. This will afford opportunities for explanation, defence and discussion not hitherto possessed by the United States Cabinet, and may be the first step toward the assimilation of the whole frame work of the government, apart from its outward republican form, to that of Britain. It might be thought that merely to have seats in the Legislature, without being obliged to go out of office [illegible] executive with legislative [illegible] would be a mistake. Hayes [illegible] things [illegible] at present the President very seldom succeeds in maintaining in office those [illegible] case personal or official conduct is offensive to Congress; while, with the appointing power vested to such an extent [illegible], he does not find himself in a very favorable position for maintaining a long [illegible] and successful struggle with a hostile legislature. In ordinary cases he has to give in; and it is therefore very possible that the change recommended, instead of making the executive more dependent, may result in its being practically as no. Timely and full explanation may in many cases remove jealousies, suspicions and difficulties, which, left to themselves, as they are at present, have a tendency to precipitate the very collisions which are thought to be rendered impossible by the President being alone responsible, and having members of his Cabinet altogether separated from Congress, and dependent for place and power neither upon its votes nor its approbation.

The change proposed, no doubt will be found a great practical improvement, but it does not follow from its being successful effected that full assimilation to the British method would be thereafter easy, or even possible, without the present system being to a great extent pulled to pieces, and changes introduced of a far more vital importance than the most daring Reformer would dream of proposing. It is very easy to say, "Make the executive directly responsible to the Legislature; and let every ministry that has not a majority in both Houses give place to one that has,"—but in its practical working such a rule would be found attended by endless difficulties, and might even sometimes result in rendering all government impossible. In the States it is not to be forgotten there are two Houses of Legislature, elected by the people and claiming to be direct representatives of the nation. Each of these would have to be satisfied with the Ministerial policy and proceedings; and if they were not, the constitution, as at present framed, provides no remedy for the disagreement, and affords no means, as in Britain, for bringing them once more into harmony. The United States Senate is by no means a mere court of registration, and would never be satisfied to be the mere echo of the House of Representatives. It may be said that neither is the House of Lords, a mere echo of the popular branch; and that there is the possibility of a British Ministry having the support of the one House and being in a minority in the other. Very true; but there is the difference;—the House of Lords is supported by no popular backing, and can in the last resort be always brought to reason, and to act in accordance with the House of Commons, by the exercise of the Royal perogative in the creation of a sufficient number of new peers to overcome all opposition and secure the necessary majority. With the Senate of the States this would be entirely impossible. It is a popular body, quite as much as the House of Representatives, though chosen on a very different plan. It would be as likely to stand on its fancied rights as the other House; and if it were obstinate, there is no way by which the difficulty could be overcome, short of a revolution.

In these circumstances, perhaps the change foreshadowed in the President's message is all that is possible; or, it may be, desirable. The Ministry will always in this way be, in both Houses, ready to explain what needs explanation; to correct misapprehensions; to refute misrepresentations; and to supply, correctly and at once, all the information needed to disarm hostility and to turn enemies into friends. What other changes may be effected in the course of time it might be rash to speculate about. The proposed change will in any case be an improvement, even though for a good while it be followed by no other. It will bring the two departments of government more into direct contact with each other. It will give them a more vivid idea of having in common interests. It will bring the whole of the executive proceedings more under congressional and popular discussion; and it will thus help to make the whole machinery of government work more smoothly and more effectively, even though in the meantime an adverse vote may not make ministers resign, or force the President to dismiss them, whether they will voluntarily withdraw or not. The public would at once be able to judge whether Ministerial explanations were satisfactory or the reverse. There would at all times be the opportunity of making frank, yet measured, official statements. The Cabinet would always have the opportunity of arguing its case in the presence of the great jury of the nation; and of making good its position, not merely in spite of hostile criticism, but through its instrumentality. Ministers would no longer have the excuse that they have no legitimate channel, either for making explanations or expounding and defending their measures; while from the discussions in this way called forth, both the President and the people would have better means than at present of judging of the wisdom of the Executive plans, and the energy and success of the Executive's actions. Gradually it may come round that the President will occupy somewhat the same position as the Queen of Britain or the President of the French Republic; but it will in any case be a long time before this change be affected. In the meantime, what is now proposed will obviate some objections, and overcome some practical difficulties connected with the administration of affairs among our neighbours.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The rumours respecting the probable entry of the British fleet into the Bosphorus is the subject of numerous sensational and conflicting reports. We are informed from various sources that the Admiral in command of the fleet at present in the Levant has received instructions, if it be found necessary, to force his way up the Dardanelles; that the forts along the shores have been ordered to fire upon the British war vessels if they should attempt to pass the Straits; and that torpedoes are being laid in the Bosphorus. This much, however, appears to be probable: that the fleet will be at Constantinople before the end of the week. Lord Derby having made a statement to that effect in the House of Lords last night. The Channel squadron has also been ordered to proceed at once to Gibraltar to await further orders. The British Government have purchased two new ironclads, now lying in the London Docks, and which were built for the Turkish Government, and work is going on day and night in the dockyards, the orders to the local authorities being to spare no expense, but to hurry on as much as possible the fitting out of vessels for sea.

But notwithstanding these warlike preparations, there does not seem to be any good reason for anticipating any serious trouble over the presence of the British fleet before Constantinople. On the Contrary, there seems to be good reason for believing that the Porte will grant the firmans asked for by the Powers, three of which, however, viz., France, Italy, and Germany now decline to send vessels to the scene. Austria still insists on this privilege, and her relations with Russia have been further involved by the receipt of a Note from St. Petersburg stating that among the questions withdrawn from the consideration of the Conference are the reorganization and occupation of Bulgaria, and the retrocession of Bessarabia. The latter point Austria seems disposed to concede, provided Roumania retains possession of the mouths of the Danube.

It was reported on Tuesday that the Russian Embassy at Paris that the Russian Ambassador to the Porte had already arrived at Constantinople, accompanied by a small detachment of troops. Another despatch—from Vienna—fixes the Russian entry for Wednesday. In the event of the passage of the Dardanelles by the British fleet, it is stated that the Greek troops who have evacuated Thessaly and Epirus will at once reoccupy that territory. Great indignation has been aroused at Athens by reports of massacres by Bashi-Bazouks and Circassians on the frontier.

Disturbances are reported from Syria, culminating in the exile of several leading inhabitants of Damascus.

PETERBOROUGH AND RAILWAY PROJECTS.

Railway matters so far as this town and county are concerned may be said to be in a state of chaos. This confusion has been directly caused by the unexpected defeat of the Toronto by-law in aid of the proposed through line from that city to Ottawa. It is useless to here enunciate the several causes which led to that defeat but it will be remembered that months ago we stated that the success or failure of the scheme depended greatly on the energy and industry of those who had the matter in hand. We then alluded to the inertia of the managers of the Company and what might be feared from it. Associated with the President in the Toronto Campaign was a gentleman of much the same temperament as himself, and it can scarcely be wondered at that the opponents of the by-law outdid its advocates. The failure was owing to a simple lack of nerve power.

If any blame be attachable to the gentlemen themselves both of whom we esteem for many estimable qualities—it is on the chance of their recognizing their own defects. The great secret of the defeat of the Toronto by-law to grant a bonus to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway was contained in the expression of a citizen of the Provincial capital that "had George Laidlaw been at the head of the Company the by-law would have carried." We do not like to say that this is literally true but it contains a lesson that must be learned by the promoters of the project and put into practice in the future agitation necessary to the prosecution of the work to a successful issue. There can be no doubt that for some time the Toronto and Ottawa Railway project is delayed, but we have so much faith in its ultimate success that we deprecate any move toward what may prohibit the town or county from prompt and hearty co-operation when the time comes to support it. For this reason the Grand Junction road has been looked on with disfavour by the more zealous friends and advocates of Peterboro's prosperity. For this reason too, among others we would apply the motto, 'hasten slow' to the Omemee branch line talked of by some hereabout. If, as is conceded, the main object be to connect with Bobcaygeon, it will be time enough for Peterborough to think of a branch to Omemee when it is definitly known what Bobcaygeon is going to do in the matter. If that village connects with Lindsay, then Peterborough has little or nothing to do with the affair; indeed, her interests in this branch at all depends on the contingencies of the Midland and Grand Junction lines, both of which are in the hands of people who must be trusted no further than the closest bonds will hold them. In such circumstances, why at the present time trouble with the Omemee branch scheme? It might be well to let this railway fever cool down somewhat, even to the application of the frigid treatment to the half section Peterborough and Ottawa project, the practicability of which we fail to see. The very acknowledgement that the fate of the Ottawa by-law depended on the vote in Toronto is pretty good proof that the Dominion Capital will not look very favourably on the line that does not include direct connection with the capital of the Province. Is it not possible for Peterborough to do without the agitation of a railway project for a few months? The town and county have both prospered without a second road, and we have even resisted successfully the blandishments of the Grand Junction Company. Probably then the advancement of this section of the country would not be retarded if the people kept cool a little longer. If, however, Peterborough must have a railway project to push forward, we would suggest the advisability in the interval of rest giving the Toronto and Ottawa scheme, the construction of a direct line into the back country. The time will come when such a line will be a necessity; and it is just as well that the people should think over the development of our northern townships and a future connection with the Pacific Railway. Here is a subject worthy of careful consideration; and, in the meantime, the Bobcaygeonites, the Midland Railway and Grand Junction Railway people can go on perfecting their plans till they get them into such shape that Peterborough can take hold of them as something tangible.

CONSISTENCY.

The Review is much exercised over the introduction of a By-law to fix the amount to be paid for licenses for the year. That paper has been exercised unduly in favor of the Licensed Victuallers, for what reason we will not delay to discuss—but would ask—while accusing others of dishonest motives in attempting to lessen the evil of intemperance, was its advocacy of the trade honest? A positive answer would allay the minds of some citizens who think to the contrary. Councillor Rutherford who introduced a By-law to fix the fees for licenses, can scarcely be deserving of so much abuse, and if the leaders of the temperance movement for working in a moral cause are fanatics, what are those persons who work to perpetuate the crime of making men drunk! The introducing of a By-law that required to be submitted three weeks should not startle intelligent men such as the editor of the Review, or the councillors who oppose temperance profess to be. The question of the legality of proceedings is always doubted by some persons, when opposing public opinion. The legal right to introduce such a by-law has not been questioned, the only question is that of time to advertise before the 1st of March, and allow for a meeting of the council to finally pass it. One motion says it is to be finally considered by the council within six weeks after the voting, and the necessary notice by the clerk fixes the time after one month from the day of the voting thereon. The wording of the notice prevented the By-law going to the people, and we have yet to learn that it is dishonest to submit a By-law to ratepayers. But to be consistent the Review must abuse all temperance advocates.

The notice of application to Parliament at the present session for an Orange incorporation Bill, sent to the Ontario Gazette by the Grand Secretary of Ontario West, was not in proper shape for publication, and besides it was not accompanied by the money.

The funeral of the Pope will, it is announced, be celebrated privately in the Sixtine Chapel on the 16th, 17th, and 18th instant—the object being, it is supposed, to avoid the necessity of providing special accommodation at the ceremony for the Italian Royal Family and Ministers, or, on the other hand, refusing to do so. The Conclave will meet on Monday next, and the result of the election will be proclaimed from the grand balcony of the Vatican Basilica. The report that the Roman Cardinals had decided against a reconciliation with the Quirinal is contradicted, the power of taking such a step being vested solely in the Pope.

The member for West Peterborough thinks that when the Public Works Department accepts other than the lowest tender, the Commissioner should report to the House the reasons for the rejection of tenders lower than that accepted. Such a rule would force the exposure of matters of some delicacy, and tend to prevent proper competition in tenderings. Nor, would Parliament be better secured, as Mr. Scott seems to imagine, for now any member of the House can ask for information concerning any matter of this kind, of which he may have any doubts. Such, for instance, as the McDonald-McWilliams matter, for the departmental correspondence in which Mr. Scott himself has moved for an order.

The late Conservative convention in Toronto formally declared in its series of resolutions that no re-adjustment of the tariff will be satisfactory "if adopted as a provisional means only to meet a temporary exigency, or to supply a temporary deficit." The party in opposition thus pledges itself to rest satisfied with nothing short of a permanent policy as regards the tariff, and yet, in another resolution of the same series, announced itself in favour of "a reciprocity of tariffs." This means, if it means anything, that the primary idea of revenue must be given up; and that duties on Canadian imports shall be levied, irrespective of Dominion interests and of common sense, on the figures of the United States tariff, whatever they may be. The effect of such a policy in the present state of affairs among our oppressively "protected" neighbors would be to increase our Canadian duties fully one hundred per cent, and thus strike as much against British trade as against that with the United States. The destructive effect on our revenue, and on our trade generally, must be obvious to anyone who takes the trouble to think of it. Fancy this as a permanency! Turn then to a change in the American tariff, such as is about to be made, and following out the principal of "a reciprocity of tariffs, where would the permanency be? The absurdity is at once apparent; but is no greater than that which characterizes the rest of the protectionist prlaver of the Tories, whose only object is evidently to make a little cheap party capital, no matter what inconsistency and what deception they may have to engage in to gain their expected point.

The Irish Canadian is troubled about Peterborough, It is not satisfied with Mr. Bertram, Mr. Hall, nor Mr. Scott, and its objection is that they are not Irishmen. It may be unfortunate that Peterborough cannot please the Irish Canadian but we take it to be the fault of that journal rather than the constituency. Not that the Irish Canadian is hard to please either; for it is apparently satisfied with Dr. O'Sullivan, to whom we will not do the unkindness of a comparison with the other representatives of the County in Parliament. We have some consideration too for the other three, in refraining from a comparison so odious. The whole trouble with the Irish Canadian seems to be its craze on Scotch ascendency, whereby it keeps up an incessant attempt to stir up national jealousy, to the exclusion of subjects pertinent to the politics of the country. The people of Peterborough know, and the Irish Canadian cannot deny, that the Country is as well represented by the gentlemen in the House of Commons as if they were Irish. They are the representatives of the people of their, respective constituencies, and those of their constituents who are Irish are not foolish enough, though the Irish Canadian may think so, to forget their faithfulness simply because they or their ancestors did not come from the unfortunate island. What is wanted in every constituency is a choice of candidates who not only are able to represent the people, but whose chances of election are such as to make it something else than folly to put them forward. The whole of the circumstances must be looked at; for it is worse than folly to be blinded to reason by a merely sentimental feeling however strong. The nationality cry of the Irish Canadian is the sheerest folly; and not worthy of half the attention that has been bestowed upon it, at the expense of topics with some shadow of sense at bottom.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

Fifth Session—Third Parliament.—The Speech from the Throne.

On Friday last, Parliament was formally opened with the usual ceremonies. The weather was remarkably fine, and the number of persons who assembled to witness the proceedings was much larger than usual. For several days back Mr. Kimber has been kept busy issuing tickets of admission to the Senate Chamber, and up to this morning he had disposed of no less than two thousand six hundred tickets. There being accommodation for only about nine hundred persons in the galleries, every possessor of a ticket felt it his duty to present himself early, and by noon the whole available space in the Chamber was occupied, while those who failed to obtain admission had to content themselves by taking up positions in the corridors, and on the sidewalks in front of the buildings. Among those who were accommodated with seats on the floor of the chamber, were the Judges of the Supreme Court, and a large number of ladies in full dress.

Shortly before three o'clock, His Excellency and Lady Dufferin and suite left Rideau Hall, and proceeded to the buildings. A detachment of the Ottawa Brigade of Garrison Artillery; under the command of Capt. Evans, manned the guns of Nepean Point. The guard of honor was furnished from the Governor-General's Foot Guards, and was under the direction of Capt. Lee, Lieut. Major and Ensign Surtees. Their Excellencies drove up to the main entrance of the buildings. The usual salute was fired by the battery, the regimental band played "God Save the Queen," and the guard of honour presented arms.

His Excellency proceeded to the Senate Chamber, and having taken his seat on the throne, commanded the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod to summon the faithful Commons.

Black Rod then proceeded to the Chamber, and delivered the usual message summoning the House to the Chamber of the Senate.

Headed by the Speaker the members then proceeded to the Senate.

The SPEAKER ELECT advanced to the bar and said—May it please your Excellency, the House of Commons have elected me as their Speaker, though I am but little able to fulfil the important duties thus assigned to me. If in the performance of these duties I should at any time fall into error, I pray that the fault may be imputed to me and not to the Commons, whose servant I am, and who, though me, the better to enable them to discharge their duty to their Queen and country, humbly claim all their undoubted rights and privileges, especially that they may have freedom of speech in their debates, access to your Excellency's person at all seasonable times, and that their proceedings may receive from your Excellency the most favourable consideration.

The SPEAKER of the Senate said—I am commanded by His Excellency the Governor-General to declare to you that he freely confides in the duty and attachment of the House of Commons to Her Majesty's persons and Government, and not doubting that their proceedings will be conducted with wisdom, temper, and prudence, he grants, and upon all occasions will recognize and allow, their constitutional privileges. I am commanded to assure you that the Commons shall have ready access to His Excellency upon all seasonable occasions, and that their proceedings, as well as your words and actions, will constantly receive from him the most favourable construction.

His Excellency was then pleased to deliver the following

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In again summoning you for the despatch of business I am glad to be able to say that nothing beyond the ordinary business of the country requires your attendance.

It afforded me great pleasure to have had an opportunity, before my departure from this Government, of visiting the Provinces of Manitoba and a portion of the outside territories, which visit I accomplished during last autumn. I have now had the advantage of visiting every Province in the Dominion during my term of service in Canada.

I am happy to be able to say that the arbitration on the Fishery Claims, under the terms of the Washington Treaty, has been concluded. An award has been made by the Commissioners of $5,500,000 as compensation to Canada for the use of her fisheries. This amount is much less than that claimed by my Government; but having assented to the creation of the tribunal for the determination of their value, we are bound loyally to assent to the decision given.

The exhibition of Canadian manufactures and products at Sydney, New South Wales, was successfully carried out. I trust that the result will be the opening up of a new market for Canadian goods, even in so remote a region as the Australian Colonies. The expenditure will slightly exceed the estimate, but I doubt not the cost to Canada will be amply repaid by the extension of Canadian trade.

Preparations have been uninterruptedly carried on during the last six months for securing an ample but select exhibition of Canada's products and manufactures at the great Exhibition to be held at Paris during the current year. A further estimate will be required to meet the expenditure. His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has assigned a most prominent place to Canada in one of the main towers where a Canadian trophy is now being erected.

A very disastrous fire occurred in June last, in the city of St. John, which caused the destruction of a large portion of the city, including all the public buildings. My Government deemed it necessary to contribute $20,000 to relieve the immediate wants of the people who were rendered destitute by so appalling a calamity. I also sanctioned the appropriation of some public money with which to commence the erection of new buildings for the public business, which acts you will be asked to confirm in the usual way.

During last summer my Commissioners made another treaty with the Blackfeet and Piegan Indians, by which the Indian title is extinguished over a territory of 51,000 square miles west of Treaty No. 4 and south of Treaty No. 6. The treaty has been made on terms nearly the same as those under Treaty No. 6, though somewhat less onerous. The entire territory west of Lake Superior to the Rocky Mountains, and from the boundary nearly to the 55th degree of north latitude, embracing about 450,000 square miles, has now been acquired by peaceful negotiation with the native tribes, who place implicit faith in the honour and justice of the British Crown.

Early in the past summer a large body of Indians, under Sitting Bull, from the United States, crossed into British territory to escape from the United States troops, and have since remained on the Canadian side. The United States Government made a proper but unsuccessful attempt to induce these Indians to return to their reservations. It is to be hoped that such arrangements may yet be made as may lead to their trusting their own Government, and returning to their own country, and thus relieve Canada of a source of uneasiness and a heavy expenditure.

The surveys of the Pacific Railway have been pressed to completion during the past season. A complete instrumental survey of the route by the North Thompson and Lower Fraser has been made, with a view to ascertaining definitely whether that route presents more favourable features than the routes already surveyed to Dean Inlet and Bute Inlet. It is believed that the additional information now obtained will enable my Government to determine which route is the most advantageous from Tete Jaune Cache to the sea. Full information will be laid before you at an early day of the session's work.

I am happy to be able to congratulate you on the abundant harvest reaped in all quarters of the Dominion, and I rejoice that, under this and other blessings, there has been some improvement in the revenue returns, thus indicating, I trust, that the commercial depression that has so long afflicted Canada, in common with other countries, is passing away.

My attention has been called to some imperfections in the existing system of auditing the Public Accounts; and a measure providing for a more thorough and effective supervision will be submitted for your consideration.

The prospect of obtaining at an early day greater facilities for reaching the North-west Territories and the Province of Manitoba is sure to attract a large number of settlers every year, and as much of the prosperity of the Dominion depends on the rapid settlement of the fertile lands in those territories, it is desirable and necessary to facilitate such settlement as much as possible. In order to effect this, measures will be submitted for your consideration concerning the registration of titles, the enactment of a homestead law, and the promotion of railway enterprise in districts not touched by the Canada Pacific Railway.

Your attention will be invited to a measure for better securing the independence of Parliament.

Experience has shown that certain changes may advantageously be made in the departmental arrangements existing at present without increasing the expenditure or the number of the departments. A Bill will be submitted to you for accomplishing this purpose.

It is very desirable that there should be uniform legislation in all the Provinces respecting the traffic in spirituous liquors. Hitherto that trade has been regulated by Provincial laws, or laws existing before the Confederation of the Provinces, although there has been lately a conflict of authority as to the jurisdiction of the local authorities, the Supreme Court having a few days ago given a decision affirming the incompetence of the Provincial Legislature to deal with it. A Bill making the necessary provision will be submitted for your consideration.

His Excellency then withdrew.

LAKEFIELD SCHOOL BOARD

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—My short communication in yours of the 31st ultimo has caused the wrath of the News men to boil over; and while in such a state, they between them, have brought forth one of the most remarkable productions of the age (age of the News) so remarkable for the venom and spite therein contained, that I consider it beneath my notice. It could only have been the production of a miserable man, and therefore will pass it by unless they will furnish me the name of the writer of said article, when I will be prepared to deal with him. I ask for the name as I think the newly appointed Editor of the News is too respectable and conscientious a man to produce any thing of the kind, hence I will take the advise of wise man, answer not a fool, according to his folly, lest thou be like unto him.

I am yours,

Chairman of School Board.

Lakefield, Feb. 11th 1878.

THE MORTUARY CHAPEL.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—The Directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company held a meeting last Monday, at which was presented a memorial protesting against the erection of a Mortuary Chapel. In the plenitude of their power they resolved to disregard it, on the plea that it did not contain a majority of the names of Stockholders, as if that were necessary to make them pause and re-consider the situation.

Is the fact of these gentlemen so potent that nothing short of the array of some hundred names must be gathered from town and country to stay the proceedings. Is their wisdom so infallible that they need not think of calling a meeting of their constituents to approve or condemn their course?

Let us contrast the forces in favor of the Chapel with those against it. I take the description of the meeting at which it was agreed to build the chapel from the Presidents own words, and place in a column parallel, the opponents of the measure and ask the reader to look at this and that.

A Memorial signed by 70 Stockholders headed by the names of the Representatives of the two ridings in the House of Commons	"Independently of the Directors there were not more than six or seven Stockholders present, and of those six or seven two were officials connected with the building in which the meeting was held.

Let the Stockholders rise in their might and demand to be consulted in this matter, otherwise they will have to bear the consequences resulting from the high-handed conduct of 9 gentlemen whose proclivities (save one who they think is sufficiently muzzled by having appointed him their Secretary) are to ride rough-shod over the rights and liberties of others. Some of these consequences may be enunciated as a contentious feeling between ecclesiastical ascendancy on the one hand and religious equality on the other, the encumbrance of a debt absorbing all funds for years to come, postponing and neglecting needful improvement in the Cemetery, and imposing heavier charges than those very exorbitant ones which are already exacted of many who are not able to pay them.

OBSERVER.

Peterboro, Feb. 13th, 1878.

TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Now that the Toronto and Ottawa Railway project is likely to be delayed for some time, I take opportunity of showing the inconsistency and the want of energy of the gentleman, who, at present occupies the position of President of the Company. Being anxious to have this road built, I have always refrained from saying a word against the management, thinking that by chance this project might be carried through successfully under the present directors, if it had it would have been more by good luck then by energy and perseverance, Mr. Scott always professes to take a great interest in the welfare of the town of Peterboro, but if judged by his actions instead of words, it will be found that he has placed self before the welfare of the town and that he is willing to sacrifice the town if he can only place himself in a good comfortable position. At the time the original by-law for $150,000 was carried it was thought to be a large amount for a small town like Peterborough to give, but under that by-law we had some security and were likely to receive some return for our money, but now Mr. Scott is anxious to have the by-law changed to suit his own purposes. Under the original by law $50,000 were reserved until the road was completed from Toronto to Ottawa; under the present by-law only $23,000 is reserved until the road is completed from Ottawa to Peterborough. Under the original by-law we were to have work shops erected and two hundred men employed, under the present by-law the company are not bound to employ a single man, and judging from Mr. Scotts remarks at the public meeting we would have neither the work shops nor the men employed. As he suggested that the road should be leased to the Montreal, Ottawa and Occidental Railway Company, and that company could have work shops at Ottawa or Montreal. I cannot see upon what principal Mr. Scott was working when he had the by-law changed, unless it was that the less we receive the more we should give, or perhaps it was in the principal to him that hath shall be given.

The employment of two hundred men represents an expenditure of $80,000 a year among the merchants of Peterboro. Then Mr. Scott asked the ratepayers of a small town like Peterborough with 6000 or 7000 of a population to grant $150,000 or from $22 to $25 per head. Where he goes to the city of Toronto with its population of 80,000 he asks for $200,000 or about four dollars per head, and the city of Ottawa with a population of [illegible] $200,000 or about $7 per head.

The ratepayers may well pray to be delivered from their friends if Mr. Scott is one. Under the new project, what are we likely to receive at the most, we can only expect to take the trade half way to Ottawa. At present we have the trade to the east of the township of Belmont and all the trade we could possibly expect would be from the townships of Marmora, Madoc, Elzivir, Kaladar, Lake Tudor, Germanthrope and Anglesea and the whole assessed value of those townships only amounts to $1,565,395, and the assessed value of the township of Otonabee alone amounts $2,303,353. And would any person consider it a wise expenditure for the town to give $150,000 for the trade of one half the township of Otonabee especially since the business is nearly all done by the the Grangers.

But, if the road was completed we would receive very little more trade from the east, as the North Hastings will be completed to Madoc before this road, and people in that vicinity will only be 30 miles from Belleville while, they are over 50 miles from Peterboro, and what better inducements can the merchants of Peterboro offer than the merchants of Belleville to make the farmers travel 20 miles extra to trade with them? It is necessary for the ratepayers of Peterboro to be on their guard, and be careful what money by-law they are voting in favour of. What position would we be in to-day if we had to pay the bonus asked for the Grand Junction and Cobourg roads, the $100,000 for water works and $150,000 to this road. At present our taxes are high, what would they be if we had to provide for an extra debt of between three and four hundred thousand dollars. Now that the Toronto and Ottawa road is to be delayed for some time would it not be well to have the Company re-constructed so as to have men of energy and means placed at the head of this large undertaking so that when the struggle is renewed as it will be beyond a doubt, the people can look to them with confidence.

Yours &c.,

"GRATIA GRATIAM PARIT."

St. John's Church.—A concert in aid of the Building Fund of St. John's Church Sunday School will be held in Bradburn's Hall, on Thursday evening, 28th of February. As the object of the concert is a most worthy one it is to be hoped it will be liberally patronized. Programme published next week.

Accident.—As we go to press we are informed that a painful accident befell Mrs. Henry Collins, of North Monaghan, yesterday morning. While going down cellar with a pail of milk, she missed her footing and fell from the first step to the bottom, receiving several severe injuries, although, fortunately, no bones were broken.

One for Knowlton.—Mr. W. S. Williams, of Napanee, the R. W. G. S. of the G. L. of the I. O. G. T., says of Col. Hickman that "No better man lives than he. Y. M. P. A. Lecture.—The Rev. Dr. Cochrane of Brantford, will deliver a lecture in St. Paul's Church, next Wednesday evening, 20th instant, under the auspices of the Young Men's Presbyterian Association, and in aid of the South Ward Mission Sunday School. This sale is worthy the attention of those interested.

Free Market.—A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held on Friday evening last, for the discussion of the advisability of recommending the Town Council to make Wednesday a Free Market day. Messrs. Elder, Ormond and others, addressed the meeting, advocating strongly before the Board the advantages that the business men of the town would derive from having such a market. The Board moved a motion favouring it, which will be found in our Town Council proceedings.

"Chinese Manners and Customs."—This is the title of a lecture to be delivered this evening by the Rev. Theophilus Gough, in the old School House, Ashburnham, in aid of the St. Luke's Church Building Funds. This lecture has lately been delivered in Toronto, London and other places and was well received, being highly instructive and amusing. We are requested to state that there will be no more Penny Readings this season in connection with St. Lukes Church, and to ask all those who wish to contribute to the building funds of this church to secure a ticket for the lecture. Tickets only 15 cents.

A Recently Hoax.—A notice of the marriage of Mr. C. McDonald, of Dummer, and Miss Kate McCue, of Douro, published in last week's EXAMINER, turns out to be a hoax, perpetrated by some low miscreant, who probably took that means of gratifying some petty spite against some of the parties concerned. As far as we were concerned no suspicion of the fraud which was being perpetrated presented itself, as the notice was mailed to this office in the usual form, accompanied by a request over the signature "C. McDonald" to publish it and that the first time he would be in town he would call and settle it. Believing it to be bona fide we published it, and if some evil disposed person has forged Mr. McDonald's name we trust he will leave no means untried to ferret out the culprit.

More Honors for Peterborough Boys.—It affords us pleasure in announcing that at the semi-annual examination of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, held in Toronto last week. The candidates from Peterborough, Mr. F. H. Lithgow and Mr. James Kerr, formerly of Oshawa —passed very creditably, Mr. Lithgow ranking third highest on the roll. Their success is all the more creditable to them, and their honors more deserving when it is remembered that they prepared themselves by dint of hard study—and without the assistance of a term at College or the aid of a Professor. Their successful examination reflects creditably on Dr. Taylor—in whose employ both young men received their training. On Friday evening last a complimentary supper in honor of the successful graduates was given them, at which about twenty sat down. After supper the usual loyal, patriotic and complimentary toasts were given, and responded to, and a very pleasant time spent until the "wee sma' hours."

The Best Tribe to Sell.—The following very sensible advice to farmers we take from an American exchange, believing it to be worthy of the attention of the tillers of the soil on this side of the line, as well as being apropos at the present season:—"The best time to sell, as a rule, is as soon as the farmer can obtain a fair profit on the amount of time and money expended in raising his crops. Experience everywhere has proved conclusively that it seldom pays the producer to become a speculator. By selling early the mind is relieved from anxiety, and can turn the more earnestly to the season's legitimate duties; shrinkage and loss from vermin and other causes are avoided; the money in hand often prevents the necessity for running into debt, for which a heavy interest is always charged either under its proper name, or in an increase of price on the goods purchased; the farmer has the means of buying manures, stock, implements and machinery at the best time and figures, and of pushing necessary work, and making improvements on his head or homestead. Calculate, therefore, what your products have cost you in money and the equivalent time, add a moderate profit, and sell promptly so soon as you can realize the total, taking, of course, as much more as you can get, and leaving to others the anxieties and risks of speculation."

Division Courts.—At a meeting of the Division Court Clerks and Bailiffs held at the American Hotel, in Toronto, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 29th and 30th days of January, a committee was appointed to wait on the Attorney-General in order to press for certain amendments to the Division Courts Act. The following were as follows:—

1. An extension of the jurisdiction of the Division Courts to sums of $200, with the right of appeal in all cases over $100.
2. An amendment to the Garnishee Law allowing garnishee the same as in cases of ejectment.
3. The abolition of the necessity for personal service in all suits for less than $20.
4. To give Judges the power to order substitutional service in certain cases, as at present in the County Court.
5. To allow a bailiff to appoint an assistant whenever found necessary.
6. To make the writ of execution when placed in the sheriff's hands bind the defendant's goods and chattels—no matter whether minors made or not—the same as at present in the case of writs issued in the hands of a sheriff.

The committee waited upon the Honorables Messrs. Mowat and Fraser on the afternoon of Wednesday, and were treated with all due courtesy and attention, the Government promising to look thoroughly into the matter, and if deemed advisable to make the change required. The convention then adjourned, to meet at the call of the President.

Geneva Temple, I. O. G. T.—The annual meeting of the County Temple of this Order was held on Thursday at Bridgenorth. The representation from the different Temples was larger than usual. Bro. Fentland, W.C., presided and directed the business of the meeting. Reports of the different Temples were received. Showing a very marked increase in the membership of the order since last meeting. The forenoon session was taken up hearing these reports and discussing the matters for the benefit of the Order. The members of Oak Leaf Temple provided a very sumptuous repast for all the delegates. At one o'clock, after which there was an afternoon session, when the officers for the ensuing year were elected. They are as follows:—

Bro. Stratton	W.C.
Sister Heather	W.V.
Bro. M. Duff	W.S.
Bro. Joseph Paul	W.A.S.
Bro. George Scott	W.F.
Bro. Sproule	W.M.
Sister Glenn	W.D.M.
Sister M. Mann	W.I.G.
Bro. McCaul	W.O.G.
Bro. Wm. Graham	W. Chaplne.

It was suggested that each Temple would appoint a committee to aid in enforcing the Temperance Act and for the general interest of the cause of temperance in the County. Other matters were discussed and referred to committees to report. The general feeling was to continue their most earnest efforts until the evil of strong drink shall be banished from our country. A tea meeting was held in the evening which was largely attended.

Bible Christian Anniversary.—The Anniversary Services of the Bible Christian Church took place on Sunday and Monday last. The sermons preached by the Pastor and the Rev. G. Webber of Toronto, were appropriate, and highly appreciated by usually good congregations. On Monday an excellent tea was provided by the ladies and friends of the church, which was well attended, after which the annual meeting was held presided over by Mr. James Stratton. The report presented by the Pastor was of a cheering and encouraging character—and showed that $4,000 was the entire amount of indebtedness on all the property embracing Church, Parsonage and Sexton's residence, the yearly interest, on which amounting to $200 being met within a few dollars, with over $30 of seat rent due yet, uncollected. There is in the Treasurer's hands in cash and notes about $200, and unpaid subscription of about $80. Arrangements have been made to borrow the balance of the debt in England, a six per cent. basis, affecting a saving of over $100 per yr., and placing the Church in such a position, that at the end of ten years it is hoped it will be free of the encumbarance of debt. The congregation have increased about one third recently, and as the pews are rented at only from $6 to $8, according to size, several more have been rented, and pastor and people gratified and encouraged with signs of increased prosperity. The lecture delivered by the Rev. G. Webber, on the "Stuart Kings of England," was interesting, instructive and eloquent and was listened to with marked and joyful attention. The lecturer graphically described the heroic and noble actions of our Protestant forefathers, and administered a just rebuke to their degenerate sons, whose half heartedness, and unfaithfulness endanger, the very liberty, and truth they spent, and gave their lives to secure and defend. The lecturer received a hearty vote of thanks, and should he visit Peterborough again will secure a good audience. Proceeds after paying all expenses $21.27.

The New Game Law.—Dr. Mostyn has introduced a Bill into the Local Legislature to amend the law for the protection of game and fur-bearing animals, the principal provisions of which are as follows:—No deer, elk, moose, reindeer or carriboo shall be killed between the 1st of January and the 1st of September; wild turkeys, grouse, pheasants, prairie fowl or partridge between the same dates; quail between January 1st and October 1st; woodcock between January 1st and August 15th; hares or rabbits between 1st March and 1st September. Seven days are allowed for exposing such animals and birds for sale after such dates. No eggs of any of those birds above mentioned shall be taken or destroyed or had in possession by any person at any time. No snaken punt, batteries or night lights are to be used at any time for taking or killing swans, geese or ducks. No beaver, muskrat, mink, sable, martin, raccoon, otter or fisher shall be hunted, trapped, killed, or had in possession between May 1st and November 1st, nor shall muskrat houses be destroyed at any time. Offences against the Act may be punished by conviction on information or complaint before a Justice of Peace, with costs, as follows:—deer, elk, moose, reindeer or carriboo by a fine not exceeding $60 nor less than $10 for each animal; birds or eggs, a fine not exceeding $20 nor less than $5 for each bird or egg; fur-bearing animals not more than $25 nor less than $5 for each animal; in other cases not more than $20 nor less than $5. The whole fine shall be paid to the prosecutor, unless the convicting justice has reason to suspect collusion between the prosecutor and the accused. Game imported for breeding purposes is not to be shot or killed without the consent of the owner of the property where the same may have been bred. No animal is to be poisoned, and it shall not be lawful to expose poison, poisoned bait or other poisoned substances where cattle or dogs may have access to them. No person not being a permanent resident of Canada shall at any time hunt, take or kill deer, moose, elk, reindeer or carriboo, for the purpose of exporting them out of Canada, and the onus of proof shall rest upon the accused.

CHANDOS OUTRAGE.

The last of Three Suspected Criminals Brought to Justice. Mr. G. Cochrane Captures Murphy in Michigan and safely lodges him in goal—He now awaits his trial.

On Saturday last Mr. George Cochrane returned from Michigan, bringing with him Murphy one of the three men implicated in the Chandos outrage, whom he secured there by the aid of the Chief of Police of East Saginaw, T. Daley Moir, and a Constable detailed to assist him. The account of the whole affair is thus given in the Saginaw Courier headed,

"RAGGED THEIR BIRD."

"It is an old adage "that murder will out," and while it is not literally verified in every instance, inasmuch as an old lady once remarked in refutation of the adage that "she had killed her husband forty years before and no one had ever found it out," still when we consider the comparatively small number of criminals who escape justice it is a matter of surprise that so many persons are led into the commission of crime. The train of thought is suggested by the apprehension of the alleged principals in one of the most revolting and brutal crimes known to humanity. Three resides in one of the county townships of Peterborough, Ont., a lady named Jones and her daughter, a girl about 23 years old, the husband being away from home at work in one of the Canadian lumber camps. On the night of January 7th, 1878, the residence of Mrs. Jones was entered by three men named Hubbs, McVelley, and James Murphy, who repeatedly ravished the defenceless woman and her daughter, in the most brutal and shocking manner. The parties were soon after apprehended and on a preliminary examination a gang of indignant citizens headed by a brother of Mrs. Jones made a demonstration to take the criminals from the hands of justice and inflict summary punishment. During the melee that ensued McVelley was wounded, a shot grazed Murphy's temple, but he succeeded in effecting his escape. The others were held for trial at a higher court, Murphy was arrested at Trenton, Ont., soon after, but was released before and officer arrived with a warrant. He skipped across the border and went to Syracuse, N. Y. Thence he drifted to this city, the Canadian officers having lost all trace of him, although forwarding his description to the chiefs of police of the principal cities. Murphy reached this city about the 20th of January, and stopped at Flood's hotel, near the Shermen house, on Cass street. During his stay there he incidentally mentioned to Mr. Flood that he had some trouble in Canada and left. Mr. Flood having noticed an account of the outrage, in a newspaper, visited an attorney and stated his suspicions. The chief of police was notified and the authorities at Peterboro' communicated with, and it was ascertained the description of the man at Flood's hotel, accorded with that of Murphy, and that he was without doubt one and the same. In the meantime Murphy hired one to Henry Gamble, and was sent to his lumber camp on Kids river. On Wednesday Officer Cochrane, of Peterborough, arrived in this city, accompanied by Mrs. Jones, who stepped at the Lloyd house, while the officer, and officer John Mortimer of this city, started for the lumber camp after Murphy. They arrested him yesterday, and Murphy, with the Canadian officer, passed through this city on the late train last night, for Canada. Mrs. Jones, a respectable looking woman about 25 years of age, leaves on the first train this morning. The officers who have worked up the case deserve no little credit for their zeal in bringing the fugitive to justice.

Mr. Cochrane brought him before P. M. Hatton on Saturday, and on neither party was prepared to go on, Murphy was remanded till Saturday next, so as to enable witnesses to be brought from Australier, and also to allow the prisoner an opportunity of employing some one to manage his defence.

Mr. Cochrane spoken in terms of the highest praise of Chief Moir of Saginaw, who rendered him valuable aid and advice in securing Murphy and getting him. He also says there was a general willingness to assist—to bring the accused to justice.

Murphy is about 21 to 23 years of age, average size; a not very pleasing countenance, although man may be met daily with even a more vicious physiognomy. He is said to have been the leader in the fiendish outrage, and he fully deserves the full punishment the law inflicts for such offences.

Mr. Cochrane deserves great praise for the manner in which he has ferreted out this case—having succeeded in bringing to justice the three men implicated in this outrage. His energy and perseverance displayed in so successfully working up this case is highly creditable to him, and worthy of a professional in the detective business.

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.

A Deputation wait upon the Citizens—A Thinly-attended Meeting—No Definite plans Laid Down—Very little Interest taken by those Present.

On Monday afternoon a meeting of the merchants and business men of the town was called by the Mayor to convene with the contractors of the Grand Junction Railway Company, with a view to procuring assistance from the town in the construction of the road to Peterborough. The meeting was very thinly attended, and but little interest shown in the matter.

The MAYOR took the chair, and opened the meeting, regretting the meagre attendance, (not a dozen). He would introduce to them Mr. Pusey, one of a company who was negotiating with the Grand Junction Railway Company for the construction of the line to Peterborough and Omemee. The meeting would of a necessity be an informal one, as the gentlemen composing the deputation had, as yet, no definite plans to put before them, but would present them in their crude state; as at present negotia tions were pending between them and the railway company.

MR. PUSEY said he had nothing definite to lay before the meeting, as his negotiations with the Grand Junction Company were not yet complete, owing to legal difficulties; but these, he was happy to state, were being removed, and he felt that in a short time would be settled. He had just completed a trip from Belleville over the proposed route to ascertain the amount of work required and the assistance the company might expect from the municipalities in the event of the line being progressed with. His idea was to build a through line to the Georgian Bay, having an independent line from here to Belleville, but was willing to co-operate from here to Georgian Bay with any other line or lines. If the old was voted the line that was expected, he promised that the road would be built to Peterborough this year; if not, he would not ask a cent.

In answer to a question by Mr. Wm. Hamilton as to what assistance they asked, Mr. Pusey said he did not wish to name any sum. This was a matter to be amicably arranged between them. He did not believe in saying you will have to give so much or we will not give you the road. To complete the road to Peterborough, independent of rolling stock, would take about $800,000, and bonuses amounting to about $350,000 had been voted.

In answer to another question as to whether any arrangements had been made with the Midland, he said nothing officially had been done, but he had had private interviews with Mr. Hugel.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE thought if the Grand Junction people would cross the Trent Narrows and join with the proposed Toronto and Ottawa road at Norwood that the town might give assistance, but to ask it as an independent line he thought would not be favorably entertained by the people of Peterborough, nor would the government be likely to give aid to two lines running parallel to each other. If connection were made at Norwood the people of Peterborough would no doubt assist in building the line to Omemee.

MR. W. CLUXTON was not prepared to express a decided opinion, as the matter had been presented so hurriedly, but thought Peterborough's interests lay in the Toronto and Ottawa Road, which he felt sure would yet be built.

MR. GEORGE HILLIARD favoured the construction of a road westward to the Georgian Bay, and also thought at first glance some benefits might be derived from a line to Belleville, which was the head of river navigation, and to which place barges could be brought. He suggested that a public meeting should be called to discuss the question, when further particulars and more definite plans could be laid before them. Before taking his seat he moved the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. John Elder:

That this meeting feeling that the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, is a road of paramount importance to the people of Peterborough, and being pledged to a grant of $150,000 to aid in the construction of that line, do not consider that they would be justified in extending independent aid to the Grand Junction Railway Company towards the construction of their line, but feeling that Peterborough will gain by the construction of the line to Belleville and its extension westward to a point on the Midland Railway would heartily approve of an arrangement between the two railway companies above mentioned to utilize the grants from the Town and County of Peterborough to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, so as to aid both companies in using one line from some point in the east at or near Norwood, and in making connection with the Midland Railway in Emily or Cavan.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Hamilton, seconded by Mr. J. H. Stratton.—That the Mayor be requested to call a public meeting of the ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough to consider the advisability of granting a bonus to the Grand Junction Railway Company so soon as the said Company are prepared to lay their plans before the said meeting.—Carried.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Councillor Rutherford read the following report of the License Committee.

The License Committee beg leave to report:—

That they recommend the advisability of having a By-law fixing the Bonus Bonuses for the year 1878, and recommend that for each

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PRINTING.

Councillor Millar, as Chairman of the Committee on Printing, reported, recommending that the job printing be awarded to Mr. Palmer, except the Collector's Receipts, Sheet By-laws, Assessment schedules, and the balance of the printing matter necessary for the present year, which we recommend be awarded the Times Office.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Councillor Cahill read the following report:—The Finance Committee beg leave to recommending the payment of the following accounts, viz:

Thos. Menzies	$ 2 00
R. Romaine	21 00
Jas. Stevenson	19 65
Peterborough Gas Company	132 00
Henry Best	4 00

Your Committee recommend that no much of the Finance Committee's report presented on the 28th of January as refers to the payment of $92.75 to the Peterborough Gas Company, be rescinded, and that two coupleats amounting to $92.75 be paid to said Company.

Your Committee cannot recommend the Council to grant the request of the Dominion Telegraph Company, as they should have applied to the Court of Revision at the proper time if they felt aggrieved.

Your Committee have had under their consideration the By-law introduced by Councillor Smith at a late meeting of the Council in reference to the collection of the taxes by instalments, and are unanimous in recommending its adoption by the Council.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

THOS. CAHILL, Chairman.

LICENSE BY-LAW.

On motion of Councillor RUTHERFORD, the License By-law received its first reading, after which the Council went into Committee of the whole on the second reading, Councillor Miller in the chair. In Committee the blanks were filled in as follows:—

Shop Licenses	$200 00
Tavern Licenses	200 00
Billiard Table, for first	10 00
do additional ones	10 00
Pigeon Hole Table	20 00
Bagatelle Board	20 00
Bowling Alley	40 00

The shop licenses were restricted to eight, and the usual restrictions as to the closing of Hotels passed.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved that the second clause, which provided that those shops taking out licenses be confined and restricted to the sale of liquors only, be adopted.

This was objected to by Councillor SMITH, as the preamble to the By-law did not enumerate it.

The CHAIRMAN held the objection not good, when

Councillor CAHILL appealed to the Council against the ruling of the Chairman and was sustained by a majority.

The clauses was then struck out.

Committee rose, Carwell resumed Chairman reported By-law passed in Committee of the Whole with blanks filled in as above.

OVER ASSESSMENT.

Mr. HILLIARD was heard before the Council in reference to over assessment on his property. The matter had been before the Finance Committee of last Council and was favorably entertained by them, but through a mistake in handing in the Assessor's book he thought the matter had been made right, and allowed it to drop there. But since then he found the assessment roll of 1877 and not for 1878 was the one used. For the information of the new Councillors he stated in detail his grievance, which has been previously published in the EXAMINER.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

THE LOCKS BRIDGE.

Moved by Councillor RUTHERFORD, seconded by Councillor DENNE.—That the Treasurer be and is hereby instructed to pay to Mr. Charles Wynn, contractor, for the pier and repairs to the Locks Bridge, the sum of one hundred and thirty-nine dollars and fifty cents, being one half of the amount, the other half to be paid by the County.—Carried.

THIRD READING OF LICENSE BY-LAW.

On motion of Councillor RUTHERFORD, seconded by Councillor YELLAND,—The License By-law was read a third time.

TICKETS FOR THE TORONTO HOSPITAL.

Moved by Councillor SMITH, seconded by Councillor ORMOND.—That the Town Treasurer be and is hereby authorized and instructed to purchase four tickets for entrance into the Toronto Hospital for $60, and that Catharine O'Hare be given one of such tickets.—Carried.

WITHDRAWAL OF RAILWAY BY-LAW.

Moved by Councillor CAHILL, seconded by Councillor MCBAIN,—That whereas there appears to be an error in the By-law now being published in the EXAMINER newspaper, entitled a By-law to aid by way of bonus the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company, the same be and is hereby withdrawn with a view to its submission at some future time, as requested by Mr. Scott in his communication this day.—Carried.

NICHOLLS vs. CUMMINGS.

Moved by Councillor CAHILL, seconded by Councillor MCBAIN,—That the communications of Scott & Edwards in reference to Mr. Nicholl's taxes be referred to the Town Solicitor's with power to act on behalf of the Corporation, and that the Town Treasurer be authorized to pay the necessary costs.

The Council adjourned for one week.

SCHOOL BOARD.

Report of Finance Committee.

The following is the report of the Finance Committee of the Board of School Trustees which was presented at their last meeting, but through lack of space last week were compelled to hold it over:

Your Committee beg leave to report the following accounts, amounting to $260.65, correct, and recommend that an order on the Treasurer for the respective amounts be granted, viz:—

John Cameron	$21 00
Bertrand & Co	5 91
R. Romaine	23 64
James Stratton	34 65
E. Green	17 34
David Carlisle	12 07
Davidson & Co	5 70
Wm. Loch	3 67
George Taylor	3 50
D. W. Dumble	9 50
Dobson & Rowe	4 20
McKee & Davidson	1 85
W. H. Robertson & Co	3 25
James R. Stratton	2 80
John E. Belcher	129 80
Ormond & Walsh	11 00
F. Cleary, Township Clerk, Deare	1 00
	$260 65

An account for a Furnace, from Messrs. A. Laidlaw & Co., for the West Ward School House, amounting to $287, on enquiry your committee are advised by the chairman of the late Building Committee, that it was placed there on trial to the 1st of March next, and therefore cannot recommend payment, and would respectfully suggest that the account be referred to the Property Committee for approval.

Your committee solicited tenders for Stationery, &c., and received four. That of Messrs. Wilson & Davis being the lowest your committee accepted their tender, and ordered the goods required, amounting to about $60.

Your committee beg leave to submit a Balance Sheet, taken from the books of the Treasurer on 31st December last, marked A; also a statement of the Receipts and Expenditure in connection with the Collegiate Institute and Public School, marked B, which are herewith annexed.

With reference to the grant of $400 for the purchase of a Library (or books of reference) for the Collegiate Institute and Public Schools, your committee would recommend that it be deferred until further information can be obtained as to what is really required.

Referring to the Balance Sheet, you will perceive the Central School Property account is charged with the repairs made and the erection of a new shed during the past year, amounting to $323.46, which should have been charged to Public School account, to correspond with various other Wards, which would make that account a debit balance of $672.58. You will also find at debit:

Town Treasurer	$4,666 [illegible]
County Treasurer	260 00
Stationery	22 54
Cash	69 54
Making a total of	$5,018 37

From this deduct for Bills

Payable $2,820.60

At credit of Building Fund .. 1,220.00

$4,040 60

Leaving a balance for High School purposes to be carried forward for 1878 $1,024 34

Your committee in making out the estimates for the year 1877, were not furnished with a balance sheet showing the assets and liabilities for year ending 1876, and did not understand the true nature of the accounts until the Auditors appointed by the Board submitted their report in August last. We then commenced [illegible] balance of $7,000 in favor of the Board, leaving to $4,000, for the year then were not taken into account, hence the surplus at credit of High School account, which will no doubt receive due attention by the Finance Committee in making out the estimates for 1878.

The Finance Committee beg also to express their entire satisfaction with the system of Book-keeping, which under their efforts has been during the year put into successful operation, and should it be carefully worked out in the future, they feel convinced that not only will the Secretary-Treasurer and Auditors, but future Finance Committees, feel the comfort and confidence to be thus obtained, and that the different interests which it is the duty of your Board to care for will be more satisfactorily protected.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEO. E. SHAW, Chairman Finance Committee.

Peterborough, 6th February, 1878.

Poor Horses.

There are thousands of poor horses dragging out a miserable existence, suffering from a variety of diseases, rendering them almost worthless, that would be restored to a healthy and sound condition, and a value given to them of which their owners never dreamed, would they but use the means within their reach. From one to three packages of "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy" will in all cases produce a satisfactory result; hundreds have testified to the fact. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co, is on each package. Northop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, all throat and lung a[illegible], and a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe in German, French, or English, with full direction for preparing and using. KEEPING BUTTER.

Farmers are certainly slovenly in making and preserving butter, and much that comes into the market is very inferior in quality but if a good sweet, cleanly article is purchased, it is often spoiled by the conditions under which it is kept by the purchaser. Butter is a substance extremely sensitive to surrounding influence, and any odors in the vicinity where it is stored are rapidly absorbed, even if it is in a closed firkin. Great complaint is often made by the purchasers of the "gilt-edged" butter, produced from the famous dairies in the vicinity of this city, that the sweet and only high-priced article is often spoiled after delivery to the customer. And no wonder! It is often placed in an uncleanly ice-chest among with cooked or uncooked fish or meats or other odorous bodies, and it soon smells and tastes like the unsavory substances with which it is associated. If not placed in the ice-chest, it is often placed in a cellar with decomposing vegetables or meats, and hence the decayed taste and odor are soon changed. Great care must be used to preserve butter, and it will not do to trust it to the Bridgets in the kitchen who know nothing and care for nothing. Those fond of the delicate freshness and sweetness of the best butter should have a cool place in the cellar, where it can be kept apart from everything else. The wealthy can furnish such a place with a little care and skill, and few are so poor that they cannot contrive to keep butter under better conditions than they do.—Journal of Chemistry.

CANADA IN OLD FRANCE.

In the beginning of the year no little curiosity and interest were evinced by our gallant allies the French, on the appearance in the Seine of a vessel bearing a new flag. It was the "Newfield," flowing the colors of Canada, and firing her gun, on her way from Havre to Rouen. She was docked on her arrival from from sea at Havre, until orders reached her from Ottawa to proceed up the river towards the French Capital. At Havre the "Newfield" was visited by a deputation from the Chamber of Commerce, with M. Pryor Quertier, its President, and also President of the Senate of France, at their head. An address pressed to Mr. Keefer, our Commissioner to Paris, much pleasure at seeing in their port the first vessel of the Western Dominion and presented Captain Purdy with a gold medal. On reaching Rouen the transhipment of the goods for the exposition took place into the river barges, from which the industrial products of Canada have no doubt, before this, for the most part, been landed on the quay at Paris, in front of the exhibition grounds. The French authorities have acted with a good deal of civility towards Canada. No charge was made for dockage at Havre; permission was given for the transhipment of the cargo from Rouen to Paris without inspection, and no exception was taken by the customs to the loading of the barges with our bulky, rather than heavy articles above the usual level. We have thus reached Paris with some amount of prestige, which at the outset of such an enterprise is of more than ordinary value.

EXTRAORDINARY SENTENCE BY A JUDGE.

The following extract is taken from a sentence recently pronounced by Judge Reading, of Chicago, upon the liquor dealers who had violated the law by selling it to minors. It will repay a careful perusal:

"By the law you may sell to men and women, if they will buy. You have given your bond and paid your license to sell to them, and no one has a right to molest you in your legal business. No matter what the consequence may be, no matter what poverty and destitution are produced by your selling according to law, you have paid your money for this privilege, and you are licensed to pursue your calling. No matter what families are distracted and rendered miserable, no matter what wives are treated with violence; what children starve or mourn over the degradation of a parent—your business is legalized, and no one may interfere with you or it. No matter what mother may agonize over the loss of a son, or sister blush at the shame of a brother, you have a right to disregard them all and pursue your legal calling—you are licensed. You may fit up your lawful place of business in the most enticing and captivating form; you may furnish it with the most costly and elegant equipments for your own lawful trade; you may fill it with the allurements of amusement: you may use all arts to induce visitors; you may skillfully arrange and expose to view your choicest wines and captivating beverages: you may thus induce thirst by all contrivances to produce a raging appetite for drink, and then you may supply that appetite to the full because it is lawful; you have paid for it—you have a license. You may allow boys, almost children, to frequent your saloon; they may witness the apparent satisfaction with which their seniors quaff the sparkling glass, you may be schooling and training them for the period of twenty-one, when they too can participate, for all this is lawful. You may hold the cup to their lips, but you must not let them drink—that is unlawful. For while you have all these privileges for the money you pay, this poor privilege of selling to children, is denied you. Here parents have the right to say, "Leave my son to me until the law gives you a right to destroy him. Do not anticipate that terrible moment when I can assert for him no farther right of protection. That will be soon enough for me, for his sister, for his mother, for his friends, and the community to see him take the road to death. Give him to us in his childhood at least. Let us have a few hours of his youth in which he can enjoy his innocence, to repay us in some small degree for the care and love we have lavished upon him. This is something which you who have stood prisoners at the bar have not paid for; this is not embraced in your license. For this offence the court sentences you to two days' imprisonment in the county jail and that you pay a fine of $10 and costs; and that you stand committed until the fine and costs of this prosecution are paid."

We have not heard from any sermon such an arraignment of the license law as this.

SHOVELS MANUFACTURED.

The Mayor of Whitby, a few days since in an address to the Corporation of that town, made the following remarks:—

On Saturday last he had met a deputation in Toronto who waited upon the honorable Attorney General in order to get aid to a spur of five miles of railway to connect the Snowden Iron mines, with the Victoria road. The iron miners, he was glad to say, had passed into the hands of large capitalists, and it was their intention to build a road to Snowden. The ore had been tested and was found to be some of the very best, suitable for steel rails. It was proposed, under certain conditions, to establish smelting works at Whitby—the only works of the kind in the Dominion—and it was only upon the condition of establishing smelting works that Government aid would be given to the project at all. It would rest a good deal with the council and ratepayers whether this work could be secured to Whitby. His worship dwelt at some length upon the great advantage of having such an industry in the town.

BROAD-CHESTED HORSES.

"On Old Horseman" is credited in an exchange with these logical remarks about broad-chested horses:

Wind is the grand secret of a fast horse. Good lungs will cover a multitude of faults; while, on the other hand, perfection of shape and form are useless when the wind is out. The chest, therefore, in all cases, should be large and capacious. In shape it may vary somewhat, according to the service to which the horse is to be put. If he is to be kept for slow work and heavy drawing, the chest may be nearly circular in form, because this shape is the one for strength and bulk, to receive and bear up against the pressure of the collar; while at the same time sufficient room is secured for that expansion of the lungs caused by slow and regular work. But if the chest is circular, let it be at the same time deep, or else the lungs may be cramped. A horse with a shallow chest is worthless for any purpose. The rule then is this: For a draught horse a circular but deep chest; but as you pass through the different degrees of speed, up to the racer and trotter, the chest will increase in depth, compared to its soundness, until, for the highest rate of speed, you must have a chest as deep as a greyhound, and at the same time not lacking in breadth. Every breeder should keep this rule in mind when selecting his brood mares and stallion, for he may be sure that shallow-chested parents never begot deep-chested colts.

FLIRTING.

A writer in the Chicago Tribune, comments as follows on the evils of flirting:—

Amber has well said, "Girls don't flirt." It is a reckless way of calling forth comments and remarks from young men who have nothing better with which to occupy their brains (if they have any) than watching for some laxity of morals in the opposite sex that they may take advantage of. There are a great many thoughtless, rattle-brained, yet well-meaning girls, who bring upon themselves the censure of honorable men and women by the loose way in which they air morals in public. And I must lay the blame in a great measure upon their parents. Mothers should be censured for the lack of confidence displayed by them towards their daughters, who, as they near the age when health as well as character is at stake, fail to gather them into their hearts and shield them from evil by kind and considerate warnings. A girl should be just as confident and open with her mother as she is with girls of her own age, but this is scarcely ever the case. A barrier seems to arise between the two, both health and morals are ignored, and the child, who should soon be object of solitude as it unfolds, is to determine its physical and mental capacities through experience. And that experience is usually very damaging in more ways than one.

There are ever enough low, dissolute men who are watching for some proof of laxity of morals in girls, who, the moment they can catch their eyes, begin a game of flirting, that is intended to draw them on and on until their modesty gives away to a sort of don't care-ativeness, that leaves them at the mercy of even less scrupulous male flirts. Here again the responsibility lies on the mother. Her teachings have not been strict and firm enough with the son's wayward temperament, and the evils of weakness and sin have not been thoroughly stamped upon his brain.

We know that it is an impossibility for a woman borne down by the cares of a family to be as strict in her duties as the case requires, and we only wonder that she does not fall prostrate by the way. Mothers, poor things, have the best excuses for laxity in their teachings, and though we may know where the trouble has its origin we cannot condemn them, though their daughters heedlessly and thoughtlessly destroy their hopes of respectability by a series of flirtations which, unless summarily ended sooner or later bring sorrow. Harmless flirtations, as they are called, generally prove the opposite. The harm may not come to the knowledge of the flirt, but there are always enough who cannot have no business of their own to attend to, or who find more pleasure in attending to that of others, who are too glad of the opportunity of reporting what is passing, enlarged and colored to suit their own taste. We are well aware of busy bodies in every [illegible] who delight in [illegible] outside gossip, [illegible] in household affairs that [illegible] the neighborhood in which they live. [illegible] our homes in the case of some poor thoughtless child or unfortunate sister, who by a touch of [illegible] is cast [illegible].

BLONDEAU.

Blondeau, the famous swindler, recently executed successfully down the thermometer, Rome, and came down safely on the terrace of Santa Maria Maggiore. These nights are becoming pretty common now, and few show much interest in hearing of them—all the same, the man who at the height of perhaps a thousand metres can perform gymnastic feats on a swinging trapeze must have a pretty good head and a firm head. In 1874 Blondeau was fortunate enough to be successful in saving the life of a man who had been caught in the ropes as the balloon left the ground. This was at Oran, in Algeria. Blondeau had got his Montgolfière, with the trapeze underneath, all in readiness; more than twenty men were at the ropes that held the swaying monster down; the order was given to let go, and the balloon dashed up; but an unfortunate man was caught by one leg and carried up by the loose cordage above the trapeze. The crowd remained silent and horror-struck in that moment of terrible suspense, the usual stereotyped occurrence—the fainting of ladies—took place, however. But Blondeau did not faint, but courageously slid down to the trapeze, shouting to the man to hold on. The crowd heard no more, and soon could distinguish nothing. The balloon sped on till from a height of near 4,000 feet it commenced to descend. Then Blondeau was seen standing on the trapeze with the man still suspended by one foot; the other swinging about and the middle of his body resting on the head of the aronaut. At first, Blondeau was on the point of climbing up to get out of the way of the man, whose fall appeared inevitable, and would endanger him; but the poor man exclaimed piteously: 'My wife! my children!' and Blondeau stopped and forgetting all personal danger, stood right up on the trapeze and slowly placed his head under the man's back and said firmly: "Now, look at the balloon or close your eyes! if you try to disengage your feet, we are lost; remain still, and you will be safe.' And they came down to the ground in safety.

REFORM CONVENTION.

Grand Representative Gathering—Upwards of 800 Delegates in Attendance—Stirring Resolutions, Vigorous Speeches, &c.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.

The meeting of the Reform Association here to-day makes this a red letter day in the history of the party in this Province. The attendance of delegates and members was upwards of 800 and an adequate idea of the enthusiasm which characterized the proceedings could be obtained only by being present. Every part of the Province was fully represented, and no seat was left out in the cold. There were present a number of leading Roman Catholics, some of whom took an active part in the proceedings. I may here remark en passant that the feeling of the convention was strongly in favor of granting to Roman Catholics increased representation in the House of Commons, and if the convention was anything like a correct index of the feelings of the party throughout the Province the Roman Catholics have themselves to blame if they fail to secure half a dozen members at least at the general election. This meeting was held of course, chiefly for organization, and a good deal of important business was transacted in this connection. But the meeting held to-night in Shaftesbury Hall was of a more popular character. The Hall was almost filled with persons admitted by ticket, and a more enthusiastic political audience never came together. The proceedings at the evening meeting were confined chiefly to passing resolutions and making and listening to speeches. The latter were received with round after round of applause whenever a "hit" was made, and "hits" were neither few nor far between.

The first resolution was moved by Thomas Oliver, M. P. for North Oxford, and seconded by W. Paterson, M. P. for South Brant. This resolution expressed the opinion that Confederation had been productive of great good, and that our federal constitution was worthy of admiration and preservation.

The second resolution, expressing appreciation of and confidence in the Dominion Government, was moved by David Glass, Q. C., and ex-M. P. for East Middlesex. Mr. Glass is evidently an able and cultivated gentleman, and though he was once elected to Parliament as a supporter of Sir John A. Macdonald, his speech had about it to-night the true Liberal ring. W. Harty, of Kingston, seconded the resolution in a few well chosen words.

The third resolution, denouncing Tory corruption and affirming the necessity for political purity, was moved by G. W. Ross, M. P. for West Middlesex, and seconded by Mr. Lount, ex-M. P. P. for North Simcoe. Mr. Ross is a good platform speaker and has an ample store of facts to draw upon for illustration. In putting the motion Mr. Young made the statement in anticipation of the Blue Book, that the expenditure for the year 1876-77 amounted to $23,586,000, a reduction of $800,000 from the previous year, and only some $270,000 more than the expenditure for 1873-74, the last year for which the Macdonald Government was responsible.

The fourth resolution, expressing confidence in the Ontario Government, was moved by H. M. Deroche, M. P. P. for Addington, and seconded by Dr. Sweetland, of Ottawa. It was also supported by G. Clatworthy, a genuine Toronto mechanic, and by Ald. Hughes, one of our prominent Roman Catholic citizens.

The fifth resolution, conveying the thanks of the Association to the Liberal press in the cities, towns, and rural districts, was moved by D. D. Hay, M. P. P. for North Perth, and seconded by Dr. Widdifield, M. P. P. for North York, both gentlemen making sensible and practical speeches.

A long letter was then read from the Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, expressing his great regret at his inability to be present, laying down briefly his reasons for expecting a Liberal triumph at the approaching general election, and defining the conditions on which alone success was attainable. Then followed one of the best possible platform speeches from the Hon. Mr. Mowat, and exceedingly characteristic addresses from the Hon George Brown and Joseph Rymal, the member for South Wentworth. The reception accorded to Mr. Brown was one of which any man might be proud. When he appeared in the ball both afternoon and evening he was greeted with the most vociferous cheers, the audience rising en masse to their feet. Never in his palmiest days did he speak with more vigor or more to the point than he did to-night, and the practical hints and advice showered on his hearers by the shrewd old statesman evidently made a deep impression, while his energetic and indignant repudiation of the charge that he ever dictated to either of the Reform Governments was calculated to set that imputation at rest. The most unique part of his speech with his reference to the paltry character of the slanders dished up by the Opposition, and his advice to the delegates and members to brush these aside with scorn, trust to the intelligence of the people, and spend their time in directing attention to more important issues. I should add that Col. Walker, of London, another ex-Conservative, acted as Convener of the Committee on Organization and Statistics, and that in his remarks when moving the adoption of that committee's report, he planted himself boldly, firmly, and uncompromisingly on the Liberal platform. I may add, as another significant incident, the applause which greeted the eulogy passed upon the Hon. Mr. Cartwright by Mr. Glass, that is an eulogy passed on one quondam Conservative by another.

Altogether it is safe to say that the influence of the convention will be far-reaching both in time and space. The increased enthusiasm will lead to greater watchfulness on the part of the local Reform Associations, and to a more careful inspection of the voters' lists, while the interchange of acquaintanceship has been of the most pleasant and profitable kind.

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.
An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.
THE AMERICAN EYE-SALVE is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. RINGWORM and OLD CHRONIC SORES, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the AMERICAN EYE-SALVE. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. PETTIT'S AMERICAN EYE-SALVE," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.
There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.
The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.
They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.
They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC-DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.
They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

DOMINION PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

Of all the reports presented to Parliament from year to year that which most interests the electorate is the Finance Ministers, statement of the Public Accounts. It is the most anxiously looked for of all the semi-annual reports, and that on which the Opposition always seek to base the most telling criticisms of the Government of the day. It is therefore a matter for Ministerial congratulation when this report is brought before the House at the earliest possible moment, for such promptitude shows that the Government invites the fullest possible discussion of its financial policy, by giving the figures in good time to permit of examination during the session. In this particular the conduct of the present Ministry offers a wide contrast to that of their predecessors in office. The protracted debate on the address prevented the presentation of the Public Accounts earlier than Saturday morning, the Opposition having prolonged the debate until nearly four o'clock on that day, in their desire to use the latitude always allowed in the discussion of the address for the purpose of playing their game of slander and personal attack. Indeed they would have undoubtedly gone on for days with their disgusting tactics, had there not been a limit to the length of the debate, owing to Monday being the last day for the reception of Private Bills. On this account the Premier insisted that the debate on the address should close during the sitting of Friday night. From the tone of the Opposition speeches it is evidently the intension, if possible, to exasperate and embarass honourable members in the Treasury Benches, so that their attention, as well as that of the people, may be drawn from the more weighty concerns of the country, and the principles which guide them; in the consideration of which concerns and principles, the members of the present Opposition in the House of Commons show to no advantage, and in decidedly disgraceful colours. In such an aim they are sure to overshoot themselves, as they did in their farcical attempt to create a diversion favourable to themselves on the election of the Speaker.

The volume of the Public Accounts now before us not only contains details of Dominion finances for the year ending 30th June, 1877, but there are also given therein comparative statements of liabilities and assets and of revenues and expenditures for each of the ten years since Confederation. Such a review offers a good outline of the country's material history, and gives a chance to all who take the trouble to do so of studying the progress of the Dominion—its ups and downs—on a thoroughly practical basis, and applying the test of stern calculation to the arguments of politicians on both sides of the House. We learn, for instance, from these tables that the public debt of the Dominion has steadily increased from $76,729, 641.37, in 1867 to $133,-203,694.45, in 1877. The largest yearly increase in this time was from $99,848,461,-04, in 1873 to $108,324,964.42 in 1874, the last year for which the Macdonald Ministry is responsible. While the increase of debt for the whole ten years has been $57,480,053.08, the capital expenditure, for Public Works, &c. has been $63,051,326.92, showing that not only has the whole increase of debt been used for unavoidable purposes, but that it had to be supplemented from the revenue, to carry out such purposes, by $10,571,-342.84; So much for the cry of extravagance raised by the Opposition. But such a cry is re-echoed upon themselves when we come to a consideration of the controvertible expenditure. During the last official year this was $6,835,078.18, a reduction from the former year of considerably over a million and a half, less than in 1874-5 by over a million, and nearly a million and a half less than in 1873-4, the last in which the late Government controlled the estimates. And if our opposition friends should attempt to demonstrate Sir John's Ministry from the expenditure of that year, as they have been known to do, we must point them to the indisputable fact that even in the official year 1873-3, during the whole of which Sir John and his colleagues ruled, the controllable expenditure was $7,963,-036.36, or $836,917.18 more than that for the last year reported. And this saving is the more creditable in face of the fact that there has been a large increase of work in the Departments, and some extraordinary outlay in North West matters, Pacific Railway, &c., All this goes to prove that the reckonings is not in Governmental expenditure, but in Opposition statements.

But not only in the ordinary expenditure has there been a saving. The London loans for which Mr. Cartwright was so violently assailed are now bearing fruit which shows the wisdom of the Finance Ministers plans. These had for their object the reduction of the rate of interest paid on the Dominion debt, and how well that object has been attained the facts now show. At Confederation the average rate paid on the whole debt was 5.55 per cent. More than half of it bore six per cent; less than $700,000 was at four; and the remainder was at five per cent. In 1873 the average rate was 5.96 per cent. By securing loans at low rates to pay of those bearing higher interest, Mr. Cartwright reduced the average in 1874 to 5.23; in 1875, to 4.95; in 1876, to 4.84; and last year to 4.74; the difference in rate since he became the head of the Finance Department representing a saving on our whole debt of more than three-quarters of a million yearly.

However, there is still a deficit of $1,-409,027.66. The year before the deficit was nearly two millions; so that there has been a lessening of the deficit by about half a millilion, and that, too, in spite of a falling off in revenue of nearly half a million. It is thus manifest that the deficit would have been entirely wiped out had it not been for the decline in receipts incident to the depressed condition of the trade of the Dominion in common with other countries. Nor can Protectionists argue that the smallness of the duties levied on imports is the cause of this decrease of revenue; for the official records show that revenue last year under a 17½ per cent tariff was some two and a half millions less than in 1873-4 under the 15 per cent tariff of the party that now clamours for an increase of duties.

OUR REPRESENTATIVES AT TORONTO.

Not long ago the EXAMINER at some length referred to the difficulties of enforcing the liquor laws, and the necessity of devising means for commanding a due respect for statutes. Notice was then taken of dark doings that had taken place in the County of Grey. There, after information had been laid against offenders, and cases against them prepared, at the time and place appointed for trial would appear a number of magistrates, well known to be in strong sympathy with the liquor sellers, which magistrates would take seats on the bench, and, by preconcerted plan, decide the case adversely to the prosecution, and so as to free the person charged with a violation of law. So notorious did this become that these judicial friends of the publicans went about from place to place within the county wherever a liquor case was to be brought on, that they might decide it for their liquor-dealing co-mates. Here was an abuse that must be met. But how? To dismiss these men would have given opportunity for a cry against the government of packing the magisterial bench with implacable enemies of the liquor-sellers; and besides, however certain it was that these men had acted with favor to one side of the cases into the hearing of which they either forced themselves, or were persuaded by the Licensed Victuallers, such cases being disposed of by them beyond reopening, no legal proof of their duplicity was attainable. Again, most, if not all, these Victualler's magistrates are Tories, and their dismissal would have occasioned a Tory howl of partizanship. Besides it was utterly impossible under the circumstances, no matter how glaring the failure of justice, to separate the innocent members of the court from the guilty, however strong suspicion might rest on certain persons. So the abuse went on, and the liquor interest in Grey, and elsewhere too, laughed at the success then of their disgraceful plans.

Former glee has, however, now turned to chagrin at a measure which will put an end to their packing of the bench. Mr. Mowat, whose legal acumen has been evidenced in many ways since he became Attorney-General of Ontario, has devised means whereby the difficulty we have referred to may be met. He has introduced a measure for the temporary appointment of Police Magistrates in Counties, before whom a case having once been taken, no other magistrate can interfere in it. The Bill is not intended to prevent the submission of cases to any other magistrate; only to give these rural Police Magistrates special powers whereby abuses likely to arise may be prevented. Indeed it is not improbable that the simple existence of the prevention, in this, as in other cases, may cure the abuses. These Police Justices are to be without any emolument save a stated fee, to be collected for every case brought before them, whether conviction follow or not. This prevents any opportunity of complaint that conviction was made for the sake of the fee, and so secures a just decision on that score.

On the Bill coming up for a second reading it was plain to be seen how closely this liquor question is becoming a party one, as the members of the Opposition voted against it, and the Ministerialists for it, almost to a man. A similar array of party names is also to be found in the House of Commons when questions affecting the liquor interest come up. Temperance men will do well to note this peculiarity, and avoid any repose of their confidence in the party that thus goes against all legislation in the interests of temperance. It is evident the Tories are trying to make a compact with the Licensed Victuallers for the support of the liquor interest at the next election; and it is well that the friends of temperance and morality should be fully aware of the fact. The two members for Peterborough forgot in their party zeal that this is a strongly Dankin County, as both of them spoke against Mr. Mowat's Bill. This is scarcely to be wondered at in the case of the member for the East Riding; for he seldom seems to know what he is talking about; and this instance was no exception to the general incomprehensibility that makes him utterly ridiculous in the House, even to his own party, and to the shame of the constituency that sends him. The report of his speech published in the Tory paper of this town (the Globe and Mail charitably omits any mention of it,) presents him as dilating on the entirely mistaken idea that the proposed special police magistrates were to do away with the regular Commission of the Peace, of which he was a shining light; and as lauding the capabilities of the same rural magistracy which his leader Mr. Cameron so lately alluded to as an illiterate body. Nothing is surprising from the member in the Provincial Legislature from Peterborough East, even that he did not deliver the speech starlighted to him; but it is somewhat surprising that Mr. Scott should have come out plainly as a speech by the Hon. Attorney-General with a sober knowledge of the verdict so lately given by his constituents on the liquor question. We are afraid our West Riding representative is letting control of himself in the party current. Here is a specimen of his speech, reported in his own party journal in his own town:—

Hon. gentlemen have taken credit to themselves in the past, they take credit to themselves now, for having advanced the cause of temperance in Ontario. They have been making changes in the law from year to year for the last four or five years, and I think they have always too great a desire to force their laws on the community. Many of the acts relating to the sale of liquor are at present too stringent, and contain many provisions which are opposed to the principles of justice and fair play, giving authority for instance, to officials to search persons' houses and go into a search of their premises (Mr. Cotsworth—Hear, hear). If there is one thing more than another which is calculated to remove the good effects of any law, and to make a law of that kind unpopular and intolerable, it is that kind of harassment, and that kind of unnecessary rigorous provisions for the enforcement of the law. And when hon. gentlemen never come and say that the enforcement of this particular law in the country or the introduction of the Bill before the House, when it comes to be said that the present power or authority of our Magistracy is not sufficient of itself to enforce this law, and that some stronger power must be called in, then I would be inclined to think that this course will have a tendency to make this liquor law still more unpopular in the community than it is, and just in proportion as it is unpopular will be the difficulty in enforcing it.

Such language is scarcely in consonance with the voice of his constituents as given at the polls so lately as the 9th of January last. And Mr. Scott's views were as opposed by those of the House as by those of his constituents; for the amendment he supported was defeated by a vote of 43 to 31, and the second reading of Mr. Mowat's Bill decided upon.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The news from the East is essentially of a pacific character, Russia's latest communications being of a nature to warrant the hope of a satisfactory settlement of existing difficulties. A circular from St. Petersburg to the Powers announces the abandonment of the idea of entering Constantinople, and a similar announcement has either been made or is about to be made with regard to Gallipoli. It is true that in return for her moderation Russia demands a concession from England, but the request is couched in conciliatory terms, and if persisted in will at the worst form the subject of negotiations at the coming Congress of the Powers—to be held, either at Badenbaden or Frankfort-on-the-Main. The Porte has issued instructions to Statvet Pasha to hasten the negotiations of peace, so as to conclue a treaty before the end of February.

THE Ontario Legislature is expected to adjourn about the first week in March.

THE Conservatives of Cobourg have nominated the Hon. Jas. Cockburn for West Northumberland. He's a good candidate for the Reformer's to beat.

THE following from the Huntsville Forester contains a significant hint for this county:—

As shown by the recent speech of A. P. Cockburn, M.P., here, the best paying part of the Northern Railway is that lying within the District of Muskoka, viz: between Severn and Gravenhurst. We hope our Railway Kings will make a note of this fact and push forward a railroad to Lake Nipissing, through the heart of the Free Grant District.

ORGANIZING.—The Reformers of the East Riding have taken a step in the right direction. They have held meetings in several places to organize and have appointed officers to communicate with other organizations with a view to united action when the time comes for it. It is also intended to form a County Association with a view to watching over county interests. In some cases they have nominated delegates to a County Association with power to act as delegates in convention if called. In thus organizing they are providing against surprise, and preparing to prevent the enrollment of illegal votes. Those Townships that have not yet organized should do so at once, so as to be ready for co-operation on all important questions that may require their consideration.

THE Toronto Telegram pointedly remarks:—"It is a matter of some curiosity where the members of East Peterborough and South Renfrew in the Ontario Assembly spend their time. They appear once in a while in their seats in the House, and as the theory that they may be away rusticating is falsified by their occasional appearance, the cause of their usual absence is left open to conjecture. To prevent misconstruction, the gentlemen indicated ought to show up not only oftener but longer at a time; if they do not, their constituents ought to see to it that their interests are looked after by representatives who are not above sitting at least an hour a week during the session." We understand that the member for South Renfrew has been ill. Can the member for East Peterborough offer the same excuse, or is it a fact as hinted round the House that the suppression of the refreshment saloon has much to do with his absences?

STRATFORD Beacon:—The Mail, Dr. Tupper, Tom White, and some of the "minor villains" of the Tory press, and on the Opposition benches, had better look to their laurels. St. John has produced in the person of Mr. A. L. Palmer, M. P., a champion who evidently means business, and who may soon win the belt. Palmer declared at a meeting in St. John lately that "to his certain knowledge Mr. Mackenzie had drunk four or five times as much liquor during the past five years as Sir John A. Macdonald." If Palmer speaks the truth one or other of two things must be true—either Mr. Mackenzie has a most enormous capacity for carrying liquor, or he must have been blink drunk for five years. Five times as much liquor as the "Chieftain" has put himself outside of in five years would be a quantity sufficient to drown the most inveterate soaker in the Dominion. It is not necessary to say that Palmer's audacious statement is untrue. It is a lie, an infamous lie, a deliberate, wilful, malicious lie, and the man who uttered it deserves to have applied to him the only Saxon word that can properly describe his character.

APSLEY.

Messrs. Griffin and Dinwoodie, two of the Lakefield Liberal Conservative luminaries were up here to organize a Liberal Conservative Club this week, but we did not hear whether they succeeded or not. Evidently the Opposition are expecting the elections to take place very shortly, and are bound to be in time.—Con.

DISPOSING OF THE CRY OF DISLOYALTY.

During the late political campaign in Halifax county, and since the election of the present Minister of Militia for that constituency, the Tory prints have been casting aspersions on his loyalty, by referring to a speech of his during the anti-confederation days in Nova Scotia, and to a letter of Sir Hastings Doyle, written under feelings indeced by calumny and afterwards re-printed. Mr. Jones in reply to an attack made on him by Dr. Tupper in the House, gave "the great stretcher" more than a Roland for his Oliver, and made one of the best and most manly speeches ever delivered in the Canadian House of Commons. We give below that part of it which relates to the question of loyalty.

He (Dr. Tupper) had pointed out many reasons why he should not be a member of the Administration, and had called the attention of the House to the old question of the flag. They might judge of the desperation of the hon. gentleman when he had to publish that letter at the last moment in Halifax. Nothing he could have done or said, or that any friend of his could have done or said, did him so much good as the publication of that letter. He heard the act denounced from one end of the Province to the other as a violation of confidence unworthy of any man occupying a prominent position in the country. (Cheers.) When that letter was written it was not intended to be made public, and when Gen. Doyle knew the use which had been made of it he ventured to say that no man would be more indignant than he. (Hear, hear.) The history of that incident was briefly as follows:—He made a speech at a meeting, and the first time afterwards that he met Sir Hastings Doyle he looked on the opposite side of the street, and he (Mr. Jones) said to himself, "All right, old friend: the street is wide enough for both of us." (Laughter.) He knew that General Doyle had been lied to, and he did not care who the man was. But when he went to that old story he went to communicate a foul slander. (Cheers.) Before many months had elasped he received intimations from different quarters that the General had found he had placed himself in a false position, and that he (Sir H. Doyle) wished the difficulty between them could be smoothed over. Dozens of times the General sent messages to him regretting the step he (Sir H. Doyle) had taken, because he had found that he had been misinformed, and the moment he discovered the mistake he was the first man to seek to undo the wrong. (Cheers.) When General Doyle was going to hold an official dinner in 1871 or 1872, he (Mr. Jones) was invited to be present and he told the messenger—"Give my compliments to General Doyle, and tell him I have no ill-feelings towards him. I knew the time would come when he would discover that I had been misrepresented. Tell him I will meet him half-way. I am not anxious to go to the dinner, but tell him I will put my name down on the book at Government House." The messenger came back and said General Doyle was determined that this question should be settled once for all, and urged him to go to the dinner. He accepted the invitation which he had in his pocket now. (Cheers.) He met Gen. Doyle, who said, "You know all about it. Let us not say a word about the past." He said, "All right General;" and from that day until he left Halifax Sir Hastings Doyle had been one of his best friends." (Cheers.) And he ventured to say that when the papers reached Gen. Doyle, and he discovered the base use which had been made of his communication, his sense of fair play and indignation at the course of the hon. gentleman would be made manifest. (Cheers.) Gen. Doyle was an honourable old man, who should not have been dragged into controversy of this kind. If he knew the General—and he thought he did—he would rather have had his right hand cut off than that such a use should have been made of his communication. (Cheers.) The hon. gentleman's opponents would repent the day when he employed such means to defeat his election. (Cheers) Reference had been made to a speech which he had delivered on that occasion, and he would tell the House that he stood by every word he had uttered in that speech. The sentiments which he had uttered than he repeated to-day. What were the facts? The Governor-General was visiting Halifax shortly after the secession of the late Mr. Howe from the ranks of his party. The public mind of Nova Scotia was, if possible, more exasperated than it had ever been at any previous time. After Mr. Howe had gone over to take office with the member for Cumberland and his party, those two gentlemen came down to Nova Scotia expecting the party with which he (Mr. Jones) was associated to tender a welcome to that Governor and to the head of that Government in this country. The Governor-General had stated in a speech which he had delivered on his way down that if the people desired independence the British Government would freely grant it—and the House would please to remember that those sentiments were uttered when the Governor-General was advised by the hon. gentlemen opposite. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) In the very first speech which the hon. gentleman opposite had put in the mouth of his Excellency—the Speech delivered at the opening of Parliament in 1867—he was made to say that they were inaugurating a new nationality. (Hear hear.) So that in the Governor-General's speech at Quebec, on his way down, he was only giving expression to the views of those whose mouth-piece he was, those who now led the Opposition in this House. (Hear hear, and cheers.) What had he (Mr. Jones) said in the speech which had been referred to? Here were the words:

Sometimes these distinguished gentlemen make speeches that meet my approval, and the one lately delivered by his Excellency at Quebec is of that description. We had it editorially published and approved in the Colonist, the organ of the Union party, wherein he says that if the people of British America desire a change, either of allegiance or a new nationality, he felt sure the British Government would give their prompt and cordial acquiescence. For myself I am disposed to take his Excellency at his word, but if we cannot go back to where we were, to go forward; and if Great Britain may desire us—as it would not appear—to assume an independent position, when she hauls down her flag and takes her last soldier from the Dominion, I have enough confidence in the intelligence of the people that they will shape for themselves their own destiny, in the direction their feelings and interests would point. And whatever that may be, if constitutionally expressed, it shall have, if not my approbation, my cordial acquiescence.

(Hear, hear, and loud cheers.) There was not a single word there that he would retract to-day. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) He was speaking on that occasion of views which the Governor-General had himself enunciated in Quebec, doubtless inspired by those who then advised him. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) He (Mr. Jones) had not stated that such a step would have his approval. He had made a reservation on that point. He had simply stated that if the change were constitutionally carried out he would acquiesce in the decision, though perhaps, he might not approve of it. This fog story was now brought forth for the first time. It had been trailed into the House regularly during the last seven years by the hon. gentleman (Dr. Tupper), he having first brought it here when he was on the Treasury bench. He (Mr. Jones) had explained it then, as he explained it now, and he would not have thought it worth while to have referred to it at all on this occasion but that some of the younger members of the House were not here when he had explained it before, and were perhaps unaware of all the circumstances. He (Mr. Jones) was disloyal, forsooth! He was unfit to be a member of a Canadian Government, and should not have been entrusted with the portfolio of Militia. Did the hon. gentleman remember the time when his own Minister of Militia, the late Sir George E. Cartier, under whom he (Dr. Tupper) had long served, not only expressed his disapproval of the acts of the Government, but had taken up arms against the Government? (Hear, hear, Ho, no, and cheers.) Did the right hon. member for Kingston deny that statement?

Sir John Macdonald—I said nothing at all about it. (Hear, hear, and laughter.)

Hon. Mr. Jones—Then how you say about it the better. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) He went on to say, that notwithstanding the course which Sir George Cartier had taken at a very critical time yet when he (Mr. Jones) knew him Sir George was one of the strongest upholders of British authority on this continent. What about the language used by the late Joseph Howe—and no one was more capable of using forcible language than that gentleman—in the anti-Confederation campaign? Were there not many hon. gentlemen present who remembered the denunciations uttered by the late hon member for Hants on the floor of this House when he first had a seat in Parliament? (Hear, hear.) Language was not strong enough for his denunciations of the Union and of those who assisted in carrying it —including the member for Cumberland. Mr. Howe had gone farther in that direction than any man in Nova Scotia. Yet when it was thought necessary to gain additional support from Nova Scotia the Government of that time forgot all those forcible utterances of the member for Hants. They opened their arms to him and Mr. Howe remained with them until a few months before his death. These were specimens of the consistency of these hon. gentlemen. He wished also to refer to the time when the member for Cumberland was in the Local Legislature of Nova Scotia and a member of the Opposition which was led by the present Chief Justice of the Province. In those days the hon. gentleman was found denouncing the Governor of Nova Scotia Lord Mulgrave, in language that he (Mr. Jones) would be ashamed to quote on the floor of this House—in language for which the hon. gentleman should blush to day when he remembered it. (Hear, hear, and cries of "He couldn't blush," and laughter.) The terms in which those denunciations had been couched were such as would not be tolerated for one moment on the floor of this House. Would it be believed that on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales to Halifax, the hon. member for Cumberland positively refused to meet the Prince when he landed, simply because Lord Mulgrave would not accede to his wishes and dissolve the House. (Hear, hear, and cheers.) It was only when he was shamed into it by his party, of which he (Mr. Jones) was at that time a member, and urged and almost driven into it by Judge Johnstin, that he unwillingly consented to meet his Royal Highness at the dockyard. (Hear, hear.) This was super-loyal gentleman who had the hardihood to attack him (Mr. Jones) on the score of loyalty (Hear, hear, and cheers.) His (the speaker's) opinion was that the loyalty which was always on the lip was not necessarily the most sincere; and for his own part his principle was first to respect himself and then to respect all constitutional authorities. (Loud cheers.)

THE OUTLOOK AND OUTLET.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—It is now twenty three years since the Midland Railway was built to Peterboro, and since that time, many railway schemes have come up for discussion, many railway meetings have been held, railway deputations have come and gone north, south, east and west, by-law after by-law has been submitted and voted on, and to-day we are in no better position than we were. Relatively we are worse. We are still only a branch line from the village of Millbrook. Lindsay has forged a head of us, she is on the highway of the traffic from the Georgian Bay. Competition between the Port Perry and Whitby and Midland enables her to freight goods cheaper than we can, the same competition gives her a supply of cars, while our millers and shippers of grain are often delayed for want of them, a delay that may entail a loss of hundreds of dollars in one day. Peterboro lumbermen are shipping supplies from Lindsay over the Victoria Railway to Kinmount. The Midland workshops are at Port Hope. We can stand on the Otonabee Bridge and see our saw logs gliding past to circulate money in Harwood and Cobourg.

But yesterday our hopes were centred on the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. There would not be much fee in Norwood working itself into a state of perspiration to get that road built. Is there any more use in Peterborough? It matters not whether it is brought out as a one volume or two volume scheme, we can do little more than wait till Toronto and Ottawa have made up their minds and that may not be for some considerable time yet; of course we could vote another bonus and have our hands tied.

Is there any use just now of talking about the Grand Junction connecting at Norwood with a road that is not yet born and may not be for ten years to come?

The Omemee people would be very well pleased to have the Grand Junction make its connection with the Midland at Omemee and better pleased still to see the Peterborough people vote a bonus for that good object.

While we are waiting for proposals from the Grand Junction Railway, would it not be as well for us to make up our minds as to what is wanted? Something that we can accomplish ourselves, to lift Peterborough into a better position, and give us greater railway facilities and more command over the trade of our own section of country. The Grand Junction will have running powers over the Midland to Georgian Bay, and the Midland will have running power over the Grand Junction to Belleville. Let Peterborough be the connecting point and the terminus of the Grand Junction—not Omemee. Let Peterborough no longer be a branch line from Millbrook, but let that unpaying part of the road between Millbrook and Omemee be taken up and a straight line built from here to Omemee; we will thus become a part of the main line. Let the Midland remove its workshops and offices from Port Hope and make Peterborough its head quarters. Let the Midland make arrangements with Ullyott, Sadler & Co. and McDougall & Ludgate to have their mills located back in Peterborough. The Midland were partly to blame for their ever going to Harwood, and, if rumor speaks true, Mr. Hagel has been trying to negotiate them back, and brought in as part of a general scheme would be his best chance to succeed and largely augment the traffic of his road.

This scheme, if carried, would make Peterborough a railway terminus, give us two large saw mills, the Midland Workshops and offices, give us two outlets for our produce, and place us on the main line of the Georgian Bay traffic, which is destined to develop into vast proportions.

The whole thing might be accomplished in little over twelve months, and give our town a "big push" forward into good times. The scheme should not cost much. We could give the Midland a small bonus and forgive them part of their indebtedness.

MILLBROOK.

BUSINESS CHANGE.—The Geo. Fair Manufacturing Company have leased their establishment to Bowden & Co., who are going largely into the Manufacture of the "Little Gem" reaper this season. Mr. Hamilton McAtrney has the contract of the wood work and Mr. Ross of the iron and machine work. The entire establishment is under the management of Mr. T. S. Marshall, inventor and patentee of the Little Gem Reaper. Mr Fair is in charge of the agencies and agents. The orders already booked for this favorite machine are ample evidence of the place it holds in the estimation of the farming community.

PERSONAL.—Mr. C. U. Hamilton, C. E., P. L. S., has taken up his residence here for the practice of his profession.

THE "HELLESPONT SHOW."—In connection with the above event, if the Tory prints would promise not to mention it, the artist, Mr. H. B. Ohl, who painted two portraits of Cronin's "greatest statesman," exhibited as a "crowning triumph" on one of the panels on that eventful day, would like very much to get paid for his labor. No one seems to know who ought to pay, but the artist is consoling himself with the idea that when Sir John gets into power he will then "come down handsomely."—Post.

LAKEFIELD COUNCIL MATTERS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—I am certain that our village affairs require some watchfulness to restrain those who would plug their hands to deep in our village treasury. We need some one to point out the weakness that some some of our city fathers when village gold dazzles before them. While Mr. Hull was in the village council we had a gentleman that watched our interests and prevented the avaricious from grasping too freely. Now that he is not there we may expect attempts to help themselves out of the public purse. Lately one of these simple but easily detected endeavours to handle the proceeds of our last year's taxes was very clumsily performed. Mr. Griffin the present proprietor of the News had done some printing for the village and required remuneration in due course of time. As councillor, he dare not bill the council, for then he would be liable to be tried under the Municipal Corruption Act. To prevent this the little bill was put in, in the name of one of the late proprietor's Mr. W. O. Sanders—who told me after he had retired from the business that he had nothing whatsoever to do with the News either in one way or another,—and the council and Mr. Griffin had the pleasure of voting the payment of the account nominally to Mr. Sanders although it being well known to be due to the proprietor of the News. Now sir, what will the ratepayers think of this little episode under our new council? I believe sir, if Mr. Hull had been in the council such little games would have been exposed and opposed, will you kindly give us the clause in the act referred to that refers to councillors being parties to a contract with their own council or voting accounts into their own pockets. Would it not be more becoming in Mr. Griffin to resign his seat in the council rather than be compelled from time to time to disregard the plainest statutes against corrupt practices or go without his Printing Bill? But more anon.

Yours truly,
KO. KO. KOKO.

A MALIGNANT ARTICLE.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—I observe in the editorial columns of a late issue of the Lakefield News one of the most malignant articles that has ever came before my notice. The article throughout is of the lowest type; but the most disgusting of all is that it begins and ends with Scripture quotations. Now, Mr. Editor, I have been all my life opposed to the introduction of Scripture texts into light literature, or even into matters of weightier import, if they are strictly of a secular nature. What then must we think of the News as a family paper when we find in the columns referred to an article written without a single redeeming quality? for, turn it as you please, still you can behold nothing but bitter hate and revenge, and this, too, fortified in front and rear as above mentioned. In my opinion there is but one conclusion to come to, and that is that the last copy of the News was unfit to enter any respectable family, and unless it purges its columns from such filth in the future it will soon receive a speedy exit out of not a few families in this village. Had the News been satisfied with criticising in the severest terms the public character of John Hull, I could afford to occupy the position of a disinterested spectator; but when they sink down to the level of insinuating that his present easy circumstances were attained by dishonesty, and that in consequence of these circumstances he holds a leading position in the church, I demur and take up my pen. But, Mr. Editor, who wrote the filthy ebullition that would have disgraced any paper in the Dominion except the News. We know the present editor. Mr. Pasmore, did not write it; we know that the proprietor, Mr. Griffin, did not, for he can't write an article of any kind; and, if he could, he is just about the last man in the Dominion that should write a homily to any class of his fellow citizens, (not even the aborigines), on any moral or religious question. But as he is responsible for what appears in his columns, he will please pardon me for reminding him of the extreme folly of handling the reputation of even the most indifferent of his neighbors with unwashed hands, for Satan reproving sin has been a most uncomely sight in every age of the world. What a grief and humiliation to editor No. 2 of the News, the independent circumstances of Mr Hull must be; and yet we believe the same gentleman has sneaked into Mr. H's office and asked the loan of his credit in the most base shing manner; yes, and received it too, when Mr. Hull knew he was intriguing against him in Municipal matters. With the people of Lakefield, as a whole, the case is quite different; they have no jealousy towards any man because he succeeds in business, much less have they any against Mr. Hull, because they well know that he never made a dollar by going through the bankrupt court; nor did they ever hear that he descended to that most abominable practice which has done so much to disgrace Canada, namely, the transferring of his property into the hands of his wife or her friends for the purpose of defrauding his creditors. On the contrary, they believe that Mr. Hull has paid and intends to pay the last cent wherever it is due. Now, Mr. Editor, do not imagine for a moment that the people of Lakefield are void of sympathy for those who fall unfortunately in business, for it is quite otherwise; it is only that class of defaulters who are cheeky enough to improve their residences and increase the annual expenses of their living, turn out in good rigs, and show off the luxury that they still owe the merchant and mechanic for, that are being slighted. But we are told that the result of the election was a source of gratification to every well-wisher of Lakefield. Did all the well-wishers of Lakefield vote on the one side and all the ill wishers on the other? Great logic this indeed, are there only twenty four more well-wishers than ill-wishers living in Lakefield? If such is the case, it is not a very choice tit bit for the country readers of the News, neither is it very complimentary to our ambitious little village. But it is not true, it is the very opposite and no body knew it better than the gentleman who penned it. We are next told that Mr. Hull claimed to be economical, but at the same time he was very extravagant as would be shewn as opportunity offered. Poor Editor No. 2, have you sat in the council with Mr. Hull for three years, and still remain unable to point to a single act of his extravagance, but you promise to do so as opportunity offers, now that he is not a member of the council. O! what cheek! Is it not rather brazen faced impudence. Should not the News proprietor feel proud of the Editor who can write what is neither believed by himself nor any other man in Lakefield. Now Editor No. 2, you charged that Mr. Hull's Examiner letter was a tissue of falsehood, (be kind enough to take my counsel for once,) just step back where you can enjoy plenty of space and pluck the huge boulder out of your own eye, when you will be the better able to extract the little pebble out of your neighbors. We are next told that Mr. Hull, when in the council manifested such inconsistency and incompetency that the News could not recommend him for any place of public trust. Oh! humane! what a calamity has befallen you, but for your inconsistency and incompetency you might have enjoyed the overshadowing influence of the News, which would have secured you success in every thing, you must now leave the arena of public life and deny self, it is for the good hence because of the disappointment of the News. Now, Mr. Editor, I am happy to inform you that the unanimous determination of J. H. is quite otherwise in Lakefield to-day than the commissioner and commissariat of the News. I am also happy to inform you that it is no determination to pay demands, nor to leave the disposition of the News unclear the persons for whom I am the guest expressing myself. In behalf of any particular committee, I can remember that there is something rotten in Denmark. How long ago is it since Mr Griffin done his dead level best to run Mr. Nelson out of the council, but could not come it? Mr. Nelson was then a know nothing and a nobody; he is now, according to the News, the very embodyment of every virtue that can ennoble and elevate mankind. Now, Mr. Editor, permit me to give Councillor Nelson a word of warning for the sign of the times are ominous. I am an old friend of his, and prefer dealing honestly with him; therefore, I must tell him frankly that many of his old friends had a greater respect for him before he took stock in the News than they now have. However, they still retain confidence in him, although they did not send him to the Council for the express purpose of raising the Clerk's salary. In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I will suggest that the News proprietor and his green Marshal possess their souls in peace, for their great opponent, J. H., has a stake in Lakefield to-day that they never had nor ever will have. Mr. Hull's unpardonable sin was that he would not be lead by the nose.

Fire in Lakefield.—We regret to learn that on last Thursday evening the dwelling house of W. W. Nicholls, Esq., of Lakefield, was completely destroyed by fire. Insured in the Victoria Mutual, of Hamilton, for $1,000. The furniture, on which there was no insurance, was partially destroyed.

Watson, formerly connected with the staff of the Herald, left Wednesday evening for Lakefield, county Peterborough, where he will assume editorial charge of the News, a Conservative weekly journal. Mr. Watson has the good wishes of the Herald in his new departure, and will doubtless make the News a readable paper.

Strike on the Midland.—Another strike has taken place on the Midland, commencing last Monday morning, and in consequence no trains have been running over the line during the week. Special stages for the conveyance of mails, passengers, &c., have been put in operation between here and Port Hope until such time as the strike is over. Non-payment of wages we believe is the cause.

St. Patrick's Society.—A meeting of Irishmen and their descendants, irrespective of religion, will be held to-morrow evening in the Cahoe House, to consider the advisability of organizing a National Society for the town and county of Peterborough. It is believed this step will be productive of good in eliminating the religious strife and illfeeling so prevalent among the Sons of Erin and their descendants. It has our best wishes.

Employment.—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column of Stone & Wellington, Nurserymen of Toronto, Ontario. They can give employment to a number of steady, active men as salesmen. This is a good chance for capital men as it is a growing business and one in which an energetic person can gain an amount of useful knowledge not to be acquired in ordinary business life, as a salesman is brought into contact with all elements of society and all the various industries of our growing country.

The Dunkin Appeal Case.—On Friday last application was made before Mr. Justice Gwynne, for a rule nisi to quash the by-law passed under the Dunkin Act in the Town of Peterborough on the following grounds. (1) That the Voters Lists for '877 which had not been filed one month with the Clerk of the Peace were used, whereas the last finally revised assessment roll should have been used. (2.) That the votes were not immediately counted. (3.) That the voting was not free. (4.) That there was undue clerical influence. Judgment was reserved till Tuesday last when the rule was refused.

Harper's Magazine for February is before us with its usual choice freight of entertaining history and romance. An attractive feature of the number is the commencement of a new story by William Black, entitled Macleod of Dare. Thomas Hardy, another popular English novelist, gives the first instalment of a new work on fiction. The remaining contents comprise "Along our Jersey shore;" "The Fieschi Conspiracy;" "Punished Enough;" "The Dun-Flitch. 1877;" "A sketch of Turner, the painter," illustrated; The Turkish war with the Montenegrins; A glimpse at some of our charities; Nobody's business; a painter on painting; Editor's Easy Chair, literary, scientific and historical record.

Division Meeting.—Peterborough has had a meeting of the Division Grange, at which the men discussed many practical things for the farmer's good, and the lady grangers had their say. In a report on "Domestic Industry" they complain that their wants in machinery have not been attended by the Grange, and add:—"The chores we have to use are only fit for masculine strength; also, washers, wringers, etc., are not all that could be desired, and we recommend that steps be taken to place us in possession of those implements that are of the most approved description at reasonable terms." The husbands may as well comply at once, for "when a woman says she will, she will, you may depend on it." But how unpalliant of the Peterborough grangers!—Kingston Whig.

The Rev. R. B. Harper, M. A.—We take the following from the Belleville Intelligencer:—"The many friends of the above named gentleman will regret to learn that at the close of the present ecclesiastical year he will leave Belleville, having received a very cordial and twice repeated invitation to Peterborough. At the Quarterly Official meeting of the Belleville circuit, held on last Monday evening, Mr. Harper informed the meeting of the receipt of the invitation. At the meeting there was but one opinion expressed, and that was one of deep regret that he should leave Belleville, but as it was evidently an appointment to be desired by him, the church here would not be so selfish as to stand in the way. We learn that no steps have as yet been taken towards securing a successor for Mr. Harper."

Another Newspaper Decision.—At the Division Court held in Welland recently, the Telegraph says a very important decision was given affecting delinquent subscribers to newspapers. In one of the defended suits brought by the proprietors of that paper against one in arrears for subscription, the defendant claimed that he had not subscribed with them for the Telegraph. He had paid Mr. Dewart one dollar to January 1st, 1874, after each time he had not subscribed. The paper came along, however, and he took some copies out of the post-office. He afterwards removed his residence, and for over two years had not received it. The Judge ruled that he was liable for the whole price, it not being paid in advance, and gave judgment accordingly, defendant having acknowledged being a subscriber by taking papers from the post-office.

REPORT OF FIRE, WATER AND GAS COMMITTEE.

Councillor Patterson, on behalf of the Fire Committee reported as follows:—

That they have had the different matters relating to the management of the Fire Department under consideration and recommend the following:

That that part of clause eight, of By-law No. 301, providing for the nomination of Chief and Assistant Engineers be repealed, and the Council assume the right of appointment; said Chief and Assistant Engineers, to hold office during the pleasure of the Council, and whose duties and powers shall be defined by By-law.

That the members of the Hook and Ladder Company be required to act as a Hose Company when their services in the opinion of the Chief or Assistant Engineers, or other officers in charge is deemed necessary.

That it is desirable that the members composing the Fire Company, live as near the centre of the town as possible.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WALTER PATERSON, Jr.,
Chairman.

FIRE BRIGADE ENGINEERS.

Moved by Councillor Paterson, seconded by Councillor Rountree.—That the Clerk receive applications for the offices of Chief and Assistant Engineers, and hand them over to the Council at the next meeting.—Carried.

ANOTHER COMMUNICATION.

At this stage of the meeting a communication from J. L. Hughes was read, asking to be appointed one of the Assessors for the ensuing year.—Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

THE PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

Moved by Councillor Paterson, seconded by Councillor Rutherford.—That the deputation from the Patrons of Husbandry be allowed to address the Council.—Carried.

Mr. D. Dawson Kennedy, as one of the deputation said the Patrons of Husbandry had rented the storehouse from Mr. Beavis last Fall, and were not aware that there would be any difficulty with the town in occupying the street while shipping their grain. They were aware however, that a difficulty might arise in occupying the main branch, and had consulted Mr. Hugel on the matter, who gave them liberty to do so. They had stored about 10,000 bushels of wheat in the building, and when they commenced to ship were forbidden by the Street Inspector, who lodged information before the Police Magistrate against them. At the present time these charges were pending awaiting the action of the Council. All he asked was to be allowed to use the street when loading until the expiry of the lease.

Mr. Thomas Johnston, also addressed the Council on the same subject.

Councillor Denne said he had been held up as the laughing stock of the town by these men who were now asking more than any other citizen would be given. Parties occupying other storehouses were not allowed the privileges asked for by the Grangers, and he did not see why all should not be treated alike.

Councillor Paterson suggested the matter be referred to the Finance Committee, as it was impossible for this Council to do anything without first passing a By-law rescinding the By-law under which the charges had been laid.

Councillor Smith also took a similar view.

The Mayor suggested that the parties interested cultivate a better feeling as the interests of both parties were identical.

It was moved by Councillor Smith, seconded by Councillor Paterson,—That the petition be referred to the Finance Committee.

In amendment, it was moved by Councillor Rutherford, seconded by Councillor Yellland.—That the prayer of the petitioners be granted.

Councillor Rutherford deplored the animosity that existed between a portion of the people of the county and the citizens of the town. He believed that Grangeism would die out of itself, and the farmers' come back to their first love and [illegible] with the business men of the town. But while opposed to the Grangers, he thought they should have the privilege of shipping their grain. The vote should be taken to-night and the matter settled at once, and not shirk the responsibility by referring it to a committee.

Councillor Yelland also favored immediate action,

Mr. Giles Wherry, on motion, was heard before the Council in reference to the nuisance caused by the loading of grain at these store houses.

Councillor Cahill was in favor of allowing the Grangers to ship their grain, but asserted that the matter could not be settled by motion of the Council, as a resolution could not override the By-law. What Mr. Rutherford was talking about was all nonsense and he knew it. He believed in giving to Cæsar the things that were Cæsar's, and thought the Grangers were acting dishonestly in using our streets and bridges while not contributing one cent to their support. He would advocate an Anti-Grange Society, in order to counteract the mischief done by the Grangers. If the citizens would not buy anything from a Granger, but let them ship their small produce where they found a market for their grain, in a short time the Grange business would die out.

Councillor Yelland said there were other streets that were equally obstructed, and one not far from his own place. He believed in buying where he could get the best bargains, and thought the same principle held good with the farmers in selling to the best advantage. Mr. Malkin, no doubt, was annoyed because the Grangers did not sell their wheat to him.

Councillor McBain—You are not violating the By-law by buying your teas in Montreal. Is it because that Mr. Fitzgerald is in the same business that you are in that you object to him being any thing on the street.

Chief Constable Jobberone said the street at Mr. Fitzgerald's was not obstructed. He had not seen it so clear for years.

After some further cross-firing the amendment was withdrawn and the original motion carried.

THE TOWN PRINTING.

On motion of Councillor Patterson, seconded by Councillor Ormond,—Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Stratton were heard before the Council in reference to the distribution of the town printing, and asking that the matter be remodelled for.

COLLECTION OF TAXES BY INSTALMENTS.

A By-law fixing the time for the collection of taxes by instalments was read a second and third time and finally passed. It provides that one-half of the taxes shall be payable on the 15th of July, and the other half on the 1st of November, provided the first half be paid promptly. If the first half is not paid given only on the 15th of July then the whole becomes due.

MARKET BY-LAW.

On motion of Councillor Smith, the Market By-law was read a first time.

The Council then went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading, Councillor Miller in the chair.

On reading the first clause which removed the tolls from meat.

Councillor Rutherford raised a point of order, inasmuch as the preamble did not contain express allusion to the clause, Rule 81 of the Rules of Order of the Council providing that "No By-law shall be introduced into the Council unless the title of such By-law contain express allusion to each and every important matter or thing contained in such By-law."

Councillor Smith chaired the title covered everything. He objected to the point of order, although he himself had raised a similar point of order at a late meeting when it suited his purpose.

Councillor Cahill had not changed his opinion, but asked that the By-law be allowed to pass.

Councillor Patterson said he had explained an opinion before that the rule of order was unsalled for and suggested that the committee rise and ask leave to sit again, as then a By-law repealing the rule of order might be prepared and passed.

An unusual amount of blustering took place between Councillors Rutherford, Smith and Cahill to the embarrassment of those present and the disgust of the more sensible members of the Board who cannot appreciate these painful efforts at oratory and long-winded, empty harangues for which certain Councillors are notorious.

The suggestion of Councillor Paterson was finally acceded to, and the committee rose without taking further action on the By-law.

REFRAMING BY-LAW.

Moved by Councillor Paterson, seconded by Councillor Rutherford.—That the Town Clerk be instructed to prepare a By-law to repeal Rule Number 81 of the Rules of Order of this Council.

EXPEDIENCY OF SUBMITTING BY-LAWS.

Moved by Councillor Paterson, seconded by Councillor Denne.—That whereas this Council has had to pay considerable sums of money for the printing of and voting on By-laws which have not become operative or of any use to the town whatever, and it is necessary to put a stop to such unnecessary expenditure of the public money. Be it therefore resolved, that in future no By-law requiring the votes of the electors shall be entertained by this Council unless and until the individual or company interested in such By-law shall deposit a sum of money—any one hundred dollars in the Treasurer's hand before said By-law shall be printed, and that no money so deposited shall be refunded except upon a vote of three-fourths of the whole Council, and that the Clerk prepare a By-law in accordance with the above resolution, to be submitted to this Council at our next meeting.—Carried.

PAYMENT OF MONEYS.

Moved by Councillor Denne, seconded by Councillor Paterson,—That all moneys paid by this Council for labor or material shall be paid by cheque, payable to the order of the person or persons by whom such labor is performed or such material furnished.

REMISSION OF TAXES.

Moved by Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Smith,—That all communications heretofore received in reference to the remission of taxes and other matters connected therewith be referred to the Finance Committee, with power to act.

An amendment to this motion, providing that the Collector be associated with the Finance Committee, and that a report be submitted to the Council when the Collector returns the Roll, was carried and the original motion lost.

CANCELLING RETIRING COUPONS.

Moved by Councillor Smith, seconded by Councillor Ormond.—That the Treasurer be, and is hereby directed to cancel all retired Coupons as recommended by the Auditors, and as directed by resolution of this Council.

PAYMENTS OF ACCOUNTS.

Moved by Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor McBain.—That the accounts of Messrs. Green, Montgomery and Davidson be paid by the Treasurer.

The Council then adjourned till next evening.

Another Uproarious Meeting—Personalities instead of Business—Repealing By-laws—The Market By-law again Laid Over.

The adjourned meeting of the Council was held on Tuesday evening. The Mayor in the chair. All the Councillors present except Mr. Miller.

The reading of the minutes of last meeting was dispensed with.

AMENDING THE RULES OF ORDER.

A By-law amending No. 69 of the Rules of Order of the Council was read a first time. The amendment consisted in erasing the words "expressed" and "important," making it read as follows:—"No By-law shall be introduced into the Council unless the title of such By-law contain some allusion to each and every matter or thing contained in such By-law."

In Committee of the Whole on the second reading another amending clause was added, so as to provide that any of the standing rules may be temporarily suspended upon a vote of eight members.

The By-law was then read a third time and passed.

Councillor Miller entered and took his seat.

AMENDING LICENSE BY-LAW.

Councillor Ormond moved the first reading of a By-law to amend the License By-law.

Councillor Smith explained that the object of the By-law was to allow the Billiard Rooms to remain open on Saturday nights till the same hour as allowed last year, namely eleven o'clock. By the present By-law they are compelled to close at seven o'clock.

Councillor Rutherford strongly objected to the By-law being introduced. The restrictions put upon the billiard rooms in this town were the same as those imposed in the city of Toronto. He deplored the injurious effects of the billiard room upon those who frequent them, especially on Saturday nights, and wondered at Mr. Smith introducing any repeal to the present By-law. These billiard rooms did more harm on Saturday nights than the preachers could counteract on Sundays.

Councillor Smith did not claim to be as moral a man as Mr. Rutherford, and expressed himself as highly edified with the sermon on morals delivered by Mr. Rutherford. He looked on this amendment to the By-law as a matter of justice to Mr. Huffman who was under large expense, and as Saturday night was the best in the week he thought it a hardship to deprive him of it. He accused Mr. Rutherford of smuggling the clause into the By-law, and asked to have these matters done above-board.

Councillor Ormond looked upon this proposed amendment not as being prejudicial to the morals of the town, but as a matter of equity to Mr. Huffman. The billiard room was well conducted, and he thought Mr. Huffman should be allowed to keep it open till 10 or 11 on Saturday night.

Councillor Rutherford,—How much does Mr. Huffman receive for playing on Saturday nights?

Councillor Ormond.—The same as on other evenings.

Councillor Smith.—The charge is forty cents per hour, Mr. Rutherford. If you come up after the Council is over you can have a game and find out.

Councillor Cahill did not wish to be thought as doing any thing detrimental to the morals of the community. He looked at it as a matter of dollars and cents to Mr. Huffman, who had already paid a large sum for licenses. He would suggest that Mr. Rutherford take to the pulpit and abandon the saw and the square. (Laughter and applause.)

Councillor Yelland thought if Mr. Huffman wished to keep up the good name of his house he would close at seven o'clock. Perhaps the reason why the preachers could not do so much good on Sunday, was because they stayed so long at Mr. Huffman's that they were unable to rise early enough to go to church.

In amendment to a motion for the second reading, Councillor Rutherford moved, seconded by Councillor Yelland.—That it be not read now, but that it be read this night three months.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

In Committee of the Whole the hour for closing on Saturday night was fixed at 10 o'clock.

The By-law afterwards received its third reading.

THE MARKET BY-LAW.

The Council resumed the consideration of the second reading of the Market By-law in Committee of the Whole, Mr. Miller in the chair.

A very lengthy and amusing discussion arose over the question of telling wheat, in which many sharp retorts and personalities were indulged in, and the amendment to place a toll of ten cents on each load was voted down.

Another tedious discussion arose over the protection of the resident fish dealers and the placing of a license on those parties who make a practice of selling meat wholesale on the Market every Wednesday and Saturday, when finally it was resolved that the Committee arise and ask leave to sit again on Friday night.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

The Council resumed, and before adjourning the Finance Committee reported on the petition of the Patrons of Husbandry. The report recommends that the same rights and privileges be accorded them as were accorded other citizens of Peterborough, and that no further proceedings be taken against them by the Street Inspector, unless they claim or attempt to exercise rights or privileges which are not enjoyed by the citizens of the Town of Peterborough, provided that the said Patrons of Husbandry unload their produce in rear of their store house.

The Council then adjourned till Friday evening.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

The Debate on the Address.

Mr. De St. Georges moved the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. He spoke in French for about half an hour, and received the closest attention of the House.

Mr. Charlton seconded the Address. His review of the clauses of the Speech was delivered in the clear precise manner usual with him. His allusions to Lord and Lady Dufferin and the regret felt by the people of Canada at their expected departure from the country, were warmly acknowledged by the House. His references to the cause of the commercial depression, and the exact history which he gave of it, placed this much vexed question very clearly before the House. He complimented the Government on their economy and financial management, which had met the enormous obligations imposed by their predecessors without increasing the burthens of the people. The Address furnished an excellent text, and he did it ample justice.

Sir John Macdonald followed. He expressed his entire sympathy with the allusions made to their Excellencies. He objected to the clause relating to Sitting Bull as conveying the idea of scolding United States Indians in our territory.

Mr. Mackenzie said it was intended to mean their peaceful settlement in their own country, and a slight verbal alteration marking the point clearer was made in the Address.

Sir John went on to refer to other points among them the visit of the Minister of the Interior to Washington, contending that the United States Government should have sent to Ottawa to make some explanation of the invasion of our territory by these Indians. He said it was an error of policy on the part of this Government that would require explanation. As to the route of the Pacific Railway, he insisted that all information should be given. He did not believe the hard times were passing away. As to the proposed measure relating to the independence of Parliament, he believed the first thing in such an Act should be to restrain the influence of the Crown. His strong point was that the Government had insulted Parliament by granting an amnesty to O'Donoughue after the House declared he should not be amnestied. He was glad the Government proposed to legislate on the temperance question, and hoped it would be of a stringent nature. He concluded a very mild speech for him by declaring that the would not move any amendment to the Address.

The Premier said the report on the Sydney Exhibition would be brought down shortly. The Canadian Commissioner to the Paris Exposition was selected on account of special qualifications, and was a gentleman well known as able to perform the duties required of him. Concerning the American Indians, it must be remembered that they were fugitives, and were allowed to enter Canada the same as the fugitive negro in former times. British hospitality was always extended to such persons, and Canada would not depart from that policy. These Indians were told that they would not be allowed to use Canada as a base of operations against the States, and they had faithfully observed that order. The United States Government had vainly attempted to get them to return peacefuly to their own country. He proceeded to refer to the reports of the Pacific Railway survey, which he said, would be all laid before Parliament in about three weeks. Great amusement was caused by his allusion to Grip's caricature of "Hard Times" leaving Canada, and the member for Kingston urging him to remain till after the general elections. He repudiated the sweeping assertion that the Government had interfered improperly in the elections. It was the duty of the Government to avoid complications with the Imperial or foreign Governments. The papers relating to the O'Donoghue amnesty would be brought down, when it would be seen that the action of the Government had been decided upon long before there was any notion of an election in Quebec. The decision of the Government had been submitted to Imperial authority, and was approved. It was, however, a question of Government policy for which he was prepared to take full responsibility. He concluded by complimenting the mover and seconder for the able manner in which they had acquitted themselves.

Hon. Mr. Laurier refering to the assumed Conservative reaction in Quebec. Said he admitted that the Conservatives had won not a few seats since the general election, but reminded that they laugh ed longest who laughed last.

Mr. Taschereau read an article published by Mr. Langevin's organ at Quebec during the Charlevoix election, accusing Mr. Tremblay and the Supreme Court of defying the authority of the Pope.

Hon Mr. Laflamme pointed out that all the indignation expressed by the gentlemen opposite relative to the amnesty question sounded very odd. It was brought up now for political purposes in Quebec, but it was so stale to have any effect. He believed we could get along very well without mixing up religion with politics. There was one fact well known—that the Conservative party of Quebec had for ten years made every political contest a religious one, and that all Conservatism was Catholic and holy; all opposed to it infidels and destroyers of the Church. He was willing to resign his place on the Treasury benches if the gentlemen opposite could show how by any legislative measure prosperity can be restored to the country. If they would only suggest this, and if the Government did not adopt the suggestion, the Opposition would come back to power on the wave of the greatest reaction. Legislation could never affect the commercial depression.

Hon. Mr. Huntington repudiated the charge that the Liberals defended themselves by the tu quoque argument. It was singularly bad taste for the hon. gentlemen opposite to cry corruption when their leader was strongly tainted with corruption, and only escaped disqualification by the judge of an election court giving him the benefit of a doubt. He pointed out that the Conservatives were twenty years in power, and during that period had persistently resisted amendments to election law. The entire histories of both parties would show that the Conservatives had from the beginning been the hereditary opponents of the claims of the people for justice and right. The Liberal party, he contended, had originated all the measures of reform ever proposed in Canada, and the Conservatives had persistently resisted them till public opinion became too strong for them to resist, and they yielded in order to hold on to office. In 1863 Mr. Dorion introduced a Bill to amend the Election Law, but the leader of the present Opposition voted it down, as he did in the case of the Bill introduced by Mr. Blake in 1872. He went on to recount the measures of reform introduced by the Liberals when in Opposition, and resisted by the then Government. He felt how poor was the argument advanced by Mr. Masson that all Liberals in Canada were not true Catholics. He hoped the day would never come in this country when a man known as a good citizen, performing his duties towards God and his neighbour should be publicly branded on account of being either a Catholic or a Protestant. He concluded by defending Governor Caochon from the bitter attacks that had been made upon him.

Dr. Tupper attacked the Government for its financial policy, the fallacy of which was evidenced by their annual deficits. He declared that the Government had violated every pledge which they had made to the country, and had persistently pursued a policy of corruption. They had paid members vast sums of money for contracts. He went on to review the circumstances which led to the present Minister of Militia occupying that place. He reviewed the conduct of the Government from his point of view from the date of their accession to office up to the present time, and of course condemned them in the strongest language he could command.

Hon. Mr. Jones replied to Dr. Tupper in one of the most scathing speeches ever heard in the Canadian Parliament, in which he entered fully into all the details of the various acts of corruption, public and private, with which the member for Cumberland has been charged in Nova Scotia and the Dominion. Mr. Jones also gave a full refutation of the charge of disloyalty made against him.

Mr. Young followed, pointing out, as an instance of the care and economy exercised by the Government, that during the past year they were enabled to reduce the public expenditure by one million of dollars. In four years our expenditure was only increased $270,000 per annum. During the previous four years the late Government had increased expenditure at the rate of two millions a year. He complimented the Government on having carried the following reforms:—Simultaneous voting, vote by ballot, the reference of contested election trials to the judges, stricter parliamentary control over the expenditure, laying important contracts before Parliament for approval, economy in expenditure, and abolition of dual representation.

Considerable applause then greeted Mr. Patterson. On rising he showed that as a manufacturer the commercial difficulties which had arisen were not caused by a lack of protection, but by too many manufactures having been established in the same line. Referring to the attacks on the Ministry for being as bad as their predecessors, he held that the Reform party was a party of purity, because they had placed laws on the statute book calculated to purify public life, to keep Reformers pure, and if possible make Conservatives pure, too. He was loudly applauded when he held the Opposition recreant to their trust if they did not formulate their charges against the Government, and bring them up in this House.

Mr. Bowell attacked the member for North Norfolk for having, as he believed, changed his opinion from protection to Free Trade.

Mr. Charlton protested against garbled extracts of his speech to be given to the House. The whole idea of the speech was to show that a 17½ tariff was quite high enough to meet the views of the protectionists, and the Government was wise in adhering to that view.

Mr. Bowell reviewed the question of amnesty, and entered into a long reading of all the charges made against the different Reformers who had been accused of spending money in elections. Finally he alluded to the charges made against Mr. Huntington in connection with certain mining transactions.

This brought Mr. Huntington to his feet. He branded the insinuation as a slander and a falsehood, and characterized the attempt of Mr. Bowell to fix a stain upon him as only worthy of a coward. It is always a matter of regret that party warfare should in its amenities permit such allusions as Mr. Bowell made use of, and to one in Mr. Huntington's position it was only to be expected that he should resent the allusion so injudiciously indulged in with that scorn natural to a gentleman holding the position of a Minister of the Crown. It was perhaps better after all that Mr. Huntington should call a spade a spade. He recounted the history of his connection with the copper mines, and dared the member for North Hasting to call for the investigation he had insinuated was required.

Mr. Cook made a very telling attack on Sir John Macdonald for accusing him of spending money in his county when he had to contend against Sir Hugh Allan's ten thousand more. He recounted many points, telling against the member for Cardwell, who, as usual, was absent from his seat.

Mr. Dymond defended the Hon. George Brown from the aspersions cast upon him by the member for North Hastings in reference to the "Big Push" letter case. He asked if the imputation cast by the member for Cumberland, relative to the revision and garbling of the Globe parliamentary reports, referred to him, because if it did he was prepared to make the simplest explanation. He said he exercised no influence over the Globe's Parliamentary reports. The gentlemen who performed that duty were as independent as any hon. member of the House. It was time these allusions in debate to the professional connection with the Globe were discontinued. Mr. Tupper said that he did suspect the hon. gentleman, but was glad to accept the explanation.

Mr. Jones then replied to Mr. Tupper going over that gentleman's speech, and rebutting each of the charges contained therein.

Sir John Macdonald followed, charging that Mr. Jones was not a proper person to hold the position of Minister of Militia. During his remarks, which were strongly denunciatory, Sir John was twice called to order by the Speaker.

The Premier made a short but very effective reply to the charge of disloyalty. He pointed out that the leader of the Opposition had been in his time associated with Sir George Cartier, who had taken up arms against Her Majesty, and with the men who had burned down the Parliament Buildings. That hon. gentleman had also been associated with the men who hoisted the black flag to insult the Governor-General, who formed a league at Kingston to drive the French into the sea, and who had pelted the Representative of Her Majesty with rotten eggs, and hoisted the black flag of independence at Sandwich. A lively but rather inconsequential argument then arose as to whether Sir George Cartier did or did not run away at St. Denis. The remaining paragraphs of the Address were carried, and the Committee to appoint the standing committees struck, after which amid loud cheers, the Ministers of Public Works, of Interior, of Marine, and of Fisheries, Customs, Justice, and Finance, laid reports of their departments on the table. Mr. Cartwright presented the Public Accounts for the fiscal year.

THE CHILDREN'S HEP-TIME.

The clock strikes seven! the bell
The curfew of the children's day.
Then call them home parenting feet
From dance and song and frolicsome play:
Their day that in our wider light
Floats like a silver day-moon white,
Nor in our darkness sinks to rest,
But sets within a golden west.

Ah, tender hour that sends a thrill
Of children's kisses through the house,
And coolest notes of sweet "Good night,"
That thoughts of heaven and home arouse;
And a soft stir to seem and heart,
As when the bees and blossom part;
And little feet that patter slower,
Like the last droppings of the shower.

And in the children's recognition
What blessed shapes do gently slip
Their dainty sheaths, and rosy run
From sleeping hand and kissing lip.
A radiant tremulous to the eye—
Heaven and baby and butterfly
In whirling orbit circle a sight!
An ecstasy of life and light.

And, oh, what lovely mysteries
Restore the hour—as twilight—dark,
By vocal and dance and song left alone
By day—bright theatre they make
Vivid, sure, calm, where wonder grow,
And dream the heaven-sweet rainbow; a shoe
Seems bigger than an ocean-ship;
Freaks that seem flowery meads cut up.

Then lily-faced as angel-white,
To mother's knee they foraging come,
The soft palms fold like kissing shells,
And they and we go singing home—
Their bright hands twined and worshipping,
As though some glory of the spring
Some daffodil that meets the day,
Should fold his golden Palms and pray.

The gates of Paradise swing wide
A moment's space in soft accord,
And those dread Angels, Life and Death,
A moment veil the flaming sword.
An star-like weary proud, fastens
From Eden's secret heart is borne
That breath of Paradise most fair,
Which mothers call "the children's prayer."

Ah, deep pathetic mystery!
The world's great woe unconscious hung,
A rain drop on a blossom's lip;
White innocence that wots our wrong.
And love divine that looks again,
Unconscious of the crops and pain,
From sweet child-eyes, and in that child
God earth and heaven reconciled.

Then kissed, on beds we lay them down.
As fragrant-white as clover's cud,
And all the upper floors grow hushed
With childrens' sleep and dews of God.
And as soft starry the bushes do hide,
The stars of twilight opening wide,
Take up the heavenly tale at even,
And light us on to God and heaven.

THE DEAD POPE.

(From the New York Times.)

The acts with which Pius IX. ushered in his reign were so liberal and pacific that must be a wonder to those who have not examined his history carefully that a man of such a character should have passed his life in contentions with governments and peoples, and should have lived to see the day when, having made reform claim before the world to a greater power and greater virtue than any other individual on earth, his own people—the Romans of his own flesh, both in the Eternal City and in the former Pontifical dominion—should hold him in contempt. Extraordinary is the thought that only those nations far removed from the influence and the direct knowledge of the Vatican can be classed among the permanently faithful. The quarrels of Pius IX. with Austria, for instance, have been incessant. France has always pretended to be his defender, and used the pretense to further her own ends; and even Spain, the stronghold of conservative ideas, has been always ready to afford the Pope diplomatically, while offering many tokens of spiritual obedience and affection. But Belgium and Ireland, the South American and Central American Republics, even England and the United States, have treated the Pontifical Court with the deference asked by that institution; from them came the great body of converts, from them the most earnest workers in the cause of the Church, and from them the large sums of money which are necessary to carry on the schemes of government and plans of aggrandizement that always stand before the councillors of the Papal throne. How comes it that the Pope, and especially this benevolent Pope, has been living in a state of conflict with his own subjects and the closest neighbors he has had?

Viewing his career since his election in 1846, the fact soon becomes apparent that for some reason Pius IX. has been actively aggressive in his relations with foreign governments. He has always interfered with their internal affairs, protested, issued bulls, excommunicated and fulminated like one of the mediæval Popes. He has pushed the most aggressive, and, in the estimation of thousands of the most learned and cautious Catholics, the most questionable dogmas to their furthest extreme. While the thinking world is in love with exact science he defies remorselessly the doctrine of the Immaculate Conception (1854), as if to throw down a gage of defiance to these natural historians who are denying that nature contains even so much as the spontaneous generation of minute water life. When the hatred of his own countrymen for priests has risen to such a point that he can only be kept in Rome by French soldiers, he collects together a great Œcumenical Council (1869,) proposes his views, denounces in bitter terms those representatives who dare to differ from him, extorts the consent of the unwilling, frightens the timid, and has it proclaimed that he, as Pope, is not a man, but something halfway between man and God, an infallible lieutenant of the Creator of the Universe. The year of the promulgation, (1870,) he is rebuked by the utter discomfiture of Louis Napoleon, who was his supporter at Rome, and the Emperor for whom his prayers ascending. But that is nothing; he continues to protest and excommunicate, while his nation takes possession of Rome; finally, in the extreme fullness of his years, he dies, sincerely lamented by the very courts whom he has been fighting all his life.

Evidently such a career could only be pursued by a man of peculiar education. His early life all goes to prove his excessively emotional temperament; the convulsions in childhood, his order to be a soldier, his dissipations and sins, his sudden conversion to an ascetic life, the enthusiasm he showed whether in the pulpit or in his mission to South America. A thousand anecdotes printed, and many thousand current from mouth to mouth in Europe, attest the easily exasperated nature of his mind, the violent fits of passion into which political events cost him, the indiscreet, and sometimes very undignified expressions of pleasure or anger which he could not suppress when good or bad news came. His character is that of one of the old mediæval Popes, and his liberality and charity was quite in keeping with notions of the kind. A quick temper is no bar to benevolence; on the contrary it is a common accompaniment therefore it is not strange that Mastai Ferretti began life by being wondrous charitable to the poor, and ended life beloved by his enemies. His very weaknesses were sure to make him beloved.

But, aside from the natural mediævalism of of his character, or rather, behind it, and using it to its own ends, stood the policy of the Roman Court, a policy generally defined by the now odious term of Jesuitism. This was the steady pressure that kept on variable and excitable a man as the late Pope slightly tipped toward end end; this was the ingredient force that used his early predilections in favor of American authors and the English, to push the Catholic cause into every noble circle of old England, and every populous note of the United States. The doctrine of the Immaculate Conception, which Pius IX. established in fixing in the Catholic faith, is a Jesuits doctrine fought for by that body of ecclesiastics before Pius came to the chair. The doctrine of infallibility is the culmination of Jesuitical idea, for it makes the head of the Church, or the chief of the Jesuits, an irresponsible autocrat, in whose eyes nationalities, Governments, and the will of communities or individuals only exist on sufferance. The emotional nature of Pius IX. was cleverly gifted to a certain extent that one frequently sees in very brilliant men of Latin stock. It was easy—perhaps it was never necessary—to persuade his fervent, imaginative mind that he was really an infallible and chosen vessel of God. It was not for Antonelli, for instance, the able minister, who left an enormous fortune to his relatives and a pittance to the poor, to undeceive him. "As the Abbe Mastai," the late Pope, is reported to have said, "I believe in the infallibility; as Pope, I feel it." Another time, when Cardinal Guidi called his attention to the traditions of the Church, he emphasized, "I am the tradition." His long life of kindness, and the natural reverence and respect that Catholics could not help feeling for a spiritual father who had been identified with their Church so long, made Pius IX. the very man to carry out the old hopes and ambitions of the Jesuits. Begining with the eminently sentiment of the immaculate Conception in 1854, the next move was made in 1864, when the Syllabus and Encyclical Letter enunciated the future system of government in the Church; finally, in 1870, complete and unmanageable powers were assumed, and with the dogma of Papal Infallibility the last vestige of popular or representative government disappeared from the Catholic Church. The Pope from that day on became the unapproachable autocrat over Catholics in every land on earth.

A MASONIC LODGE CENSURED.

The Grand Master of New Jersey Censures a Paterson Lodge for Initiating a Man who had Lost a Thumb.

(From the New York Times.)

Contrary to the usual course of Masonic matters, the action of the Grand Master of the State of New Jersey in censuring one of the lodges at Paterson has been made public, and is causing considerable excitement among the fraternity. As the world at large has known for a long time, no man is considered a fit candidate for initiation into the rights of Freemasonry who is not physically a perfect, complete, unmutilated man. The rule or custom has been rigidly enforced against applicants who have lost any important member of the body, like a leg arm or hand; but not against limbs having slight disfigurements. It appears that the Paterson lodge in question accepted a well-known citizen as a candidate, who had lost the thumb of his right hand by amputation, and duly commenced to initiate him. The Grand Master of New Jersey heard of this, and informed the lodge that he would be present on Tuesday evening of this week, when he proceeded to censure the lodge for its action in accepting the "imperfect" candidate, and suspended the Master of the lodge for the remainder of the year for non-observance of Masonic rules and customs. The Grand Master of the State also declared all initiations of such persons in this State to be null and void. The Grand Master of the State is Rev. Herbert B. Smith, of Passaic, who is now holding the office for his third term; being highly respected everywhere for his extensive researches and erudition, particularly with regard to the history and customs of the order of Freemasons, and in consequence the ruling and effective action in this case make it a matter of most serious importance to the entire fraternity. It was probably made known to the public so that persons suffering such slight disfigurements need not apply for admission to the order, and thus be spared the annoyance of being rejected. It is understood that the Grand Master considers that the loss of any portion of the body is sufficient to prevent the admission of a person to the privileges of Freemasonry.

FEBRUARY HINTS.

Turn out potatoes that had been kept in barrels or bins to prevent sprouting.

Air the cellar thoroughly on a cold dry day to lower the temperature; 35 degrees is warm enough for a vegetable cellar.

Clean machines; washing the gummy part with kerosene oil, and wiping them off with a bundle of rags dipped in sperm oil.

Watch root pits closely, and see that the ventilation is perfect. Roots are growing very much in the pits this winter in consequence of the mild weather. To prevent this, open the pits at the bottom by thrusting a sharp pointed bar every two feet, and letting in cold air to reduce the temperature.

Young lambs are troubled often with costiveness, which can easily be remedied by giving a teaspoonfull of castor oil.

Young pigs that arrive this month need the best of care or they will be lost.

It pays well to warm the feed for hens. A pan of cracked corn covered with water and warmed till it has swollen and soaked up the water, makes excellent feed. A clean poultry house is indispensable if the fowls are to be healthy. It is a small job to scrape twice or three times a week.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

A Bill is now before the Ontario Legislature to amend the law in respect to the selling of liquor and treating of voters on the municipal election days. The Act provides as follows:—(1.) The giving or causing to be given at any nomination or polling day, at any municipal election, or within any polling division in any municipality, to any voter about to vote, or having voted, any meat, drink or refreshment, or any money, or ticket, to enable such voter to procure refreshments or drink shall be deemed a corrupt practice, and the persons offending shall also forfeit to any person suing for the same, the sum of ten dollars for each offence with full costs of suit. (2.) No spirituous or fermented liquors or strong drink shall be sold or given at any hotel, tavern, shop, or other place within the limits of any polling subdivision at such election, during the polling day thereon, or any part thereof, under a penalty of one hundred dollars for every offence, and the offender shall be subject to imprisonment not exceeding six months at the discretion of the judge or court in default of payment of such fine.

SIGNS OF A PROSPEROUS FARMER.

When you see his barn larger than his house, it shows that he will have large profits and small afflictions. When you see him driving his work, instead of his work driving him, it shows that he will garner he driven form good resolutions, and that he will certainly work his way to prosperity. When you always see in his wood-house a sufficiency for three months or more, it shows that he will be more than a ninety days wonder in farming operations, and that he is not sleeping in his house after a drunken frolic. When he has a house separate from the main building, purposely for ashes, and an iron or tin vessel to transport them, it shows that he never built his dwelling to be a fiscal pile for his family, and perhaps for himself. When his sleigh is housed in summer and his farming implements covered both winter and summer, it plainly shows that he will have a good house over his head in the summer of early life, and the winter of old age.

"THE CANADA OF OURS."

One thing that the Canadians are rather touchy upon in the ignorance which Englishmen have about the Dominion. The leading Canadian journals often bewail the Times, Standard and other London journals on their lack of knowledge on Canadian political matters, and provincial geographical bearing seems to be just as scant even in well educated "Ont. ians." A fish in Hamilton, Ont., not recently grieved just now because a company in Liverpool, wrote to them that one of the company's agents was going to visit Guelph, and would land at Quebec. The English writer asked the Hamilton firm to be big enough to send a conveyance to Quebec to meet the traveller and bring him to Hamilton.—Detroit Free Press.

CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

The general meeting of the Central Exhibition Association was held in the Town Hall, Millbrook, on Wednesday last, 6th instant, when the following gentlemen representing the several contributing societies were present:—

West Peterborough—Messrs. J. Walton, V. Clement and J. Carnegie.

Peterborough Horticultural Society—S. A. Brown.

Douro and Smith.—A. R. Edel.

Smith, Ennismore, &c—M. S. Dean.

East Peterborough—Thos. Blezard.

East Dummer—Messrs. S. Howden, Dr. Conner, E. A. Powers and John Foott.

Hope Township—Tees Harrison.

West Durham—Messrs. S. Wilmot and W. Porter.

West Northumberland—Messrs. George Carruthers, Jos. Barnes, J. M. Carruthers, and Geo. Goodhurst.

Hamilton Township—Messrs. W. J. Warrington, John Newton, Henry Lapp and Jas. Russell.

Lindsay Horticultural Society.—J. H. Knight.

Manvers—Isaac Preston, jr.

South Victoria.—Thos. Rae and James Deacon.

North Victoria.—Thos. Smithson.

Verulam—Wm. Thurston.

An exceedingly interesting address was read by the President, Mr. John Connolly, in which he recommended several improvements in the working of the Association.

After a lengthy discussion, Mr. S. Wilmot gave notice that at the next annual meeting he would move that a permanent Secretary and Treasurer be elected, instead of the present system of having these officials selected from the place in which the Exhibition is held.

The Auditors' report was presented, showing a balance on hand of $1,165.05, but as it has been circulated in short form, we need not give it in detail. The following are the officers for the ensuing year:—

President—Geo Cockburn, Esq., Cobourg.

Vice-President—Thos. Blezard, Peterborough.

Treasurer—W. Riddell, Cobourg.

Secretary—R. Cullis, Cobourg.

Superintendent—E. A. Powers, Port Hope.

Asst. Supt.—John Pratt, Cobourg.

Executive Committee—The President, Vice-President, and Messrs. W. H. Bowden, James Barnum, John Carnegie, S. Wilmot, Thomas Harrison, George Garretsons, W. J. Westington, Col. Deacon, John Foott, Jas. Walton, V. Clementi, Thomas Smithson, and W. Porter.

Auditors—Messrs. L. Burden and H. Wade.

A resolution was passed during the heads of the Treasurer at the same amount as last year, and the salary of the Secretary at $100, and the Treasurer at $50.

Mr. Wilmot gave notice that at the next annual meeting he would move that the exhibition of 1879 be held at Bowmanville, which was objected to by Mr. Carnegie, on the ground that exhibitions should be held alternately at the front and in Lindsay and Peterborough—but particularly at Peterborough.

Before breaking up, the Association formed itself into a mutual-admiration society, and proceeded to vote each other thanks for their efficiency in the discharge of their duties.

A meeting of the Executive Committee will be held in Cobourg on Wednesday, the 10th April next.

WHO WROTE IT?

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In the last issue of the Lakefield News Mr. Casement would like its readers to believe that he wrote the communication signed X; Mark—he does not say he wrote said communication, the Editor does not say he did, but they want the readers of the News to think he did write it. I have no doubt he did ask the question about the meeting of the School Board held on the 9th January, of the News men, but that he asked if the chairman was carrying out his pet policy in cutting down printing, I do not believe. Now, if Mr Casement had asked the Chairman, or Secretary of the Board, they or either of them would have told him as they did tell him, that on account of his being away from the public meeting, and away from home, and as it had been customary, immediately after the annual meeting to meet and organize the board, that the other five members thought it right to do so and did meet and organize. I think that the Section of the Statute that Mr. Casement quotes in his last peroration, would relieve him from any responsibility if their had been anything of a responsible nature undertaken, (such as contracts &c.) but there was not, the officers of the board only being appointed. Surely five members are capable of doing that. when they were unanimous in their selection, I regret very much that Mr. Casement on such a flimsy excuse should rush into print, it looks to me very much like straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel. Yours &c.,

"ONE WHO KNOWS."

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.
An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.
The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflammation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and Old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Pettit's American Eye-Salve," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.
There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.
The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing medicine ever brought before the human race.
They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.
They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TICDOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.
They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

The following lines on the Shamrock were composed by a blind girl, residing in the city of Cork:—

The spreading rose in fair to view,
And rich the modest violet's hue,
Or queenly tulip filled with dew,
And crowned the lily's fragrance;
But there's a flower, more dear to me,
That grows not on a branch or tree,
But in the grass plays merrily,
And of its leaves there are but three,
'Tis Ireland's native Shamrock.

My country's flower, I love it well,
For every leaf a tale can tell,
And teach the minstrel's harp to swell,
With praises of Ireland's Shamrock.
The emblem of our faith divine,
Which blest St. Patrick made to shine,
To teach eternal truth sublime,
And which shall last as long as time,
And long as blooms the Shamrock.

Oh! twine a wreath of Shamrock leaves—
They decked the banners of our chiefs,
And calmed the Irish exiles' griefs,
So powerful is the Shamrock.
The muse inspired with words of praise
The poet of our early days,
To write in many a glowing phrase,
And sing in powerful thrilling lays,
The virtues of the Shamrock.

He who has left his island home,
Beneath a foreign sky to roam,
And in a foreign clime unknown,
How dear he loves the Shamrock.
When, on the feast of Patrick's day,
He kneels within the church to pray,
For holy Ireland far away,
He feels again youth's genial ray,
While gazing on the Shamrock.

The brightest gem, or rarest flower.
That ever bloomed in eastern bower,
Possessed for him not half the power,
That dwells within the Shamrock.
Sweet memories, like refreshing dew,
The past with all its charms renew;
The church, the spot where wild flowers grew,
The faithful friends, the cherished few,
He left to cull the Shamrock.

Land of the west, my native isle,
May heaven's love upon thee smile,
And banish foes that may beguile,
The lovers of the Shamrock.
May God forever cherish thee,
In peace, and love, and harmony,
And knit the bonds of unity—
Thus pray thy children fervently,
For Ireland and the Shamrock.

CUMULATIVE VOTING.

What Mr. Bethune said About it in the Ontario Legislature.

Mr. Bethune moved the second reading of his Bill to provide for cumulative voting for municipal purposes. He had heard of certain workingmen objecting to this bill. They were under a misconception, he believed, in imagining it to be a piece of class legislation. It did not withdraw any power from the workingmen. The fact was the bill was not a piece of legislation; it was simply a piece of administration. It was a measure passed in order to secure the best arrangement to the voters of Toronto; it aimed really at the greatest good of the greatest number. He proposed to deal with the subject, in the first place, with regard to money by-laws. The measure would affect cities and towns and not rural districts where the farms were pretty much of the same value, while in cities properties were of very different values. It was not that the workingmen was not as intelligent and as capable of voting as the rich man, that he asked the House to pass this measure. He introduced it only as a matter of administration. On the whole, real estate was the proper and best basis of taxation for municipal government, and ere long he did not doubt that the system would obtain in cities and towns. Whether rightly or wrongly, power had been accorded for many years to municipalities to grant bonuses, &c., to railways and manufacturing interests. The sum granted would amount probably to several millions of dollars. Well, the man who had only $400 had quite as much right to vote on these subjects as the man who had $40,000. He believed that the taxes had been imposed chiefly through the instrumentality of the small-holder. (No, no.) The small freeholders were enabled by a majority of votes to mortgage the property of their richer neighbors, and to pile up debt. This surely could not be right or just. He would speak secondly as far as the ordinary purposes of the municipality were concerned. An objection against the measure in this respect was that it was class legislation. He did not propose to withdraw the voting power from workingmen, but to give more votes to those who held a certain amount of property, and the workingmen were chiefly those who, by industry, owned the largest amount of means. The Bill proposed to give to these more power in municipal matters. He referred to the "fugitive class," who had no permanent stake in the community, and who had still the same voice in matters of the municipality as the largest freeholder. Just now, he continued, the truth was that it was almost impossible to get a rich man elected in Toronto against a workingman. The reason was that the vote of the workingmen was three or four to one against those of the other class. The system was unjust because it put the power into the hands of a few, rather than into that of those who had possession of three-fourths of the municipality.

Mr. Cameron—You want to take away that power?

Mr. Bethune said that he did not mean to take away the whole power from the workingmen, or any other class; he only meant to distribute it more fairly. It was not fair that a man who possessed, say $1,000, should have the same voice in the affairs of the municipality as he who possessed $100,000. He did not, however, mean to say his Bill was a perfect one in this respect. All he intended to do in this second reading was to have the House acknowledge the principle laid down in the Bill. In most cities ward politicians controlled municipal affairs and regulated taxation. Unless some remedy was adopted against corruption in this country such a state of affairs would be shortly brought about as existed in New York and other large cities in the United States. It was because he felt that in the present state of matters there was a great injustice done to citizens that he brought in the present measure. He was not committed to the whole of the Bill; but he did ask the House whether his first proposition ought not to be encouraged, whether they ought not to enfranchise those in the electorate who had little or no interest in the city to mortgage property for twenty years hence. There was such a thing as a majority in value as well as a majority in numbers. He had proposed the Bill in no spirit of hostility to the workingmen; he had, spoken to few persons about its provisions; but he did maintain that its principle was so clearly fair that it claimed the support of the majority of the House, and, therefore, he moved the second reading of the bill. (Hear hear.)

THE VOTERS' LISTS FINALITY ACT.

The Most Important of the Provisions.

The first two sections of this Bill printed, with the sub-sections under them are devoted to the title and the signification to be attached to certain terms. The most important section is the third, which reads as follows:

Every voters' list which under this Act or under sections eleven or twelve of "The Voters' Lists Act," or under sections six or eight of "The Voters' Lists Act of 1876 was during the twelve months next prior to the passing hereof, or is hereafter, certified by the County Judge, shall, upon any scrutiny be final and conclusive evidence of the right of all persons named therein to vote at any election at which such list was or could have been legally used; except

(1) Persons guilty of corrupt practices and or in respect of the election in question of such scrutiny, or since said list was certified by the County Judge as aforesaid;

(2) Persons who at any time subsequently to said list being certified by the County Judge as aforesaid, are or have been non-resident either within the municipality to which said list relates or within the electoral district for which the election is being held, and who by reason thereof are under the provisions of "The Election Act of Ontario" incompetent and disentitled to vote;

(3) Persons who, being entered on said list in respect of income only have not paid the municipal tax on such income within the time in that behalf required by the sub-sections of section seven of "The Election Act of Ontario;" and

(4) Persons who, under sections four, five and six, of "The Election Act of Ontario," are disqualified and incompetent to vote.

The fourth section enacts that

Notwithstanding anything in this or any other Act contained, any voters' list based upon the assessment roll of any municipality for the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-seven, shall, at the instance, and upon the complaint of any person entitled either to be entered on said list, or to vote or to be a voter in the electoral district in which said municipality is situate, be still subject, to be revised and corrected by the County Judge to the extent and in the manner and upon and for all or any of the grounds mentioned in section eight and the sub-sections of section eight of "The Voter's List Act;" and with respect to and upon the hearing and determination of any such complaint, none of the provisions of section three of this Act shall apply, nor shall any decision of the County Judge heretofore made, either under "The Voter's Lists Act," or any other Act, in regard to the right of any person to vote be, for any purpose whatsoever, considered or taken as final or conclusive.

DR. TALMAGE ON THE WAR

What he says about Turkey, Russia and England.

On Friday evening, the 8th inst., the Rev. Dr. Talmage, of Brooklyn, N. Y., delivered a lecture on the three great events of the week—Stanley's reception in London, the Pope's death and Russia's triumph. Under the latter head he spoke as follows:—

"The third event of the week is voloadic Turkey crushed, Russia triumphant, England aghast, the world confounded! What next? you ask. That's what all the world asks. There has not been such an intense moment in European politics during our lifetime as at this moment. If England halt she becomes a second rate Power; if she march, then all Europe is an Armageddon. May the God of nations appear in this crisis. I am glad that the Turkish Empire has perished. She was an old butcher and the most cheerful page in her history to me is her obituary. Where shall the miserable old carcass be buried? Where are the spades long enough to dig a hole deep enough? But I have no admiration for her conqueror, Russia. We have heard from that nation a great deal of snuffing cant about religion during the past year. What does she care about true religion? She has been one of the world's most dreadful oppressors. Where is Poland? Where are the myraids who have strangled under the shocking pressure of her hard heel? I will not hide the fact that my deepest sympathies at this moment are for England. She has not always acted kindly to this nation, but what is the use of keeping old grudges good while the fact is certain that England and the United States stand side by side to-day in the great cause of civilization and Christianity? (Applause.) When England is humiliated the Church of God and the cross of Christ are humiliated. Look at her churches, her universities; look at her throne, the purest in Europe if not in all the world. (Applause.) The girl Victoria kneeling with her ecclesiastical adviser on the night before her coronation, made vows to God and promises to England, not one of which has she ever broken. (Applause.) Her sorrows have been the world's sorrows, her bereavements the world's bereavements. Wherever there's heart that knows how to admire pure, consecrated, Christian womanhood there is an admirer of Queen Victoria. We unite with all the chapels and cathedrals of England, and all the good people of the earth, in praying, singing and shouting, God save the Queen! (Applause.) The fact is that the most we can do humble mortals of the world's history is to implore God to rise for the safety of His Church, for the deliverance of the captive, for the downfall of despotism, for the reign of all nations. Let sin perish and Christ reign. Though the plough-shares of battle-cut through from St. George's Channel to the China Sea, Christ shall have the dominion and all the power and all the glory, world without end. Amen and Amen."

KEEP UP WITH YOUR WORK.

Should there happen to be among our readers an easy-going farmer—one of that class who never do to-day what can be put off till to-morrow—he is requested to carefully digest this truthful paragraph from Coleman's Rural World:

Some farmers drive their work: are always up with it or ahead of it. They anticipate the work of the farm in its order and are always prepared to meet it half way or more. Other farmers are always behind their work; there is always something suffering from neglect or delay. They are heavy losers thereby. The crops don't get the attention they need at the right time, the fences are not repaired till the stock have done more damage than the repairing would cost; the seed is not planted till it is too late to get a good crop; the wood is not hauled till the wood-pile is exhausted, and that may be in summer time when the crops are suffering to be harvested, and thus the work drags all the time. Such farmers are not happy. They have not the lively spirits of those who are always up and a little ahead of their work. Reader, to which class do you belong! Much work can be done in winter to advance spring work. Who will do it?

THE POMPIER LADDERS.

The so-called pompier ladders are the newest thing in Fire Department supplies. They consist of a pole, from fifteen to twenty feet long, with the rounds projecting far enough on each side to allow foot room on them, while one end of the pole terminates in a large hook of steel. Each ladder is light enough for one man to handle easily. These ladders are being introduced in several Western cities, and at St. Louis the other day were used for the first time at an actual fire. In the operation of ascending to the fifth floor of the burning building, the fireman caught the hook end of the ladder over a window sill in the second story, climbed up, stood on the sill, pulled the ladder up and caught it on a window sill of the third story, climbed up to that story, and so repeated the movement to the fourth and fifth stories, doing the work in less time than it usually takes to get a long ladder in position. There were probably two thousand persons in the crowd of spectators, and considerable excitement was manifested at the display of agility and coolness by the firemen in using the ladders.—Exchange.

FENELON FALLS.

ALMOST A FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday last an accident happened in this village to Mr. John Cullis. He had been to Mowry,s mill for a load of lumber, and in leaving the premises had to drive under a wooden railway and either from the too great height of the load or from want of carefulness, he was swept off by the railway and fell upon his head on the ground. After lying for some time he was discovered and carried into Mr. Sullivan's house, and Dr. Bingham sent for. Mr. Cullis was conveyed home followed by the doctor, who about four hours later had the pleasure of seeing his patient recover from the state of insensibility produced by the fall and we are glad to learn that the injured man is progressing favorably.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—The eldest son of Mr. Robert McCallum, of Fenelon Falls, met with a painful and somewhat uncommon accident on Tuesday last. It appears that he and other boys were playing with a hand-sleigh upon which stakes had been fixed, and while running behind the sleigh, he fell, one of the stakes entering his mouth, tore up a strip of the palate, about an inch long and a quarter of an inch wide. Dr. Allen found it necessary to remove it as he could not stitch it up.—Gazette.

FATAL TERMINATION.—J. Coad, who it will be remembered had his leg broken while lumbering out back of Fenelon Falls, as announced a short time ago in these columns, has since died from the effects of the accident. It was found necessary to amputate the limb some weeks ago, but since then he steadily declined, until death put an end to his sufferings. His parents have the sympathy of the community in their irreparable loss.

MARMORA.

THE Mining interests here are beginning to look encouraging once more. At the Dr. Williams mine, a company of the former employees have been working very successfully for several weeks, under the management of Mr. Osler. They cleaned up on Monday last a three weeks' run (of five stamps only), and show a nugget worth one thousand dollars as the result, realizing a yield of twelve dollars per ton of ore. There is now every prospect of this mine being extensively worked this season. The Fiegel Mine is being put in thorough working order by a company of gentlemen who mean business,—and you, no doubt, will soon hear of good results. That there

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 28, 1878.

OUR IRISH UP.

THE EXAMINER is accused by the Irish Canadian of "sneering at Ireland as 'the unfortunate Island'" and at the 15,000 Irishmen in the County of Peterboro' "as not including one or two men 'able to represent' them or 'whose chances of election' are not such as to 'make it something else than folly to put them forward.'" We know Irish Canadians able to represent their fellow citizens in Parliament; and we also know one Irish Canadian capable of misrepresenting our views and our declaration of them; and of falsely and deliberately imputing to us motives and expressions, for the purpose of deceiving those in whose interests it pretends to speak. We did refer to Ireland as "the unfortunate Island." Will any friend of Ireland deny the applicability of the expression; or that it is truly descriptive of the history of the country? Must we refrain from the pitiable truth, lest it be called a sneer, by some petty demagogue whose sympathies go no farther than his plans? We refuse even dictation on these terms; and will speak of, and feel for, "the unfortunate Island," in spite of any despicable attempts of political tricksters and turn-coats to make a possible point by imputing a wrong significance to our words. The journal that would belie its own utterances as the Irish Canadian has done; and strike hands with those whose dishonesty it but lately denounced, would not hesitate to betray Irish Canadians for the purposes that have led it so far from the straight track. Nor need we wonder that it is forced to flat falsehood in carrying out its dirty compact with those who have led it astray. The EXAMINER did not say there were not Irishmen in Peterborough able to represent the electors in parliament; but it did speak of the folly of putting forward a candidate simply because he may be Irish while his chances of election are such as to make his candidature worse than madness. We repeat that statement; but with contempt for none but those who counsel such folly. We can have no little respect for the feelings that prompt a largely Irish electorate to desire an Irishman to represent their views in Parliament; but when a mere sentiment takes the place of a reasonable exercise of citizenship rights we cannot but condemn it. The characteristics of race doubtless to some extent shape the views, even on questions of the widest public import; and we can readily see how a man of particular race can (all other things being equal) best represent views formed partly by that race's peculiarities. At the same time it cannot but be admitted that the public interests are not best advanced by encouraging divergences of views formed by reason of difference in origin and education. Theoretically Canadians should know no distinction of country; and practically should recognize such distinctions as little as possible; and attempts to make them of paramount importance in choosing members of Parliament should be frowned down by every patriotic citizen. An oppressive policy of selection by nationality is sure to defeat itself by inviting opposition; for while the Irish, Scotch, English &c., fought vainly for a comparatively subordinate idea, Canadians would seize the prizes and occupy the places those who forgot Canada struggled for. The more the old nationalities contend in Canada, the more it will be the duty of true Canadians to care for the country's concern. The danger in a great demand for such action on the part of Canadians is, that it will foster nativism—a still greater evil.

A correspondent of the Review who signs himself "An Irishman," follows the idea set by the Irish Canadian, and complains of The EXAMINER's article on a pretence of construing it into something other than it was,—a plain statement of the writers ideas, without the covert cleverness imputed. For though it was an Irish article we think it was written in plain English. We will explain to "An Irishman" that we left Dr. O'Sullivan singly as opposed to Messrs. Bertram, Hall and Scott, not from any sinister design, as assumed by him; but simply because the Irish Canadian had done so in the references to which we were taking it to task. Did we desire to adopt the letter writer's own style of imputation we might call him to account for his statement that "no doubt it is a crime to hail from the 'unfortunate Island;'" and ask him what he means by so gratuitous an insult to Irishmen. However we fancy we understand "An Irishman" bogus, as well as we think we understand genuine Irishmen, and we are quite willing to give the counterfeit the benefit of that reception the public generally give to spurious coin.

The EXAMINER stands responsible to the people of Peterborough for what it says; but who assumes responsibility for the letter signed "An Irishman?" Is it modesty forbids the writer from coming out like a man to father his assertions and insinuations? It is not the usual practice of an Irishman to fight like a skulking savage; especially when his lance is laid in rest for Ireland and the Irish. An Irishman, if he be the true stuff, whatever be his faults, is no coward. The writer of the Review letter is somewhat of a poltroon in not manfully coming out in his true person; hence we have doubts of his really being what he professes to be. We will however do him the credit of stating that his letter is mushy preferable, as a literary effort merely, to the other original matter of the paper it appears in; and it forms a contrast to the "editorial" adjoining it by no means flattering to the producer of the latter. In proof of our good opinion, and as in earnest of our fairness on this question, we reproduce it in another column.

As an endorsation of a preference for Messrs. Bertram, Hall and Scott individually over Dr. O'Sullivan we need only point to "An Irishman's" letter. He actually flatters Mr. Scott; while with Messrs. Bertram and Hall he finds no particular fault. He simply asks what the former has done for the public interests, calls Mr. Hall a "mute," and declares that both have drawn their sessional allowance. To the enquiry we would reply that the Parliamentary records will show what Mr. Bertram has done. Mr. Hall need not be reproached if he wisely refrains from attempts at speech-making—an accomplishment to which he makes no pretensions. East Peterborough would be better thought of in the Ontario Parliament did its representative there exercise a like discretion. If Mr. Hall be no orator, he is recognized even by his political opponents as a gentleman of sound common sense, capable of dealing intelligently with public matters on their merits. As a useful man in the House he retains the confidence of his constituents, who do not send him to Parliament to fill the Hansard, but to look after their interests and those of the country at large. Even his would-be detractor cannot accuse him of failure in his duty. True Mr. Bertram and Mr. Hall take their $1,000 each session just as all the other members do; and as "An Irishman" would do if he were one of them. No man can be blamed for drawing the sessional allowance voted by the House. Its being too high, both in the Dominion and Provincial Parliaments, is quite a different question. "An Irishman" deals less charitably with Dr. O'Sullivan than we have done. Not only does he acknowledge that he is not altogether pleased with the Doctor's political course, but that he does not approve of the motives, manner, or circumstances under which he became a candidate and got elected. He does not however, deign to explain his exceptions to Dr. O'Sullivan's course, or to the circumstances of his election; but what he does say through the Review gives the member for East Peterborough just cause to complain that he has been "wounded" in the House by his (pretended) friends. He has been used for a purpose, which being accomplished, he will now be kicked off like an old boot. The only reference to Dr. O'Sullivan as "a modest man," and one "not quite eaten up with vanity" is doubtless intended to flatter the victim into something like placid submission to the "old boot" role; and people who know the man to "soother" whom the attempt is thus made, can readily appreciate the genuineness of the terms applied to him. We refrain from more than an allusion to the fact that Dr. O'Sullivan is no "mute," as we have no desire to say unkind things of the gentleman, particularly while we feel for him a pity that disarms any thought of blame. Politically, too, it would be useless to devote attention to one whom his own party evidently seeks to drop.

AN EMOTIONLESS MARTYR.

An attempt is being made to martyrize Mr. Scott, M.P.P., because of the references made to him in a late number of the EXAMINER, but wherein only was the opinion publicly expressed often before, both in Peterborough and elsewhere. We are, and always have been willing to give Mr. Scott whatever praise is due him for the manner in which he fills his public positions; but that will not deter us from also stating his faults as a public man. In his capacity as President of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway he has doubtless done his best. He could not do more. But his flatterers go too far when they dare to claim for him that he did as much as mortal could. We have no desire to undervalue Mr Scott's abilities, either as a parliamentarian or a railway president; but we do not hesitate for a moment to say he is by no means the best man in the country for either, let alone both of these positions. The EXAMINER has given much aid, unsolicited, to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway project; and the promoters of the scheme, Mr. Scott amongst the number, cannot but acknowledge that our advocacy has been neither futile nor fitful. And it was as a strong advocate of the line that we, as delicately as was consistent with comprehensibility, hinted, to Mr. Scott as well as others, the fault found with him. It was also alluded to, a little more plainly, by a correspondent, what is to him a personal misfortune, becomes a fault in his representative capacity; and since political tricksters try to pump up sympathy for him as a martyr, and to make a little cheap party capital for him, by pretending to misunderstand our reference, we must be plain. If we cause pain, Mr. Scott must lay it to the attempt to traffic with our former courtesy; a thing we cannot permit even for one we think so highly of as we do of him. We then bluntly state that Mr. Scott's misfortune is in being "born tired"; and that his usefulness as a representative is greatly hindered by his "laziness." Now, angry Tory, don't go off and tell that the EXAMINER says Mr. Scott never does anything. He works hard sometimes, but probably his hardest task at all times is getting started. In his private capacity that would be nobody's business; but when as a representative he has to be stirred up by his fellows into a sort of spasmodic action, the very jadiness of the operations injures the work in hand. Those who know Mr. Scott will readily recall instances in proof of what we have said, and none can do so better perhaps than those who worked with him as a party man, and for him as a candidate, and at the same time wondered at the cool indifference he displayed till actually forced to act. We had hoped his parliamentary experience would cure this stolidity in the man; but those who know him in the House will bear us out when we say it clings to him even there. His co-directors of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway also know his chronic carelessness to well.

Are we now understood? Our statement is plain enough now, surely; and we know its truth will be mentally, if not in words, acknowledged by all who are in a position to judge fairly in the case. As our former hint has already been laid to ingratitude we expect a long howl will be raised at this further and plainer reference we have been forced to make in order that we might defeat a political trick. The Tories are welcome to what use they can make of such a cry; but we warn them that we will not quietly submit to misrepresentation for the benefit of the party plans. It may be then that Mr. Scott will have reason to pray. "Save me from my friends." As an instance of how injudicious is the bepraising of people for political purposes, we may just mention the reference of the Tory journal of this town to Mr. Scott as having "devoted much time taken from his business, much money and much energy" to the promotion of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. The mention of such devotion on the part of Mr. Scott is calculated to start some very unpleasant questions in the minds of people who are at all disposed to be ill-natured; and we think there are some of that kind among the readers of the Review, if not among those who read the EXAMINER only. The journal that presumes to speak for Mr. Scott should have a care.

THE DOMINION TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE.

Delegates of this Alliance met last week at Ottawa to urge the views of the temperance people of the Dominion in reference to temperance Legislation on the Government. Representatives from Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were present. The Hon. Mr. Vidal presided during the sessions. After preliminary business a deputation was named to wait on the Government, and learn what legislation might be expected this session, and to urge the views of the Alliance on the representatives now assembled. The Hon. Mr. Mackenzie assured the delegates of his sympathies and earnest desire to ameliorate the evils of intemperance, and of his readiness to aid in securing legislation to bring about that desirable object. At the same time he pointed out the difficulties that beset the way, but hoped this session something of a practicable and workable law would be secured.

The deputation then had an interview with Hon. Mr. Scott. He assured them that the matter was now under the consideration of the Government, all of whom were earnestly desirous of aiding the objects of the Alliance. He was anxious that a measure should be secured that would meet the views of the people, and at the same time prevent continual reference to the courts, as is now the case. Owing to the diversified legislation of the provinces, it was difficult to keep clear of clashing with the Provincial enactments. But he assured the deputation that during this session, an effort would be made to place on the statute book a practicable permissive temperance act, free from the obnoxious portions of the Dunkin Act, and capable of being worked if possible without running to the courts to get it interpreted. He reminded the deputation of the difficulties in the way, and expressed a willingness to receive information from every source that might enable the government to frame a statute acceptable to them, that could be enforced.

It is impossible just now to point out what direction this legislation may take; but it is expected that the "five gallon" clause will be expunged, a trial of three years will be given and machinery for carrying it out devised.

The meeting of the Alliance was a very successful one, and the suggestions framed at the meeting were favorably received by the government. Several members of the House of Commons were present and took part in the discussion, among whom were Mr. Dymond, of York, Mr. Ross, of Middlesex, Mr. Goudge, of Hants, Mr. Haddows and others. Mr. Dymond and Mr. Ross were especially active in obtaining an interview with Ministers and in furthering the objects of the Alliance.

ORGANIZING.

A large meeting of the electors of Otonabee, favourable to the present Governments, was held in Otonabee on Tuesday evening last, to take into consideration the advisability of organizing a Township association with committees for each section. After a general routine committees were formed for each section, with the following officers as a Township Association. President, W. Lang, Sr., Vice-President, A. Nelson, Sec.-Treas., J. M. Drummond, Committee for Ward No. 1, Thomas Blesard, H. Moore, W. Nelson, and James Carter. For Ward No. 2, John Millar, D. D. Henderson, Dr. Harrison and W. Hastie. For Ward No. 3, W. Drummond, J. Millar, Thomas Johnston, and D. A. MacFarlane. For Ward No. 4, D. Kennedy, R. Deyell, J. A. Bennett, and J. Matchett. We are glad to notice signs of thorough party organization among the Reformers of this county; and trust that every legitimate means will be taken to fill up the ranks and secure complete unity of action. Not only should associations be formed in each Municipality, with active ward committees, but earnest men should also be appointed delegates to a central body with a view to reconciling in the best possible way the interests of the different parts of the Riding, seeing that none of these be entirely lost sight of. But the chief work of the Township association will be careful attention to the voters' lists, to the end that all honest qualified electors, and no disqualified ones may be enrolled. For the better securing of attention to this important matter we would suggest the engaging of a lawyer to look after the lists who will feel a personal responsibility for any errors that may creep into them. Meetings, too, should be held periodically for the discussion of Reform, and the applicability of Reform principles to different matters that from time to time arise, and for the better understanding and propagation of these principles. In connection with the latter idea, we notice that young men's associations and literary and debating clubs are organized in various places in connection with the Reform party. And we would recommend the formation of several such clubs in the county. The meeting in Otonabee was an exceedingly enthusiastic one, and the beating of the opposition press about a supposed "Conservative reaction" was laughed at and ridiculed by all present.

THE London Advertiser's Ottawa correspondent says: "Such senses as the Opposition roused during the debate would disgrace an assembly of uncivilized savages."

KINGSTON Whig: "We are driven to the conclusion that the great Conservative reaction is rather in a bad way when in the city of Quebec, the Premier of the only Conservative Government in Canada is burnt in effigy by a vast crowd of indignant and excited electors."

SEVERAL of our contemporaries are trying hard to show that alcoholic liquors are good for the insane. Several experts say they are not; but one thing is certain, they are not good for those who are sane. We know cases too in which they have turned sanity into insanity; and others in which the very continuance in their use is the best proof of the madness of the person who drinks them.

DURING a recent meeting in Boston, called for the purpose of relieving the distress of some thousands of "protected" workingmen, one of them said:—"Let us turn over a new leaf; we have been protected long enough, and you all see the result in our mercantile marine being swept off the ocean—in our manufactories being idle and in thousands of men crying out for "bread or work."

We are informed that a couple of the younger Irish societies of Toronto have invited O'Donovan Rossa, the Fenian agitator of the United States, to deliver a lecture in the Provincial capital on the 18th of March, in connection with the St. Patrick's Day celebration. If this be so we think a mistake has been committed; for such a man as Rossa has of late shown himself to be should receive no countenance from any British subject, particularly those of Irish extraction. This Rossa is he who proposes to Destroy British property with dynamite and guncotton, and who in consequence has with grim humour been disignated O'Dynamite Rossa.

SOME ugly developments have been the result of a scrutiny of the affairs of some Montreal insolvents. The state of things brought to light exhibits a rottenness among business men which it would hardly be believed could have existed in any commercial city. Little wonder is it that there have been so many failures in that city. Trade will assume a better aspect when bankers exercise a little prudence and restrain business gamblers from going into dangerous speculations. Some of the banks have been heavy sufferers and the lesson will not be lost upon them for a few years at least.

MR. JAMES NOXON, of Ingersoll, is well known as one of the leading manufacturers of Ontario. At the late Convention in Toronto he told the assembled delegates that his business was prosperous; that manufacturers needed no more protection than they now have by a revenue tariff; and that they are, as a class, doing as well, if not better, in comparison to the money invested, than any others. He also averred that less capital was lost through insolvency by manufacturers than by men in any other line of business, except, perhaps agriculturists. He denounced the 'Protection' cry as a delusion and a snare, and declared his willingness to maintain these views and substantiate them with facts and figures on any platform and against all comers whatsoever. Mr. NOXON, who is as little given to exaggeration as a man can be, was cheered to the echo.

THE following extracts are merely in stances of how ridiculous the disinterested (?) Promoters of inflated railway projects are making Peterborough in the eyes of the outside world:—The last number of the Lindsay Post pokes fun at us thus:—

"The people of Peterborough are at last looking at railway matters in their true light. They are apparently getting over their craze about blacksmith's shops, and they are acknowledging the importance of securing direct rail communication with Lindsay, so as to avail themselves of the numerous advantages of this coming metropolitan emporium."

Extracts follow advocating Lindsay connection, and the Post continues:—

"It affords us some gratification to note the improvements in the public mind of Peterboro', which gives us much pleasure to extend the right hand of fellowship to our neighbor, and to wish it all success in this laudable undertaking. With a direct road to Lindsay, Peterborough can well afford to treat Toronto with scorn, more particularly after rejecting the T. & O. R. Bye-law. If anything more is needed to induce Peterborough to persevere in the advocacy of a direct railway to this city we may mention that as we believe it is a pretty place, it may in the course of a few years become the summer abode of our Lindsay millionaires, who will merely be half an hour distant from their "banking-hours" and palatial warehouses."

Another hit we must acknowledge from a correspondent of the Bobcaygeon Independent who begins his letter in the following satirical strain:—

"The annual strike on the Midland Railway has just taken place. Beautiful state of affairs is it not? Magnificent! You must remember that this is the Mr. Rugel who proposed about a month ago, to make a branch of the Midland R. R. from Peterborough to Bobcaygeon, and the Peterborough people cried 'Hurrah, now is your time, Bobcaygeon!'"

What use is there for us to seriously say these are not fair estimates of Peterborough's position; for have not those who pretend to speak for Peterborough invited such badinage? We must then "acknowledge the corn," and take the banter as goodnaturedly as it is no doubt cast at us. It nevertheless carries a lesson, deeper than on the surface appears.

ONE of the journals of this town displays a suspicious lack of judicial treatment in its references to railway matters; and evinces a tell-tale zeal for the grand junction project. We notice that the views expressed by the Times have a striking similarity to those advanced by the Belleville papers on the same subject; and that these latter copy them as evidences of Peterborough opinion in favour of the Grand Junction Railway. This is far from being the case; for they are rather Belleville views played with, from a position in Peterborough. The fact is, that the people of Peterborough cannot tell what they think of this Belleville connection till its features are fairly placed before them; and this even Mr. Peesy acknowledges has not yet been done. It may be that independent communication with Belleville would be some benefit to Peterborough; but such a thing does not appear to be forward for discussion. The only approach to a proposition lies in a union between the Midland and Grand Junction Companies—a sort of 0+0 arrangement so far as power to prosecute work is concerned. Even were both roads existant under such union, Peterborough would still be forced to such freight rates and traffic arrangements as the combination had to offer. As we have formerly stated all is speculation; and it is well that the papers of this section should no longer make themselves and the locality ridiculous by frantic forecasts on suppositious grounds. As Carlyle (not of the Times) once said, "Let us cease shrieking, and begin considering." Bobcaygeon, Toronto, Ottawa nor anywhere else will be impressed in our favor by visionary vapouring; but will rather be disgusted by such impracticable goings on. In their own interests then our people should avoid an unreasonable discussion of merely paper plans; and discourage an insane agitation over imaginary lines.

THE WAR NEWS.

THE CONDITIONS OF PEACE.

As given by the London Post, the conditions of Peace include the autonomy of Bulgaria, Bosnia, and Herzegovina, the independence of Servia and Roumania, with an accession of territory to each—the latter ceding to Russia the region at the mouth of the Danube; the aggrandizement of Montenegro, the cession of Batoum and the payment of a war indemnity, and an arrangement with the Porte by which the latter will undertake to protect Russian interests in the matter of the passage of the Dardanelles.

EXCITEMENT IN GREECE.

Intense excitement prevails in Greece over the news of the conclusion of peace. Riotous demonstrations in favour of war have been held at Athens, where a crowd of over ten thousand persons broke the windows of the Ministers' residences. The Chamber in secret session, has resolved to support the insurrection in Thessaly and Crete.

THE MAGNANIMOUS CZAR.

A Pera despatch says as a reward for the Porte's ineffectual efforts to keep the British fleet out of the Dardanelles, the Czar has consented that the Russians shall not come nearer Constantinople than San Stefano, but has informed the Porte that he had great difficulty in preventing the Grand Duke Nicholas from marching into Constantinople as a conqueror. The Russians are coming to San Stefano as friends with the Sultan's consent. The Grand Duke Nicholas will probably be invited by the Sultan to enter Stamboul with a military escort. It is expected peace will be signed to-day. The Turks have accepted all the conditions except two, about the immediate surrender of the iron-clads, and the payment to Russia of ten millions of roubles cash, and forty millions sterling in bonds. The Turks have received no invation to be represented at the Congress.

RUSSIA FORCING AN ISSUE.

It is conceded on all hands that if the peace conditions are as last reported they may be taken as showing a resolute determination on Russia's part to force an issue with England. The terms asked can never be wholly granted by Turkey, and if insisted upon European peace is no longer possible.

THE SITUATION IMPROVING.

According to latest despatches the situation in Europe would appear to be considerably improved mainly owing to concessions made by Russia. Advices from London, from Vienna, from Constantinople, and from St. Petersburg, all tend to confirm this view. At the urgent representation of the Porte, the Czar has consented to reduce by one-fifth the amount of the indemnity to be paid by Turkey, and to extend to three years the period for the Mohammedan emigration from Bulgaria. A St. Petersburg correspondent positively states that the intention of occupying Constantinople has been abandoned and that the modus vivendi with England as to using the Straits and the presence of the British squadron in the Sea of Marmora is regarded as satisfactory in Russian official circles. Austrian accounts state that the people of Austria, as opposed to those of Hungary, are in favour of peace at any price; that the general opinion was never so strongly pacific as now, and that on Count Andrassy's authority there is very little chance of the credit vote being used.

THE CONFERENCE.

The Conference preliminaries seem to be as unsettled as ever, as Gortschakoff declares he will not be ready until the 1st of April. It is also stated that some Governments have expressed a desire for separate negotiations in reference to a Conference.

Our Town Council and Mr. Huffman's Billiard Tables.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

No man, with one feeling of honesty and for the well-being of the people, can read the report of the proceedings of our councillors, in reference to the above matter, without intense disgust and indignation. I am surprised beyond measure that Mr. Councillor Ormond should have allowed himself to be the instrument at the hands of Councillors Smith and Cahill, to introduce and to help carry through so improper a measure as that referred to, and I shall be more surprised if he do not ere long regret that step and wish he had never been present to sanction the holding out to our young people inducements to become gamblers and drinkers and the wasting of the long hours of night, amply to put money into Mr. Huffman's pocket. With equal fairness and truth the council might, if they had the power, permitted Mr. Huffman to keep open his bar, for the same reason that it brought into his till more money. The proposition which our councillors have now established is that it is expedient and lawful to place temptations in the way of our citizens, to encourage them to do wrong, to do that which no conscientious person would entertain, simply, and solely to induce them to waste their time and their money in order to benefit and enrich Mr. Huffman, for that was the one object which they had in view when they made it lawful for him to keep open his billiard room until ten o'clock on Saturday nights. I can't believe that our Ministers and heads of families will quietly sit down and allow this infamous resolution to be acted on, and I shall be astonished if they do not forthwith overwhelm the council with petitions demanding the immediate repeal of this most obnoxious resolution—or by-law—for if they do not do so the community will hold them, as well as the council, responsible for all the evils which are soon to flow from this bad measure.

ONE OF THE TEMPTED.

Peterborough Feb. 26th, 1878.

STRANGE VERY!

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—Is it not a strange world we are living in? or more correctly speaking, are there not strange people living in it? At one time they extol a man to the heavens, at another time send him to Tartarus if in their power.

I am creditably informed that a certain gentleman in this village is getting signers to a requisition requesting P. M. Grover, Esq., to be a candidate for the East Riding of Peterboro' for the House of Commons at next Election. Sir, you will say there is nothing odd in this, as that gentleman has successfully contested the Riding twice, and is as likely to be successful as any man his party has in the Riding.

I know of no just cause why that gentleman should not be a candidate, nor do I think it would injure the village of Norwood if that gentleman should receive a thousand dollars a year for the next five years. He might just as well have it as another. They are all alike, tools in the hands of their party.

Now, Mr. Editor, don't you think the Electors of Norwood carry a pretty stiff upper lip, to sign a requisition requesting P. M. Grover Esq., to be a candidate to represent them in Parliament, when they would not honor him with the Reeveship, in their village Council. It comes with a very bad grace from them to call on him to be a candidate under the circumstances. I would advise his friends to change the heading, strike out Norwood and insert Ashburnham if they would have any hope of success in obtaining signatures.

Yours truly,
NORWOOD.

ANOTHER QUESTION.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—In the last issue of the News we see the following question propounded: "What has the Premier or G. W. Ross done for the Temperance cause?" Well, we have not heard of either of them holding a debauch at the Arlington House, Cobourg, neither did we hear of either of them appearing before their constituents beastily drunk at any point throughout Ontario, during the pic-nic season. How was it with the man of clean hands at Colborne and St. Thomas? But then you know it is an evidence of superior loyalty to contribute largely to Her Majesty's revenue, even though you have to get yourself outside a very large quantity of bad whiskey. Of course nobody questions Opposition leaders ability to outdo any man in the Dominion in contributing as above mentioned. We hope the new editor of the News cannot compare for a moment with his great chief in this revenue question. If he can, whiskey will soon grow scarce in Lakefield. But then Mr. Editor, you know the proprietor will not have any whiskey men around. What has the Lakefield News done for the cause of temperance?

TEMPLAR.

DUCK SHOOTING.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—The bill now presented to Parliament by Dr. Mostyn, M. P., proposes to do away with the shooting of all ducks known by the names of Red-heads, Bluebills, and Whistle-wings, &c. Now, sir, I think that is a most absurd idea. They generally reach us very late in the fall, and we have little or no sport; where as in the spring they arrive very early in March, and our spring shooting at ducks is always the best. Another thing they don't breed with us. These are, I think, strong and fair reasons why we should shoot ducks in the spring. The Game Laws of Ontario have been tinkered and tampered with so much by practical hands they seem more mixed up every time they are dealt with. When got about nearly right some grumblers step in with petitions; and the consequence is, the law is again amended to suit the "would-be" sportsmen. The extension of all fall shooting to the 1st September is a step in the right direction. Sportsmen throughout Ontario should call a meeting, discuss these matters thoroughly, and appoint delegates to go to a central convention and there frame rules that will be somewhat agreeable to all, and a sure protection to game; and then present them to Parliament for approval.

Yours &c.,
SPORTSMAN.

OUR MEMBERS.

The following is the letter referred to in our editorial columns:

To the Editor of the Peterborough Review.

SIR,—The Examiner of the 14th instant contains what no doubt it considers a very cleverly written article.

With that nicely balanced sense of delicacy, that innate courtesy and peculiar regard for justice, truth, and purity which invariably characterize the editorial columns of that journal, it leads off in an article couched in a vein of wit and humor so refined as to be worthy of a Swift, a Curran, or a Chesterfield.

The sarcasms are so polished, yet incisive, the irony so complete, the erudition so perfect, and the love for the "Unfortunate Island" and its gallant sons so manifest, so ardent, as to commend it to be ranked as one of the finest efforts in modern English literature and especially flattering to Irishmen. The bristling gem chides the Irish Canadian because it is not satisfied with Mr. Bertram, Mr. Hall, nor Mr. Scott, while it is with Dr. O'Sullivan, who the Examiner leaves out of the trinity, and for whom it reserves its ill-concealed sneers. How stupid of this Irish Canadian not to perceive the superior abilities and merits of Messrs. Bertram and Hall over Dr. O'Sullivan!

I am not especially enamoured of Dr. O'Sullivan's political course, nor do I approve of the motives, manner, or circumstances under which he became a candidate and got elected; but I fail to see, and assuredly the public will fail to see, wherein Messrs. Bertram and Hall would suffer by comparison with the Doctor's course, political or otherwise, except in that his name and origin differ from their's—an accident which he can't help and would not perhaps if he could.

No doubt it is a crime to hail from the "Unfortunate Island," but it is one over which "Unfortunates" have no control.

The EXAMINER is, or sometimes says it is, Canadian Irish, but I doubt if there are many who will credit it with the latter quality. It has not the Irish ring about it, nor indeed has it the English ring—the metal is of the pot kind. It tries "blarney" to us Irish, but it can't come it, that game is played out. It can't come the "square" on the Englishman.

What, I ask, has Mr. Bertram said or done to promote the public interests, now going on his fifth session in Parliament, that it would be an "insult" to contrast his services or abilities with Dr. O'Sullivan's? Knowing ones say that he has done something to promote other interests, and the writer for one has little doubt of it. Mr. Hall has sat as a mute in the House, but not as an idle or disinterested member nevertheless. Both gentlemen get $1,000 each to compensate them for two or three months devotion to patriotism and love of country.

By the end of the present session they will have received out of our depleted exchequer, for their sacrifices and services to the country, the nice little sum of $10,000.

True, Mr. Scott and Dr. O'Sullivan also voted for the "Salary Grab" in their House, but who will blame them in this era of patriotism and parity to mind "Number One."

But outside this paltry consideration, Mr. Scott has been often heard from. He has made for himself a prominent mark in the Legislature of the Province, and done great credit to Peterborough and service to the country.

Dr. O'Sullivan is a modest man, but he is not a "mute," and although possessing one man's share of what some people call vanity, he is not quite eaten up with that commodity.

The Examiner has deemed it prudent to associate with our Dominion M. P's. the name of Mr. Scott, so that Dr. O'Sullivan might be hit at alone, but for all that after putting Messrs. Bertram and Hall into good company and out of it, with the bit of smack and polish that a little rubbing always imparts to the dullest bodies, it indulges in its own way in a fling at the President of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway, and appropriates to his special benefit much of its invaluable space. Of course the Peterborough public are not surprised at this attack on the worthy President of the road. It is no secret that a certain influence had been all along actively employed to thwart the undertaking which he so ably worked up, for the benefit of this back country and largely to the advantage of our town and county.

But the people will appreciate these tactics at their true value, and accord to Mr. Scott much praise for his efforts to promote the employment of our poor struggling mechanics and laborers, as well as the agricultural and commercial interests of the whole people.

Such tactics will not bamboozle the English or Irish Canadians. Their eyes have been widely opened. They now see and understand their representative position in the councils of their country. They are alive to the spirit of fair play, alive to their own interests and self-respect, and they will assert their opprobrium of them when the time for action comes.

Yours, &c.,
AN ENGLISHMAN.

FRESHET IN PORT HOPE.

The most extensive freshet ever known in Port Hope took place last Friday, resulting in the destruction of thousands of dollars worth of property, and in the drowning of two children. Part of the track of the Midland Railway was washed away. The railway bridge over Smith's creek is gone, and three or four other bridges, the property of the town. The barns of one of the hotels, and several dwelling houses, have been destroyed. The greatest excitement prevails. Hundreds were on the streets witnessing the grand sight. The express office and old post office were three or four feet under water. Several store windows were broken by the ice. Hundreds of tons of it are blocking up the streets.

LINDSAY.

CURLING.—The members of the Lindsay Curling Club have during the past week been playing points for a silver medal to be awarded to the person making the greatest score. Mr. G. H. Bertram has presented the Club with a handsome cup which will be the prize for the second highest score. The play has so far been very good and the match will be decided, it is expected, before our next issue.

ACCIDENT.—On Monday last as Dr. Kemp's was standing on William street near Carr's hotel, a team attached to a waggon came along at a furious rate, and before he could get out of the way, was knocked down, one of the wheels passing over him doing him however but little damage. His escape from serious injury was a miraculous one.—Warder.

ASTONISHING SUCCESS.—It is the duty of every person who has used BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 40,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SYRUP cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by J. D. Tully & Co. The Truant Skater.—

He sees the woodpile—sees the door ;
"There's fun without," he mutters ;

There comes a pause—then frantic yells ;

St. Patrick's Society.—We have been requested to state that at a meeting of Irishmen held at the Calme House, on the 22nd instant, it was decided in consequence of the unavoidable absence from the meeting of some of the leading Irishmen, to postpone the consideration of organising a St. Patrick's Society until Friday, 1st March, at seven o'clock at the same House. A full attendance, at the same hour and place, is requested.

A deputation will attend each meeting.

Musical Society Concert.—The Musical Society were again unfortunate in the selection of an evening for their concert, the weather on Thursday being very unpropitious, and in consequence the attendance was not as large as expected. Those present, however, had no reason to regret their attendance, as the programme was very efficiently rendered, and the several pieces well executed. Owing to the continued unfavourable weather the second concert did not take place.

Special Services.—A very interesting series of Special Services have been conducted by Rev. Messrs. Willoughby and Watson, in the Lecture Room of George St. Methodist Church for some time past. The services consist of addresses by the Pastors, and prayer and praise. The spacious room is well filled each evening, by a very attentive congregation. A large number, chiefly young men and young women, have evinced a determination to serve Christ. As the interest is constantly increasing it is probable the services may continue for some time yet.

A Sign of the "Times.—The following paragraph appears in the last number of the Montreal Journal of Commerce :—Messrs. W. H. Life of St. Paul.—The Rev. D. Malbern lectured last week in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, Port Hope, on the above subject. The Guide says : "He described most eloquently the life and usefulness of the greatest and most learned of the apostles, picturing him as the obscure Jewish school boy ; as persecutor of the Christians ; at his conversion, and his subsequent zeal in the Christian work. He described Paul's trials, and particularly his defence before Felix, as the most eloquent ever made. A vote of thanks was cordially tendered to the lecturer, and the meeting dispersed after the pronunciation of the benediction.

Paying Up.—The "notices to pay up" in our advertising columns show that our business men are determined to have payment of accounts—many no doubt long overdue. In this they are perfectly right. The time has come by for mistaken lenience, and every body, who owes should make it a rule to pay—and pay promptly. It helps both a dunn, and helps to insure payments of a small sum—an absurd and unnecessary disturbance which is becoming a positive nuisance. Credits are being greatly restricted —and this policy on the part of our business men has become absolutely necessary, otherwise they would have to close up their stores. Those who have adopted the cash system are gratified with the results.

An Explanation.—Owing to a paragraph in Mr. W. Hobson's communication in last week's issue having been mistaken by the compositor, we are requested by Mr. Hobson to state that at the time of the conversation referred to in the Commercial House, he had not heard of the false statement being in circulation, neither does he remember acknowledging that he was "fairly and honorably defeated." Neither can he see why he should have made Mr. Collins his confessor. With regard to the friendship spoken of, Mr. Robson states that because the electors chose Mr. Collins in preference to him, he cannot see why he should harbour ill feelings against him on that account. He believes in living in peace with all men, but cannot submit to having falsehoods circulated about him to his injury, in order that another man may gain thereby.

Fowlsmouth.—We clip the following from the Cobourg World's report of the meeting of the Central Exhibition Committee :—

Mr. Wilmot gave notice that at the next annual meeting he would move that the exhibition of 1879 be held at Bowmanville, which was objected to by Mr. Carnegie, on the ground that exhibitions should be held alternately at the front, and in Lindsay and Peterborough in particularly at Peterborough. We like to see a man stick up for his own locality, and therefore side with Mr. Carnegie, and beg to move that for the future the annual exhibition be held five times a year in Peterborough, and that Mr. Carnegie be made permanent President, Secy.-Treas., and Executive Committee, and then he will be able to run the machine (into the ground) as he is now endeavoring to do. The fact is somebody must be "beat," and the rest of the officials of the Association feel their own usefulness, in the presence of so efficient a being, to such an extent that they have almost come to the conclusion that it is useless expense having those large meetings of delegates, while Mr. Carnegie is so well able to do all the business himself.

Cavanvell Lodge Entertainments.—The musical and dramatic entertainment under the auspices of the members of Cavanvell Lodge, I. O. G. T., came of on Wednesday evening of last week. The audience was large considering the number of entertainments during the week, as well as the Rev. Dr. Cochrane's lecture in St. Paul's Church the same evening. The piano solo of Miss Thompson, of Toronto, and the singing of Miss Katie Martin, of Peterborough, and Messrs. G. H. Thompson, of Oshawa, and N. Lapoint, of Peterborough, was received with applause. Mr. Jim Ormond in his comic songs brought down the house with laughter, and was repeatedly encored. The acting in the drama, which comprised the second part of the programme, was very well done, for amateurs, especially as the piece was but a short time in preparation, and on the whole very creditable rendered. At a meeting of the Lodge, held on Thursday evening, the following resolution was passed unanimously :—

Resolved :—That the thanks of this Lodge are due and hereby tendered to Miss Katie Martin, Miss Hattie Thompson and Miss Ormond, and Messrs. J. Ormond, N. Lapointe, and G. H. Thompson for their valuable services rendered in connection with our late entertainment. We also desire to express our thanks to Mr. and Mrs. John Moloney for use of piano.

Strike on the Midland.—The employees of the Midland Railway indulged last week in one of those costly luxuries which is termed a "strike." It was not for higher wages, but for back pay. They gave the railway authorities warning a few days before, that unless paid up in whole or in part this would occur—but either through inability to pay or some other cause, the money was not forthcoming on Monday, 18th, as required, and to the great injury of the men, the public, and to the Road, they were compelled to strike in order to secure a portion of the money due them from two to four months, we understand. About 200 to 300 of the men got to Port Hope and remained there for about six days, but behaved themselves well, not a single row or disturbance being heard of during the time. Mr. Hugel managed to get the Ontario Government to give $30,000 on the work on the extension, and this was divided among the workmen along the whole road in a fixed proportion by agreement. The Ontario Government had promised $6,000 a mile toward the construction of what is known as the extension from Waubashence to Midland. About seven miles of this distance is completed, and the remaining distance of about six miles graded or nearly so. If the road had been completed to Midland the Government would have had to pay thereto $36,000 or thereabouts. But the Mowat Government thought it best to pay now, when so much needed by the laborers, in proportion to the amount already constructed—although it might have been withheld until the whole of the extension should be constructed. By taking this generous view of the necessities of the labouring men the strike has been brought to an end. The men have got a large part of the back pay, and the road has been enabled to resume regular trains. The inconvenience to the commercial interests of the places along the line has also been removed, and this was no small matter, as no fixed arrangements were made for travellers or for bringing in freight. This strike should lead to a wiser management of the road and to a more careful consideration to meet the running expenses of the part already completed, and to this end it is now understood that the earnings of the road will go for some time to pay the wages of the employees, which, if carried out, will prevent the inconvenience of another strike for a long time.

LITERARY NOTICES.

MUSKOKA HERALD.—A new Conservative paper is to be started at Bracebridge. It is to be published by F. T. Graffe, late of the Lakefield News, and H. Ostan. No doubt they will receive a liberal support.

NEW DOMINION MONTHLY.—The February number of this well published serial has been received. The number before us contains, in addition to much interesting reading, an excellent likeness of Victor Emmanuel, the late King of Italy, and also a number of other illustrations all equally good. The tale, "Life in Glenshie" by the author of "My Young Master" begins in this number of the "Dominion." The descriptive power of the author is very great, and the opening chapters of her new work are a fair evidence that it will not be behind any of her other tales in interest, and the faithfulness with which life scenes are painted.

BELFORD'S MONTHLY.—The February number of this interesting magazine has been duly received. Among its numerous contents we find further instalments of "Roxy"; another contribution from Dr. Canniff with the same title "Fragments of the War of 1812" ; "The River in the Desert" by J. G. Bourinot ; "Aunt Cindy's Dinner" by Sarah Winter ; "Down the Rhine," the first paper of which profusely illustrated appears in this number, to judge by which the subsequent papers must prove highly interesting. A number of other short and amusing stories make up a capital number.

BRITISH QUARTERLY REVIEW.—This magazine for January contains a number of readable articles for all classes of the community. The student of social life will be interested in "The Milado's Empire" and "The Americans in Turkey." The political economist will enjoy the articles on "Labor and Capital," and "Savings Banks ;" the theologian, especially if he be of the Congregational or Independent type, will read with pleasure the essays on "Professor Henry Rogers" and on "Comprehension ;" while of a lighter, but not less interesting nature, are the description of "Precious Stones" and the sketch on "Parody and Paradigm." In addition to the larger articles is the usual number of short reviews of the latest publications.

THE SECOND ADVENT.

A Sermon by the Rev. R. F. Torrance Pastor of St. Pauls Church.

On Sunday evening the pastor of St. Paul's, the Rev. Mr. Torrance commenced a series of sermons on this important subject of which the following is a synopsis of the first discourse. He commenced the services by reading the first and second chapter of second Thessalonians and took for his text the 16th verse of the 22nd Chapter of the Book of Revelations, viz :—

"He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus."

He said :—I trust that it is quite unnecessary to offer any apology for the subject which I am to bring under your notice to night. To no more momentous subject could our attention be directed than the subject of the Second Advent —a subject which is continually referred to both in the Old and in the New Testaments. It has been remarked that in the prophecies of the Old Testament reference is made more frequently to the Second Advent than to the first, and that one out of thirty of all the verses in the New Testament has reference to it. If any apology be necessary, it ought rather to be that we have not before spoken on a subject occupying so prominent position in the Word of God. Perhaps the reason why the pulpit is so silent upon the Second Advent, is the supposition that it is so much involved in obscurity that we cannot arrive at correct views concerning it ; but we have in reality the same means for arriving at correct views regarding this, as regarding any of the other doctrines of the Word of God. It is true that the most devoted and most learned of the teachers of the Christian Church have differed in their opinion as to the teaching of Scripture upon

THE SUBJECT OF THE SECOND ADVENT ;

But it is equally true that they have differed in their opinion as to its teaching upon other subjects. It is not a little singular that the subject of prophecy which we are disposed to look upon as forbidden ground, is a subject to which our attention is especially called in Scripture and that the Book of Revelations which we are disposed to look upon as most obscure, is the very book upon the reading of which a blessing is pronounced. Peter says, "We have also a more true word of prophecy ; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed as unto a light that shineth in a dark place until the day dawn and the day star arise in your hearts." John says at the beginning of the apocalypse. "Blessed is he that readeth and they that hear the words of this prophecy and keep these things which are written therein, for the time is at hand."

THE GREAT SUBJECT OF CONTROVERSY ;

With respect to the second advent in its relation to the millennium, whether it will precede or follow the thousand years of blessedness which is to be enjoyed by our world. It may be regarded as the prevalent notion that the world is gradually to grow better under the agencies which are now at work until the thousand years of blessedness begins, during which the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea. Then at the close of the thousand years it is held that there is to be a brief apostacy after which Christ is to come and to set up the Judgment throne when the wicked shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into life eternal. On the other hand it is held by a large number of the most earnest students of prophecy that there will be no Millennium until Christ comes, in fact that the thousand years of blessedness is to be ushered in by his second advent. I have only to mention such names as those of Bonar, Saphir, Hall, Spurgeon, Richerseth and Alford, to prove that such are the views of men whose opinions are worthy of a careful attention. But it is my purpose to support these views to-night not because they are held by these men whose names I have mentioned, but because I believe them to be in accordance with the teaching of the word of God. I will now seek to show from Scripture that the second advent of our Lord must be before the millennium and that it is the great event to which we must look forward and for which we must be in constant readiness.

1. It is nowhere asserted in Scripture that the world is to be converted by the agencies which are now at work. Those who hold post-millennarian views are very fond of quoting passages from the Old Testament prophets, descriptive of the millennium ; but none of these passages contain the least hint that it is to be brought about by the preaching of the Gospel. So far from stating this they state distinctly that this time of unparalleled blessing is to be preceded by one of unparalleled judgement. In the 25th chapter of Isaiah we have a glowing description of the millennium when the Lord of hosts shall upon Mount Zion make unto all people a feast of fat things ; but in the 24th chapter we have a description of great judgements to be inflicted before them. The chapter begins with the fearful declaration—"Behold the Lord maketh the earth empty and maketh it waste and turneth it upside down and scattereth abroad the inhabitants thereof," and it continues in the same strain throughout until the 26th begins with the dawn of millennial peace. In the 26th chap. too, we have a glowing description of the millennium, when "the wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose ; but in the 24th chapter we have a description of great judgements which must first be inflicted upon the earth. It is said there "For the indignation of the Lord is upon all nations, and His fury upon all their armies ; He hath utterly destroyed them ; He hath delivered them to the slaughter." . . . "And all the host of heaven shall be dissolved, and the heavens shall be rolled together as a scroll and all their host shall fall down as the leaf falleth off from the vine, and as a falling fig from the fig tree." These passages which I have quoted from Isaiah are only a few out of many in the Old Testament prophecies, which plainly indicate that,

THE TIME OF BLESSEDNESS IS TO BE PRCEDED BY ONE OF JUDGEMENT.

But if there are no passages in Scripture which state that the world is to be converted by the agencies which are now at work, there are two passages which state very plainly what these agencies are designed to accomplish. In the 16th verse of the 28th chapter of Matthew, our Lord says, "And this gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations ; and then shall the end come." And James in his speech at the council in Jerusalem, reported in the 15th chapter of Acts says. "Men and brethern hearken unto me ; Simeon hath declared how God at the first did visit the Gentiles to take out of them a people for his name." What can be plainer than the statement contained in these two verses as to what the agencies now at work are to accomplish in the world. If they were designed to bring about the conversion of the world—how strange that nothing should be said about it in either of these verses. The gospel is to be preached for a witness unto all nations, and while to some it will be the Savour of life unto life, to others it will be the Savour of death unto death. Some will receive the testimony that God hath given to them eternal life, and that this life is in his son ; while others will reject that testimony to their own condemnation. Our own experience coincides with the teaching of Scripture in proving that by the preaching of the gospel, the world is not being converted, but that a people are being gathered out for God's name. And when this people shall be gathered out—when the number of the elect shall be accomplished—when the church which is to be presented as a chaste virgin to Christ shall be complete—then shall he come the second time to this world.

2. The pictures which are presented to us in Scripture as to the conditions of the world at the time of Christ's second coming, prove that the world cannot be converted before that time.

Our attention was lately called to the parable of the tares and the wheat, in which we saw a picture of the visible church until the time of Christ's coming at the end of the age. If good and evil are to grow up together in the church until Christ comes—much more will the evil continue increasing in the world. But we can select only a few passages from a large number in the New Testament to show that the tares will go on multiplying and that evil will go on increasing until the time of the Second Advent. In the 24th chapter of Matthew our Lord says, "But as the days of Noah were so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, . . . so shall also the coming of the son of man be." I am quite prepared to admit that the chief point in the comparison here is between the suddenness of the flood and that of the second coming of Christ ; but there is certainly a comparison between the state of the world then and its state when Christ shall come. Then in the 6th chapter of 1st Timothy we have

A DESCRIPTION OF THE STATE OF THINGS IN THE LATTER TIMES.

"Now the Spirit speaketh expressly that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils, etc," and in the 3rd chapter of 2nd Timothy we have another description. This know also that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy." In the first Epistle to the Thessalonians, we are told that when they shall say, peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them as travail upon a woman with child and they shall not escape." But there is a passage in the 3rd chapter of 2nd Thess., which is even more convincing upon the point before us than any of those which have been mentioned. The apostle here tells us that before the advent there was to be an apostacy but that this apostacy had already begun and Jewish calculists in the time o sin when the Lord would consume with the spirit of his mouth and destroy with the brightness of his coming. From this it is evident that the destruction of the man of sin and the coming of the Lord must be simultaneous for He comes in order to destroy him. There is only one way of avoiding the strong evidence which this passage furnishes of the premillennial advent and that is by asserting that the coming of the Lord here referred to does not necessarily apply to his coming in person. But it is very remarkable that the terms which have not forth, the coming of the Lord are the very strongest which could be used literally meaning the epiphany of his presence. From all these passages it seems to me quite conclusive that evil is to prevail in the world until the time of Christs return, and that before then there can be no millennium. Hence we observe that the Gospels and the Epistles which refer expressly to the present dispensation make no mention of the millennium save in one passage which describes the reward of Christ's faithful followers.

3. The exhortations to watch for the Lord's return would be without any force if a thousand years were necessarily interposed before it. The New Testament contains a great many exhortations to wait and to watch for the second coming of the Lord at the end of the parable of the ten virgins. Our Lord says, " watch therefore, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh." In another place he says, "Let your Loins be girded about and your lights burning. . . . . Blessed are those servants whom the Lord when he cometh shall find watching &c," and in yet another he says, "Behold I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth and keepeth his garments lest he walk naked and they see his shame." The apostle too continually speaketof the second coming as the strongest reason for continual watchfulness. He says, "Yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night. . . . . Therefore let us not sleep as do others but let us watch and be sober." And Peter says, "But the end of all things is at hand, be ye therefore sober and watch unto prayer," Now I ask of what force could such exhortations as these have been if it was understood that a thousand years of blessedness must intervene before the Lord's return ? How could they possibly watch for that which they knew could not take place for many years after their death ? Some will tell us that we may die at any time and that this is virtually the same thing. But such an answer is far from being to the purpose for the New Testament most clearly distinguishes between the coming of Christ and death. To interpret these passages in this way is to adopt a system of interpretation which would explain away the meaning of the simplest declarations of the Word of God. These arguments appear to me to be conclusive in favour of the premillennium advent. And not only do I believe the doctrine to be in accordance with Scripture, but I believe it to exercise a most powerful influence upon the life and conversation of the believer. Nothing will tend so much to wean him from the world and to draw his affections to those things which are above.

EAST PETERBOROUGH AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The Directors' Annual Report.

The following is the report of the Directors of the East Riding of Peterborough Agricultural Society :—

Your Directors beg leave to present their annual report, and to congratulate the Society on the measure of success which has continued to attend it.

In taking, as is customary, a retrospective view of the harvest during the past year, we are pleased to state that it has been a fair average. Very little breath of fall wheat was sown : the sample, however, was very fine, and yield good. With the showery weather which prevailed early in the season, oats and spring wheat promised to be a large crop, but the subsequent drouth which set in during mid-summer disappointed to some extent the hopes then formed. Still the yield of these to the bulk of straw was good. Pease were not quite an average, and Barley suffered in color through the frequent showers which fell during its harvesting.

Turnips did not get a good start and did not yield largely to the acre. Potatoes were excellent in quantity, though perhaps somewhat below the average in quantity to the breadth planted.

Hay has been light. Clover was a little in advance of some former seasons, but the difficulty of getting a good catch in the spring is still the subject of as much complaint as ever—many of our farmers despounding of ever being successful.

The Fall Exhibition of the Society, in conjunction with that of the townships of Dummer and Douro Society, was held in Warsaw on the 13th of October. The attendance was very good. The entries numbered 4,911, and the amount paid in premiums was considerably in excess of any former year.

Your Directors offered a special premium for the best sample of Red River wheat grown from the seed imported by some of the Township Societies, but no entries were made. Other Societies report the same result. This fact coupled with opinions obtained from several who have tested it, leads us to conclude that it will prove no acquisition to our present list of popular varieties.

The samples of spring and white fall wheat exhibited were very superior. Oats and Pease were also good.

Considering the season, the root crops were very fine, and seldom have we seen a greater collection of Potatoes than were shown.

The receipts for admission amounted to $96.84. Your Directors held no ploughing match during the past year.

The advantage which would accrue to the Society by having some central and permanent place for holding the Annual Fair is yearly becoming more apparent, and we have no doubt, from the intimation given at last annual meeting, will now receive your favorable consideration.

The Auditors' and Treasurer's financial statement is now before you, and it is gratifying to report that our position financially is very satisfactory.

REMEMBER THIS.—Now is the time of year for Pneumonia, Lung Fever, Coughs, and fatal results of predisposition to Consumption and other Throat and Lung Diseases. BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP has been used in this neighborhood for the past two or three years without a single failure to cure. If you have not used this medicine yourself, go to your Druggist, J. D. Tully & Co., and ask them of its wonderful success among his customers. Three doses will relieve the worst case. If you have no faith in any medicine, just buy a Sample Bottle of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP (for 10 cents) and try it. Regular size bottle $1 00 cents. Don't neglect a cough to save 75 cents.

THE NEW POPE.

Sketch of his Life.

Cardinal Joachim Pecci was born at Carpenetto in the Diocese of Anagni, on March 2, 1810. His age, is, therefore, sixty-eight years. After passing through the usual educational course he was ordained priest, and through his tact and diplomacy, was soon marked out as a candidate for promotion. He was at last created Archbishop of Perugia, with the added office of a Papal Chamberlain. His promotion to the Cardinalate dates from December 19, 1853, though he had been recommended for the purple by the Protestant King of the Belgians, Lepold, to whose Court he had been sent as Nuncio by Gregory XVI. In this capacity he gave the utmost satisfaction to the King by his moderation and the skill with which he reconciled the Belgians to a non-Roman Catholic ruler. Gregory, however, died before the appointment was made, and, as Pecci had had the honor of winning the hatred of Cardinal Antonelli, the v

WILLIAM LYON MACKENZIE.

His doings cried not out—it sight,
Tho' he has passed away;
Who did for true Reform fight
That we enjoy to-day.

Who 'gainst the tyranny of his day
Then ruling in the land,
Did all that ever in him lay
The people's rights defend.

Providence seem'd him to upraise
For the Reform cause,
And lengthen out on earth his days,
When needed were good laws.

Because he spoke the truth out-free.
He paused through anger a storm:
A rebel he was said to be,
When pleading for Reform.

'Gainst him the Tories showed their spite,
Would him for treason tried,
And only sweet his life by flight,
Or by them world have died.

How money from the treasury went
Unjustly, he could trace,
And often times in Parliament
Accused them to their face.

Of lying, fraud, and robbery,
Did let playgrubbig see
That family compact jobbery
Was nought but robbery.

Now, of Reform let strange to say,
We've got more, so to speak,
Than Lyon Mackenzie in his day
Did for the people seek.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Apple Orchards.—There are very few apple orchards, either in poor soils at the East, or on the rich lands of the west, that are not benefited by cultivation or by manure, and in some soils both are necessary. In young orchards, it is better and cheaper to rely chiefly on cultivation, in old bearing orchards, top dressing with manure has given satisfactory results, the manure apparently promoting the growth of fruit, and increasing productiveness to a greater degree than mere stirring of the soil. This has been found out by farmers who make the most money from their old orchards.

Horses Feet.—Some horses have naturally weak feet, thin heels and brittle walls, with a tendency in them to split up into layers where the nails are driven. These will be greatly relieved if the feet are occasionally put into a good wet bran poultice over night, taken out in the morning, carefully washed, and as soon as they become thoroughly dry, covered with a mixture something like the following: Take equal parts of castor oil, mutton suet and Barbadoes tar; melt them together over a slow fire, and when cold apply over the whole hoof three or four times a week.

How to Treat a Horse.—When a horse stumbles never raise your voice—the creature dreads its master's chiding; never jog the reins—the mouth of the horse is far more sensitive than the human lips; never use the lash, the horse is so timid that the slightest correction overpowers its reasoning faculties. Speak to the creature; re-assure the palpitating frame; seek to restore those perceptions which will form the best ground against a repetition of the faculty action.

Feed for Sheep.—Peas and beans, corresponding more with the elements of fat than the various grains, are better adapted to the production of wool than either wheat, corn, rye, barley, oats or buckwheat. These latter, together with the rutabaga turnip, being peculiarly adapted to the production of fat, should be used mostly for the feed of sheep when undergoing the process of fattening.

American Meat.—Lord Yarmouth, who sits in Parliament for South Warickshire, will at the next session support a bill making it imperative for all foreign cattle to be slaughtered at the port of debarkation. He thinks the Government ought to introduce such a measure to protect the English farmers, who are beginning to feel American competition in the meat trade.

Packing Eggs for Shipment.—It is only through careless packing that eggs get spoiled for hatching during carriage. They must be packed so that there will be no jarring. A good way is to have a box made of half or three-quarter inch pine, of such a size that the eggs can be packed, leaving at least an inch space around them. Then wrap up the egg in soft paper, leaving a good-sized bunch of paper at the end. Pack the egg in oat chaff or some substance that will not shift and let the egg touch the side of the box. Bran is frequently recommended, but it has the objection that it shifts, and the egg is thus jarred and killed. Fine, uncut hay is a good thing for packing. The top of the box should be screwed, not nailed, on.—Toronto Globe.

Charcoal for Pigs.—Wood ashes with the bits of charcoal in them, and coal ashes, too, are excellent for the fattening of pigs. Pigs cannot stuff themselves, week after week, without their stomachs getting out of order, and the bits of charcoal check acidity and regulate them, and help to improve their appetites. We think our pigs cannot get along without the little bits of ashes in one corner to root over and pick the charcoal out of. It is their dispensary.

How to Make a Hot-Bed.—As it will soon be time to make hot-beds for early cabbage and tomatoes, I will give some of my experience in the last ten years. Any one not experienced might think a very easy thing to make a hot-bed, but he will find after he has been in the business for years, he will sometimes fail. It requires a great deal more care and attention for early beds than those later in the season. The first thing is to select a warm, sheltered spot on the south side of some building, and it should be protected from the cold west winds. After levelling the ground, haul your fresh horse manure (there should be considerable straw mixed with it), and put in a pile, off to one side, where you want the bed. In hauling be careful to have it well shaken apart, so there will be no lumps in it. After this has lain from one to three days, according to the state of the manure when hauled and the weather, commence and shake the manure evenly over the place prepared for the bed, till the manure is not less than twenty or twenty-four inches thick. It should extend eighteen inches beyond the frame on every side. Before putting on the frame, take a wide board, and begin on one side and go over the bed, laying the board on and pressing down by walking on it. This will keep the surface level. If the weather is cool, the manure should be covered as quickly as possible with earth. Common garden soil will be the best for the first two or three inches on the manure, as it will hold the water better than soil from the woods, but the top should always be light soil from the woods, and rotted logs. It will not pack or bake after watering. The dirt should not be less than seven or eight inches deep; this will give the plants a good bed to make roots before reaching the manure. As soon as the dirt is on and levelled, put your sash on and cover up tight with boards or straw; then bank up your bed to the top of the frame with manure, and let it remain covered up for thirty-six or thirty-eight hours. This will give the bed time to cool off from the first heat, and also any weed seed to germinate that may be in the dirt. Before sowing your seed, rake the bed, and pulverise all the clods; then mark out in rows, north and south, not six inches apart; scatter in about five or six to the inch; water and cover up again, and leave till the plants begin to come up, which will be in from two days to a week, owing to the heat of your bed.

Bee Keepers' Association.—Last week the North Eastern Bee Keepers Association convened in its Eighth Annual Convention, at Syracuse. It comprises New York State and New England in territory. The discussions demonstrated that grape sugar was an entire failure as winter food for bees; they thrive under it for only thirty days, whereas dry lump sugar serves them for three months; that there was no method to promote breeding by May 25th, and early breeding was injurious; make the bees strong in September, from the 5th to the 15th of May; have the brood nests by these dates; limit the bees in early spring to as few combs as they will occupy.

OUR CLIPPERS BUDGET.

Interesting Paragraphs culled from our Contemporaries.

Joseph Perry, of Worcester, Mass., raised 1066 bushels of potatoes last year on eight acres, using barn-yard manure.

When an implement is no longer wanted for the season, lay it carefully aside, but let it be first well cleaned.

More than half of the farmers' sons who seek a livelihood in the cities, go to a busy calling and harder labor than they would submit to on the farm. Our Sempsons are blinded and are compelled to grind in the prison house of Gaza.'

Oshawa talks of being incorporated as a town. Villages grow into towns under the present tariff and a Reform Government.

The Grand River Banner says that a milling firm there, who run two large mills, shipped last week twenty-two car loads of flour to Glasgow, Scotland, and intend to make a 'big push' in the Old Country market.

One of the first and most important results of the purchase just concluded by St. Paul and Canadian capitalists of the St. Paul and Pacific Railway will be the completion of the line from St. Paul to Pembina branch of the Canada Pacific Railway. The work will be performed during the coming summer.

That 'Garden of the West,' 'Land of Progress,' 'Banner State' of Iowa, is considering in its Legislature a Bill, making it a penal offence, for white and coloured persons to intermarry and sentencing the perpetrators of such hideous crime to fines of from one to ten thousand dollars and imprisonment for from one to ten years. Verily this is an age of progress and liberty!

It is a remarkable coincidence that the decades of 1798, 1808, 1818, 1828, 1838, 1848, 1858, 1868, and 1878, should be productive of mild winters, which fact renders it possible that some system exists which astronomers have not studied up.

The Roman Catholic prelates in England exhibit in their addresses and sermons great apprehension of infidelity and indifference. In his last pastoral letter the Bishop of Birmingham says: 'The old Catholic traditions remaining in the country are fast dying out, and what is the result? Free thinking, disbelief in Christianity, and open infidelity. . . . The most depraved system of Atheism invented by the most corrupt imaginations of Germany and France have found their spoonors in England!'

The entire Bible has been newly translated into the Russian language under the direction of the Holy Synod, and of this version, which the British and Foreign Bible Society is now printing, some seventy thousand copies have already been distributed, chiefly by sale, among the Russian soldiers now in the field, Is it too much to hope that in hearts stirred, as they must be by the present commotion, the word may find an improved soil for fruitfulness, and that great spiritual blessings may thence soon spring up for the whole Russian people? Ex.

Costly Amusement.—A Glasgow doctor, with a little too much liquor on board, took a rather novel mode of amusing himself. He one evening lately procured a ball of twine and fastened one end to the door bell where some young ladies resided. He then retired a sort distance and pulled the string violently, bringing the ladies several times to the door to look out into the darkness. A policeman observed the trick and took the M.D. to the station, where, on getting sober, although he promised reformation, he was condemned to sixty days' imprisonment without option of a fine.

A Lucky Rascheal.—The day before the late Parliamentary election in Greenock, Mr. James Stewart, one of the candidates, was passing through the toll-bar of Skelmorlie, an old woman residing in that locality, who was acquainted with Mr. Stewart from boyhood came out of her cottage and calling Mr. Stewart to her pulled off her slipper and struck the aspirant for Parliament very heavily three strokes on the shoulder with it, saying at the same time, 'I hinna got a vote for ye, Mr. Jeems, but my bauchle is soled wi'lucky leather, an' if ye dinna be an M. P. afore ye sleep the morn' nicht, its a gey queer thing tae me.' The election resulted favorably to Mr. Stewart, who afterwards thanked the old woman for her good wishes.

Maine, the pioneer in the suppression of the liquor traffic, in considering the propriety of increasing the severity of the penalties under its prohibitory laws. A Bill now before the Legislature punishes the first sale or liquor by a fine of $100 and six months in gaol. For a second offence the same fine is imposed and the term of imprisonment doubled. The bringing in of liquor from outside the State is forbidden; commercial travellers selling liquor are to be fined $1,000 and make liable to a year's imprisonment; and drunkards punished with a year in gaol unless they tell where they obtained their liquor.

Temple Bar has disappeared, with the exception of the southern arch, which serves as a buttress to Child's Bank. The statues have been conveyed to the Guildhall, and the stones are stacked away in Farringdon-road. Eight of the old City gates were removed in 1760, Temple-bar alone being spared.

Baltimore being now convinced that it cannot produce Charlie Ross, has turned its attention to lighting its street lamps by electricity. A system is offered which will cost $50 per lamp. The inventor claims that he can save $17,000 a year to the city by lighting and putting out the lamps at the right time and causing no waste in gas. The whole saving, allowing six per cent. interest on the first cost of the apparatus, will be $23,000 a year, which is quite a little item, even on a gas bill.

Not long ago a French girl named Benoit, living on the west coast of Newfoundland, told a story of the murder of seven shipwrecked sailors by her father and his two brothers, the result being that a man-of-war was sent up the coast, and the men were arrested. They have now been discharged, as there is not even evidence that Capt. Ridout and his party were killed. It is suggested that many of the wild stories of murder and wrecking on that lonely coast are baseless fabrications, morbid inventions of credulous and ignorant settlers.—Ex.

How to Visit the Paris Exposition.—A writer in the Chicago Tribune gives the following advice to those intending to visit the Paris Exposition: Leave all your best clothes at home, they will be useless to you. Take plenty of warm, rough clothing to wear on the steamship. Your watch, starched linen and fine hat had better remain packed. Upon landing go to some inland English town—say Manchester, Exeter or Nottingham—and arrange to stay a week or so, during which time get a 'travelling suit' made, and buy underwear, &c., complete. Demand in all cases their lowest prices for cash. You are now an Americanized, and ready for London and the continent. Don't buy in Paris until after you have been there several weeks, then make your purchases according to your tastes and the length of your purse. You will find the hotel rates, and prices of everything you buy in Paris, and indeed everywhere you go upon the continent, to be 25 to 50 per cent. lower, if you can successfully pass yourself off for anything but an American.,

A Negro preacher elaborated a new theory of the Exodus, to wit, that the Red Sea got frozen over, and so afforded the Israelites a safe passage, but when Pharaoh with his heavy iron chariots attempted it, they broke through and were drowned. A brother rose and asked for an explanation of that point. 'You been studyin' geography, and de geography say dat he very warm country—where dey have de tropics. And de tropics too hot for freezin'. Do plan to be sprinkled in, 'bout breaking through de ice. The preacher scratched up, and said; 'Brudder, glad you axed dat question. It given me 'casion to explain it. You see dat was great while 'go—in de ole times, 'fo' day had any geography—fo' dem was any temples.' His reparee was as good as that made of many a colonist when corrected.

DOMESTIC NOTES.

Apple Sauce.—Stew an dry as possible apples enough to make a quart after being strained through a sieve; add a cup and a half of sugar; flavor with lemon; beat the whites of six eggs to a stiff froth, and just before eating stir slowly into the sauce. Serve from a glass dish, using as a sauce a nice boiled custard made of the yolks of six eggs, sweetened and flavored to the taste.

Icing that will Stick, but not Break.—One cupful white sugar; enough water to dissolve it; set on the stove and let it boil until it will "hair;" beat the white of one egg to a stiff froth; pour the heated sugar on the egg, and stir briskly until cool enough to stay on the cake. The icing should not be applied until the cake is nearly or quiet cold. This will frost the tops of two common-sized cakes.

Rules for the Sick Room.—1. Bring in fresh flowers or something new every day; even the commonest green thing is better than nothing. 2. Don't talk about anything unpleasant. Talk about something that will lead the patient's thoughts away from his aches and pains, and leave him in a cheerful and restful state of mind. 3. Follow the doctor's directions implicitly. 4. Never ask a sick person what he wants to eat. If he asks for a thing that will not injure him get it if you can. Never bring him much at a time. A little bit in a dainty dish will sometimes tempt the appetite when a huge quantity would cause nausea. 5. Expect sick persons to be unreasonable. They will fret and complain, no matter what happens, and must be borne with patiently.—Housekeeper.

Square Cheese.—"We have wondered, and it seems that somebody else has wondered too, why cheeses should always be made round. We have seen a square cheese, one foot long and four inches high and wide, weighing ten pounds. This is just the cheese for family use.' It weighs just about enough, and then the consumer can begin at one end and cut off a slice as thick as required. No fresh surface is exposed except the end where the cutting has begun, and this can easily be covered so that flies cannot get at it, and meanwhile the cheese will not dry up."—Rural New Yorker.

To Correct Bad Tastes in Butter.—The disagreeable tastes given to milk and butter when the cows are fed upon turnips may be effectually corrected by the use of a little common nitre (or saltpetre), but the common mode of using this preventive is not the best. It has been usual to put a lump of saltpetre in the milk pail. It will sometimes happen, however, that the nitre remains undissolved and the milk retains the objectionable flavor. Instead of this make a strong solution of saltpetre—say a pint of boiling water upon an ounce of saltpetre—and when thoroughly dissolved, put it in a bottle and stand in a cool place. Before milking, put into the milk pail a spoonful of this solution, or more, according to the quantity of milk expected, and all turnip flavor will be entirely destroyed. The same substance will also, in a great degree, destroy the bad flavor given to butter by the yellow cowslout or butter cup. This has been tried in our family and found very serviceable. Another plan, equally, if not more efficient, is to scald the cream after the salt petre has been inserted.—Cor. London Live Stock Journal.

Parasites on Canaries.—Speaking of the parasites on canaries the Young Scientist says:—Almost every one of these household pets is annoyed with little parasites, which render them weak by loss of blood and nervous irritation. To get rid of them we must study their habits. It is a curious fact these parasites generally feed during the night, and leave the birds during the day. If the cages are provided with hollow perches they will creep into them, and may be destroyed by boiling water. If the birds like to frequent a nest instead of a perch, make the nest of something that may be dipped occasionly in boiling water. Salt the diseases of cage birds are caused by these almost invisible parasites. Mounted in glycerine jelly, they form very interesting microscopic objects.

POLITICAL NOTES.

An anecdote related in the House by the Minster of Militia illustrates the opinion entertained by the people of Nova Scotia of the great Tory war-horse, Dr. Tupper. The facts of the Pacific Scandal were being related in the presence of a rural elector of the county of Cumberland, which county Tupper represents. They were clear and conclusive as to the guilt of the Tory leaders, but despite this the countryman said: 'I don't believe them; they are not true, and I will prove it. Here it is stated that $350,000 or more were distributed to the Tories to carry the elections. Ten thousand to one, twenty thousand to another, thirty thousand to another, and another ten thousand—last time of calling, and yet there is no mention of Tupper having received any. Now I say this can't be true, for if there was money going around like that, Tupper would have had his share of it, and a mighty big share it would be, too.'

Toronto Telegram: While our Tory friends are groaning so loudly over the 'indecency' of this act (the re-election of Mr. Speaker Anglin), would it not be well for them to bear in mind that there are among themselves those whose hands are not so wonderfully clean. Who would look the more out of place, the man of the printing contract in the Speaker's chair, or the man of the Pacific Scandal at the head of the Government?

The old question, as to whether Sir John Macdonald will contest Kingston again or run for a safer constituency, is once more being agitated. The London Advertiser has been assured that it is the intention of the Opposition to bring Sir John out as the representative of West Toronto, that being considered a safe Tory constituency. We fail to see that it makes much difference where Sir John runs. If he should be defeated in one constituency the party would very soon find him another.—Toronto Telegram.

Mr. Bunster's motion, placed on the paper, to the effect that no persons be employed on the Pacific Railway in any capacity whose hair is more than five inches long, is meant as a means of preventing the Chinese being employed on the line.

Is it not a peculiar coincidence that the two protectionist illustrated papers of Canada, in their cartoons on this question, represent our industries as crippled and our factories idle, while Harper's Weekly, the most influential illustrated paper of the United States, has been presenting in its cartoons as even worse state of affairs there. Excessive taxation and inflation are the sources of trouble in the United States, and these are the direct result of the protective system adopted by our neighbors, whilst the only reasonable complaint in regard to manufacturing here is that which may be altered of business generally throughout the world, and for which no legislation is responsible.

The following gem from the recently published collection of Mr. J. Burr Plumb's poems is worthy of reproduction, at this moment when the illustrious author is in the midst of the representatives of the country, in Parliament here assembled. We are indebted to the London Advertiser for permission to use it:—

Land of the mountain and the Flood (Muskoka),
Land which the shock of things has withstood,
Land where the pine-tree grows wild in the woods,
Where the blood-thirsty Yankee slaughters his goods,
Where the song of the beaver (otherwise plug hat)
Is heard as their work they merrily tug at—
Where the wool of the workmen is pleasant to look on,
So long as he gives votaries and votes to Sir John—
Where Sir John will swops on 'till he stains the Gulf scort,
And his wicked old crew to perdition will troll
When we'll all have free trade that would make a home laugh.

ANGLO-ISRAEL AND THE GREAT PYRAMID

Are among the Leading Questions of the day—but a subject all should bear in mind, is that

After the 1st of January, 1878, I will sell goods 10 per cent cheaper

THAN HERETOFORE, FOR CASH AND CASH ONLY.

I would advise those who are in the habit of running long-winded accounts, and settling them by slow notes, to go and deal where they can be accommodated for six or twelve months as they may require, and when they want to SAVE MONEY! to bring the cash to me, and I will satisfy any reasonable person that anything can buy Goods from me from Twelve to Fifteen per cent Cheaper than they can purchase them from those who give credit.

THIRTY DAYS' CREDIT WILL BE GIVEN

parties we consider in a position and honest enough to pay on demand. All accounts rendered monthly, and if not then settled 12 per cent interest will be charged. A Call Solicited, and we know you won't go away disappointed.

LUKE FISHER.

GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM,

—FOR—

Coughs, Colds, Bronchial and all Throat Affections.

The Gum which exudes from the Red Spruce tree is, without doubt, the most valuable native Gum for Medicinal purposes.

Its remarkable power in relieving certain severe forms of Bronchitis, and its almost specific effect in curing obstinate hacking Coughs, is now well known to the public at large. In this Syrup (carefully prepared at low temperature), containing a large quantity of the finest picked Gum in complete solution, all the Tonic Expectorant, Balsamic and Anti-Spasmodic effects of the Red Spruce Gum are fully preserved. For sale at all Drug Stores. Price, 25 cents per bottle.

ELECTRICITY.

Thomas' Eclectric Electric Oil.

Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold—Pain cannot stay where it is used.

It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, asthma, and croup. Fifty cents worth has cured that crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. It cures swelled neck, tumors, rheumatism, neuralgia, contraction, of the muscles, stiff joints, spinal difficulties, and pain and soreness in any part, no matter where it may be, nor from what cause it may arise, it always does you good. Twenty-five cents worth has cured bad cases of chronic and bloody dysentery. One tea-spoonful cures colic in 15 minutes. It will cure any case of piles that it is possible to cure. Six or eight applications is warranted to cure any case of excoriated nipples or inflamed breast. For bruises, if applied, often and bound up, there is never the slightest discoloration to the skin. It stops the pain of a burn as soon as applied. Cures frosted feet, boils, warts, and corns, and wounds of every description on man or beast.

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

Note—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised.

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and Old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Pettit's American Eye-Salve," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its affect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC-DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell as they believe they were entirely saved by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

THEY KNEW HIM NOT.

(Written for the Examiner.)

"They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world." JOHN, XVII, 16.

They know Him not—God's chosen One,
Was He not only Joseph's'ction!
Though round His human form divine,
His God-head's glory oft did shine;
And from His gracious lips did flow
Words that no finite mind could know.
No beauty could by them be seen
In Him, the lowly Nazarene;
Alas! ev'n now, how few there be
Who on the cross their Saviour see.
Too proud, they cannot stoop to take
Salvation only for His sake.

They know Him not—as much unknown
Are those whom Jesus calls his own,
Deep hid in Him their lives must be
To this blind world a mystery.
Misjudg'd, reproach'd with scorn and jeer
The more their t'ves like Christ's appear;
But counting all things here but loss,
They glory only in the cross.
For they who of His glory partake must also share His shame.

One smile from Him is sweeter far
Than all the world's false fash'nies are.

They know not of communion sweet,
When Mary like at Jesus feet,
Freed from earth's cares, their hearts rejoice,
Nor catch accents of his gentle voice.
And 'mid rich tokens of His love
They taste the perfect bliss above:
Enraptured with transporting joy,
They haste their talents to employ
In shedding forth a Saviour's love
And swell the angel's song above.
When sinners brought to Jesus sing
With them the praise of Zion's King.

Joyless to them earth's pleasures here,
Paltry its pomp and show appear,
Its fame and gold are lost to sight,
Viewed in the Heavenly City's light;
Though in the world, not of it, they
Up in the heaven their treasures lay,
Rich in good works and faith they rise
Higher and higher, to the prize
Of the high mark of Christ their Lord,
Source of their joy, their souls adord.

THE CANADIAN MILITIA.

Adjutant-General's Report and Suggestions.

General Sir Selby Smyth's report on the state of the Militia, just laid on the table of the House at Ottawa, is somewhat exhaustive. He says the Canadians possess in a marked degree qualities to make excellent soldiers, being hardy and industrious, used to rough life, easily subjected to discipline and willing to submit to necessary authority. His recommendations, some of which he made before, are as follows, briefly summarised:—

(1.) That the period allowed for drill should, if possible, not be less than twenty-eight days, seven of which at battalion headquarters, if practicable, and the remainder in brigade or divisional camps of exercise.

(2.) Three model training schools for cavalry and infantry, by embodying three companies permanently on the basis of and with similar objects to the two Gunnery Schools.

(3.) A paid and permanent adjutant and sergeant-major to act as regimental storekeeper besides for each corps, and clothing of each corps should be kept at regimental headquarters under permanent caretakers.

(5.) That a contingent allowance as in the army, should be paid to each captain of a company to cover losses, holding him responsible to keep the arms, etc., in repair, with power to recover penalties from any volunteer losing or damaging public property.

(6.) That the brigade staff should be paid a consolidated allowance proportioned to the amount they now receive, instead of being paid $8 per annum for each efficient company.

(7.) The batteries constituting the Gunnery or Artillery Schools should have their four field guns horsed.

(8.) If circumstances render it beyond our reach at present to institute the cavalry and infantry schools which are so indispensable, then, as a temporary substitute, an addition of 50 men and two officers as cavalry and infantry instructors should be added to the two Gunnery Schools, rendering them thereby schools for the three arms until more comprehensive measures are adopted.

(9.) Additional assistance is necessary for the repair of rifles. There are only two qualified armourers at Quebec and Montreal respectively, but in this widespread command at least two more are required to keep the 43,000 rifles in proper repair. A large supply of screws, springs, and small articles of every description should be added to our present scanty stock for this purpose. The arms requiring repair could then be sent at a trifling expense to the different military stores along the whole line of country.

(10.) That a brigade of garrison artillery be raised at Quebec and another at Kingston, composed of four batteries each, to man the important fortresses at those stations.

The General refers to his several tours of inspection, and speaks generally of the high efficiency of the various enrolled corps, particularly those of the Active Militia, and of the advance guard of the Dominion forces, as at present constituted as follows:—

Cavalry	1,803
Field artillery	1,326
Garrison artillery	3,048
Engineers	232
Infantry	27,990
Rifles	9,330
Total	43,729

The field batteries, 17 in number, are composed and armed as follows:—13 with 9-pounder muzzle-loading rifles of the latest pattern; 1 with 6-pounder Armstrong breach-loading at Halifax; 3 with 9-pounder bronze smooth-bore, and a 24-pounder howitzer; 1 at Melbourne, armed entirely with bronze 24-pounder howitzers.

A suggestion has been made for the construction of an earthwork battery at McCauley's Point Vancouver Island, at a cost of about $600. The work is considered important, because in the absence of a man-of-war from the anchorage in Esquimalt harbor, which sometimes happens, there is no kind of protection for the valuable naval stores in the dockyard, nor for the city of Victoria. The report suggests that works of defence be undertaken for the protection of the harbors and to guard the royal dockyards of Esquimalt and Victoria, B. C. Regret is expressed that the Ottawa troop of cavalry does not present a more creditable and military appearance. There is a reserve of 21,000 Snider rifles, and about 8,000 rifles and carbines of various patterns, and their places filled by 10,000 Sniders from England. Of gunpowder there is about 200,000 pounds, and of Snider ball cartridges about seven and a half million rounds. In addition, about a million and a half of cartridges are ordered from England, and upwards of 30,000 pounds of powder. Of shell of various sorts there are about 17,000 for field artillery, or about 390 rounds per gun, besides 100 rounds per gun in addition ordered from England. For the new converted rifled guns, 200 rounds of shell for each. In the item of ammunition, therefore, the Dominion is fairly provided, but at least 10,000 additional Snider rifles should be kept in stock.

The report also commends plenty of rifle practice, and speaks highly of the Dominion and other Associations, which the writer holds to be worthy of a more liberal support.

OUR CALIFORNIA LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ANAHEIM LOS ANGLOS Co.
CALIFORNIA, FEB., 15, 1877.

Dear Examiner:

I have delayed writing much longer than I intended when I last wrote you; for this I can offer no excuse except negligence. At the date of my last letter I mentioned the fact that we were in the midst of a dry season with short crops. A great deal has been written about the losses and hardships endured in the season now passed. Although in this place crops were short and work scarce, I have not heard of any suffering from this cause; yet times were hard. The sheep industry was very much paralized, the most of the flocks having to be removed to Arizona, New Mexico Lower California, Utah and other places. I notice from extracts in different newspapers that much suffering was endured and great losses occurred to all concerned. I have spoken with several persons on this point and all agree that losses were not so heavy as reported, as many of those who lost heavy on the road would have lost at home. The facts in a great measure are that ewes are kept beyond the age to endure hardship, and many of this class die every year. But when flocks were young and in good condition no serious losses occurred. We trust, however, that the flocks will soon return and the valley again assume its wonted aspect. During the early fall the anticipation of the occupants of the valley were another dry season, and so soon as any water was running in the Santa Anna River all those who could get water went to irrigating their land. We were amongst that number. Those living on the low grounds, near the coast, were silently rejoicing, as with the aid of Artesian wells they would make money in a dry season. Yet, wherever these wells are got other drawbacks occur. The land is much spotted with an alkali which in many cases destroy vegetation. It is to be seen in many places lying on the surface of the ground, white like hoar frost. On such spots nothing will grow, free from this alkali and our great want is water. Some three years ago we undertook to remedy this by obtaining a permanent supply of water from the river Santa Anna (at present our supply is temporary) and with this end in view the Legislature empowered us to form districts and tax the lands to be benefitted. This we did here and the estimated cost of the works, $60,000, was submitted to a vote and carried. Work was begun and carried on till something near $30,000 was spent. Then the trustees of the district, large land owners, discovered that the act was as the common phrase is unconstitutional and the money could not be collected. This then put a stop to all work. About a year afterwards the company who formerly owned the Ranches, who had themselves paid the tax imposed, formed a joint stock company, to complete the work, and they after many fine promises succeeded, through the aid of the District Court, in obtaining possession of the works. They however did nothing towards the completion of the works except by promises. This enraged the settlers so, that a company was formed about six months ago who took possession of the works and commenced work in earnest. A law suit was commenced for the title, and the case now lies in court. The last company ignores all payments made and only issues stock sufficient to complete the work, which is now prosecuted vigorously and will be finished in a short time. This undertaking, when completed, will give an impetous to the agricultural interests of the valley. Another company, on the other side of the river, are also at work, and the grand object to be accomplished is to take the water from the bed of the stream before it enters the plain and confine it in the ditches, so that little may be lost by seepage, as the case now stands the whole volume of water sinks in the sand before it reaches opposite where we now take the water in the dry season. I think I have now told you enough of the situation, to enable you to judge for yourselves of the prospects. But within the last two months every thing has changed, we have had several fine rains and to-day it pours down blessings enough to revive the most faint heart.

So far this has been the best season I have seen since I settled here. The barley crop is chiefly in, which will be large, should no untoward event occur. many of our people are rooting up the grape and planting orange trees. Wine has been selling at five cents per gallon. Many have rooted out the mission grape and planted the rasin grape. This grape is a heavy bearer and much better; but the price of labor makes it difficult to compete with the imported article. There was in the town a large drying establishment for curing fruit. This was burned down a few days ago and will be a great loss, not only to the owners but to the public, as they dried onions, pumpkins, cabbage, potatoes as well as grapes. The cost of the works was about $11,000; the insurance $6,000; so that you will see the owners lose heavy.

The weather is all that can be desired; the climate mild. I was past a school house the other day and observed many of the youngsters burning about benefitted, a very good index to the weather. The Old Capt. Neptune has been turbulent of late and to listen to his boisterous roar would almost remind us that he intended and was about assuming possession of his ancient domain, notwithstanding that the creature man had reared thereon his fortifications.

Yours, &c.,
J. HUNTER.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 7, 1878

THE TILE-DRAINAGE BILL.

The Government Bill for assisting farmers to tile-drain their land, though opposed by Mr. Scott in the House, has met with the approval of even the Conservative journal of this town. It would be hard indeed to find fault with so plainly beneficial a measure; and we cannot conceive how the member for West Peterborough allowed himself to be pressed into speaking against a scheme that must meet with favour among a large and influential class of his constituents. The Bill proposes to set apart a fund of $200,000, from which township councils may borrow in sums of not less than $5,000 nor more than $15,000 on the security of municipal debentures, in amounts of $100, payable in twenty years, and bearing not more interest than six per cent. Any farm may borrow from this fund,—giving particulars as to his lot and the extent of draining he professes to construct, up to $1,000,—the loan to be repaid annually at the rate of $6 on each $100 for twenty years, as in the case of ordinary drainage debentures. By these means an easy and effectual way is opened for the drainage of such agricultural lands as may require it; and no doubt the grant will need to be a few years when the benefits it brings are observeable. The fear expressed by the Review that no farmer can get part of the fund without forming a "ring" to take up the whole $5,000 is surely founded on a misconception. The township debentures are bought by the Government thus providing a cash fund, which is accessible to any farmer willing to comply with the conditions; and we fancy there will be little difficulty in disposing of the full amount.

The insinuation that Township Councils to which the expenditure is left will apply it to "stopping drains of another kind" is as ungracious as it is absurd; for the safeguards provided for the spending of the money for the purpose only which it is provided are ample. The Inspector to be appointed by the Council issuing drainage debentures will superintend and report on the work done; and his services and the expenses attending them are to be paid for by a special rate on the works. But these strictures of our contemporary having been made at a time when lack of information as to the measure was acknowledged, we hope to see them withdrawn for an unqualified endorsation of this Reform Act.

PARTY FOUNDATION AND PARTY DICTATION.

Considerable outside discussion has been caused by the letter, signed "Elector," which appeared in the EXAMINER some weeks ago; and it has been followed by other communications on the same question in the columns of a contemporary. Probably too the activity since displayed in the way of party organization is partially due to the leven introduced by "Elector," who has certainly no cause for complaint as to the extent of the results arising from his honest effort to arouse political activity among his fellows. The chief desire of the series of letters to which we have referred (beginning with that of "Elector,") is, that the people should individually take more interest in the study of public affairs; and the chief complaint is, that the action of the masses in political concerns is directed by a few, whom they appear to follow blindly. The two evils of popular ignorance and political demagogueism are so inseparably connected as are cause and effect in physics. The one begets the other, and each encourages each, to the completion of the dark circle, and its constant repetition. But even the most doleful mourners over the subordination of the majority to the minority can find comfort in the fact that it has decreased steadily with the growth of Liberal principles, with the success of Reformers, in spite of Conservative opposition, to lift up the masses, and encourage them by giving them a voice in the public concerns. What interest, for instance had the small freeholder, the tenant, the artizan, the labourer, or the farmer's son, in the affairs of the commonwealth till the efforts of Reformers had in turn secured them the franchise? Before, they but knew their impotence to mourn it, and to execrate those who held them under. Now, they know their power, to use it, for themselves and the friends who fought so long and vigorously that they might possess it.

In the struggle for popular rights is displayed the opposite principles that have all along divided and still continue to divide, the two great political parties. So long as these antagonistic views exist among men, just so long must party Government continue; one section of the community honestly keeping in check the aggressive influence of money, while the other with equal confidence in the rectitude of its course strives against the encroachment of a dreaded democracy. In view of these great truths, so plainly apparent on every page of the world's history, exactly those only who lose sight of the real, and fix their gaze on an unsubstantial ideal, can talk soberly and with apparent credulity of representation in Parliament "content to legislate for the good of the country, irrespective of party altogether." Why, the two clauses of such proposed legislation are irreconcileable! That some of our legislators have apparently forgotten their country's good in looking to the exigences of their party, does not prove that legislation, should be "irrespective of party altogether." That is only flying from the one extreme to the other, and, if such a thing were possible, the rule would by its inflexibility utterly upset all attempts at legislation.

While we hold to the necessity, and actual benefit, of party distinctions, we entirely agree that his individuality should not be ignored by any man in his consideration of public affairs, and in the preparation for Parliamentary elections. In this again there is a wide difference displayed in the conduct of Reformers and Conservatives. Reform organization is built from the people and by the people toward a centre; whereas in Conservative organization the centre is the first consideration toward which the people are expected to gravitate in slavish obedience to their leaders.

It is well known that Township Reform Associations are made up of all and sundry who profess Reform principles, the poor elector having the same voice as his millionaire neighbour, in the choice of an executive and the naming of representatives to a County organization. The system of popular choice is thus kept up to the Provincial body, which is thus enabled to consider (by a conference of people's representatives, appointed by the people,) the general interests of the country in all their bearings. How different the plan adopted by the Conservatives! The circular last year sent out by the "Liberal Conservative Association" first appointed the man to whom it was addressed Vice-President in his sub-division, and directed him to chose others to act with him as an executive. Here is a total ignoring of all popular choice,—even of popular right to choose. The Vice-Presidents, or "Chairmen," is made absolute Dictator in his polling sub-division; and all the other members of the party are expected to do as he tells them without murmur or protest, no matter what they think best for the general interests. He can exclude any recalcitrant from any voice in the party management; and he his fellow-chairman (appointed by the grace of the United Empire Club, of Toronto,) can run the party concerns in the constituency just as they please, totally regardless of the rank-and-file. These latter, in return for being relieved of all voice in the matter, are asked to contribute, from their purse, to the election fund, and to do all that is asked of them. We have no doubt that some such arrangement as this is what is meant by "Mechanic" in his letter in the Times, when he refers to the fact of "two or three, or it may be by a half-dozen, Conservatives in this town, calling upon the people to come here and have the political business of the riding settled by their dictations."

With such instances before them there can be little wonder that men of intelligence and spirit are leaving the Conservative ranks, refusing to stultify their manhood and independence at the arrogant commands of some nobody, appointed to issue orders, because he will prove a tool in the hands of the party leaders. No wonder strength is being continually added to the ranks of the Reformers, who make their own leaders, and never surrender the power to unmake them, should they become arrogant and self-seeking. Yet we are told by some who profess penetration that they can't see any difference between Reformers and Conservatives in this country!

WILLIAM MACDOUGALL AS A STOCK OPERATOR.

In 1874 Mr. William Macdougall while living in London, thought the time a favourable one for commencing to speculate in Hudson Bay Stock, which he felt sure was destined to fall very much in value on account of the opening up and settlement of the Northwest. By an arrangement with a Mr. Grant, member of a firm of stock brokers, he sold 150 shares of the stock at a time, when it had just risen from £17, the par value, to £19, expecting that it would soon fall, and that he would be able to purchase at a much lower rate, and thus secure a profit on the transaction. Contrary to expectation, the price continued to rise; and, as the brokers had to carry the stock sold, they began to press for payment of their claim. By way of security for the unpaid balance they accepted from him late in 1874 a mortgage on property in Toronto, to the amount of over $900 He then came to Canada, and authorized Mr. Grant meanwhile to dispose of additional shares on his account. In February 1875 the brokers, who had incurred additional losses in carrying the stock to the extent of over £300, closed the account and pressed for payment of both balances. For the purpose of effecting a settlement. Mr. Grant came to Canada, and after striking some items out of the latter account, he accepted Mr. Macdougall's note for $1,530, in addition to the mortgage already in his possession. In an agreement dated May 3rd, 1875, and signed by both parties, this settlement is acknowledged. With this document before him, together with Mr. Macdougall's authorization to Mr. Grant, to dispose of shares on his account in the previous November, the Vice-Chancellor found it impossible to deny the plaintiff the right to possession, and foreclosure under the mortgage.

The correspondence between Mr. Macdougall and his brokers after the agreement had, in the opinion of the court, no bearing on the case; but it is not without interest to the public. In December 1875, he wrote them a letter in which he not only predicts a fall in Hudson Bay stock, but described how he was going to work to bring it about. His position in the Ontario Legislature was amongst other losses to be used to effect his purpose. But luck was not taken. Payment of the balance due the brokers was disputed, the case went into court, and the result was the verdict noted above. The plea put forward by the defendant, now that the mortgage was in the nature of a friendly and temporary arrangement only, and was not intended to give any absolute powers to the holder of it; that the note made in May, 1875, was given with a similar understanding; that he did not agree to have the mortgage registered; and that there had been no actual discontinuance of the agency or the transactions connected with it up to the date of the suit being instituted. His counsel after the evidence was all in, and the plaintiff's counsel had addressed the court, put in the additional plea that the transactions were in the nature of "wagering," and hence invalid. On this the Vice-Chancellor answered as follows:—

This is a case in which the very plain language of Sir William Jones, in Haigh vs. Kaye, L. R. 7 Ch. Appeals, 469, 473, which has been referred to, might be applied.—If a defendant means to say that he claims to hold property given to him for an immoral purpose and in violation of all honor and honesty he must say so in plain terms, and must clearly put forward his own scoundrelism, if he means to reap the benefit of it. This is a case in which the rule peculiarly applies, and in which, if a defendant chooses to raise such a defence his mouth is closed distinctly on the record and his oath pledged to it. The Court is not bound to aid in defeating seemingly just claims by such defences. If an application had been earlier made to put in a supplemental answer, and it would not have caused further delay, it might perhaps have been granted although one element in refusing to consider this defence is, that I do not think it is a case that comes within the authorities that have been cited. Here, there was an actual agreement for the purchase and for the sale As it turns out there has been an actual transaction. There has been an actual dealing with the stock—an actual indebtedness between the principal and agent, and not a case touched by these decisions which have been given on a mere wagering between the parties. There has been no wagering. In this instance it is a case of a principal instructing an agent to make a purchase, and of the agent making that purchase in the ordinary course of dealing on the Stock Exchange. I do not think it is a case in which the answer should be at this late stage allowed, and, even if allowed, and the case were argued on such an answer, I am not aware of any authority which would go so far as to say where the agent has carried out the instructions of the principal, and where there has been an actual indebtedness carried on day after day, that the mortgage can be defeated. The plaintiff is entitled to the usual decree—possession and foreclosure in default of payment."

"Representation and Revenge."

The St. John, N. B., Freeman managed by the most representative Irish Catholic in Canada, Mr. Timothy Warren Anglin, speaker of the House of Commons, on the 10th of June last contained the following article:—

"The Irish Canadian which has become a violent Opposition paper, has lately, as we learn from our Ontario exchanges, raised the cry of "representation and revenge;" that is, as we understand it, this paper demands that the Irish Catholics of Ontario shall have a certain number of representatives in the Canadian Parliament, and insists that all Irish Catholics shall combine to seek revenge on those whose fault it is that they have not a fair representation in the Present Parliament It is to be hoped that this insane cry will disgust, as it should, any Irish Catholic readers of the Canadian who respect their countrymen and themselves. It is, as we have frequently stated, much to be regretted that the Irish of Ontario have not a fair representation in Parliament. It may be that their interests are quite as safe in the hands of the representatives of other nationalities as they would be if they bet it is not surprising that the total exclusion of Irish Catholics from the representation of Ontario in Parliament creates some dissatisfaction, and that selfish agitators endeavour to increase this dissatisfaction for their own purposes. It is admitted that Catholics have a representation in the Ontario Legislature almost as large as, according to their numbers, they are entitled to, and this being the case it is not easy to understand why they have so completely failed to send even one representative to the House of Commons; but it seems certain that neither of the great political parties can be held directly responsible for this, and the causes must be sought elsewhere than in the decisions or feelings of party leaders. It is no secret, indeed, that the Irish Canadian, in calling for revenge, and endeavouring to incite its readers to follow the crazy policy which it thinks good enough for them, perhaps because it is good enough for itself, seeks to turn the Irish Catholics of the Province against the Reform party with which many of them have acted for some time past. Yet nothing is more certain than that the lack of Irish Catholic representatives in the House of Commons is not owing to anything which that party did or anything it refused to do. That it could not absolutely control all the Reform constituencies is well known; that the leaders could not in all or in many cases induce Reform conventions to accept the candidates they named is also well known, and that it would be utter folly on their part to attempt to control these conventions is also well known; but then the same is known to be true of the relations between the leaders of the Tory party, and the Tory Conventions and constituencies. The Reform party have shown their willingness to support an Irish Catholic candidate whenever they saw a chance of getting him elected. They supported Mr. John O'Donohoe in one of the Toronto districts, and when he was unseated they supported him again, even though it was generally felt that he could not be elected. They in like manner, and quite earnestly supported Mr. Murray in Renfrew. In these, and we believe in some other cases, the Tories did all in their power to prevent the election of the Irish Catholics. For this they are not to be blamed; but they are to be blamed for the disgraceful means they employed. It is not surprising, however, out against the Reformers, who did all they could as a party to elect those gentlemen, that the wrath and indignation of the Irish Canadian are now directed. How, by any mode of action it has yet suggested, the election of any number of Irish Catholics can be secured we must confess we can not discover. Mr. John O'Donohoe, we were glad to see, denied at Ottawa, that the agitators propose to put the Irish vote in the market. That they could dispose of it, no sensible man will imagine for a moment, but if they do not mean to make some such attempt they should as soon as possible explain what their exact purpose is, and what mode of action they propose as the best to attain it. The cause must be weighty and important indeed, and the necessity great and manifest which would justify the dividing up of the Canadian body politic, so that instead of one people with interests in common we should have a set of associations, Catholic and Protestant, Irish, English, French and Scotch.

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent writing on Wednesday of last week said:—Some of the Opposition papers more particularly access to the Lieut.-Governor are attacking his veracity because, in a recent speech in the House, while defending himself, he said that from the day he sold the copper mines he had never had any trouble or controversy with the purchasers, whereas the Glasgow Herald, of the 7th of February, contains the particulars of a suit just instituted in the Scotch Courts against several parties of whom Mr. Huntington is one as representatives of the Huntington Copper and Silver Company. Mr. Huntington has received no notice of these proceedings, and that now an account of them in one of the papers already referred to on Tuesday last.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Since the visit here, some time ago, of a certain gentleman of Sodus Point, N. Y. Posey-(ism); is a sign of the Times.

The Ottawa Free Press sports a handsome dress of new type and gives other indications of vim and prosperity.

A Toronto firm of cattle merchants, composed of five leading dealers, purchased last week 230 head of cattle, and about 500 sheep, to be shipped to England.

A second edition of the Liberal picnic speeches is being printed, the first lot of 20,000 having gone off like hot cakes. According to Mr. Patullo "a copy should be in every well-regulated family."

In order to show whether any politics favoritism has been exercised in the issue of licenses, enquiries had been made, which revealed the fact that licenses had been granted to 862 Reformers and 2,017 Conservatives.—[Hon. Mr. Hardy's speech.

Sir John Macdonald has been now nearly two weeks away from the House on the spree. It is generally known that he has not been sober since he made the attack on Jones, and that his friends have either locked him up or sent him out of town.—[Ottawa Letter.

In reference to the proposed lecture by the dynamite fiend, Archbishop Lynch says he was not consulted by the Irish societie who invited O'Donovan Rossa to Toronto. So opposed are the clergy to Rossa that he would be refused admission to St. Michael's Cathedral.

Adopting its own plan of quoting we select the following from the Irish Canadian of last week:—

"As the secret is now out, we may as well break our reserve on the subject by confessing frankly that in exchange for our support of Mackenzie Bowell's circumspection, we had obtained that of the United Empire Club."

That's all we have to say just now concerning this "frank confession."

The weakness of the Opposition is that in their every motion and movement they transparently aim at the gaining of place and power and not at the promotion of the public interests. Their efforts to discover and to bring home to the Government acts of corruption have too much of desperation, too much of invention about them to gull sensible people.

In the Ontario Parliament on Monday of last week Hon. Mr. Pardee, in reply to a "rumour" mentioned by Mr. Scott, denied that receipts were given by an officer of the Woods and Forests Department to parties in Peterboro' who were of the same political views as the present Government. The official referred to, Mr. McWilliams, was, he believed, an honest man, and would not be guilty of any such impropriety as had been laid against him. He was glad for the sake of Mr. McWilliams to see that the matter was to be enquired into.

Temperance and Politics.—The Review is afraid that the temperance reform will be used as a means politically of assisting one party in the elections. Will the Editor be good enough to explain the difference morally between the aid of temperance principles in the elections, and obviously courting for the next contest? It is no small honor to be on the side of all moral questions and opposed to all issues whose tendencies are immoral. It is a pity that our esteem is so wrapt up in party issues that he satisfied to encourage intemperance to use it in the elections.

The Conservative characteristic referred to in another column as distinguishing that party from the Reformers is very prominently exemplified in an article in which the Leader lately called organization. Here is a quotation:—

"We would like to know, and we are satisfied the public would also wish to know what the United Empire Club is doing: in the way of preparation: or is this Club doing anything towards the selection of candidates? If not heard from soon the independent electors themselves may take the matter in their own hands and select candidates in the various Ridings."

What do "the independent electors," think of it?

London Advertiser:—The Ontario Ministry is frequently twitted by members on both sides of the House with being a "lawyer's" Cabinet, but we venture to say it has shown such an appreciation of the farming class that the response from the rural districts will be quite satisfactory when the appeal for support and confidence is made. We challenge any member of the Opposition to go to the farmers for election and use for his war-cry the iniquity of the Farmers' Sons' Franchise Act, the Tile Drainage Act, and the liberal and steadfast support accorded by the present Administration to the Agricultural College.

The Review represents the Minister of Militia as an advocate of protection for Nova Scotia against Ontario and Quebec, and asserting that if a barrier was erected against Canada, they would be all right. Mr. Jones is "an avowed opponent of the union of the provinces of British North America." Mr. Jones is well known to be no advocate of Protection; nor will the words read by him to which reference is made by the Review, and several Tory papers before it, bear any such misconstruction. He did say:—"If the maritime provinces need protection at all, they need it against Ontario and Quebec," the evident object being to show the absurdity of advocating protection for the Dominion, and that the maratime provinces at least (he was speaking in Halifax,) did not need protection at all. Didn't the Review know this?

A letter written by a leading lawyer and Liberal in Belleville furnishes satisfactory news with regard to the redemption at the next election of East, West and North Hastings. It is said the Roman Catholics in the North and East Ridings have become thoroughly displeased with the systematic persecution of Mr. Anglin by Mr. Bowell and Mr. White and that they will join the Reformers in ousting them. Mr. Brown in the West was originally returned as a supporter of Sir John, and up to the Pacific Scandal was loyal to him. Since then he has leaned strongly toward the Liberal party, and it is possible at the next election he will run as a supporter of Mr. Mackenzie. It is said his partial change of allegiance has the approval of his constituents and that if he comes out under Independent or Reform colors, he will be so strongly a candidate that it will be useless to oppose him.

LAKEFIELD "NEWS."

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The News of this Village may well cry uncleen. But after a less wash or shower bath kindly applied to the Editor, we may hear less of it in future. Accustomed to the dust throwing of the Tory Government of by-gone days, the News men cannot credit any one with honest manly expressions, and hence there unmanly reference to Mr. Mackenzie and temperance Legislation, and the false assertion that it was to be delayed for Imperial Legislation. Any one who will read what Mr. Mackenzie did say, will find no declaration to put it off: on the contrary the Legislation promised this session will prove the honesty of the party now in power. The sneers of the News at the Dunkin Act and temperance Legislation is in full keeping with the noble, moral instincts and desire of the Editor of that paper, as well as with those of the great Conservative chief and party. Temperance principles do not accord with their gentlemanly natures. Pure water would be a tasteless substitute for bibbers.

Yours truly,
TEMPERANCE.

Lakefield March 5th, 1878.

MATTERS IN LAKEFIELD.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir.—We are still being treated to the tirades of the News men. They are not to be dissuaded from their course of slandering our public men. Under the influence of some evil spirit, perhaps spirits. They rush madly on, but will find to their own sorrow that other liquids than those usually inhaled by thirsty souls, can be applied by gentle hands.

The editors try to cover over their plan of collecting accounts by asserting that Mr. Hull suggested to Mr. W. C. Sanders the way he took to obtain the News account. I have two reasons for believing the statement of the News unworthy of credence viz: that Mr. Hull assures me he never did anything of the kind, and up here we prefer to believe Mr. Hull rather that the creature W. C. S. who so willingly lends himself to do any work a certain clique may require, as witness the collecting of these accounts before referred to; and again because Mr. Hull could not know that Mr. Griffin would be elected a councillor and require Mr. Sanders aid.

The explanation therefore has not a leg to stand upon, to use a common phrase. The supposition of the News and interrogation, if the work were done out of the village would it make any man rich, may be considered clever coming from the source it does. If Mr. Griffin was doing work for the corporation of which he is a member, why does he not assume the responsibility, and show to the council that he was saving money for them. If the clerk can get the work done at better rates than elsewhere why does he not put in the bill, in the name of the firm or party who does the work, and let the accounts come before the council on their merits, and then Mr. Griffin would have the opportunity of voting the money into his pocket directly and not have to wait until Mr. Sanders might see fit to hand it over to him. If he had a right to do the work he had a right to put in his bill and collect it, like any other man to whom the village is indebted.

The News must have a fling at Mr. Galvin, secretary of the School Board, as if he were the writer who exposed the tricks of Messrs. Griffin and Sanders, but like the News; generally, except during artificial waterfalls, it is wide of the marks. The whole we are told is the work of a clique of disappointed Grits, and woe betide them when the News men get control of the village affairs. Mr. Graham, a member of the School Board, sold the Board a few brooms, and Mr. Galvin took the school census of the village. I do not find however that Mr. Sanders put in their accounts in his own name and collected the funds for them. No! like men they put in their own accounts I trust, and got them paid without any dodging round corners; and all the world knew whose accounts they were.

I do not see that because Mr. Griffin did or does printing for the village that he should resign his seat in the council, but I do think that he should be man enough to assume the responsibility of his accounts by having them made out in his own name. Mr. Sanders may be a good clerk but, has he a right to collect those accounts that councillors are afraid or ashamed to collect themselves? And if he is known to do so in this case what may he not do before any one is aware of the true nature of the transaction in some other case; evidently Messrs. Sanders and Griffin, the News & Co. require watching, and I will try and do a little of it from time to time. Mr. editor you will please inform the News that I am neither Mr. Hull nor Mr. Galvin, but

Yours truly,
KO-KO-KO-HO.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 7, 1878

LOCAL NEWS

Presbytery of Peterborough.—The Presbytery of Peterborough will meet in St. Andrew's Church, here, on Tuesday, 26th of March, at 1.30 p.m.

Appointment.—Dr. Sinclair, of the Village of Hastings, has been appointed Associate Coroner in and for the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, and also for the County of Peterborough.

W. S. Wallace Lobdell is now showing splendid value in Brown Denim, Denim Cotton and Union Shirtings, Sheetings, Pillow Cottons, Table Linen, Oil Cloths, Towels and Napkins, 10-26m.

Fish and Game.—The annual meeting of this Society will be held this Thursday evening, at the Huntsman House, at 8 o'clock. A large attendance is requested as the election of officers for the year will take place.

Sunday School Entertainment.—An entertainment in aid of the St. Andrew's Sunday School and Band of Hope will take place in the School Room on Friday, March 8th. The proceeds will be in aid of the Organ Fund.

The Second Advent.—The Rev. E. F. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's Church, will deliver the third of a series of sermons on Sunday evening next, when he will take for his subject "The attendant circumstances of the Second Advent."

Sign of Spring.—Crows have been seen skirmishing around the town during the past week, which is a sign that spring is about to come in earn. The past month tripped up Vennor badly in his calculations, and now the crows are crowing regarding what is to come.

Dentistry.—Attention is directed to the card in another column of Mr. A. Beamish, L. D. S., who succeeds Mr. J. O'Donnell in the practice of dentistry in this town. Mr. Beamish comes well recommended by the profession, and will no doubt succeed in working up a good practice.

A New Dress.—Our local contemporary the Review appeared last week in a new dress. The cause is from the well known type founders, Miller & Richards. The outfit is creditable to them, and speaks well for the enterprise of the new firm. We have much pleasure in extending our congratulations.

Business for Sale.—Owing to ill health Mr. Robert Walker has determined to retire from business, and offers for sale at a bargain the stock and good will of his old established and well known business, embracing hardware, stoves, tinware and sporting goods. This is a rare opportunity to those desiring to commence business.

Shirt-maker Tailoring.—Mr. E. Bakewell, so well known in town during the past ten years as a cutter in several of our best houses, has commenced business for himself, and will open out on Saturday next, in the store lately occupied by F. W. Babidge, with a choice selection of cloths and tweeds, and other requisites of a first-class merchant tailoring establishment.

Annual Meeting of Sunday-School Teachers.—Through some unfortunate mistake, the time of the Methodist Sunday-school teachers' annual meeting, for the purpose of paying off the balance of the organ debt, was not received from the Colborne Circumstance, while in reality it was received from one of the Rectors. We feel confident that our brethren will not be behind in voluntary effort, but will in their turn help us into freedom. If the Government had done so it would have done a generous thing and one that looked reasonable, although not according to fact.

Peterborough Protestant Home.—The Committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home beg to acknowledge with thanks the following donations for November and December:—Mr. W. G. Mann, apples and potatoes; Mrs. Fairweather, a parcel of clothing; Mr. Bertram, potatoes and mutton, for Xmas; Mrs. Nicholls, a turkey; Miss Nicholls, a turkey; Mr. R. A. Brown, a basket of apples; Mr. Cutrum, a box of biscuits; toys and candies for the children from Miss Greenlow; Mr. Crawford, a quart of milk each day for a year.

Storch.—March has plunged itself forward not very much like a lion, nor very closely resembling a lamb. Here follows what Vennor has to say about the coming month, and our readers can put just what dependence they please in the prediction:—"The weather for this month will be similar to that of January. Thermometer will fluctuate between extremes of cold days and warm returns, with frequent snow falls. The month bids fair to be blustery and winter-like, with a lower mean temperature than in February or December."

Business on the Midland.—A telegram in Monday's Mail says:—The demand for the shipment of grain and flour on the Midland Railway is unprecedented, exceeding anything hitherto known on the road. Up to 7 p.m. on Saturday the stations along the line called for 240 box cars, Peterborough alone requiring 70, for the shipment of grain. The management are straining every nerve to make up for the late interruption by the strike and freshets. All the bridges swept away are replaced, and the embankments are restored. The trains are running on regular time.

St. John's Concert.—The Opera House was well filled on Thursday evening last, when a concert in aid of the building fund of the St. John's Sunday School was given. The programme, which was a lengthy one, was carried out in the order of it presented. The Peterborough Musical Society opened the entertainment in their usual good style. The programme consisted of solos, readings, duets, ventriloquism, ministry, &c., together with a charade and a farce. In the charade, the Misses Edmison and McLeod took their respective parts creditably, and received frequent applause. The farce, "Old Jones is raging," was given and "Grace Ann Jones," and were encored. Miss Ulbrich was well received in her solo, as was Mr. J. Cruzard in his "comicalities." A solo by Miss Clarke, assisted by the choir of the church, was given in good style. Ormiston Dixon then displayed his ventriloquial powers, and received well merited applause. After the concert the Rev. J. W. R. Beck entertained the performers to a supper, where all enjoyed themselves.

St. Patricius Society.—The adjourned meeting of those interested in the formation of a St. Patrick's Society for the Town and County of Peterborough, was held in the Cairns Hotel last Friday evening, at which between sixty and seventy were present. Mr. D. G. Hatton was requested to act as Chairman and Mr. James Stratton as Secretary. The Chairman briefly explained the object of the meeting, namely to organize an association of a social and charitable nature, to be composed of and for the benefit of Irishmen and their descendants, irrespective of religion or politics, and similar to the St. Andrew's or St. George's Societies. Further brief addresses were made by Jas. W. Fitzgerald, Esq., and Dr. Kinsell, when on motion of Dr. Kinsell, seconded by Mr. James Herndon, the following gentlemen were appointed a committee to draft a constitution and by-laws for a society to be called the St. Patrick's Society of Peterborough namely: Messrs. D. G. Hatton, J. W. Fitzgerald, James Stratton, John Maloney, Hon. R. Hamilton, John Garvey, J. R. MacWatters, R. Morrow, T. M. D. Crowly, John Delaney, and T. O. Maguire. The meeting then adjourned to meet again to-morrow evening at the same place to receive report of committee.

Destructive Fire.—About two o'clock on Thursday morning last, one of the most destructive fires that has occurred in Peterboro' for some years, broke out over Mr. J. W. Miller's boot and shoe store, in the two story brick block on the corner of George and Hunter streets. An alarm was at once given, but before the fire engine was got to work the flames had made such headway that little hope were entertained of saving any of the adjoining buildings to the north in the same block, and the fire soon spread to the shops occupied by Mr. Austin as a fancy goods store, and Sent. Jeffers as a grocery and Messrs. McKee & Davidson's hardware store. Through the exertions of the Fire Brigade the portion of the block occupied by Mr. Reddy, as the main body of his hotel was saved from total destruction although badly damaged. The upper portion of McKee & Davidson's store was occupied by Mr. Reddy in connection with the hotel, one parlour and bedroom, the most of the furniture in which as well as a valuable piano was destroyed. These premises succeeded in saving the greater portion of Mr. Miller's stock and also part of McKee & Davidson's. Mr. Austin and Mr. Butler saved only a small portion of their stock, and consequently are the heaviest losers. The buildings were owned by Mr. Clinton, and were insured for $2,000. The following is a statement of the amounts of insurance so far as we could learn: J. W. Miller, $2,000; J. F. Austin, $1,5000; C. Butler, $1,100; McKee & Davinson, $7,100; R. N. Reddy, $2,000.

Another Convert to Cash.—Messrs. T. W. Robinson & Co., of this town, have also inaugurated the cash system. In a circular issued lately to their customers informing them of the change, they say:—We take pleasure in informing you then and after the 1st March, we purpose doing a strictly Cash Business, and respectfully solicit your patronage, as we are confident that we can give you better value by adopting this system than has ever been given in Peterborough, for the following reasons:—1st. Because we will pay cash for our goods, thereby getting them at the lowest possible figures. 2nd. Because we shall save the interest that would accrue if bought on time. 3rd. Because we shall make no bad debts. Heretofore retail cash buyers have not received the consideration that is their due, as they have not only paid a fair profit on the goods consumed by themselves; but the losses sustained by the merchant through bad debts, &c., have been made up by charging a greater price than would be necessary if cash was the rule, consequently the greatest burden has fallen on those who pay cash. The unfairness of this way of doing business is self-evident. Our purpose in adopting this system is that we may be enabled to sell goods cheaper, and deal in a more equitable manner with our customers, at the same time reserving ourselves against losses which are inevitable when credit is given. We shall not content ourselves with merely cutting prices on a few leading lines, and maintaining the old prices for the remainder; but will reduce our entire stock to as low a price as will be consistent with the laws of trade. Our facilities for buying are unsurpassed; having access not only to home markets, but also to the United States and Great Britain. We are thereby constantly informed as to their state, therefore know just when and where to buy. We hope to merit your custom by giving careful attention to your requirements, and good value for your money.

SCHOOL BOARD.

Reports of Committees—Standing Rules —Increasing the Fees—Miscellaneous Business.

The regular meeting of the School Board was held last Tuesday evening. Present—James Stevenson, Esq., Chairman, and Messrs. Donaldson, Hamilton, Loh, Errett, Shaw, Edmison, McClelland, Dumble, Edwards, Cook and Cox. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Jas. C. Brown stating that he had not as yet heard from the Government in reference to the grant to the Model School.

From Samuel Johnston, asking to be allowed for sawing the wood for the school this winter.

From the Educational Department, calling the attention of the Board to amendments in the law respecting school assessment.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT.

The Principal headed in a report of the attendance during the month of February at the several schools as follows:—

	On Roll. Average.
Collegiate Institute	170	151
Central School	504	433
South Ward	203	132
Third Ward	159	126
Auburn School	83	62
Total	1123	904

The report called attention to the state of the yards at the Central and Third Ward Schools.

The Secretary stated that he had collected during the month of February as fees, the sum of $113.99 from the Institute and $12.50 from the Public Schools.

Mr. McCLELLAND moved for re-consideration of the appointments of the committees made at the last meeting. The new Committee on Management does away with the old Visiting Committee, the appointment of which is called for by the Standing Rules of Order of the Board.

Mr. DENNISTOUN contended that the Board had no Standing Rules of Order, inasmuch as they had not yet adopted those of the last Board.

The CHAIRMAN held that Mr. Deanistoun was right.

Mr. McCLELLAND said he had been appointed Chairman of the Property Committee. As the duties of this appointment were becoming so onerous he could not possibly attend them, as it would occupy too much of his time. He suggested the appointment of sub-committees to look after the several schools.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. DENNISTOUN,—That Messrs. Romaine and Errett be added to the Property Committee, and that the Committee have power to elect their Chairman, —Carried.

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. SHAW, as Chairman of the Finance Committee reported as follows:—

The following accounts amounting to $160.15 and submitted to your committee for approval were found correct, and in accordance with the resolution were ordered to be paid, viz:—

Edward Courtney	$21.75
M. McFadden	14.20
Henry Owens	13.20
Peterboro' Gas Co'y., for coal	46.50
Henry Best	41.40

Your Committee having taken into consideration the communication received from the County Council, with reference to the grant of $800, on the express condition that County Pupils be admitted in the Collegiate Institute on the same terms as resident Town Pupils, and judging from information received, relative to grants from other Counties, in which High Schools are situated, your committee are of the opinion, the amount is not sufficient to warrant the acceptance, and therefore recommend that the Board continue to collect from County Pupils, such rates per month, as may be deemed advisable, in order to examine the assessment, and that the Secretary be requested to reply to the Council in accordance with the above.

Referring to the report received from the Town Council, relative to the Collegiate Institute, and accompanied by returns from the Secretaries of several Schools throughout the Province, showing items of receipts and expenditure in connection with High and Public Schools, your committee are unable to form a comparative estimate, the salaries paid, and Government Grants received, in many instances not stated. We notice, however, that a number of the Counties throughout the Province, contribute a large portion towards the maintainance of High Schools, and your committee feel confident, that if the large and wealthy County of Peterborough feel an interest in promoting the higher branches of education, that honorable body in Council assembled will at their first meeting contribute towards the support of county or union purposes and townships, a sum equal to any other County donating money for that purpose, and enable us to educate the pupils from the County, on the same terms, as resident town pupils.

The clause in the report referring to fees, was passed by the Board in October last, and a fee of fifty cents per month for resident pupils, and one dollar per month for non-residents has been enforced since 1st May last.

Your committee having learned that the town authorities contemplate collecting the taxes next quarterly, beg leave to submit for your approval a detailed statement of the appropriations, receipts and expenditure of our Schools for the current year, recommend that the Secretary be instructed to demand in the usual form from the Town Council the several amounts therein specified, one half of the amount required, to be paid in July, and the balance in December next.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEO. E. SHAW,
Chairman of Committee.

Peterborough, 8th March, 1878.

The report was received.

Moved by Mr. DUMBLE, seconded by Mr. SHAW,—That the estimates be referred back to the Finance Committee and that the Chairman of the Property Committee be ex-officio a member of the Finance Committee.—Carried.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. DENNISTOUN, Chairman of the Committee on Appointments, read and submitted the following report:—

Your committee have considered the suggestion made by the Principal at the last meeting of the Board with reference to the salary at present paid to the first Mathematical Master, and in view of the great importance which they believe it to be that the position should be filled by an able man, they recommend that the salary be raised by the sum of one hundred dollars per annum, such increase to take effect from the beginning of this year.

Your committee have considered the communication of Mr. McKee referred to them, and while deeply sympathizing with him in his affliction, are unable to see that they can recommend the granting to him of any pecuniary aid from the public monies of the school.

It having been stated that the practice of having writing contracts, as required by law, signed by the ratepayers and the proper representatives of the Board, has fallen into disuse, your committee respectfully direct all teachers to be required by the Secretary to sign such a contract, and that the same be signed by the Chairman and Secretary of the Board on their behalf, and that they be instructed accordingly. Compared this 26th All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. F. DENNISTOUN,
Chairman Com. on Appointments.

CONTRACTOR'S BONDS.

Moved by Mr. McCLELLAND, seconded by Mr. DENNISTOUN,—That the bonds given by Mr. Hemsbaugh for the due performance of the contract of building the Third Ward School be handed over to the proper persons.—Carried.

RULES OF ORDER.

Moved by Mr. ERRETT, seconded by Mr. ROMAINE,—That Messrs. Deanistoun, McClelland Cox, Stevenson, Kincaid and the mover be a committee to prepare Standing Rules of Order and By-laws for the Board, and that the same be reported next meeting of the Board for action.

Moved by Mr DUMBLE, seconded by Mr. McCLELLAND,—That the Committee on Appointments be instructed to revise the contract to be signed by the teachers.

PROTECTING THE MORALS OF THE PUPILS.

Mr. SHAW moved, seconded by Mr. DENNISTOUN,—That the Principal Mr. Jeffers, be instructed to dismiss the female pupils attending the Collegiate Institute and Public School, ten minutes prior to the usual time of closing of the school at 12 and 4 o'clock, provided such steps be taken without materially affecting the disciplines of the school, and that the Principal be instructed successfully to dismiss any pupil of the school proved to have used profane or obscene language in the hearing of any other pupil of the school.—Carried.

INCREASE OF FEES.

Moved by Mr ERRETT, seconded by Mr. LOCH,—That from and after the 1st day of April next, non-resident pupils attending the Collegiate Institute be charged two dollars per month.

In amendment it was moved that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee.

In the discussion of this resolution Messrs. Errett, Loch, and McClelland favored the raising of the fees to $2.50 per month at once, maintaining that ratepayers of the town had no right to be called upon to pay for the higher education of non-residents.

Messrs. Deanistoun, Shaw, Edmison, and Dumble, while admitting that the fees should be higher, advocated the raising of them by degrees, contending that if they were raised suddenly it would have the effect of driving away from the school many of the non-resident pupils who were now paying one dollar per month, as well as drawing government money. After the standing of the school has been established then the fees might be raised.

Mr. ROMAINE said he had come to the Board determined to raise the fees for the Institute as high as possible, but after hearing the discussion to-night it had somewhat changed his mind. He favored the suggestion of allowing the resolution to lay over as a notice of motion.

The amendment was withdrawn and the resolution laid over as a notice of motion.

Moved by Mr. SHAW, seconded by Mr. DUMBLE,—That a special committee consisting of Messrs. Dumble, Deanistoun, Edwards and McClelland and he moved, be appointed to take into consideration the assessment for school purposes of that portion of the township of Dosro now affiliated with this Board, and ascertain what proportion said section are entitled to pay, and report at the next regular meeting.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

PETERBOROUGH RACES.

The Annual Meeting—Keenly Contested and Model Races—Large Attendance —Fair and Honest Trotting.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Trotting Club came off on the Little Lake on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, and were, we are informed, the modal races of Canada—there being no pool selling, no gambling, no quarrelling, no whisky, and everything being conducted on the square. The committee had made excellent arrangements all through, and were confident there should be no cheating or foxing of races beforehand but that the winning horses should win on their merits. Another precaution taken was the barring of several horses in order that the green trotters should be brought to the front. Each of the races was keenly contested, and the time made was very fair considering that the track was a soft one, and owing to the mild weather extremely heavy. The following is a list of both day's races, with the results of each heat:—

FIRST DAY.

GREEN PURSE, $60.—Open to all horses that never won public money, owned in the Town and County of Peterborough. First horse, $35; second horse, $14; third horse, 10. Barring seven horses, Mile heats, best three in five.

The CHAIRMAN held that Mr. Deanistoun was right.

Mr. McCLELLAND said he had been appointed Chairman of the Property Committee. As the duties of this appointment were becoming so onerous he could not possibly attend them, as it would occupy too much of his time. He suggested the appointment of sub-committees to look after the several schools.

Mr. DUMBLE moved, seconded by Mr. DENNISTOUN,—That Messrs. Romaine and Errett be added to the Property Committee, and that the Committee have power to elect their Chairman, —Carried.

THE TORONTO TRIBUNE.—This excellent and enterprising journal is presenting each of its subscribers with a very handsome portrait of the Apostolic Delegate, Monsignor Conroy, one of which has been sent to us. The Tribune deserves the generous support of the reading community, and especially of the Catholics of the Dominion of all nationalities. It is thoroughly liberal and progressive in its views on public questions, and discusses them with vigour, courtesy, and intelligence. It never shirks the sparkling, disputes and controversies, or accepts as elements of the "reading" journals, and though it gives a proper relative share of attention to Irish and Catholic intelligence, its general get up is that of an excellent family newspaper which might well be welcomed in every household. As a further evidence of enterprise, Mr. Peter O'Leary, the well-known working mitre friend, has been engaged to write a weekly letter from the old country to the Tribune.

THE PROTESTANT HOME.

Report of the Home for the Past Thirteen Months.

The following is the report of the ladies of the Protestant Home from January 1st, 1877, to January 31st, 1878, thirteen months:—

PRESIDENT—Mrs. Reynolds.

VICE-PRESIDENTS—Mrs. Elder and Mrs. Mackie.

TREASURER—Miss Gilmour.

SECRETARY—Miss Rogers.

COMMITTEE—Mrs. W. G. Thompson, Mrs. Clement, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Fenwick, Mrs. Gilmour, Mrs. F. W. Hamilton, Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. C. Ormond, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. T. W. Robinson, and Mrs. Meek.

The Committee of the Peterborough Protestant Home in again rendering their annual report to their friends and supporters, would desire to thank God for his goodness and mercy during the year just past, in permitting them so to help the poor, and providing the means with which to give that help.

There are now in the House three old women and three children, besides the matron. Nine have been admitted, eight have left, and two have died; one of these an infant, the other an aged woman, formerly of Ashburnham, Mrs. Sarah Rowell, who had only been a few months an inmate.

The proposal to revive the Dorcas Society of the former year met with so little response, that the Committee felt that part of the work fanned upon them, and at the request of the Committee of the "Hall Trust," with the assurance of their co-operation, undertook the relief of a portion of the Protestant poor.

During the months of January, February, March and part of April, upwards of twenty families received a regular amount each week, and some others occasionally; in all, some ninety-six cases have been relieved.

The Treasurer's report will show how small a part of last year's expenditure has been contributed by the public. With the exception of the members' contributions, and of two or three who kindly sent without waiting to be called upon, nothing has been received but from the Hall Trust. The Town Council refused two years ago to give a grant towards the support of these they send to the Home; and the Protestant churches, who formerly gave a collection, have done lacking.

The Committee tender their thanks to the few friends who were kind enough to remember their existence, and contribute of their money, clothing or produce; to the medical men, who do not fail in their kindness to the Home and its inmates; to the clergymen who visit, as well as to the Christian friends, who from time to time read and pray with the inmates; to the editors who kindly insert donations, acknowledgments, &c., free, and to Mr. Romaine for a copy of the Review weekly.

I. ROGER, Sec. P. P. H.

A KIND OF PHILOSOPHY.

In church and in state,
It is rule or be ruled;
In courtship or marriage,
It is fool or be fooled;
In logic or law,
It is sell or be sold;
In gambling and trade,
It is trick or be tricked;
In treaty or war,
It is bust or be busted;
In the struggle of life,
It is eat or be eaten.

LEND A HELPING HAND.

Lift a little! Lift a little!
Neighbors, lend a helping hand
To that heavy-laden brother,
Who for weakness scarce can stand.
What to these with thy strong muscle,
Seems a light and easy load,
Is to him a ponderous burden,
Cumbering his pilgrim road.

Lift a little! Lift a little!
Effort gives one added strength;
That which staggers him at rising,
Thou canst hold at arm's full length.
Not his fault that he is feeble,
Not thy praise that thou art strong;
It is God makes lives to differ,
Some from wailing, some from song.

Lift a little! Lift a little!
Many they that need thy aid;
Many lying on the roadside,
Wounds of sin's dreary shade.
Pass not by, like Priest and Levite,
Heedless of thy fellow man,
But with heart and arms extended,
Be the Good Samaritan.

SALOON-KEEPER'S DEFENCE.

Rev. J. A. Campbell, of Winnipeg, lately preached a sermon in defence of the publicans of to-day, taking for his text that clause of the 19th verse of the 12th chapter of Matthew's Gospel:—"A friend of publicans and sinners." Some of the practical ideas advanced by the preachers are so closely applicable to the cause of Prohibition in which the EXAMINER labours, that we give them to our readers:—

"The publicans of our times are rational and responsible, and their souls must live for ever either amid the felicity and glory of heaven or amid the torments of the lost. We have observed that the publicans of our times are, as a class, intelligent men; some of them are possessed of a high degree of intelligence. Their possibilities for enjoyment and usefulness are immense. Their prospect is a solemn fact. They are members of the great human brotherhood. Christ regarded them as bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh. As such he was their friend. They are our kinsmen. They are our brothers. We should be their friend. No possible circumstances can justify upon our part enmity against them. They were liberal-minded. • • • •

We regard our modern publicans as wronged and misrepresented. They should have justice. First, let it be remembered that the highest civil authority of the land pronounces favorably of the traffic by licensing it. Government is supposed to prohibit what is totally bad, and to license what is good. By the license system the Government requires certain conditions, and it not only grants certain privileges, but also engages to afford protection. You see, the whole traffic is wrong. I do not disagree with you there, for I have not engaged to defend saloons, but saloon-keepers; but we should be careful how we judge men for engaging in a business which the highest civil authority of the land pronounces justifiable. Again, this class is frequently appealed to in common with others to aid in the support of church enterprises, to which appeal they generally accord a hearty and liberal response. Is it then consistent that the church, having received of their support and help, should turn and pour its maledictions upon them? Is it just that instead of thanks they should receive curses? I am sure that all intelligent honest-minded people will bear me out in the assertion that if it is proper to receive and solicit and receive financial aid from these men for the support of church interests and enterprises, justice, as well as the spirit of religion, must imperatively prohibit the application of unkind, disrespectful, severe epithets to them. More, it will demand a kind, generous effort to benefit them in return. A serious blunder is commonly committed in the mode of treatment adopted by those who wish to effect a reform in regard to this particular. They are made the object of malediction and denunciation instead of reasonable and honorable dealing. They are condemned and denounced on every hand, but how many of them have been kindly reasoned and remonstrated with? They have been called hard names, whipped, and cursed, so that some of them have come to think "No man careth for my soul." How different from the mode of treatment which Jesus employed! How different from the spirit of the Gospel! Again, we maintain that these men are grossly wronged and misrepresented when they are accounted as the cause of and made responsible for the drinking habits of the day. The fact is they are victims rather than criminals. They are a result rather than a cause. The law permits the traffic. Public opinion makes and maintains the law. It cannot be denied that public opinion is in favor of the traffic. While that continues there will be law for it. While there is law for it there will be persons to engage in the traffic, and the argument is entitled to some consideration, "If I dont some one else will." Let every liquor dealer in the city give up the business to-morrow, and in twenty-four hours most of their places will likely be filled. Public opinion must be elevated to a higher standard, and a prohibitory liquor law must be enacted and enforced before we can hope to see the traffic extinguished. The responsibility of a perpetuation of the drinking usages does not rest upon the saloon-keepers, or upon the manufacturers, or the drunkards of the community, but upon a class of men who are very numerous and considered respectable citizens, and mostly members of the Christian churches; they are the moderate drinkers. It is the reputable Christian wine drinkers who are the men who send forth from the high places of society, and sometimes even from the portals of the sanctuary, an unisspected, unrebuked, but powerful influence, which is secretly and silently doing on every side—among the young, among the aged, among the rich, among the poor, among even females—its work of death. Now as a friend of saloon keepers and those engaged in the liquor business generally, I propose to show my friendship by kindly and honestly declaring my views, and pendering my advice as a friend and brother. That the traffic is wrong I need not tell you. Doubtless you are all ready to admit the fact, and probably you have all at times reflected upon the sad deplorable results of the traffic. The immense expenditure it occasions, the wretchedness it has caused, the hopes it has blighted, the hearts it has broken the woe that it has entailed—all these things you have contemplated, and the contemplation has occasioned painful thoughts to your minds. Let me ask you as intelligent men, as men retaining a sense of right, honor and humanity, what is your duty? That duty I think is plain, put a stop to it! Temperance men are incompetent to deal with this matter alone; but with your help our land can be delivered from a system that blights and blasts and destroys, wherever it prevails. Stop the business prospectives. It will be to your personal advantage to do so. Use all your influence and effort to stop the traffic and it will be done. A question of expediency might arise, but Christ is your friend, and if you from honest conviction of right and duty give up the business he will take care of your interests and see that in the end you lose nothing by it. But here we come to a very important point and one that must be discussed if we would arrive at a satisfactory solution of the temperance question; we believe that all who are legally engaged in the traffic would be indemnified for every loss which they should sustain by sudden legal intervention in the form of a prohibitory liquor law. Now I think is the point to which the advocates of temperance have come, and here is the secret of their failure hitherto. They have talked about temperance. They have argued upon the subject. They have argued the necessity of legal prohibition. But this point has apparently escaped their notice, or they have arrived at a conclusion upon this point to hastily. They have not given it mature and unprejudical consideration. In our opinion, we can never have legal prohibition until the justice of indemnification be admitted and the principle be practically introduced. It cannot be expected that liquor dealers make all the sacrifices required to do away with intemperance. The friends of temperance must do more than talk; they must consent to bear a part of the sacrifice that must necessarily be incurred in putting away the traffic. Indeed, it would be great injustice to introduce at once a prohibitory law without indemnifying those men for their losses; and, whatever may be the disposition of the Government, I think it impossible. • • • • • •

Many have large property involved in the liquor business, and it would occasion to some a loss of several thousands of dollars should the business be suddenly stopped by law. This property they may have acquired through the business, but they did it legally, and they have a just claim to protection from any depreciation of value by legal action. The whole business is a social misfortune, and society in general should bear in common the sacrifice necessary for its suppression. • • • • • • The nation's honor is pledged and mortgaged to protect the property of these men, and though it may have been wrong to make such a covenant; yet such has been made, and it cannot be honorably and justly violated without a proper compensation. Some people blame our Government for not giving us a prohibitory liquor law; but, until public opinion provides the means for indemnifying these men for their losses financially, our Government cannot in justice inaugurate that very desirable measure. To do so would be unwarrantable and dishonorable tyranny and oppression. • • • • • •

Here is a common platform where both parties should meet, and where legal prohibition must rest. Legal prohibition! That means the emancipation of thousands of slaves of alcohol! It means emancipation of the dealers from a servitude which is becoming distasteful and intolerable to themselves! It means the eternal fettering of our most terrible foe! It means the emancipation of our city and of our country from a servitude most cruel and disheartening! Do we not all unite in praying, "Lord, give us legal prohibition?" But let us all add, "Give it to us honestly;" for God will not give it to us otherwise; and we may pray for it until doomsday, but unless we are willing honestly to bear our just portion of the sacrifice necessary to its consummation, it will avail nothing, and our prayers will be accounted of as the prayers of the wicked, which are abomination unto the Lord. We are warranted in believing that the men engaged in this business are ready to compromise upon this plan, ready to make their part of the sacrifice and to hail a prohibitory liquor law. We trust that the temperance people are also ready to accept this plan, and join in one grand, mighty coalition for the suppression and extermination of the liquor traffic. This would be an unmistakeable evidence of their sincerity. This would be upon the part of all a grand act of humanity and heroism which the world would behold with admiration, which would be crowned with most brilliant victory, and for which succeeding generations would call us blessed. May God speedily give us honest, legal prohibition. Amen,

DOMESTIC NOTES.

STALE bread may be steamed into freshness.

SALT meats should be simmered; they should not be fiercely boiled.

TO PREVENT SCORCHING.—To prevent scorching, the secret is simply to keep a basin or cup of water in the oven. The steam generated not only prevents scorching, but makes the meat cook nicer.

DESTROYER OF BED BUGS.—The quickest and best cure for them, I find, is to wash the bedstead with cold water and then sprinkle well with red or best clack pepper, and also sprinkle well where there is any sign of bugs.

TO PREVENT MILDEW ON PRESERVES.—Take the white of an egg and wet slightly both sides of a piece of letter paper sufficiently large to cover over the top of the preserves snugly. I have kept them free from mould and spoiling two years.

TO CLEAN KID GLOVES.—A good way to clean black kid gloves, says the Scientific American, is to take a teaspoonful of salad oil (sweet oil), drop a few drops of ink in it and rub it over the gloves with the tip of a feather; then let them dry in the sun.

TO GET RID OF BIRD LICE.—To keep insects off birds put the the least little bit of kerosene oil under each wing, say as much as remains on the little finger after you have let the drop fall off; do this every ten days until all are removed; clean the cage well every day; scour it in hot water; use powdered borax, but no soap.

PARKER HOUSE MUFFINS.—Boil one quart of milk; when nearly cool stir in one quart sifted flour, one teaspoonful salt, one half-cup of yeast; then stir in three well beaten eggs; let it rise in a warm place in winter and a cool place in summer, eight or ten hours; when risen light, stir in one tablespoonful melted butter and bake in iron muffin-moulds.

TO PURIFY THE COMPLEXION.—Eat an orange or two every morning before breakfast, drink plenty of lemonade not sweetened; never drink tea, coffee, nor any kind of stimulants; do not use soap on the face or neck; take a sponge bath every morning, either cold or tepid, in water made soft with powdered borax, a teaspoonful in a quart of water.

WHEN TO PAINT.—Paint spread on in the fall or winter will last twice as long as that put on in the spring or summer. When applied in cool weather it dries slowly and forms a hard crust, while that which is spread in the hot weather loses most of the oil by its being driven into the wood by the heat, leaving only dry lead on the surface which easily crumbles off. Another advantage is gained by fall or winter painting, and that is the absence of small flies that so often collect on the paint.

HARD SOAP.—Four four gallons of boiling water on to four pounds of washing soda, and three pounds of unslacked lime; let it stand until clear and then drain off; place it on the fire in an iron pot; put in six pounds of good, clean fat; boil two hours—stir most of the time; pour one gallon of cold water on to the mixture of soda and lime that has been once used; let it settle clear and add this cold solution to the boiling soap whenever it is in danger of boiling over; add only a pint or so at a time; try the soap by cooling a little in a saucer; about thirty minutes before removing from the fire, add four ounces of borax; wet a tub to prevent sticking; turn in the soap and let it stand until solid; cut into bars.

FROZEN POTATOES.—Probably there are very few people who have any idea of the immense amount of money that is lost every year from potatoes getting frozen, and then being thrown away under the idea that all their value is gone. Treated as mine have been, frozen potatoes are nearly as good for cooking as if they never had been frozen. The essential point is to never let them thaw out till they are wanted. If any potatoes get frozen put them out on the north side of the house, or somewhere where they will not thaw. Then when they are wanted, drop them into boiling water—take care that there are not too many so that the water will be chilled—and cook them. They will turn out as good as ever, much better than if they had been thawed out in cold water, as is generally recommended. —Toronto Globe.

Vesuvius must look to his laurels, he has several rivals in the field. A Chilian meteorologist predicts great atmospherical disturbances all over the globe from the 16th to the 28th of March, on the 26th and 28th of August, and again on the 24th and 26th of September. He also prophesies a snow storm in August.

It is estimated that fifty head of poultry will make more than enough manure for an acre of land—seven cwt. of guano being the usual quantity applied per acre, and poultry manure being even richer than guano in ammonia and fertilising salts. No other stock will give an equal return in this way, and these figures demand careful attention from the large farmer.

Cows giving milk need an abundance of water. The dry hay usually given affords little material for milk, and even with abundance of roots, unless water is placed within easy reach, cows will tend to fatten rather than to milk production. A great difficulty in cold weather is in having water so far from the yard that cows will suffer long before going from comfortable quarters to obtain it.

A cablegram from Rome says that the Italian Government warned the Vatican authorities, through the inspector of Police, that they could take no measures to prevent a possible disturbance at the Pope's Coronation, as the Pope did not recognise the King of Italy. The Vatican is indignant, and it has been decided that the Coronation shall be strictly private. An understanding between the Papacy and Italy is as far off as ever.

On Friday of last week, George Kane, a spectator at the Port Perry races, was killed. He was looking at the race in which three horses were running. Two had gone past and Kane and others went on the track to watch them. The third horse came up and struck him a terrible blow knocking him down. He was a carpenter and had been working on the construction of the Lindsay Extension. His wife is dead, but he has children in Toronto. He was about thirty-six years of age, and was a quiet, inoffensive man.

The Welland Council ordered to be advertised and sold, bed, bedding and cook-stove belonging to the widow of the late village Treasurer. The old lady has been confined to her bed, being very aged and infirm. She lay in the bed at the time it was sold, and the attendants were even ordered to remove her. Fifty-five cents were only realised. This happened in a Christian (?) community, the corporation of which claims to have $3,000 or $4,000 surplus. This is about the worst measure we ever heard of, and deserved to be handed down to future generations. Pass them around.

A case of considerable importance to teamsters was tried at Hamilton a few days since. A teamster was charged with having crowded another driver who was attempting to pass by on the right side, into the ditch, resulting in serious damages to the latter's two-cut. It was urged in defence that in attempting to pass the driver should have taken the left side instead of the right. The case was dismissed, as the law is very distinct on the point that a team in passing another on the road may take the left side. Cut this out and past it in your hat for reference.

A batch of about 200 live bass arrived in Ottawa on the 26th ult. from Lake Ontario in charge of Fishing Inspector Gilchrist, of Port Hope. They were splendid specimens, some being nearly five pounds in weight. Mr. Gilchrist, assisted by Fishery Constables Webster and Barbeau, proceeded at once to Campbell's Bay, where the Fishery Department has prepared ponds in which to place this breeding stock. It is computed that at least half a million young bass will be hatched from them this spring. The next consignment will consist of maskinonge from Rice Lake.

SAYS the Kingston Whig:—"At the trial of an Orangeman case in Belleville, a learned doctor objected to take an oath, declaring that he had religious scruples against it, that he acted on the scriptural injunction, "swear not." The statutes were quoted to him, but he still objected. Getting his independent views against those of the court or any other man. The magistrate noted the doctor's objection and allowed him to step down and out. We fear this precedent would be apt to cause religious scruples when witnesses are wanted to shed light particular subjects at particular times."

WEIGHT RESPONSIBLE.—When plenty of whiskey is added to a horse race the results can be generally anticipated, but it would require a pretty exalted imagination to forecast those following from the union of the two at Port Perry last week. Two men stole, cars made an outlaw, two badly injured, several with their faces and hands mangled from a fight in which teeth and claws were used like beasts of prey, and others beaten and their lives endangered are horrors enough for one event. There are those who ridicule the attempts made by abstainers and prohibitionists to get rid of the evils of the liquor traffic. Is it not about time that these gentlemen should either come to ridicule or else proposed a better plan?—Fleshertor.

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

THE AMERICAN EYE-SALVE is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly. Compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. RINGWORM and OLD CHRONIC SORES, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the AMERICAN EYE-SALVE. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. PETTIT'S AMERICAN EYE-SALVE," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrap, Circulars, Advertisements etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TICDOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very strong, in the SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

known as the "Christie Farm," adjoining the Village of Keene.
This farm is beautifully situated: Within five minutes walk of the post office, of the school, and of three churches. The soil is of best quality and well cultivated. The fences good, and there are two never-failing wells on the lot,—there are two dwelling houses on it, but one or both can be purchased with the farm. The barn is frame, the stables and sheds commodious. There is a fruit bearing orchard, young, consisting of two acres, on the farm.
This is a very desirable property as it is in one of the best Township in the province, and cannot be surpassed for grain growing.

THE HONEST FARMER.

(From Temple Magazine.)

Happy I count the farmer's life,
Its various round of wholesome toil;
An honest mate with loving wife,
An offspring nail'd to the soil.

Thrice happy, surely, in his breast
Plain wisdom and the trust in God;
His path more straight from east to west
Than politicians ever trod.

His gain's no loss to other men;
His stalwart blows hurt no wound;
Not busy with his tongue or pen,
He questions truth fairly and ground.

Partner with seasons and the sun,
Nature's co-worker; all his skill
Obedience, ev'n as on waters run,
Winds blow, heark, bidst their law fulfil

A vigorous youthood, clean and bold;
A manly manhood; cheerful age;
His comely children proudly hold
Their parentage best heritage.

Unhealthy work, faint spirit, shame,
Guilt—inactive vain—restless strife?
O cities, vain, insane insane!
How happy is the farmer's life!

ADVICE TO GRANGERS.

Some Ideas for their Consideration.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR.—You will very much oblige by giving the following letter a place in your valuable paper.

FELLOW GRANGERS,—I am indeed very much pleased to see that at least some of our mechanics and merchants are trying to establish the cash system. This sir, is what I call a move in the right direction, and I do hope that our several Grangers will as far as they possibly can, assist in carrying out the very thing we have been trying to introduce, and not give those parties a chance to say that after putting on cheek enough to say we are going to sell for cash only, that the Grangers are the last to deal with those who are making themselves martyrs in introducing this system so much needed. But let us send our orders and cash to support a legitimate home trade, instead of sending our cash to other cities and towns to the great disadvantage of our nearest townspeople, and to our own disvantage, as farmers in many ways (not because we have not got good value for our money.) When I look fairly and squarely at it and go into our own market, which is kept up by our own neighbors, and there offer my hay, straw, beef, mutton, pork, eggs, fresh and firkin butter, vegetables, &c., and other articles to the very people we have refused to deal with except at a certain advance above invoice cost, say 10 or 15 per cent. Of late, having a chance to get somewhat posted in buying and selling perishable goods, I find that it takes a great deal more to pay hands, taxes, rent, loss by railroad, fire, and many other things that it is impossible to know till we have passed through the mill, as the saying goes, I feel for one that we ought not to stoop so low as to ask a man to show us his invoice every time we deal with him. Especially when there is ample means for us to know whether Mr. Merchant is charging us too much or not. For if we look at almost any of our leading newspapers they will keep us posted as to prices. Now, sir, I think every question ought to have a right and a wrong side to it, or in other words let us have a comparison. Suppose when we take a load of hay, grain, or stock or any other commodity that we raise on our farms to Peterborough market, Mr. Townsman wants, we will say a load of hay, the farmer asks $17 per ton, Mr. Townsman says it don't cost any more than $10; show me your invoice. And again, take a horse; Well, what do you want for your horse today? $100. It don't cost more than $65 to raise him, just show me your invoice. Again, we take a lamb; well, what do you want for your lamb? $2.25. Pshaw! It don't cost any more than $1.25; just show us your invoice. So we might go on. But, sir, I have lived on the farm on which I now live (and have less inclination to leave it than I ever had) for about 30 years, and have during a great portion of that time been engaged in raising a great many horses, hay, and lambs, and I know that they can be raised for the above cost shown by Mr. Townsman. But Townsman does not take into consideration the number of risks and losses we as farmers come to in raising our stuff, articles or animals for market, and we in like manner, the very many and varied losses that townsmen come to year by year when engaged in their business; therefore, I say, consider is this new ingoice buying not absurd? If we cannot trust to one merchant whom we know to be in a good position to buy cheap, and willing to give us the full benefit of our cash, we had better try another. Surely there are enough of people in business in Peterborough, to ensure strong competition, and I think there ought to be at least one honest man in each business in our County Town. And especially so, while, as I mentioned before, there are ample means for us to keep posted as to what things should cost. This is not as it was a number of years ago, before railroads and telegraph, &c. Away with that want of confidence, such as asking for invoices, the very thing in itself to make an honest man dishonest, and keep two invoices. I know we as farmers, would look rather gruff at our returns, if we had to send all our wheat, hay, straw, vegetables, &c., to the markets we are now supporting with our cash, and Toronto and Montreal would soon be glutted, if it were not for our own County towns, which make a market for our coarse stuff.

A word here about railroads—I think it is pretty barefaced work, when we appoint a man to weigh, and send all our grain over the Midland Railway, and also order from towns and cities, nearly all the stuff we use in our houses and on our farms, from these cities, which never paid one cent to these Rail Roads, that bring us our supplies, and leave our County Town to pay for that road, while Toronto and Montreal merchants get all the benefit. This too, I say, in my opinion, is nothing more or less than wronging us. What would we be, if we had not got Peterborough to build the Midland Railway? and again, I say, shame, to make any class of people pay for an article and another use it. Now, sir, after all my Grange experience, I feel that to a very great extent the trouble is just with ourselves, we want to do our cash business only, and not to deal with a set of fellows who, for a time seem, call themselves agents, and run several the country, and drive a fine horse, too, in many instances, and sponge a living on us farmers. I say, these are the most dangerous, lazy, lying set of men I know of, these are the men that we, as Grangers want to exterminate. Not the man who comes into our county town, and tries by hard honest work to make a living; as every man we can induce to come to our county town, and establish a business, we, as farmers are putting money into our own pockets, inasmuch as every man we get thus to settle among us helps, to pay our County taxes, and consumes our farm produce, and assists in getting our labor cheap, and in many other ways benefits us as well. I can scarcely close without saying a little more about these agents, as I feel satisfied they do more harm financially to us farmers, than any other class of men, I feel satisfied they do more harm at present to Canada that all the horse thieves in the United States and Canada both; these are the men we want to black mail, not the man who comes and settles with his family, either in our town or any place in the county. I feel, we, as farmers do not try and give men as much work as we ought. I believe in encouraging men in every reasonable legitimate way to settle in our own town and county, and not vent our spleen on the hard working mechanics and merchants, who have come and spent their time and talents in trying to build up our town, as well as our county. As I know, and am prepared to prove that whatever helps the town, helps the county.

Now to my brother Grangers, I would say, do not go to extremes, as I fear we are apt to do, and thus over shoot the mark. But let us carefully and wisely see to our own interests, while we try as far as possible to assist any man or men who are trying to enforce a cash system in our own county town; and thus keep our trade at home, by dealing with men who, we know, are in a position to buy cheap, and are honest enough to give cash buyers the full benefit of their money. And again, I would say, for any sake throw away this invoice system of dealing, as I have found not long since that there are some three or four parties now in Canada reaping a very rich harvest by this invoice system, and not one of them I believe lives in the County of Peterborough. But this is a thing that would make us very personal in our remarks to prove, but I think that ere long it will come out, as I find quite a number have already got wind of it. I may at some further time speak more definitely on this invoice arrangement.

A FRIEND OF THE GRANGERS.

THE EMMET CENTENARY.

Lecture by General T. F. Burke.

General T. F. Burke, "Irish orator, patriot, and exile," delivered a lecture in the Royal Opera House, Toronto, on Wednesday evening last, his subject being entitled "Emmet, the cause for which he died." The theatre was packed from floor to ceiling with an attentive and, to all appearance, enthusiastic audience.

Mr. PATRICK BOYLE, in introducing the lecturer, said that he had no doubt the gentleman would be well known to many of them from his having been so long in Toronto. He need not remind them that he was an Irishman, born a native of that gallant county Tipperary, where there is no more love for a landlord than the devil has for holy water. (Laughter and cheers.) He thought they owed a debt of deep gratitude to the Grattan Association for having brought their distinguished countryman among them again. He would not take up further time, but would introduce to them Mr. Burke.

General BURKE on coming forward was cheered most loudly, a compliment which he appeared to accept with easy grace. He said that after the eloquent remarks of his friend Mr. Boyle, he experienced that sort of embarrassment which he had hoped he would not have felt on appearing before a Toronto audience. He thought it strange that persons in Toronto had been dealing somewhat freely with his name and that of a friend. He was indeed astonished, and besides, he regretted exceedingly that one's character should be assailed, and his convictions misrepresented. He did not come among them to add one drop to the cup of bitterness, or to incite to the committal of a single act that would bring disgrace upon them or him. What had been said of him and his friend would not rob them of a single iota of their popularity, nor would it lead them away from their grand object, the ultimate redemption of their native land. (Cheers.) The Irish people are a people with strong convictions, and a never-dying love of home, and they would not readily surrender those convictions. There is no country more willing to concede to others their right to love their native land than Ireland; but the Irish people desire that they shall be permitted to love theirs. Ten thousand troops had been the quota mentioned as being required from Canada pending the settlement of the present war troubles. These men were going to help perpetuate the glory of the British Empire. The Irish people would sympathise with this. But Ireland has nothing to do with this farther; for to the Irish people Ireland belongs, and the Irish people belong to Ireland. What an awful day was that one hundred years ago! Then was born a man of pure soul and of noble character; a man possessed of dignity of purpose, inherited from his parents—Robert Emmet. On a day in September, 1803, that same man was hanged. What if he had succeeded in his enterprise instead of failed? It is true that treason is treason if it does not succeed, but if it does succeed then is is not treason. Washington was just another Emmet, but only he succeeded in freeing his country and asserting its independence; Emmet failed, and his life paid the forfeit. He did not care whether Ireland's freedom came from the faith of England or the faith of Rome, but Irish freedom he was bound to have. Religion was not instituted by God to make discontents, but for the purpose of making men better than he would be without it; for guiding our conduct so as [illegible] we shall be fitted for the next. [illegible] never intended as separate Protestants from Catholics. (Cheers.) It was never intended that the Orangemen should be banded together to oppress those of different beliefs; and it was pitiable to see how far this feeling is carried. He did not believe in the present mode of warfare—that Quakerish system which advocates one waiting quietly in a corner until he sees what the Good Lord will do for him in His own good time. They were all given hands to do with and brains and intelligence to direct, and he would not be found among those occupying the despicable position of which he had spoken. He believed in the ultimate redemption of Ireland, and no kind of political economy could teach him that that end was to be gained by prayers and supplications; it was to be accomplished only by the sword and bayonet. (Loud cheers.) He had been long in the cause, and he would not retract a single word he had ever uttered; and did he want to do so he would not choose Toronto as the scene of his apostacy.—Toronto, the dwelling-place of the grand old patriot Mike Murphy. Yesterday, as he (the lecturer) stood on the grave of that purest of Irish patriots, he thought of how his eye flashed when the wrongs of Ireland were recounted. (Cheers.) After referring to the fact that he had seen it stated in an evening paper in this city that after the treaty of peace had been signed the Russian troops had been singing "Glory Hallelujah," the speaker said he would like to know why it is that Russia is still pouring down troops towards Turkey to the exclusion of all traffic? Were they sent there to join in the Hallelujah chorus? He would ask any one present, not blinded by prejudice, whether Endgland ever had greater cause to be ashamed than she has at present? After referring in terms of ridicule to the recent estimate of the English army published in a Toronto paper, the speaker recalled the words of Napoleon, who said that the people of England were destined to be shopkeepers, and had better keep their hands free from Continental politics. He was surprised to see from Toronto papers that their editors had been dragging Ireland into the settlement of these war troubles. But Ireland stands alone where she always stood; she is held in subjection only by the power of the bayonet. She had, however, an arm to fight with and a tongue with which to ask her children to come to her assistance. She is not now as she has been represented—a corpse upon a dissecting table; but is a vigorous country thirsting to assert her independence. (Loud cheers.) It was the bickerings and jealousies of the past—the want of united action among the Irish people—which had kept them so long in their enslaved condition. He would not care what an Irishman's principles were—whether he admired most the image of a William or the statue of a James—he could cross the bloody Boyne to shake hands with either. The land belongs to both alike, and they ought to struggle together to gain for themselves an independent nationality. (Cheers.) He characterized the Home Rule movement as babyish; as something to amuse Irishmen till they are in a position to do better. When the thirteen colonies sent their representatives to England to demand certain concessions which they deemed theirs by right, they were told to go back and consider themselves happy in that they had got so much. The colonies had exhausted the avenues of conciliation, but without getting redress. Did they sit down quietly and submit? No! they rose and asserted their liberty; and now we have that grand free country, the United States, where the honest man can earn a good livelihood, and sit under his own fig tree. Ireland must also abandon her war of words, and achieve her independence in the same way as did the thirteen colonies. If eloquence oratory, poetry, or music could have made Ireland free, she would have been free long ago. (Cheers) and laughter.) He had a great dislike to sentimental Irishmen, of which there are a great number in New York—Irishmen who on the 18th of March meet and drain a few bottles of wine to the memory of "dear old Ireland," describe her as the most glorious country under the sun; that there are walls around her for her defence thicker than the Chinese wall; that she is the land of heroes and martyrs and saints, and the birth-place of the handsomest women in the world—and God knows that is about the most truthful thing they do say. (Loud applause.) But that is the evil of it; for if you but say "Ireland" to them next day they take it as an insult. If Ireland was ever worth fighting for, the lecturer proceeded, she is now. If any man had cause to be tired of suffering for Ireland he had. He had tramped a cell from whence he could see the gallows on which it was proposed to hang him; he had trod on the soil where he expected he was to be buried; and had suffered all sorts of cruelties; but he was as willing as ever to die for such a grand old land as Ireland is. (Tremendous cheering.) He had abstained always from dwelling on that inhumanity which that nation which had so long held them in bondage had practised—upon him; on the treatment they had experienced while in prison from this infamous power, or the devlish way in which they were tortured. He had refrained from doing this from a sense of delicacy in not wishing to hold himself up before them as a martyr. He hoped that when the time does come when Ireland shall throw off her thraldom that he will be there to participate in the struggle, no matter how gloomy or how brilliant it may be God does everything for those who are willing to do for themselves; and if the Irish people will agree to cast aside all sectional animosities—animosities which it is the policy of England to maintain and foster—and unite in one grand movement, they will be able to win for themselves their independence, not without. The Irish people are much superior to what they once were, and if the opportunity will but offer itself they will not fail to strike for their freedom. Freedom was to God-given right, and one which belonged to the Irish people as well as to other nations. This freedom Ireland must have. If her people can get it by fair means so much the better; but get it by fair or by foul means get it she must. Speaking of Irish landlords, the lecturer said that he would not have the slightest hesitation in killing the one who would come and turn his parents or sisters out of the house they and their forefathers had occupied for generations. He had no desire to play the role of a sanguinary person; but as a matter of [illegible] land would be the better of a deal of blood-letting. Nations, unlike individuals, have no hereafters, and therefore he thought that they should answer for their misdeeds in this world If England had to pay for the murders and cruelties she has perpetrated her reckoning will be a terrible one. For himself, he hoped he would not die before he had balanced his account with her. (Cheers.) It was impossible to say whether there was or was not to be peace in Europe, but if England is embroiled in a war with Russia then would be the time for Ireland to strike a blow for her freedom. England may expect that we will pay her back for all the evil she has done. After exhorting his listeners to unity of action, the lecturer closed by thanking the members of the Grattan Association for their kindness to him and the audience for their patient hearing.

Napoleon the Great on the Eastern Question.

On the 6th of November, 1816 Napoleon was a prisoner at St. Helena, and in a conversation with Las Casas said:

"Russia has a vast superiority over the rest of Europe, in regard to the immense powers she can call up for the purpose of invasion, together with the physical advantages of her situation under the pole, and packed by eternal bulwarks of ice. Who can avoid shuddering at the thought of such a vast mass, unassailable on the flanks or in the rear, descending upon us with impunity; if triumphant overwhelming everything in its course, or if defeated, retiring amidst the cold and desolation, which may be called their forces of reserve, and possessing every facility of issuing forth again at every opportunity. Constantinople is, from its situation, calculated to be the seat and centre of Universal Dominion."

Again on the 14th of February, 1817, Dr. O'Meara enquired of the Emperor if it were true that Alexander of Russia, intended to seize Constantinople. The Emperor replied:

"All his thoughts are directed to the conquest of Turkey. We have had many discussions about it. At first I was pleased with his proposals, because I thought it would enlighten the world to drive those brutes, the Turks, out of Europe, but when I reflected upon the consequences and saw what a tremendous weight of power it would give to Russia on account of the number of Greeks in the Turkish Dominions who would naturally join the Russians, I refused to consent to it, especially as Alexander wanted to get Constantinople, which I would not allow, as it would disturb the equilibrium of power in Europe."

Subsequently, in another conversation speaking upon this allimportant subject, the Emperor said:

"In the course of a few years Russia will have Constantinople and the greatest part of Turkey and all Greece. Almost all the cajoling and flattery which Alexander practiced towards me was to gain my consent to effect this object. In the natural course of things, in a few years Turkey must fall to Russia. The powers it could injure, who could oppose it, are England, France, Prussia and Austria. Now, as to Austria, it will be very easy for Russia to engage her assistance by giving her Servia and other Provinces bordering on the Austrian Dominions. The only hypothesis that France and England may ever be allied with sincerity will be in order to prevent this. But even this alliance will not avail, France, England and Prussia cannot prevent it. Russia and Austria can at any time effect it."

The foregoing furnishes but one more instance of the remarkable power possessed by Napoleon the Great of forecasting events. As anticipated, England and France united during the Crimean war to avert the disasters which overhung the Turkish empire, it now remains to be seen whether the hour has arrived when the balance of the prophecy will be fulfilled, England Austria and Russia playing the respective parts assigned to them by the exile at St. Helena.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

A Man beats a Friend to Death, while Drunk.

TORONTO, March 5.—The "Telegram" has the following special from Newcastle, Ont., dated to day: "On Wednesday last about 11 o'clock two men, John Graham and Wm. Potts, started in one waggon to go home a few miles distant. The men when sober are hard working and peaceable farmers, and when drunk, and they were drunk on this occasion, were notorious fighting men, and as ferocious as bull dogs. A grudge had existed between them for years, and when about a mile from this place they fell to quarrelling, and there was a row of a desperate charater. One of the party, Potts, was seen shortly afterwards looking for his hat, and declaring with an oath that he had given that "Big Graham the worst beating he ever had in his life." Four men are ready to swear to this, while Graham was picked up bleeding and insensible, and carried home by his friends, only to die a day later from his injuries. A Coroner's Jury was summoned and an inquest was held several miles out in the country, and a verdict of "Accidental Death" returned but, from what evidence, nobody seems to know, as the place of holding the inquest was so distant.

HOREWOOD.

LARGE EAGLE CAPTURED.—We are informed that Mr. George Peters, of Dummer, captured a mammoth eagle on his farm one day last week. Mr. Peters, it appears, does a little business in raising himself a number of fine cattle which infest his farm, and accordingly had several bits of poison in different parts of his woods for this purpose. On going his usual rounds one morning, Mr. Peters was surprised to see a very large bird in proximity to a dead cow. On his bring near one of the bits. The bird fell stone dead, and discovered it to be an eagle of very large dimensions. It measured from the extremity of one wing to the other 7 feet 6 inches. The eagle is now being stuffed by Mr. Peters, and will be placed in the Museum of Victoria College, Cobourg. The eagle is the second that has been captured in the township of Dummer, the first one having been caught in a trap by Mr. W. H. Cottingham and the Misses Stephenson some years since. The eagle is a splendid specimen of the species, and were a number of them in the township of Dummer at one time. The eagle is said to be very destructive to young lambs, pigs, &c., and is a bird of great strength. Mr. Peters was offered $10 for the eagle, but refused it, as he intends to keep it as a curiosity.

THE DEBATE ON THE BUDGET.

The debate that followed Hon. Mr. Cartwright's Budget speech has been somewhat similar, in length, to that on the address; but happly unlike it in tone. The debate on the address was full of personal recrimination and bitter references toward political opponents, while that on the Budget was for the most part characterised by calmness on the part of the speakers, descending at times to dullness and dreariness. Mr. Plumb's speech of several hours duration was perhaps the greatest affliction members have suffered during the existence of this parliament. The inanities of the golden calf of the Tory pic-nics were the more noticeable as being in strong contrast to the matter-of-fact utterances and plain business-like arguments of the gentleman to whom he pretended to reply, and also of him who followed. Mr. John Macdonald, of Toronto, whom the Conservatives have been wont to point to as an authority on business matters, and whose commercial record proves him no mean calculator of cause and effect in trade, took strong grounds in favour of the Finance Minister's policy. By a review of the values of exports and imports for the last ten years, he showed that the excessive importations of the years from 1872 to 1875 inclusive, were the undoubted cause of the commercial crisis, of which, let us hope we now see the beginning of the end. He blamed the banks as well as the importers and merchants for the recklessness with which trade had been carried on; and declared that he would be a dishonest man if he attempted to place the responsibility on the government. He held that protection would have been no remedy, as it would have merely substituted over-production for over-importation, and then instead of the English merchant having to bear part of the burden, Canada would have to bear it all herself. He calculated that duties and charges gives the Canada manufacturer a clear advantage of thirty per cent over the British maker, and held that to be abundant for any man of brains, courage or character. He thought the course pursued by the government both wise and patriotic—indeed the only course that could have been adopted under the circumstances; and claimed that the present tariff was best for the manufacturer, the consumer, and for every one. Mr. Plumb made himself ridiculous by attempting, in his own peculiar way, to answer Mr. Macdonald. Mr. Bertram followed in a speech, a report of which will be given next week. It will not be denied, even by his strongest political opponents, that Mr. Bertram is in a good position to speak with considerable authority on those matters upon which he touched in the course of his remarks. It is pleasing too, to know from correspondents in the House that the members' seats which had been vacated during the dreary delivery of Mr. Plumb, rapidly filled up when Mr. Bertram began to speak, and that he was listened to with interest by all, as one who knew what he was talking about, and how to say it with advantage. This recorded fact is a good corroboration of the Mail correspondents' reference to him as "a pleasant speaker." The best reference to his speech is a recommendation to read it.

Mr. Bertram's speech was made on Tuesday. On Thursday after members had generally spoken, Sir John Macdonald, at nearly midnight moved the following resolution:—

"That this House is of opinion that the welfare of Canada requires the adoption of a national policy, which by a judicious readjustment of the tariff will benefit and foster the agricultural the mining, and the manufacturing interests of the Dominion."

"That such a policy will retain in Canada the thousands of our fellow-countrymen now obliged to expatriate themselves in search of the employment denied them at home; will restore prosperity to our struggling industries, now so sadly depressed, prevent Canada from being made a secrifice market; will encourage and develop an active Provincial trade; and moreing, as it ought to do, in the direction of reciprocity of tariffs with our neighbours, so far as the varied interests of Canada may demand, will greatly tend to preserve for this country eventually a reciprocity of trade."

This is of a piece with the clap-trap motion made last session; and circumcises simply nothing. Professing to be in the interests of Protectionists, it gives no pledge that those supporting it would if they had the power place higher duties on imports. As we have before shown "a national policy" may mean anything; and the truly national policy is that which looks to the national revenue, without vain and mischievous attempts to interfere with industrial interests. Such antagonistic interests as those mentioned in the resolution could not in any case be met by any "policy." What would be protection to manufacturing would be prostration toward mining and agriculture; and any protection to mining or agriculture would be sure to fall heavily on manufacturers. Strange to say, the two very important industries of lumbering and fishing are omitted. Why? The second and wizard-like clause of the resolution is simply laughable in view of the uncertainty of the first; and it might as readily be applied to a Free Trade resolution in the United States Congress, as to a professedly Protectionist one in the Canadian House of Commons, and perhaps with a little more force. But while the vote on this resolution actually commits no one on either side of the division list to any line of conduct as regards a fiscal policy, it was evidently intended as a censure on the government's policy, and was therefore properly regarded by the Premier as a virtual motion of want of confidence, and as such should be voted down. The Opposition expected no more and no less when it was brought in; but they do expect at next election to raise the outcry that the government and its supporters are adverse to the prosperity of the agricultural, mining and manufacturing interests of the Dominion; and in spite of its absurdity they expect to catch some fools by it. They look on the electorate as so many birds to be caught with chaff, but before the year is out they will find they have gone the wrong way about their attempts to regain the popular confidence they lost by the commission of crimes against the commonweal, they have never shown sorrow for, and which they would be likely to commit again had they opportunity.

THE ORANGE BILLS FIZZLE.

After the failure on the part of those to whom the duty was intrusted, to legally advertise the notice of application to Parliament, for special Acts of Incorporation for the Orange Associations of Eastern and Western Ontario, we had thought all was up with that Tory tool till the next session of the Provincial Legislature. Not so, however. At a period of the proceedings when it was known to be impossible to deal with the measure, even had any decision been arrived at. Mr. Merrick asked leave to introduce a Bill for the purpose mentioned, and for the suspension of the Rules of the House so as to permit of such introduction. It is quite plain that the whole of the movements of those who have taken these Orange Bills in hand have been with election purposes primarily in view. It is quite likely though, that they like other over-smart plotters, have over-reached themselves, and disadvantaged rather than helped the Tory party by their tortuous tactics. Probably the carelessness evinced toward the Bills before the session opened was intended to avoid compromising the Conservatives with the Roman Catholic voters, with the idea that it could be made all right with the Orangemen anyway. This was evidently a mistake; for the many Orangemen who with honest ardour, however unreflectingly aroused, are determined to push the claims of their body to a special Act, could not brook that their desire should be thwarted for a whole session by the party plans of a few wire pullers. So those who place their Orangeism before their Conservatism made it uncommonly uncomfortable for the "friends" of the measure in parliament. In order to appease the sogerness of these men; and calm the storm of indignation that threatened to defeat all the plans to catch the Orange vote, another dodge had to be resorted to. This led to the farcical action of Mr. Merrick, in putting his notice on the paper on a government day, when it could not possibly be come up to. Not only so; he deliberately allowed several days to pass in which he might have put his measure, (if he had one,) before the Private Bills Committee, and was careful to take no action till after that committee had reported for the last time. Even had these preliminaries not been neglected, the time chosen was so late that the five days posting of the Bill would have gone beyond the close of the session. The rules of the House were utterly disregarded, and all opportunity of explanation suffered to pass without improvement. This being the case, it is likely that the little game of the Tory manipulators has been utterly spoiled. They have so plainly sold the Orangemen who resolved to agitate year by year for a special Act of incorporation, that they may become so disgusted as to give at least but faint support to Tory candidates, if they do not indeed turn in utter disgust from those who are attempting to use them like children and fools. At the same time the very attempt to satisfy the unsophisticated Orangemen will spoil the hoped-for conciliation of the Roman Catholics tried by the "mistake" in the Orange Incorporation advertising. So that those who have tried to work up votes by tickling the distaste of Orangemen and Catholics for each other are not unlikely to have "put their foot in it" badly. Serve them right too.

In the meantime the Orange Bills are delayed; but they are sure to appear as a card in the hands of Tory spouters at the coming elections; a card, however, the playing of which is likely to work the Conservative cause as much harm as good. In this West Peterborough for instance the Conservative representative in the Ontario Assembly cannot well afford to have any of his zealous friends allude to those Orange Bills, in view of his record. In 1876 when the special Act of Incorporation was up for discussion Mr. Scott said:—

"It had not been shown that the general Act was incapable of giving the Orange body its rights, and the statements of the Attorney-General had convinced him that the general Act was sufficient. He had taken pains to ascertain the feeling of the Orangemen in his own constituency in regard to this matter, and found that it was preponderately against the special Act of incorporation. He believed it was the duty of the Government under the circumstances to see that the special Bill was repressed."

This was either an honest expression of opinion; or it was intended to gratify those of his Roman Catholic constituents who felt strongly on this matter. If his conviction it is a good Tory, as well as an Orange, justification of the course of the government; whereas if it was spoken with the baser intent, his speech of the following session is on record as a refutation of any such claim. During the session just closed he gave forth no sound in this regard; but that may be because the debate was adjourned, and allowed to die without ever coming up again. Such was a fit ending to so very transparent a farce; but it is not probable, if Mr. Scott was in the House at the time, that he, a prominent member of the party, was ignorant that this was the ending intended. It is rather difficult to know where to find him on this question now. He of course knows, and will probably have a chance to explain when some of his political friends ask the Orange vote for him

Parliamentary Printing manufacturing and mining; opposite to be the plank upon which the Conservative party intended to jump the political sea, during the storm of the next general election. Though the party leaders cannot or will not make a definite proposition in parliament, they appear to have generally committed themselves to the advocacy of an increased tariff, and their newspapers throughout the country have assisted to fasten on them the necessity of contending for fiscal changes founded on the principal of protection to home industries. The British policy of Free Trade is sealed as unsuited to a new country like Canada, and the Imperial trade policy in itself is decried by those zealous advocates of its opposite. Free Trade is not existent in Canada, our revenue tariff giving, as has been shown, by practical men, a clear protection of thirty per cent over British producers. Yet these "truly loyal" Conservatives clamour for a further discrimination against the mother country. This absurdity is overlooked by journalists who talk "protection" not because they know what they are talking about, but merely from a desire to pipe the party "call." Thus other absurdities are fallen into by the over-officious persons we have mentioned, and who so far from aiding their party, as they probably thought they would only help to make it ridiculous and contemptible in the eyes of the people. The local Conservative journal is more careful. In its last issue it declared the question to be simply "how the revenue can be collected with the least disadvantage?" In these few words we have the admission that the collection of revenue is a necessary evil, and that the great point involved in fiscal regulations is how they may do the least damage to commercial interests. This is exactly the trade policy of the Reformers; and again we have to congratulate our contemporary on a glimmering of reason on an important political point. If it stick to that principle it cannot go far wrong. The forced disadvantage of raising a revenue once conceded, it cannot be denied that their should be no greater amount collected than there is absolute necessity for; or that the duties imposed on the people should be higher than the lowest point fixed by the demands of an expenditure limited by strict economy. Here is a clear argument for the lowest possible duties, such as we have now, and such as the Reform government very wisely has resolved to maintain unchanged. We are indeed glad to see a virtual acknowledgement of that determination coming from a source whence we had expected nothing but adverse criticism; and heartily do we welcome the Review to the ranks of those who stick by a strictly revenue tariff.

QUEBEC.

The De Boucherville government (Conservative) of Quebec has been called upon to resign their portfolios, and Mr. Joly Liberal leader has been called upon to form a government, and has succeeded. Mr. Joly is a Liberal of very great ability, is very popular and in appealing to the country is likely to receive a very hearty support. The late government made frantic efforts to retain power, and the Conservative press has been heaping unheard of abuse on the Lieut-Governor for his action in calling upon the Ministry to resign, but he remained firm and unbiassed by their appeals. The cause of their being called to account, appears to be an unwise retroactive and dangerous railway legislation, and an attempt to impose a stamp tax to raise taxes, while they were squandering the revenue on certain doubtful undertakings. The new Ministry promise exposures of extravagance and corruption such as has not been heard of before in that province. All friends of wise and liberal principles are anxious that M. Joly may be able to secure a working majority in the next House, and should he succeed the people of Quebec may reasonably expect legislation less influenced by faction, than what has prevailed during the last ten years. The members of the new Ministry are Messrs. Joly, Ross, Bachand, Langelier, Chaveau and Starnes.

THE EASTERN WAR.

This war may be said to be finally settled, as the terms of the treaty of peace are signed by both parties. The terms to be discussed at an approaching congress of the powers are not yet settled, but it is not likely that this will do more than delay the meeting of the plenipotentiaries. Reports from Paris state that England and Russia cannot agree as to submitting the entire treaty to the plenipotentiaries, but reports require confirmation before acceptance in its entirety. It has been reported that England was likely to acquire, or raise upon Egypt. She may acquire Egypt from Turkey, but she will not seize on it unless a rupture in the terms of peace, is evident or imminent. Both Russia and Turkey must be considerably crippled after the contest, and neither of them will be ready to rush into a fresh struggle with the powers or with England, and hence we may look for a peaceful solution to all the questions involved in the treaty.

Reform Meeting in Norwood.

A large and influential meeting of the Reformers of this section was held in the Town Hall, Norwood, on Tuesday evening of last week, and an association was formed to be called the Norwood Branch Reform Association, with W. E. Boxburgh Esq., as President. There was also a Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and Executive Committee elected, and considerable business of importance was transacted. As soon as the books of the association were open a large number of the leading men of the village placed their names on the members roll. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one, and expressed itself satisfied that this section would, when the time come, give a good account of themselves. A meeting of the Reformers from all parts of the Riding is to be held in Norwood, on Friday 15th inst. Organization is the order of the day.

Is it possible that the Opposition to the revision of the voters' lists for 1877 displayed by Mr. Scott in the House of Assembly, and by the journal that supports him in his County, comes from a ceiling that such revision may unearth fountain unpalatable facts? The local Conservative journal itself says something about the attention paid last year by the Conservatives to the revision. Their anxiety now concerning a re-opening looks suspiciously like a fear that such "attention" will not bear the light of a strict scrutiny. We notice the same restlessness among Tories in other places, and we begin to think there was great reason for an overhauling of the lists this year.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In Ontario Dr. Tupper talks much about a duty on flour, but says nothing about coal. In Nova Scotia he talks much about a duty on coal, but says nothing about a duty on flour.—Halifax Chronicle.

The sum and substance of Sir John's efforts is that he proposed a resolution that commits him definitely to nothing in a speech that, if that be possible, commits him to less.—Hamilton Times.

Correction papers announce that Sir John Macdonald has sent a telegraphic message of sympathy with the fallen Quebec Ministry. No doubt the sympathy is sincere—he knows how it is himself.—Ottawa Free Press.

Even the Mail correspondent refers to Mr. Bertram as "a pleasant speaker." What say Conservatives who have spoken depreciatingly of his speaking powers to this? Will they condemn the Mail or themselves?

An "informal meeting," to use the secretary's own description in this town has called a Conservative convention for East Peterborough on the 19th inst., at Indian River. This is another proof of the General action of a few Tory wire-pullers in such matters.

A correspondent writing to the Mail points out that by the third paragraph of the ninth section of the Independence of Parliament Act, Lieutenant-Colonels of the Militia will be rendered ineligible for seats in Parliament. How will this effect the Conservative nominee in East Durham?

The Bobcaygeon Independent has it that "if Sir John Macdonald were to be taken out of Canadian Conservatism there would be nothing left. Sir John being excluded from the Local Parliament, Conservatism has nothing to rest upon, and as a consequence there is a much milder form of Party than in Ottawa."

Forty-six to twenty-nine on a square want-of-confidence motion is not bad; and that is what Mr. Mowatt had last Wednesday. Yet, on Thursday the Mail said:—"Mr. Mowat's position in the House is not strong. Witness the votes within the last fortnight." Yes, witness them.

Says the Lindsay Post:—The Peterboro papers continue to discuss railway matters with considerable anxiety. The Examiner is not enthusiastic about the grand junction, which it spells with small letters to show that it has no "capital." The Examiner also calls upon the Peterboroughers to "cease shrieking" and "do some thing."

In reviewing the proceeding of the late session of the Ontario Parliament, the Mail finds it very difficult to say much for the Opposition, and finally concludes that "all things considered, Mr. Cameron and his associates have succeeded fairly well." This is what they call "damning with faint praise."

Probably taking its cue from the financial critics of the Dominion governments policy, the Times makes an estimate of the town's expenditure for salaries, and cries out concerning its amount. It does not, however, attempt to show where any reduction could safely be made. Only deliberately undertaken useless expenditure can be called extravagance.

Referring to the Examiner's late remarks on railways the Perth Courier says: "From this and other things connected with it, we may conclude that the scheme will be dropped for the present, to be taken up again. Meanwhile the Peterborough people, to console themselves, are endeavouring to have a road built from their town to the country in the rear or north of them, and thus add an important auxiliary to their present railway system.

"The certificate of Chief Justice Young" says the Mail, oracularly, "settles the case of Mr. Jones vs. Sir Hastings Doyle." Dr. Tupper, in a speech made some time ago, said: "I do not shrink from avowing that a man who has acted as he (the Chief Justice) has done, has forfeited all right to public respect and to the confidence of the people of Nova Scotia." That ought to settle the case of Chief Justice Young vs. Mr. Jones in the minds of all good Tories who swear by Tupper.

Commenting upon the fact that the avenues of trade are still overcrowded because insolvents have been permitted to get possession of their estates at twenty to fifty cents on the dollar, the Montreal Gazette says: "It is not easy to devise a remedy for the evil, but one has been suggested and is being considered by wholesale grocers in this city. It is that all wholesale merchants should sign a round-robin pledging themselves to accept no compromise, but to put out of business all insolvent traders."

The leading Tory organ in making an attack upon the immigration policy of the Government, places itself in a most ridiculous position. It denounces the Globe for endeavoring to perpetrate a fraud upon the public because it does not exclude from the number of immigrants to Canada last year, those who came from the United States. Why, is not the Mail telling its readers every day that the present Government have so ruined this country that the people are flocking from it in thousands, panic-stricken! If this be so, can it be possible that any of our shrewd neighbors to the south of us could be persuaded to take up their abode in such a miserable country? Surely not. The organ's anxiety to make a point against the Government has carried it too far. It has unwittingly admitted the truth, that numbers of Americans are leaving their own country, glad to escape the heavy burdens imposed upon them by a protectionist policy, and seeking a home where every man has a chance. It is amusing to watch the vagaries of the Mail in its attempt to hoodwink its readers. Evidently it hasn't much respect for their intelligence or discernment. It treats them as if they were all a lot of needles.

The Review while affecting to approve of the general principle of the Tile Drainage Act of the Ontario Government, in deference to its desire to find fault with every Reform measure, proposes to criticise this in the interest of capitalists who may hold mortgages on farms. The making of drainage expenses under the Act, a first mortgage on the lands is really no injustice to a private mortgagee; for the drainage effected is in the nature of a permanent improvement which will benefit the owner of the lands, pro rata, for all future. The supposititious example of a mortgagee borrowing from the fund, drawing fancy expenses for ordinary work, and pocketing the balance, true for fictitious as it is impracticable; and looks very much like the special pleading of a lawyer who has accepted a brief in a flimsy case. The general application of such a supposition (without which it cannot have any force) would necessitate the placing of the whole farming community, or at least the majority, in the category of dishonest and deeply designing men; and we fancy even the captious critic of the Review will hesitate before he declares any such belief. The "Inspector of Drainage" is not going to be such a useless personage as the Review fears, and, consent or no consent, a mortgagee will consider it to his interest that drainage works are properly carried out on a farm in which he is pecuniarly interested. We cannot therefore see how this Act "may prove most injurious to the very class for whose benefit it is intended." Perhaps some farmer can explain?

ITALY.

Opening of the Parliament by King Humbert.

Rome, March 7.—King Humbert opened the Italian Parliament in person today, and delivered the speech from the throne. He said: "We shall consolidate and render fruitful the great work of Italian unity, to which its glorious founder devoted his life." The speech enumerates various bills for electoral, financial, and administrative reforms, which will be submitted, and continues—"New Treaties of Commerce will provide fresh resources for the Treasury and advantages for trade. The experience of the recent war renders it necessary to place the army and navy on a new footing with regard to arms and material, which science is daily perfecting. We unhesitatingly assented to the Conference, desiring to secure a durable peace for Europe. Our impartiality will give greater value to our counsels and our recent history will afford convincing argument for supporting the solutions most in conformity with justice and the rights of humanity. Such is our faith, which, splendidly confirmed by living facts, is preparing for us the most precious alliance—the alliance of the future." The King refers to the Holy See as follows:—"Pope Pius IX. after governing the Church for thirty-two years, has descended to the tomb regretted and venerated. The rites of electing his successor have been performed in perfect freedom, and without disturbing the tranquility of the State, the peace of conciences, or the independence of ministers of religion. By maintaining our institutions and reconciling a respect for religion with a determined defence of the State laws and the principles of civilization, we prove how great are the fruits of liberty. We are confident that in our hands, Italy will not fall from her exalted position."

A Female Abortionist Arrested.

London, March 6.—The notorious Madame de Mott was taken into custody as 12 o'clock last night on a charge of procuring abortion. A few months ago she was arrested for keeping a disreputable house, in which it was publicly known that she had carried on for some time a nefarious and immoral trade. It was alleged that many girls of respectable parentage, inveigled into her den on the pretence of having their fortune told, left it with ruined honor. She also trafficked in illicit goods. She was ordered to leave the city, and has for some time past resided in Detroit, Port Huron, and Sarnia. Coming back last night, she was pounced upon by Detective Murphy on a new charge of procuring abortion on the person of a young woman whose name is not yet divulged, but who is understood to be one of a bad character. The woman De Mott is an accomplished clairvoyant and mesmerist, under the cloak of practising which she has sown broadcast moral poison. She was remanded for examination.

SOUTH ROMANIAN RESERVE SHIP.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Mr. Robson in his last communication looks surprised that I should deny the charge he made against me, but I think there are not many of your readers who know me, but would have been much more surprised had I not done so. While I have nothing to say against Mr. Hoosy or his veracity, I am certain he is labouring under a great mistake. But sir, I have reason to believe the two gentlemen were prompted by other parties to act in the way they did towards me, by endeavouring to injure me, or it would not have taken three weeks time after the election to have fixed their plot. Mr. Hoosy's mistake, I believe, arose as follows: Two gentlemen came to my house on the Saturday night before the election, and one of them requested me to retire and allow him to run against Mr. Robson for the Reeveship. This I refused, and treated the matter as a joke. On Monday, however, I believe, this same gentleman and Mr. Robson had some sharp words respecting the election, and I subsequently learned from Mr. Beasly that previous to their coming to my house on Saturday night, the two gentlemen alluded to above had been to Mr. Robson's on a similar errand, and after bantering for some time, they agreed to toss up a copper to decide which should oppose me. Mr. Robson lost the toss and pledged himself not to go near the nomination on Monday. Mr. Saml Bennett, who was also an eye witness to the whole affair, confirmed Mr. Beasley's statement, and hence my referring Mr. Robson to these two gentlemen. On Monday morning however Mr. Robson evidently had repented of his foolish bargain and put in an appearance at the Hall, which I presume was the reason of the altercation referred to above. Had I wanted to make capital out of it, to secure my election it is not likely that I would have withheld it till the middle of the afternoon when three-fourths of the votes were polled. The little game had leaked out, and when I and some others were talking over the matter—as it appeared to be no secret at all—Mr. Robson's name must have been substituted for the other gentleman's by his informant. Then about the remarks he made at the Commercial House, I have the four following gentlemen that were present at the time, and they all declared my statements to be correct, viz, John Boyd, Proprietor, Jos. Bowie, John Haggart and John Carveth, I may mention here that I do not mention the name of the gentleman that hoodwinked Mr. H. as I have not seen him since the election and do not feel at liberty to do so, and I am sorry that I am compelled to mention the others in the affair, but none of them will be taken by surprise as they know all about it. Thanks for past favours I remain

Yours truly,
HENRY COLLINS.

LOCAL NEWS

Spring Goods.—The spring importations of our dry goods merchants are beginning to arrive.

The Dunkin Act in Haliburton.—The Dunkin Bill was carried in Haliburton on Saturday last by a majority of four. Now for Victoria.

Dominion Monthly.—There is a vast amount of exceedingly entertaining reading in this magazine, prepared expressly for the household. It can be obtained at the book stores.

Unfulfilled Prophecy.—The "Millenium" will be the subject of Rev. Mr. Torrance's sermon next Sunday evening. This will be the fourth of a series of sermons on unfulfilled prophecy.

Neat and Nobby.—For a neat and nobby hat suitable for the season try Hyman's new stock which embraces all the leading styles in English and American hard and soft felt, silk and Tweed Hats.

W. J. Wallace Lakefield is now showing splendid value in Brown Docks, Denims Cotton and Union Shirtings, Sheetings, Pillow Cottons, Table Linen, Oil Cloths, Towels and Napkins. 10-2ins.

Clean Up.—This is the season for cleaning up back yards. A little energy expended in this healthful occupation now may save not only the annoyance of an appearance before the Police Magistrate, but also a doctor's bill hereafter.

New Grocery.—Mr. John Cook has recently opened out in his new shop, on the corner of George and McDonal street, with a well assorted stock of fresh family groceries. Those residing in that neighbourhood should not fail in giving him a call, as he is determined to sell cheap.

Rowdyism.—A correspondent complains of the rowdyism on our streets last Monday evening, but as the writer committed to give his name we are obliged to withhold the publication of the letter. We have again to state that in all cases the writer's real name must accompany the communication.

Gold and Silver Plating.—Mr. Chas. Ward in this issue announces that he is now prepared to fill all orders for replating gold and silver ware of every description. The want of such an establishment in this town has long been felt, and no doubt Mr. Ward will be favoured with plenty of orders. Read his advertisement.

The "Champion" Mowing and Reaping Machines, we learn from a Prince Edward Island paper, will be represented on the Island this year by E. E. Bowie, formerly of Peterborough. The Company have made a good selection in their representative, whom we feel confident will be found the right man in the right place.

Stylish Boots.—During the past week the display of boots and shoes in Mr. A. Larmour's has attracted much attention and won the admiration of passers-by. Especially noticeable was a pair of shooting boots manufactured from real porpoise, for a gentleman from Sarnia. The soles are one inch thick and five inches wide. Mr. Larmour enjoys the reputation of producing a first-class article.

An Outside Opinion.—The Ottawa correspondent of the London Advertiser in speaking of Mr. Bertram's speech on Protection, which we will publish next week, says that "in a speech of less than an hour's duration he presented more facts and furnished more solid information than could be found in a whole volume of such rubbish as the Opposition have been deluging the House with for the past month."

Penal Assiduity.—The following item appeared in the Globe of Tuesday last:—Cobourg, March 11.—A Brakesman on No. 18 train, Grand Trunk railway, named Robert Laidlaw, a former resident of Peterboro', while coupling cars at this station, at noon to-day, was so badly crushed that he died to-night at seven o'clock. This is said to have been his first trip. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mr. Matheson, druggist, of Toronto.

Preserving Ice Under Difficulties.—We noticed ice drawn through our streets on Tuesday last that was obtained under peculiar circumstances. The men were obliged to go out on a raft and saw the ice as it floated down towards the Locks, after cutting off a large piece it was floated to the shore when it was cut into blocks and loaded on a waggon. This should be a warning to parties to get their ice out earlier in the season.

Testing the Purity of Milk.—A German paper gives a test for watered milk, which is simplicity itself, and may be of interest to those of our readers who are in the habit of buying their milk. A well-polished knitting-needle is dipped into a deep vessel of milk and immediately withdrawn in an upright position. If the sample is pure some of the fluid will hang to the needle, but if water has been added to the milk, even in small proportions, the fluid will not adhere to the needle.

Signs of Spring.—There is no lack of signs of spring. What with the mud an inch deep on the streets, drains well filled with water, the appearance of swallows, crows, old boots and surreptitious deposits of ashes on the streets, together with rolls on ladies, new hats and stylish clothes on the sterner sex, the poor approach of the season of maple and bursting buds can be predicted with all the assurance of a Vennor, a Tice, or any other professedly weatherwise individual.

Fish and Game.—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Society was held in the Huffman House on Thursday evening of last week, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

W. Eastland.....President.
Rev. V. Clement.....Vice-President.
James Galborne.....Recording Secretary.
George Barlee.....Treasurer.
C. A. Post.....Corresponding Secretary.
J. Green.....Counsel.

Personals.—The Meaford Monitor says:—"Mr. A. Bosanko, L.D.S., who has been practising in Meaford for the last few months left on Tuesday for Peterborough to assume control of a much more extensive practice." The New Hamburg Independent says:—"The friends of Mr. Hauseanen, formerly in Mr. McCallum's drug store, here, will be pleased to learn that he has taken the usual course in Toronto, and now goes to Peterborough, where he has secured a prominent position in a dispensary."

Almost Drowned.—One day last week while a daughter of Mrs. D. Corkery of South Monaghan was crossing over the ice to Campbelltown, she was almost drowned, the ice giving way and letting her into the water. She fortunately on coming up managed to grasp a hold on the ice which enabled her to raise herself up again, but no sooner was she up than the ice again gave way, after struggling for some time she managed to get out, and was saved from a watery grave, although being alone at the time.

Moore Presentery.—At the annual election of officers of Moore Presbytery, held on Tuesday evening, March 12th, 1878, the following Sir Knights were elected officers for the ensuing year:—Sir Kt. Allan F. Huffman, Eminent Preceptor; Sir Kt. Robert Elder, Constable; Sir, Kt. Edward H. D. Hall, Marshall; V. E. Sir Kt Rev. Vincent Clementi, Chaplain; Sir Kt. Geo. L. Mitchell, Treasurer and Registrar; Sir Kt. James W. Dinwoodie, Guard; Members of the Council, Sir Kts. James Jardine and Robert H. Greene.

New Firm.—We wish to call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs Hackst and Shirley, who have leased the well known premises of William Clinton, Esq., where they intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in all its branches. These gentlemen possess an extensive experience of both the English and Canadian Markets, and as they intend doing business on the solid basis of buying and selling for cash, we have no hesitation in recommending them to the confidence of the public.

Mr. Bertram's Speech.—We will next week publish a verbatim report from our own Correspondent at Ottawa, of the masterly speech delivered lately in the House of Commons by Mr. Bertram, supplying the West Peterborough, in opposition to the Protection Policy advocated by Sir John Macdonald and his followers. We had intended publishing it this week but owing to some delay in transmission from Ottawa, whereby we did not receive the manuscript till noon yesterday, we are obliged to hold it over till next week.

Rifle Association.—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Rifle Association was held at the Huffman House on Wednesday evening, when there was a good attendance of members. The following officers were elected for the current year:—President, Lieut.-Col. R. C. Rogers, 1st Vice-President, Lieut.-Col. Poole; Sec. Treas., Capt. Bell, M. D.; Committee, F. Hall, Sergeant Leslie and E. Green. The financial statement showed the association to be in a satisfactory pecuniary position. There are 70 members on the roll, and the number might well be doubled.

Navigation.—The Little Lake is clear of ice it having gone out one month earlier than last year. The river has been open for some time, and a great portion of Rice Lake below the bridge is open. The steamer Golden-Eye is being fitted up and expects to commence her trips about the 1st of next month, making it six weeks earlier navigation than was ever known on these waters. The Whistle-Wing will be fitted up about the 1st of May, and will run in connection with the Golden-Eye, forming a double daily line from Harwood, Hastings and Keene, calling at Mud Island.

Conservative Meetings.—The Conservatives in this county and everywhere in the Dominion are putting forth superhuman efforts in view of the approaching elections. They are holding meetings in almost every school section and in every ward. They are encompassing sea and land to make one promulgate to their cause. Whatever may be the result, we are glad to find that our Reform friends are not idle, and that they are not likely to be caught napping, no matter when the writs may be issued, although we are not willing to believe that they will be issued as soon as the Opposition anticipate.

Advertising.—The Cleveland Leader says:—"Money spent in advertising may be wasted or may bring golden fruitage, according to the degree of intelligence with which it is dispensed. Put it into a good, live, popular newspaper, which will carry your advertisements to the counting-rooms and the firesides of the people who have wants to be met and money with which to meet them. This is the whole price-less secret of successful advertising." The EXAMINER, having the largest circulation of any paper in this County, meets the above requirements, and we ask our business men to make a note of it.

The Winter Hunt.—A gentleman who has given much time to meteorological and astronomical observations, but who has been diffident about publishing the results of his study, gives it as his opinion that the great and continued rise in the earth's temperature during the past winter and present spring is owing to intensified combustion, which is progressing more rapidly than usual in the sun's atmosphere. He says that there is a perceptible increase in the average volume of solar heat received during the three months ending March 1st, over same period last year, and he predicts an early spring, heavy rains, with humid, hot summer.

Templars Assurance Association.—The Good Templars of the Province of Ontario have determined to establish a Mutual Assurance Association, and at a meeting held on Thursday night in Ottawa the preliminaries of the affairs were settled and the table of entrance fixed. The officers were elected and are as follows:—Mr. W. S. Williams, President; E. B. Reed, Vice-President; Dr. Oronhyatekha, Secretary; J. Ormiston, Treasurer; Messrs. Dinnis, Kime, Flagg, Cameron, Botterell, J. R. Stratton, W. C. Wilkinson, Directors; Bankers, Bank of Commerce; Solicitor, Warren Read, Q. C.; Dr. Oronhyatekha, General Medical Officer. A charter will be applied for from the Ontario Legislature.

A Gloomy Picture.—Mr. Thos. Sherin, of San Jose, California, writing to his brother, Mr. Samuel Sherin, of Lakefield, draws the following very discouraging and gloomy picture of affairs in California:

"This is no country for a poor man or any one else. If I was going to advise I would say 'stay away.' Starvation is threatening tens of thousands to-day, although it is a lovely country to look at. The hills and valleys are covered with grass or grain about ten inches high, and the gardens are full of flowers. The trees are putting on their green; the almond trees are in full bloom, and the oranges are ripe. But notwithstanding all this, it is a miserable country. You never saw so many poor on the road begging for bread to keep them from starving. Provisions are plentiful for cash, although rather high, and there is no work."

St. Patrick's Society.—On Friday evening last those interested in the formation of a St. Patrick's Society for the Town and County of Peterborough met in the Caisse House to receive the report of the Committee on By-laws and Rules of Order, and elect their officers for the current year. Over forty subscribed to the declaration of membership and paid their fees. After the adoption of the By-laws the election of officers was proceeded with resulting as follows:—

President—J. R. McWilliams.
1st Vice-President—J. W. Fitzgerald.
2nd Vice-President—John Garvey.
Treasurer—R. A. Morrow.
Secretary—P. D. Doran.
Committee—T. M. D. Croly, John Delaney, G. W. Hall, John Moloney, and John Smith.

West Riding L. C. A.—At a meeting of the Liberal Conservative electors of the West Riding held in the Old Music Hall, on Tuesday of last week, with a view to organizing for the coming election, the following were elected officers:—President, R. A. Morrow, Esq.; Vice-Presidents:—Smith, George Scott; E. Fitzgerald; and Lewis Davis; Enniscorre, A. Clarke; and D. Costello; North Monaghan, H. B. Merrick; and C. Brealy; South Monaghan, Thos. Willan; and Jos. Barnard; Harvey, A. McMartin; and W. Ventries; Lakefield, R. C. Strickland; and J. Dinwoodie; Secretary-Treasurer, H. H. Smith. We have not heard definitely who the coming man are, but street rumors mention the names of Dr. Kincaid, Joseph Walton, Sr., John Carnegie, W. H. Scott, R. A. Morrow and I. Garbutt as those likely to receive nominations.

Teachers' Convention.—A meeting of teachers from Smith, Ennismore and North Monaghan, was held at Bridgenorth last Friday and Saturday. There was a good attendance considering the state of the roads. Friday was occupied in discussing the best methods of teaching particular subjects. In the evening Mr. Earl delivered a very interesting lecture to the teachers and their friends, on the origin of words. On Saturday Mr. Earl took up figures of speech. The election of officers then took place:—J. D. Mollmoyle was chosen President, J. J. Wright, Secretary, and Messrs. Wood, Medcalfe and Adams a Committee to appoint the next place of meeting, and to manage the general business of the Convention. A cordial vote of thanks was given the people of Bridgenorth for the manner in which they entertained the visitors. The thanks were well deserved, All departed fully agreed as to the great benefits of such meetings.

Found Dead.—Dr. Kincaid held an inquest on the 8th instant, on the body of a man found dead in the wood south of Springville, on the farm of Mr. James Thompson, Lot 1, Con. 8, in the Township of North Monaghan. The deceased was a stranger in the neighbourhood, but papers found on his person showed that his name was John Bray, and that he was looking for work at his trade as a Blacksmith. He had 78 cents in change in his pocket, and a small bundle lying near him, containing among other things, a small family Bible. In view of all the circumstances the jury returned the following verdict:—"That the deceased, John Bray, came to his death from disease and exposure." The Coroner is now in communication with the friends of deceased, who live at New Edinburg, near Ottawa. Since writing the above we learn that the friends of the deceased, who are highly respectable, have arrived here and have taken the remains to Ottawa for interment.

Another Fraud.—The Seaforth Expositor gives the following particulars of a new kind of fraud practiced on the farmers of that section:

"A couple of agents were engaged in selling dancing mills. They carried with them a new specimen mill. They took the farmer's order for a new mill on the proper order blanks of the firm they represented, and as an inducement to the farmer to purchase the new machine, they would buy his old mill at such price as he might see fit to place on it, giving their personal note for the old mill. In this manner they sold a great many new dancing mills, the exorbitant prices at which they purchased the old ones being the great inducement to the farmer to give his order for the new. The farmers, however, did not discover until too late that they had given a bona fide order for the new machine, and that they only held the note or due bill of an irresponsible agent as the price of their own mill. Of course the new machines will be forwarded in due time and the full price collected on them, whereas the old mills which were bought by the agent and not by the company, and paid for by his note, will never be called for.

Poisoned Words.—On our first page will be found a speech delivered in Toronto, on the 5th instant, by our General Burtz, imported by an Irish Association for the occasion. It is one of the most treasonable delivered before a Canadian audience for many years. It is ostensibly on Robert Emmet, but the name is dealt moderately with, while Irish grievances and whines about oppression and threats about blood and sword abound. The most treasonable portions of the harangue were loudly cheered, while the most moderate reference to the patriot were so calmly received. What can Irishmen ever hope to gain by bringing such fire brands to spout treason? Those doing so incite others on the nation; others again to disregard their loyalty, and arouse a feeling of discontent that even time can hardly allay. They labour under no disability in Canada. Then why introduce the spirit of discontent or sow the seed of disaffection, rebellion in a country where the utmost equality prevails, with a fair field for all and no favor. And if Irishmen feel themselves laboring under disadvantages, they may thank their own isolation and rancorous opposition to social organizations, harmless in themselves except as conjured up by the night-mare of unhallowed prejudices.

The County Dunkin By-law.—The rumor that the Dunkin By-law for the county has been quashed is premature, as it has not yet been heard in Court, but may be heard this week or early next week. The cause of the greatness of the rush has arisen out of delay in putting up notices and copies of the By-law in the different townships and villages. The County Clerk employed W. H. Pendry to put up the notices and By-law according to law, but strange enough, he did not carry out his work as he ought to have done, promptly, but perhaps it may yet be decided that it was done according to law, and hence there is no use to blame any one until it be known who is to blame. Pendry was opposed to the By-law, and this, in all probability made him careless as to legal points. The plea that no poll was taken in Asphodel is also raised; that the poll in Dummer was closed too soon; and that a vote had been taken previously in Apsley and Ashburnham. The question of the poll being closed too soon in Dummer; there being no poll taken outside of Norwood in Asphodel; and the previous taking of a vote in Apsley, Lakefield and Ashburnham are not likely to be urged, and, hence, the effort to quash the By-law may succeed or fail on the question of the time the notices were up before the day of polling. There is no denying of the fact that Pendry did not put up the notices promptly, but then the large vote polled; the unfavorable day selected, being the day of the annual school meeting all over the Province, and the very heavy rains of the second day, as well as the general knowledge that prevailed every where of the day of polling, may prove a sufficient set-off to the want of promptitude in Pendry's posting up the notices. The result in the Court, if a failure, is attributable entirely to his acts. Temperance men from the first felt that a mistake was made in placing the notices in his hands at all, but they were willing to hope the best until the events revealed the contrary.

The Attendant Circumstances of the Second Advent.

Third Sermon by Rev. E. F. Torrance on Unfulfilled Prophecy.

The Rev. Mr. Torrence, of St. Paul's Church, delivered his third sermon on "Unfulfilled Prophecy," last Sunday evening. The reverend gentleman's subject had special reference to the attendant circumstances of the Second Advent, and was full of interest. He took for his text the following words:—

"Then many Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.—Acts I, 11.

MR. TORRANCE said:—Such were the words which fell upon the ears of the wondering disciples as they were gazing up into heaven, whither a cloud had received their Lord out of their sight. As when their Lord was still on earth they did not understand the words which He spake concerning His departure to the Father, so they could not have understood those which He spake concerning His return to the world. But now that Jesus had actually ascended, and the two men in white apparel had declared that He should so come in like manner, His former utterances must have been possessed of a new significance. They now understood His words,—

"And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also."

Henceforth they would look forward to His second coming as the time of the restitution of all things—the time of the regeneration, when they should sit upon twelve thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel. Assuming that the Lord Jesus will come the second time in person to this world, and that His coming will introduce the millenium, we will endeavour to-night to show what is to take place at the time of His return. (1) The first thing to take place when the Lord Jesus returns to this world is the rapture and both dead and living. There are several passages in Scripture which state this in the plainest terms. The Apostle says,—

RESURRECTION OF ALL THE SAINTS

"But I would not have you to be ignorant concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not even as others which have no hope. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel and the trump of God, and the dead in Christ shall rise first. Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord."—1 Thess. IV, 13, 17.

These words were written by the Apostle to comfort the Thessalonians, whose minds seem to have been disturbed by fears as to the well being of their friends, who had fallen asleep in Jesus. He assures them that such would not only share the glory to be revealed at Christ's second coming, but that they would actually have an advantage over the living in that they would rise before the living were caught up. He argues that the death and resurrection of Christ is the pledge and earnest of the resurrection and future exaltation of the sleeping saints, just as in another place he says,—

"But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept."

There is nothing in the text about the resurrection of the wicked, the comparison being merely between the righteous dead and the righteous who are alive at the time of Christ's return. The teaching of the Apostle here is similar to his teaching in the 15th chapter of 1 Cor., that magnificent chapter in which he speaks upon the subject of the resurrection of the dead. In the 51st and 52nd verses of that chap. he says,—

"Behold I shew you a mystery; we shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed in a moment: in the twinkling of and eye at the last trump, for the trumpet shall sound and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed."

The last trump is the same that is the former passage is called the trump of God, at the sound of which the saints who have been sleeping in the dust of the earth shall arise to meet their returning Lord.

WHAT A CHANGE

shall take place both upon the living and the dead when Christ shall come the second time to this world! Their corruptible bodies will then put on incorruption, and their mortal bodies immortality. Their vile bodies will then be fashioned like unto the glorious body of the son of God, according to the working whereby he is able to subdue all things unto himself. Glorious prospect for both the dead and the living saints! The saints which are alive will be caught up to meet the Lord in the air. Which had a noble conveyance when he was caught up to heaven in a chariot of fire and horses of fire; but not more noble than the living saints shall have. The clouds which are God's chariots will also be the chariots of his people to bear them away from the scene of their trials and finds conducts to meet their returning King. And what human eye can venture to disturb that meeting? What can imagine the rapture when the bridegroom meets his glorified bride, at once his inheritance and his purchased possession—when the fruits of his victory shall be gathered and when he shall see of the travail of his soul. I may just mention in this connection that premillennial writers differ in their views as to whether the rapture and exaltation of the saints will precede or follow the partial resurrection of the Jews. After carefully considering the different passages I am inclined to think that the weight is in favour of the former view. In that case there is nothing laid down in Scripture as necessary to take place before the Lord's return, and we are able to understand an evident distinction drawn in the Epistles between the coming of the Lord and the day of the Lord. The events will then take place in the following order:—The Lord will come for His people as is stated in the passages which we have mentioned, and also in the 24th chap. of Matt. when it is said,

"Then shall two be in the field, the one shall be taken and the other left. Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken and the other left."

Then after the saints are caught up, there will be a

PARTIAL RESTORATION OF THE JEWS

to their own land. Anti-Christ will appear in Jerusalem, and sitting on the temple, will claim divine honours, the nations will be gathered against Jerusalem to battle, and then the Lord will come to execute vengeance upon Anti-Christ and upon those who know Him not. And the will in the day of the Lord which Scripture speaks of as a day of vengeance. Thus in Isaiah we read,—

"Behold the day of the Lord cometh, cruel both with wrath and fierce anger, to lay the land desolate; and He shall destroy the sinners thereof out of it."

"For it is the day of the Lord's vengeance, and the year of recompenses for the controversy of Zion."

And in Ezekiel,—

"For the day is near, even the day of the Lord is near, a cloudy day; it shall be the time of the heathen."

And in Joel,—

"And the Lord shall utter His voice before His army; for His camp is very great; for He is strong that executeth His word; for the day of the Lord is great and very terrible, and who can abide it."

And Zechariah,—

"Behold the day of the Lord cometh, and thy spoil shall be divided in the midst of thee."

And Malachi,—

"But who may abide the day of His coming, and who shall stand when He appeareth? for He is like a refiner's fire and like fuller's soap."

In the epistles also the day of the Lord is spoken of as

A DAY OF VENGEANCE.

Thus the Apostle says in his first epistle to the Thessalonians,—

"For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night."

And in his second epistle he says,—

"And to you who are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed with his mighty angels * * when He shall come to be glorified in His saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you was believed) in that day."

But if the day of the Lord is always spoken of in Scripture as a time of vengeance, the coming of the Lord is always spoken of as a time of mercy. If the one has always reference to the Lord's return as it affects His enemies, the other has always reference to His return as it affects His people. The coming of the Lord for His people must precede the day of the Lord to execute judgment upon the ungodly. The Apostle says in his second epistle to the Thess.—

"Now we beseech you, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and by our gathering together unto Him, that ye be not soon shaken in mind * * as that day of Christ has not set in."

As the Thessalonians were suffering great persecution they seem to have taken it for granted that the day of Christ had then actually set in and the Apostle argues that this could not be, because the man of sin had not then been revealed, neither had the Lord come for His people to gather them together unto Himself. The Lord will come for His people to receive them to Himself, so that they may be beyond the reach of danger, and then He will come with them to execute judgment upon the ungodly. Thus in the 14th chap. of Zech., and in the 19th chap. of Rev., two parts of Scripture in which we have description's of Christ's coming to execute judgment, we read,—

"And the Lord my God shall come and all the saints with thee."

"And the armies which were in heaven followed Him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean."

(2) The Second thing to take place when the Lord Jesus returns to this world is the

DESTRUCTION OF ANTI-CHRIST

and his host and the rest of the Lord's enemies. In the first sermon in proof of the pre-millennial advent, I referred to the passages in 2 Thess., when the Apostle speaks of the apostacy gradually developing into Anti-Christ, that wicked, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of His mouth and destroy with the brightness of His coming. I know that different opinions are held upon the subject of Anti-Christ, some holding that the reference is merely to a system or polity; but it seems to me that the testimony of scripture is most conclusive in favor of

A PERSONAL ANTI-CHRIST.

All the characteristic, circumstances and appellations of individual humanity are ascribed to him. He is called a man, that man of sin, one who claims the incommunicable attributes of God, who has the power of working lying miracles, who has a marvelous capacity of beguiling souls, and who is himself actuated by Satan. This very name implies that he must be a man, for how else could he beguile men into believing that he is Christ. In the 7th chap. of Daniel he is spoken of as a king, who is to arise after ten other kings and to speak great words against the Most High, and to war out the saints of the Most High, and to think to change times and laws. No stronger terms could have been used than these to describe a personal Anti-Christ, and in the early ages of the church no other opinion about Anti-Christ was entertained. Assuming then that there will be a personal Anti-Christ on earth at the time of Christ's return, he will then be consumed by the spirit of Christ, and destroyed with the brightness of His coming. This is also plainly stated in the 19th chap. of Rev., when the victory of the Lord over His enemies is so vividly depicted. In the 20th verse we read,—

"And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet who wrought miracles before him, by with which he deceived them that had the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone."

But along with the destruction of Anti-Christ will be the destruction of those nations who have been gathered together against Jerusalem in battle. This is plainly stated in a number of passages in the Old Testament prophecies, and in many others in the 14th chap. of Zechariah, the chap. to which we have already several times referred. In the 12th verse we read,—

"And this shall be the plague wherewith the Lord shall smite all the people that have fought against Jerusalem; their flesh shall consume away while they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume away in their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth."

O, what a battle will that be when the Lord Jesus shall fight against Anti-Christ and his assembled host!

CONVERSION OF THE JEWS.

(3) The next thing to take place after the Lord Jesus returns to this world is the conversion of a remnant of that part of the Jewish nation who have been restored to Jerusalem. We learn from the 12th chap. of Zech. that before the Lord Jesus comes as the deliverer of the Jews, they will have been subjected to terrible sufferings the hands of Anti-Christ and the nations assembled under him. But while two-thirds of the Jews will be destroyed, a third part will be brought safely through these sufferings and then converted to Christ. In the 8th and 9th verses we read,—

"And it shall come to pass that in all the land, saith the Lord, two parts therein shall be cut off and die; but the third shall be left therein. And I will bring the third part through the fire, and will refine them as silver is refined, and will try them as gold is tried; they shall call on my name and I will hear them; I will say it is my people, and they shall say the Lord is my God."

It is truly a blessed prospect which awaits the Jewish remnant after they have been brought safely through their terrible sufferings. Then the spirit of grace and supplication will be poured out upon them so that they will mourn as they look upon Him whom they have pierced, then the veil will be removed from their hearts so that they will see a fountain opened to them for sin and for uncleanliness. And now in conclusion let me address the exhortation of the Apostle Peter,—

"Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought we to be in all holy conversation and godliness."

There is no subject in the whole of Scripture more calculated to comfort the righteous and to awaken the wicked than this subject of the Second Advent. And my heart's desire is that whether the views presented in these sermons command themselves to you or not, you may at least be stirred up to search for yourselves what the Scriptures say upon this subject.

OUR RAILWAYS.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner:

SIR,—The Bobcaygeon Independent has made a very good suggestion, and I am somewhat surprised that it was never thought of before. It is this, to utilize that part of the Cobourg and Peterborough Railway lying between this town and Mud Lake, in connection, of course, with the Midland Railway. No doubt, under present circumstances, this part of the road can be worked at a very moderate cost, and if not, surely it would be worth the while of the Midland to run it, to obtain legislative authority to use the road, which will, of course, be granted. This road is utterly worthless, as it stands, to Cobourg, and I think I think the Company would be only too glad to get some return from it, besides relieving them a heavy load which they have to carry through. Then the whole road to Cobourg, it would be a very easy matter to make the connection with the Midland here. All that would be required would be to make a curve on the west side of the Midland Railway so as to intersect it at some point south, and as the height of the Cobourg road is only about eleven or twelve feet above the Midland track, it would only require to trench the Midland some quarter of a mile below the present point of intersection, which would give a grade of about 40 feet to the mile, which I think is quite low enough. The cost of this would be very trifling, and then by means of their connection to Mud Lake the Midland would be in far better position to secure the carrings of the lumber and other trade from Bobcaygeon than the two roads in Lindsay are, because the distance by water would be so much shorter. And under such circumstances, the Midland might in this way secure the whole of this trade to itself. But this is not all. Probably something less than a hundred and fifty thousand dollars, perhaps a hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, would extend this road to Bobcaygeon, when the Midland would be complete master of the situation and the whole of the business of all that part of the country would belong to it without competition. My present plan for raising this money would be as follows:—Peterborough, $50,000; the Midland Company, $50,000, Port Hope, $20,000, and the balance by Bobcaygeon, Verulam, &c. I, for one, believe that this is quite practicable and that it can be carried out if all parties interested do their duty. It would be a cheap arrangement for the Midland, and equally so for Port Hope and its harbour. In fact, it is almost a necessity for these two last named parties to carry it out, and they will certainly jump at the chance if they have sense enough to see a hole through a ladder. I don't much doubt but the Midland would do its part, but I have my doubts about Port Hope, for the people of this latter town, so far as taking shares by the foretock is concerned, appear to me to be content to sit down on a log on the sidewalk, and whittle sticks with jack-knives—letting the outside world do as it liked. They, and the Midland, too, did this when Whitby was applying for a bonus to the County of Victoria to extend their road to Lindsay, and I regret that, in this instance, they will do the very same thing again. Had both Port Hope and the Midland acted with common forethought, the trade over the Midland and the harbour would to-day be increased instead of being diminished, and these parties would not now be obliged to largely reduce charges in order to retain even a portion of the business, the whole of which they might now have had. What they have to do now is to learn to spell opportunity. The trade of the back country is not to be despised. It is worth securing. It is always growing and becoming larger and better. Let all parties interested take warning are it is too late, and then let them act and not promptly.

MATHERS' CORNERS.

CONCERT.—A Concert was held at Mathers' Corners on Friday evening last, in aid of the funds of the Temperance cause, which was largely attended. The chair was occupied by Mr. Howson, who filled the position in his usual happy manner. The principal ladies and gents who took part in the entertainment were Mrs Marson, Miss McCamus, Miss Howson, Miss Kindred, the Misses Mather, Miss Stewart, Miss McFee, Miss Taylor, Miss McDougall and Messrs P. Drummond, G. Mather, T. Mather, G. and D. Cruickshank, B. Scott, N. Lee, R. McCamus and W. Dixon, all of whom acquitted themselves to the entire satisfaction of the audience. The solos of Mrs. Marson were well received as were those of Miss McCamus. In the play "Old Aunt Peabody" Miss M. Mather, as Grandmother, proved herself equal to the occasion and kept the house in roars of laughter, while those who assisted her were up to the mark. The farce "The Wrong Man" was in the hands of competent persons who were applauded. Mr. Drunkshank's song "The Working Man" in character was rather amusing and was well received. Messrs Scott and Lee also gave two readings. Miss Kindred presided at the organ in good style. The others also did well. After the usual remarks from the chair thanking the audience for their attention and attendance, regret was expressed for the unavoidable absence of Messrs Ormond and Dixon, which was explained, after which the compliments from the audience were conveyed to the performers of the evening. The company then parted well pleased with the evenings entertainment. The amount realised was about $40.00. It is hinted that another concert will be given in the Town Hall Keene shortly, when no doubt they will meet with a crowded house.

PORT HOPE.

MEDALS.—Two silver medals have been given by Mr. Jas. H. Mackie, one to Mr. Alex. McCurdy and the other to Mr. Richard Otis, for acts of bravery during the late flood. The medals have the names of recipients engraved upon them, with a record of the reasons for which they are given. This is a good way of acknowledging the courage of each of the above.—Times.

THE "COUNTESS OF DUFFERIN."—"It is stated that Commodore Gifford of Cobourg, owner of the yacht Countess of Dufferin, will most likely take her to England by the end of May, for the purpose of bring to sail his vessel there. He intends taking two or three yachtsmen with him for instructions in ocean sailing who will help to defray expenses. The cost of passage is rated at $70 from Quebec to Southampton."

ASTONISHING SUCCESS.—It is the duty of every person who has used Burdock Blood Bitters to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchocele, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Those doing will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 40,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SYRUP cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by J. D. Tully & Co. Peterborough and Railways.

THE EXAMINER in a very sensible manner admits that Peterborough has been making a fool of herself on the railway question and says:—

It is well that the papers of this section should no longer make themselves and the locality ridiculous by frantic forecasts on supposititious grounds. As Carlyle once said, "Let us cease shrieking, and begin considering." Bobcaygeon, Toronto, Ottawa nor anywhere else will be impressed in our favour by visionary vapouring; but will rather be disgusted by such impracticable goings on.

This shows a much healthier condition of mind than formerly existed, and therefore we are encouraged to point out once more that the only hope of Peterborough retaining her position and prosperity depends on her retaining her connection with the back country. When she loses the back country she loses her lumbering, and take away both these interests nothing remains but such trade as naturally flows from the farming community resident within five or six miles of the town, and such trade also as has its birth within the town itself. Both are small matters. Probably now that the cloud is passing away that over

Since Our Darling Went Away.

ANTANE IN THE "BRIDGEDA ARGUS."

The summer skies are azure, the leaves still wear the bronze,
There is music in the whispers of the zephyrs through the trees;
But we miss the merry laughter that could crown with joy the day,
The brightness has departed since our darling went away.

The evening time is dreary, and my brow is overcast,
My heart feels chill'd as if it felt the cold and wint'ry blast;
The moon withholds her silvery beams and scarcely sheds a ray,
The flowers all have wither'd since our darling went away.

Clematis has lost attraction, the very waves are dumb,
There's a strain of weary sadness in the bee's once joyous hum,
The sun-birds, since she left us, take their flight across the bay,
They miss the merry laughter since our darling went away.

The woods around Marino are looking aged and sear,
And wither ere their proper time—the waning of the year:
The black-bird, thrush, and linnet have ceased their lightsome lay,
The roses are in mourning since our darling went away.

The shining of her starry eyes in vain we now may seek,
The parish has lost its rival—the soft bloom on her cheek,
The scarlet blossoms lose their hue, and hasten to decay,
The heliotrope is scentless since our darling went away.

There's a sweet voice full of laughter that could every sorrow drown,
Heard like strains of merry music on the strand at Bettystown;
'Tis there at eve and morn that our thoughts now ever stray,
For Clematis is lone and dismal since our darling went away.

You will know her by the clear blue eye and wreath of golden hair,
The carriage graceful as the swan's, the brow unmarked by care,
The holy looks of calm repose that o'er her features play—
Ah, my heart is sad and weary since our darling went away.

May she still be ever near us through the changing scenes of life,
Her sweet voice ever cheer us 'mid the troubled sea of strife;
Angels bless, and guard, and guide her, most fervently we pray;
Sure our hearts are sad and weary since our darling went away.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

Poor Economy.—It is the poorest kind of economy to attempt to manage a farm without a newspaper. If its advice is heeded and its teachings followed, each number will be worth ten times its annual cost.

The Best Bank.—In these days of bank failures it is easiest for the farmer to make his deposits in banks of rich soil and more manure; buy improved stock instead of bank stock, and the only shares he should indulge in should be to share with his wife and family the comforts of a good home.

Stencil Plates.—There should be a large stencil plate for marking meal bags, grain sacks and similar articles, and a smaller rubber stamp for printing the owner's name on hoes, shovels, rakes and the many small tools which are often lent, or a need away from home, and consequently liable to be lost or stolen.—N. Y. Homestead.

Windows in Stables.—This matter of windows in stables is one of vastly more importance than some farmers think. Animals, no more than vegetables, can thrive in the dark. Our long winters are sufficiently trying to the constitutions of our farm stock under the best circumstances, and an animal upon which the sun scarcely shines at all for five or six months will come out in the spring in a bad state of health, even though the feed and the ventilation and the temperature have been all right. The sun is the great life-giver.

The Benefit of Lumber Belts.—Hon. C. E. Whiting, of Monona county, Iowa, says, and truly, that he is very positive that his experience teaches him that with wide timber belts around his fields, the balance of the lands will produce more grass, more corn, or more wheat than the whole land would without the wind belts. And as his belts increase in height, he finds an increased visible benefit to his crops. And he finds in his large experience that our cultivated forest trees year after year grow right along with immense rapidity in blissful ignorance of the reasons why they should not grow.

Sound Facts.—It is the opinion of an intelligent dairyman that there is a difference of two quarts of milk a day between a cow comfortably housed and the same one exposed to the cold for half the day, as we see them. The young stock—calves and colts—when allowed good feed and sheltered, will be one-third larger in the spring than if turned out to all weathers with the coarsest and most unnutritious food. Sheep require plenty of fresh air. Their warm coat protects them from the cold, and if they have a dry yard they are better out of doors in fine weather than in a close shed.

Lime as a Fertilizer.—It is a great mistake for farmers to consider lime as a direct fertilizer for plants, for it is not, except to a very limited extent. If lime was a manure, then its application in large quantities would be beneficial, but the effect is quite the contrary, and while the results of a first application to some soils is often quite remarkable, a second time may leave the land totally barren. This shows that lime acts mainly in two ways—first, mechanically in breaking down hard clays, making them more friable; and secondly by hastening the decomposition of vegetable matter in the soil, putting it in proper condition to be taken up by the growing plants.—N. Y. Sun.

Buy Good Land.—A correspondent of the Rural New Yorker gives the following sensible advice on this subject. In buying farms there are usually many things to be considered, the size of the purse, nearness to market, good water, healthful climate etc. In visiting many portions of several of the Northern States, we have usually found the people most prosperous where the land was the best. There we find the best houses and the best barns among the farmers. A lean soil supports farmers who are unable to build fine houses and barns. To till land costs a good deal. To grade it and take out stumps often requires much labor. I have concluded that enough attention has not been paid to the subject while hunting for a home. Fine new farms of the best soil are held at high prices, but I think they are cheaper than poor land at any price, if they are intended for most kinds of farming, and for similar reasons land of medium quality is also dearer than good land at any price.

England's Fighting Power.

Major General Sir Garnet Wolseley, in a contribution to the Nineteenth Century, entitled—"England as a military Power," says:—"At no previous period has England been so strong, in a military sense, as now. Were war declared, 400,000 drilled men would fall into line, if required, supported by 372 field guns, manned by royal artillery. That number would roughly be made up as follows:—Standing army at home, 90,000; army and militia, 80,000; volunteers, 180,000; and second class army reserve 50,000. I have put figures very low, and have left out altogether 10,000 yeomanry available for home service, and regular troops available for war when the Mediterranean garrisons were furnished by militia. When I compare the military strength of England with what it was in 1854 I am as amazed at the smallness of military weaknesses and helplessness in which we were when we began the Russian war of that year, as I am at the ignorance of those who see now crashing level our supposed want of strength and alleged consequent inability to fight.

DOMESTIC NOTES.

Best Tooth Powder.—Pulverized chalk, ounce; pulverized charcoal, two ounces; pulverized soap, half ounce, and sufficient spirits of camphor to wet all to a thick paste. Apply with a brush.

Caution & Remedy for Mice.—Any one desirous of keeping seeds from the depredations of mice can do so by mixing pieces of camphor gum in with the seeds. Camphor placed in drawers or trunks will prevent mice from doing them injury. The little animal objects to the odor, and keeps a good distance from it. He will seek food elsewhere.

Summer Beer or Toast.—Buttered toast, egg to each slice; butter, pepper, salt. Drop whole eggs into a dish. Set it in the oven. Let it remain there until the white of the eggs are set. The moment the dish is taken from the oven break the eggs with a fork, and pepper, salt and butter—to taste. Then spread it on hot and crisp toasted bread, well buttered. Eggs prepared in this way are equally nice on Graham, brown, or flour bread, toasted.

Oyster Soup.—For oyster soup try the following rule. It is one of the finest soups we have ever tasted:—To one quart of oysters add a half pint of water. Put this on the fire and as soon as it reaches the boiling point (not to boil) strain the liquid through a cotton lander. Put into a saucepan a piece of butter the size of an egg, and to this add, when it bubbles (do not let it scorch), a tablespoonful of sifted flour; let this cook a few minutes, stirring well; then add half a pint of sweet milk and then the oysters, seasoning with salt and a little cayenne pepper. Do not let the soup boil, but keep it quite hot for a moment or two after adding the oysters.

Soda for Washing.—The very common use of soda for washin linen is very injurious to the tissue, and imparts to it a yellow color. In Germany and Belgium the following mixture is now extensively and beneficially used: Two pounds of soap are dissolved in about five gallons of water as hot as the hand can bear it; then next is added to this fluid three large tablespoonfuls of liquid ammonia and one spoonful of best oil of turpentine. These fluids are incorporated rapidly by means of beating them together with a small birch broom. The linen is then soaked in the liquid for three hours, care being taken to cover the washing tub by a closely fitting cover. By this means the linen is thoroughly cleansed, saving much rubbing, time and fuel.

Summer.—Very few persons sweep well. Some take long strokes with a broom, creating wind and sending the dust into the air. When they are through sweeping they have taken very little dirt from the room, and the dust settles again on the floor and furniture. It takes time to sweep properly; the strokes should be firm and short, creating very little wind. This open winter will cause a great deal of sweeping; and many will be obliged to take up their sitting-room carpets before spring. Whenever snow can be procured, and the rooms are so cold that it will not melt, cover the carpet thickly with it. Scrub it around with a broom, and when it is swept off, the snow will be black, and the carpet will look as clean as if freshly shaken. Any one who has used snow on their carpets once, will be embracing every opportunity to have a snow sweep. It is excellent for sweeping bedrooms—no dust in the air to settle. It can be used on the best of carpets without detriment, provided the rooms are so cold that the snow does not melt.—Household.

Use for Old Paper.—Never throw away old paper. If you have no wish to sell it, use it in the house. Some housekeepers prefer it to cloth for cleaning many articles of furniture. For instance a volume written by a lady who prided herself upon her experience and tact, says:—"After a stove has been blackened it can be kept looking very well for a long time by rubbing with paper every morning. Rubbing with paper is a much nicer way of keeping the outside of a tea-kettle, coffee-pot, and tea-pot, bright and clean than the old way of washing them in suds. Rubbing with paper is also the best way of polishing knives, tinware, and spoons; they shine like new silver. For polishing mirrors, windows, lamp-chimneys, etc., paper is better than dry cloth. Preserves and pickles keep much better if brown paper instead of cloth is tied over the jar. Canned fruit is not so apt to mould if a piece of writing paper, cut to fit the can, is laid directly over the fruit. Paper is much better to put under a carpet than straw. It is warmer and thinner and makes less noise when one walks over it."

SCIENTIFIC AND MEDICAL.

For Headache.—For sick headache, induced by bilious derangement, steep five cents worth of senna and camomile flowers in a little water, to make strong decoction, and take. It has been tried successfully in various cases.

An Excellent Recipe for Hoarseness.—At night before going to bed have ready a pint bowl into which you have squeezed the juice of half a lemon, add to this one teaspoonful of glycerine and one or two tablespoons of good whiskey or best brandy, pour over boiling water, sweeten well with loaf sugar, and drink very hot.

How to Cure the Chills.—A writer in the Toledo Blade says:—"Take the juice of half a lemon, in about two-thirds of a cup of strong, hot coffee, as soon as you get up in the morning, and a second dose in an hour, and an hour after take a third. Repeat this for two or three mornings. This is good, simple, cheap, and not hard to take."

Hints About Glue.—Good glue, a household necessity, should be a light-brown color, semi-transparent, and free from waves or cloudy lines. Glue loses much of its strength by frequent remelting; therefore, glue which is newly made is preferable to that which has been rebodied. The better the glue the more force it will exert in keeping the joined parts glued together.

Vertigo or Dizziness.—To cure vertigo or dizziness, arising from dyspepsia, eat food that is easily digested, avoiding pastry and fat meat. Sometimes it is occasioned by costiveness, and in this case the remedy is to keep the bowels open with gentle physic. Avoid coffee, ardent spirits, late suppers, and go to bed and rise early, and take plenty of out-door exercise.

To Keep the Feet Warm.—Previous to retiring at night, and before undressing, remove the stockings and rub the feet and ankles briskly with the hands. During the day wear two pair of stockings composed of different fabrics, one pair of silk or cotton, the other of wool, and the natural heat of the feet will be preserved, if the feet are kept clean, and the friction of the same is not omitted at night.

Bleeding at the Nose.—For bleeding at the nose, the best remedy, as given by Dr. Gleason in one of his lectures, is a vigorous motion of the jaws, as if in the act of mastication. In the case of a child, a wad of paper should be placed in the mouth and the child instructed to chew it hard. It is the motion of the jaws that stops the flow of blood. This remedy is so very simple that many will feel inclined to laugh at it, but it has never been known to fail in a single instance, even in very severe cases.

For Warming Cream.—Take one ounce of dried chamomile leaves, add one quart of boiling water, and when the infusion is cold give a cup full three times a day, the last dose being given when the patient retires. After a day or two relief will be obtained and then the dose may be given in smaller quantity. Fresh leaves also will cure it. Make a strong infusion and give a pint in small doses in a day. The leaves can be obtained of city druggists, or dealers in herbs. A light diet is necessary, and a mustard plaster applied to the throat, or a liniment or camphor cream of ammonia and one and a half ounces of oil-vitriol well mixed, afford relief.

A number of strikers on the Welland Canal having been arrested for intimidation, have been sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from twenty-five to sixty days.

The expense of Stanley's African exploration is in round numbers $115,000. He discovered fifteen million heathens—which is about five or six cents, or a very reasonable figure for heathens.

In the Vanderbilt will case yesterday the proponent's council offered to admit the Vanderbilt estate was worth sixty million dollars, but contestant's counsel contended its value was a hundred millions.

The Grand Lodge of Freemasons of England has passed a resolution—aimed at the Grand Orient of France—refusing to recognize as a Freemason any person initiated in a lodge where belief in God is denied or ignored.

It is stated, says the London Times, on authority which cannot be questioned that 70 million of human beings are now starving in the famine stricken provinces of Northern China. The imagination fails to cope with so gigantic a calamity.

Another political crisis is expected in Italy. It is thought the Government will be defeated on the motion for the election of a President for the Chamber, and that an appeal to the country will immediately be made. The Ministers of Interior, Public Instruction, and Public Works have already resigned.

A young man was arrested in a New Jersey town a few days ago on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. On searching his person a bowie knife was found in each boot-leg, a seven shooter in his hip-pocket, a slung shot in his inside coat pocket, a cavalry sword slid down his back, a "billy" in each coat-tail pocket, and a dagger up each coat-sleeve.

A proclamation has been published at Havana granting freedom to all slaves in the insurgent ranks on the 10th ult. who shall surrender before the end of this month—their late masters to be indemnified if loyalists; but not if insurgents. A decree issued simultaneously with the above gives the Island representation in the Spanish Cortes, and applies the Spanish laws to its government.

Pope Pius IX. has made the following bequests to distinguished personages of the Roman Catholic faith:—To the Count de Chambord, a representation of the Virgin Mosaic; to the Duchess Dowager of Modena, a mosaic of the Virgin; to Queen Isabella of Spain, a crucifix; to the ex-King of Naples, a group representing the Holy Family; to the Grand Duke of Tuscany, a carving of Raphael's Virgin; to the Prince Alphonse de Bourbon, a large device in mother-of-pearl, representing the resurrection; to the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, a silver crucifix studded with diamonds, and containing a relic of the true cross.

Among the jewels presented by Lord Rosebery to Miss Rothschild was the largest sapphire known. It was brought to England some years ago in its rough state, and for a long time remained unstable, as the dealers saw, or fancied they saw, in it a flaw. At length one more courageous than the others purchased it for £2000, taking all the risk. On being cut by the polishers it was found that the defectgness barely skin deep. Lord Rosebery paid £3,000 for it, probably the same price as the Duke of Westminster paid some years ago for the largest known turquoise. The sapphire is about the size of a large walnut, the turquoise, a flatter stone, has a somewhat larger surface.

It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, asthma, and croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. It cures swelled neck, tumors, rheumatism, neuralgia, contraction, of the muscles, stiff joints, spinal difficulties, and pain and soreness in any part, no matter where it may be, nor from what cause it may arise, it always does you good. Twenty-five cents worth has cured bad cases of chronic and bloody dysentery. One tea-spoonful cures colic in 15 minutes. It will cure any case of piles that it is possible to cure. Six or eight applications is warranted to cure any case of excoriated nipples or inflamed breast. For bruises, if applied, often and bound up, there is never the slightest discoloration to the skin. PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an increased action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and Old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Pettit's American Eye-Salve," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TICDOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

MR. BERTRAM'S SPEECH.

A Masterly Enunciation of Facts and Figures by the Member for West Peterborough.

A REVENUE TARIFF VERSUS A PROTECTIVE POLICY.

The Cause of the Depression—Charges Against the Present Government Ably Refuted—What Protection has Done in the United States—A Revenue Tariff all that is Required for the Country's Prosperity.

Mr. BERTRAM said the hon. member for Niagara had told the House that there were in the library two hundred and fifty volumes on political economy. He had no doubt, if he could judge by the length of that gentleman's speech, that he must have read some of these volumes. He only hoped that he would not undertake to read the whole two hundred and fifty volumes before next session, or it would be necessary to hold a special session for the purpose of listening to his future address. He (Mr. Bertram) confessed that he was further disappointed when his hon. friend sat down, considering the position which he held in the ranks of the Conservative party, the ability with which he had to day given his views to the House, that the hon. gentleman had taken his seat without offering to the House an amendment. He had hoped that the hon. gentleman, in the long address which he had made, would have enunciated some policy, but he had not done so. The question arose in his (Mr. Bertram,s) mind as to how long the hon. member for Niagara had been a protectionist of such pronounced tendencies as he now was. No doubt the zeal of new converts was always much greater than those who had held their opinions a long time. He felt almost inclined to hazard the assertion that the hon. gentleman must have been at some period of his life as strong a free trader as he was now a protectionist. Before entering on the subject matter before the House, he deserved to notice one or two items at the beginning of the hon. member's speech. He declared that the opinions of the hon. member for centre Toronto were not valuable because they might have been biassed by his own views of business, yes, with a remarkable neglect of that statement, the hon. gentleman, in criticising the position of the hon. the Finance Minister, when he went to London, offered to this House an opinion, that, because he was, at one time of his life, a large operator in the United States, his authority should be accepted, with regard to the operations of the hon. the Finance Minister in London. If that theory in the case of the hon. member for Niagara held good, certainly the hon. member for centre Toronto was as capable as any one of giving an opinion as to the causes of the present depression. But he disputed the statement of the hon. member for centre Toronto that in the place of 17½ per. cent, some kinds of goods imported into this country, had actually had a protection of 30 per. cent, on account of the expenses incidental to bringing those goods to this country. He. (Mr. Bertram) did not believe that any hon. member of this House, unless he has had an opportunity of testing the case, could tell exactly what any line of goods might cost. He had no doubt that bulky goods, such as the hon. member from centre Toronto imported from England, would cost nearly that amount. The duty would nearly equal thirty per cent, particularly when it was borne in mind, that in that trade, there were other expenses which must properly be charged to the goods, such as having to send home their buyers to the old country. In connection with this, the hon. member for Cumberland made a very curious mistake in his speech in reply to the hon. the Finance Minister. He advertised to him merely to show how such an eminent authority as that could be mistaken. The hon. member for Cumberland declared that the rate of freight from Liverpool to this country, compared with the rate of freight from the United States to this country, acted as a differential duty in favour of the United States. The hon. gentleman would no doubt be very much surprised to learn that a great part of the heavy goods imported into this country, cost actually less money laid down in any of the Canadian ports, Montreal, Toronto, or Hamilton, from Liverpool than from New York or any of the Eastern States There was another mistake which the hon. member for Niagara had made, in speaking of the opinions of the hon. member for Toronto. He had represented to the House that he had not followed the hon. member for Toronto very closely. In saying that, he must have been correct. The position which the hon. member for Centre Toronto had taken was this: he wished that the deficit had been larger, this year, thereby expressing the opinion from his standpoint, that if it had been larger the imports would have been less, and that the importation of a smaller quantity of goods would have been of benefit to this country, even if it caused a decreased revenue. But passing from these items, he had came to

THE GENERAL DISCUSSION WHICH HAD BEEN BEFORE THE HOUSE.

He thought it could hardly have been a matter of surprise to any one who gave even ordinary attention to the condition of affairs in this country, that when Parliament met, and the public accounts were submitted, it would be found we were face to face with another deficit. From the continued depression of business, intensified by the poor harvests of 1876, this conclusion was almost inevitable, and the only excellation which could be indulged in by any hon. member who spoke on the matter was as to the amount of that deficit. Nearly twenty years ago, in 1858, we had a deficit then, which compared with the deficit of this year, was as thirty-nine per cent to six and a half. It would be remembered that that was a period in the history of the world when the last great wave of depression passed over it. For four years after 1858 there was an average of about $2,000,000 as a deficit yearly, and that under the rule of the right hon. member for Kingston. In 1863, under the administration of Mr. Sandfield Macdonald, the deficit fell under $1,000,000, and gradually, year by year, up to the time of Confederation, it was reduced until it was entirely wiped out. In considering our present position he did not think this House or the country at large need be under apprehension. There was, after all, a silver lining to the cloud; the information given to the House by the Finance Minister was of a very cheering character indeed, that during the past year we had for seven months nearly one million dollars more than we had the previous year. He was one of those who believe very strongly in meeting all our engagements promptly. The public creditor has to be met, and it was a matter of great consequence—particularly in a young country like this—that all engagements should be met promptly. It was, therefore, in order for this House to consider the question whether they should impose any increased taxation or not. He thought they would be led to a just conclusion if they examined the revenue returns which had been laid before the House this year. If they examined those returns carefully they would find that by a moderate computation the deficit this year in two of the largest sources of revenue as compared with the ordinary revenue from those sources was two or two and a half millions per annum. When, therefore, it was taken into account that the country was not now in as normal but in as abnormal condition it would be a wrong, in the face of the change which had taken place to impose any additional taxation. He did not consider that taxation was a good thing in itself; he did not believe that taxation was a productive force. It could not add to the productiveness or the wealth of the country and it must be borne in mind, also, that many interests had grown up in Canada under the present tariff which would be affected by any change which might be introduced. That tariff had existed in Canada for many years with trifling variations; 15, 17 and 20 per cent being about its range. Many industries, too, had grown up in Canada—of which he would speak thereafter—which depended somewhat on and it would be a great mistake, therefore to change backward and forward because a proceeding had a tendency to cause a feeling of insecurity. The question had been raised in the House that the Finance Minister had no policy—that he could do nothing, and it was broadly charged against him that in his opinion Parliament was powerless as far as the commercial depression was concerned. He (the speaker) was very certain that if the Prime Minister was to express an opinion on the subject it would be found that he did not agree with the broad assertion that Parliament was powerless. Parliament had a great deal to do with the prosperity of a country, and a Parliament could do two or three things in the matter of taxation. It was within the power of Parliament to increase or diminish taxation, or to adopt a national policy—a policy which independent members of the House might be somewhat at a loss to know what it really meant. The one instance of a national policy given by the hon. member for Cumberland was a policy that would place a duty on coal for the purpose of protecting the people of Nova Scotia, also a duty on flour for the purpose of protecting Ontario farmers. So far, however, from that being a national policy if he (Mr. Bertram) were obliged to give it a name he would say that it was a policy which would rob Peter to pay Paul; and then rob Paul to pay Peter back again, and in that operation there was no doubt some money was dropped by both Paul and Peter. He had stated that he did not look with any degree of apprehension on the deficit this year or the depression under which we were now suffering—the time for apprehension was when we were in the fever heat of inflation, That was a time when the disease existed and when the fire was burning; now, he believed, we were only suffering from the pains of convalescence. We were only getting well and getting reduced to the ordinary condition of things. There could be no doubt that we experienced some difficulty in coming down from the high state of inflation in which we were some years ago to ordinary work-a-day life. There was a very marked difference between

THE FISCAL POLICY OF THE COUNTRY

THE PRESENT DEPRESSION

and that which existed in 1858. During that period the farmers of the country were the great sufferers, while at the present time he believed farmers—more particularly those of Ontario—would have passed through the crisis which now existed had it not been for the poor harvest of 1876. If any difficulty was being experienced just now it was mainly experienced by business men and he would here take the opportunity of remarking that if they as a class had been the greatest sufferers they had also been the greatest sinners. It could not be doubted that there were too many business men in this country—too many individuals seeking to earn a living in that way—and the sooner something happened which would drive men out of such employment where a living could not be earned the better it would be for the whole country. He was somewhat surprised to hear the hon. member for Cumberland state very broadly, in his reply to the Finance Minister's budget speech, that the present Government was responsible for the depression. The hon. member said that when he and his friends were in power with a 15 per cent tariff the treasury was overflowing. Everybody was then rich and the country prosperous, whereas, now, with a 17½ per cent tariff the country was suffering from a depression. He (Mr. Bertram) did not think that the hon. gentleman would in his calmer moments be at all inclined to say that the present administration was responsible for the depression. The only argument to be drawn from a statement of that kind would be to again reduce the tariff from 17½ to 15 per, cent and by that means regain prosperity. He had always been a careful listener to the speeches delivered by the hon. member for Cumberland, but there was one matter in a speech delivered by him not many days ago which he (the speaker) would like to refer to—namely, the alleged bungling method in which the Finance Minister had floated his loan in the London market this year. The matter was brought up by the hon. member for Cornwall, who took a different ground altogether, and claimed that the Finance Minister could not receive any credit for reducing the amount of reduction of interest by his loan made in London. At that part of his speech where the hon. member was discussing the amount of reduction in interest, he (Mr. McCarthy) was somewhat misled in his figures, and did not catch the exact amount of reduction stated by the hon. member. This proposition, however, was plain that if the Finance Minister could not receive any credit last year for the manner in which he had placed his loan on the London market he was certainly entitled to no blame. He thought that would be clear to every hon. member, and therefore, the entire speech delivered by the hon. member for Cumberland last year, was even by the admission of his friends altogether a mistake. During the discussion many extraordinary charges had been made against the Administration—charges which he would not attempt to consider in detail. The different manner in which hon. members viewed these charges was, he might remark, very singular and this circumstance had struck him very forcibly after listening to the hon. member for South Lanark. He went over some of

THE CHARGES MADE AGAINST THE ADMINISTRATION.

such as the Goderich Harbour Contract, and declared that the charges were very serious indeed, and yet when he came to speak about charges against his own friends they did not appear to amount to anything. When individual charges were brought forward on the floor of this house, and disposed of, they should be allowed to rest, and no doubt the country would be able to appraise accusations made by the hon. gentlemen opposite at their just value. But there was one question in which he proposed to trouble the House for a short time; it was a charge made against the Administration—and if it were correct should be subjected to proof. It had been charged by almost every member on the Opposition side of the House, that the members of the Government had been extravagant in their expenditures. He considered it a very serious charge, and if it were proved conclusively, no doubt it would detach from the Government many of the supporters who now voted with them. The hon. member for Cardwell, and also the hon. gentleman from Niagara endeavoured to prove this accusation of extravagance against the Administration by citing isolated facts. The latter hon. member had brought forward isolated facts from the Public Accounts. He (Mr. Bertram) confessed—perhaps it was due to his want of knowledge and acumen—that he was entirely unable to follow the hon. member for Niagara through the statements in which he charged extravagance against the Government. It was only by a comparison that they could arrive at any definite conclusion on that matter, and it was not by making comparison of any isolated year whether 1873-4 or this; it was by the general tendency of the expenditure, and having made a critical an examination of the accounts as he had been able to do, he proposed to give to the House the result of that examination. It was and would be proper in making a comparison of that kind, not only to compare the Administration, but, in the first place, to compare the late Government with themselves, and afterwards to compare them with the present Administration. There was an important fact to be borne in mind, that this country was not stationary. There was no more prominent fact, apparent to any one who would take the trouble of examining the public accounts, than that year by year, and almost every year, the expenditure of the country had increased. Let this House look for a moment at the circumstances of the Dominion. We are a young country, taking up new territories, growing in population, and if we were to become stationary it would simply mean death. We are, however, not stationary, and he hoped the expenditure, within reasonable limits would continue to increase. The part of expenditure, which, he thought, probably deserved the most careful consideration of every hon. member was

THE DEPARTMENTAL EXPENDITURE.

Without being able to give an opinion as to whether the service in the departments could be performed better, for less money; he had an idea, and he believed it was generally shared in by others, that although the country had many civil servants who were evidently capable for the performance of their duties, men who would grace any station in life, from whom the country could very ill do without; yet there were found, at the same time, there were found in some departments barnacles, who could with advantage be swept away, and their places left vacant. The hon. member for South Norfolk (Mr. Wallace) had declared to the House that he had no faith in figures. He (Mr. Bertram) thought this was rather an extraordinary admission. If the hon. gentleman had said he had no faith in some of the deductions which were drawn from figures, then he could understand what he might have meant, but to state boldly that he had no faith in the figures themselves. What were they to go by? If he entered on a comparative statement to find out whether the hon. gentleman on this or on the opposite side of the House, had been the most economical in the management of the country's affairs, he could do nothing except turn to the public accounts. And if hon. gentleman would be kind enough to turn to page 19, P. A., they would see the figures while he gave the results of the examination he had made of their accounts. He would begin first of all with the ordinary expenditure, then take charges on revenue and finally the whole amount paid out of the Consolidated Fund. He proposed to examine each of these items under their several heads. In 1868-9, and he wished it to be understood, that in naming that year, he meant the financial year closing on the 30th of June of the last year mentioned—there were spent for ordinary expenditure as they made observe, on page 19, $3,450,485.-43. He would now take 1876-1, as a year in which to compare these hon. gentlemen with themselves. No special expenditure was made during this year. He did not wish to go into the year 1873-4, and make a comparison with it, but he would select 1870-1 as a year which would be absolutely fair. He however deducted from 1870-1 for the purposes of comparison, two items which had up collusion in 1868-9 [illegible] amounting to [illegible] leaving the [illegible] expenditure for that year $4,596,077,84. It would be marked that the excess during those two years—from 1869 to 1871, was $1,140,592.43, or an average of $570,295.21, and he took this to be the ordinary advance which existed during the administration of affairs from 1867 to 1874. If this was the ordinary advance, what would be the expenditure by adding it together for the years that ensued until those hon. gentlemen went out of power? Five years at $570,296,21 each would be $6,310,966.47. He deducted from the year 1873-4 for the same purposes of comparison, all those items that had no existence in 186-89, which reduced the expenditure from that year to $7,177,-853.49. If they compared this with the amount he had spoken of what made it show? This—that the late Government increased the expenditure for the year 1874, with all those items out of it that had no existence in 1867, by $866,887.02. If they applied the same rule to the ordinary expenditure for 1877 by adding the eight years average advance, what did they find? This—that the expenditure would be $8,521,855.10 as against that made by the present Administration, viz:—$6,-060,242,25, which showed conclusively a decrease in favor of the present Government of no less a sum than $1,961,-612.85. He now came to examine in somewhat the same method the charges of revenues, but in this respect he thought is could not be said that the hon. gentlemen who controlled the affairs of the country in 1873 were not responsible for these charges of revenue. They were responsible for the expenditure of every farthing of these charges, which in 1874 were $4,736,441.28; and as he could only go three years forward from that date, for the same purposes of comparison, he would go three years backwards. He would take the year 1870, when these charges amounted to $2,351,724.89. These figures showed an increase from 1870 to 1874 of $2,384,717.39, and in the same ratio of increase if this expenditure had been kept up, the year 1877 would have seen a total expenditure of $7,121,159,67, but what was the actual amount under charges of revenue? It was $5,196,-896.64; in other words, the present expenditure was less in this statement by comparison of no less a sum than $1,-926,263 03. But it might be urged by the hon. gentleman who then controlled the Government, that British Columbia and Manitoba had come in to the Dominion, and that the increase was therefore necessarily larger. He quite admitted that fact. Between 1870 and 1874, it was larger than between 1874 and 1877; but this fact must be borne in mind, that in 1877 they had another item under the head of charges of revenue, which very nearly equalled the amount under those two heads. The expenditure under this heading for British Columbia and Manitoba in 1873 was $106,345.38; and in 1874, it was over $112,213.10; but they had an analogous expenditure in 1877 for weights and measures, and other two items, the amount being $116,637.80. He thought the hon. member for Cumberland made a very unfair comparison indeed, when he compared the revenue from Customs and the expenditure of Customs, and declared to the House as something which the Administration was to be blamed for that under the Administration of the right hon. member for Kingston, they collected so many millions of dollars with a certain expenditure—he thought he had the figures there—in 1874, the Customs charges were $658,299.34, and the collections over $14,000,000, while in 1877, the charges were $721,000, and the collections $12,546,000. He did not think that a comparison of that kind was worthy of the hon. gentleman, why the collections were not made by percentage. They could not discharge as officer because some years, the imports were less than in others. If they were to judge of the hon. gentleman by himself, he could give an instance which went entirely against his present views on this point, and which happened under his own auspices. The hon. gentleman was a Minister of Customs, in 1872 he appointed an officer to the Port of Lindsay, at a salary of $1,-000 per annum. The collections there in 1874 were only $4,452.01, and apparently so arduous were the duties on that inland station, that in the month of October 1873, another officer was appointed with a salary of $400 a year, which made the expense of collecting, $4,452.01, $1,480.02; whereas in the sister port of Peterborough, some 30 miles distant from the town of Lindsay, the revenue collected that year was $13,581.81, which was collected by one officer at a charge of $1,167,42, so here the hon. gentleman himself while Minister of customs had of his own accord, done the very thing for which he blamed—and he (Mr. Bertram) thought wrongfully the Ministers who now occupied the Treasury Benches. He would now come to the question of the

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 21, 1878

THE POLITICAL CRISIS IN QUEBEC.

We have already referred briefly to the differences between the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec and his late cabinet, which led to the necessity of forming a new Ministry. The only fully detailed account of the difficulties that has been published is that of the late Premier, who as a matter of course tries to place the whole matter in the light most favourable to himself. For that perhaps he cannot be blamed. His conduct in so doing is at least natural. But the accusation hurled at the representative of royalty, who held the honour of his position so sacred as to refuse to have any responsibility for tyrannous acts thrown upon it, are neither natural nor generous, fair nor becoming in those who profess to such loyalty to the Crown, as do the frantic assailants of His Excellency of Quebec. Though we do not go so far as has been formerly asserted, that the conduct of a viceroy should not be made a subject of discussion, we do say that it is ill-advised to draw it into the circle of party differences, as has been done in this instance. Again, we contend that the acts of king or commoner, viceroy or vassal, should be dealt with fairly, and above all without an imputation of motives to one who is not in a position to make himself heard in his own defence. Such conduct is cowardly. Yet this is what is being done toward the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec by nearly every Tory journal in the Dominion, while all the time they know, or should know, that his position precludes him from entering on a defence of himself against such charges. Fair play, honour and honesty are forgotten in an attempt to get a party advantage, or retain a party position, probably lost by the arrogance of the very man His Excellency of Quebec is accused of treating unfairly. And not only are wrong motives imputed to what is known; conjectures are also indulged in the meanest of which is not lessened by their utter absurdity. If the question of Mr. Letellier's dismissal of his cabinet is worth considering, (and we think it is,) it should be considered on its merits, and calmly as a constitutional matter should be discussed, apart entirely from the distractions of demagogues, or the exasperations of excited partisans. By such a consideration only can truth be arrived at, and good done to the country and the world. This is perhaps the most important question that has yet agitated the politics of the Dominion, and it solution should be attempted with a due regard for its gravity, instead of its being treated as one of many party shuttlecocks. We can't do without party politicians; but we could afford to have them statesmen as well.

The main facts of the case so far as we can gain them from the correspondence between the Lieutenant-Governor and the late Premier of the Province, are these: While the former was at Riviere Ouelle, on the 26th of January the Premier sent a telegram asking an authorization of resolutions respecting finances. An answer was sent and a blank authorization sent next day. On the 28th February His Excellency sent a letter to the Premier for copies of public documents relating to the North Shore Railway and the Bill introduced during the late session respecting subsidies from municipalities and to facilitate the payment and recovery of the same.

"He further asked for a detailed statement of reasons which induced the Provincial Government not to content themselves with the provisions of the statute and public law and with those of the Civil Code of this Province for the recovery of the sums of money which might become due by the said corporations, but, without in any manner previously consulting with the Lieutenant-Governor, to propose ex post facto legislation to compel them thereto."

His Excellency's communication to the Premier further stated:—

"Another very important measure to provide for the imposition of new taxes was also equally proposed to the Legislature without having been previously submitted to the Lieutenant-Governor. The Lieutenant-Governor is perfectly aware that measures of secondary importance which had previously been sufficiently explained to him may be, as a matter of routine, proposed to both Houses without an express order from him, but he cannot allow the Executive to communicate to the Legislature on his part any important or new measures without his special order, and without his having been previously fully informed of and advised thereof."

Here we have a questioning of the conduct of the Cabinet, which we think no one will deny was both right and proper on the part of the Lieutenant-Governor. The reply of the Premier is in itself a plain admission of His Excellency's right to prefer such a request. The reason given for the legislation to oblige municipalities to pay the subsidies to the North Shore Railway was, that some of three municipalities showed ill-will "by neglecting to comply with the request of the Treasurer," by "signal refusal to pay," or by "asking new conditions," a general justification of the measure, whereby the ordinary courts would be set aside by making the Lieutenant-Governor and the Executive Council a tribunal. His Excellency's attention was also called to the blank form sent from Revere Ouelle, which the Premier stated he had, (in connection with a later general authorization to lay money questions before the House, and the conviction that His Excellency understood the proposed taxes from the Budget Speech,) used as a permission from the Crown for all questions respecting money. Another letter from His Excellency to the Premier, while admitting that the latter's error was committed in good faith, explained that the words of the Lieutenant-Governor in the interview referred to by the Premier did not imply the authorization attributed to them. His Excellency then refers to the false position in which he is placed with reference to both Houses of the Legislature, and declares that he "cannot admit the responsibility of this state of things to rest on him." After further reference to interviews and his not having been generally informed explicitly of measures adopted by the Cabinet, nor of the true condition of the Provincial finances, His Excellency states that he had only the day previously become cognizant of petitions addressed to him respecting the government Railway Bill. He questions the constitutionality of the way in which the desires of the Legislature have been expressed, and states that he "cannot accept the advice of the Premier" in reference to the sanction of the Railway Bill. His letter then closes with the following sentence:—

"For all these reasons, therefore, the Lieutenant-Governor cannot conclude this memorandum without expressing to the Premier the regret which he feels in being no longer able to retain him in his position contrary to the rights and perogatives of the Crown."

This was accepted by Mr. DeBoucherville as his dismissal from office, and the Lieutenant Governor at once sought some one who would undertake to form a New Cabinet with all the consequent responsibilities of that duty. Such a person was quickly found in Mr. Joly, who thus accepts all the blame, if any, that may be attachable to the Royal representative.

In this whole misunderstanding, (for such only it was, so far as shown by the letters published) we have a plain constitutional question. Did Mr. DeBoucherville act in an unconstitutional manner, as held by the Lieutenant Governor? Or did the Lieut.-Governor act unconstitutionally, as is declared by some of the Opposition papers? We have not yet noticed that any of the journals that cry out so loudly against Letellier, ever attempt to justify the acts that led to his exercise of the prerogative. They do not argue; they howl. This will not do any good; and is positively wrong in such a case as this. The Premier seemed in the first place to have considered that the Lieutenant Governor had given him carte blanche in all things, and went on without any further thought of the Crown having responsibility. The possibility of such a feeling can be understood under the circumstances; as it appears to have been formally a custom in Quebec for Her Majesty's representative to abdicate his functions. But when the mistake was made plain to the Premier, and he showed no disposition to retire from his false position, or to relieve the Lieutenant-Governor from the false position in which he also was placed, then a conflict arose in which either one or the other had to yield, and the Crown having the power was compelled to use it in its own defence, and in that of the constitution. Few, if any will deny that had the Crown yielded in this case, a great wrong would have been done; but as the matter now stands the wrong will be averted and the difficulty will before long be adjusted in perfect accordance with constitutional usage.

That the Royal prerogative is seldom used in this way is a proof of the generally happy manner in which government under British practice is carried on. But the rarity of a practice does not prove it to be wrong. Far from it. It is well to have such a dernier ressort; whereby disgrace may be avoided without a shattering of the popular prerogative. That such a case has not before occurred in the Dominion, is a great reason why it should be treated with a proper degree of consideration, with a view to what may be said of our treatment if it should ever be looked on by posterity as a precedent.

PARTY ORGANIZATION AGAIN.

The Conservatives of the town have been "organizing," in their own peculiar way, at what are called ward meetings, held last week. We find that the principle of popular choice has, as usual with Conservative "organizers," been flatly ignored, resolutions being passed by the few assembled pushers that committee's of sub-divisions "shall have power to fill up any vacancies." Thus from the United Empire Club down to the representation of polling sub divisions the principle of assumption of power is kept up within the Tory party, and the common herd is expected to subserviently swallow the doctrine dealt out to it by those who prescribe political potions and pills, some of them very hard to swallow by eggs the most shrivelly unthinking. So long as this continues to be the case just so long will men of mind and mettle refuse the dictation sought to be put upon them; and the Reform party, while willing to bear any temporary disadvantages that may arise from a full and free popular consideration, will in the end gain the esteem and confidence of the people, and win to it the intelligence and force of the country. We speak of "temporary disadvantages" from the organizers point of view, for it can be readily understood that an ascertaining and counteracting of many and diverse views on any point necessarily takes up time, and entails no little work of a very painful character on those who undertake to arrange and concentrate the force of various ideas upon one grand project. For this reason men who have been entrusted with this important work can get through it as much as possible by themselves, and present the result of their labours to the party, who will have little else to do than to approve of it. Such is the organization of another great power of this country, the "sovereign people," and we see this exemplified very plainly just now in the hurried efforts being made to get the lately broken and demoralized party into something like shape again. It is pretended that the haste is due to a fear that the elections may take place at a very early date. There is, however, nothing to point to such a contingency; for so far from the Government gaining by an early election, they are likely to grow stronger with every month that rolls by, till the extreme limit of the parliamentary term. The haste observable among the Tory organizers is therefore to be attributed to another cause. It is probably owing to the steady—slow but sure—organization that has been going on among Reformers for months past, and the fear that Toryism can't catch up. Either this, or the rush is for the purpose of hurrying nominal Conservatives into pledges before they have time to think out the issues for themselves. This at least is the effect, whether it be the intention or not.

We are glad to observe that our Reform friends in their movements toward a complete organization are moving with due deliberation, and with careful regard to those rights that are common to all. It is well that the correct basis of popular representation be fully recognized as the sure foundation for any and all political movements, and that all building upon that firm principle shall be done with permanency as the main object. But while these should be the guiding principles in all matters wherein there may be differences however slight, to be considered and adjusted, in those upon which are all agreed the motto should be "go ahead." Thus in the particular of a careful scrutiny of the voters' lists there need not, (neither should there,) be any delay whatever. To carry out this and kindred duties in relation to the party as a whole it is necessary that the various townships and town organizations should be perfected, after which no great difficulty will be experienced in forming associations for the various Ridings. This once done there will be time enough for general consultation on matters that need discussion before the elections come on, such as the selection of party candidates who will be most likely to carry the constituencies, and other matters pertaining to the conduct of the campaign. There is no use of frantic hurry, nor is there wisdom in delay.

REFORMERS ASTIR.

On Friday last the Reformers of East Peterboro, held a meeting in the Village of Norwood, which, notwithstanding the almost impassable state of the roads was well attended. All the front townships were represented. The following officers were elected:—President, T. G. Choate, Esq.; Vice-Presidents, all the Presidents of the Township Associations; Secretary, W. E. Roxburgh, Esq, Treasurer, W. J. Drummond, Esq. After discussion in reference to necessary and proportionate representation of the Municipality by delegates at a general convention, it was agreed that one delegate for every 100 electors be selected from each Municipality, to meet at Norwood on Saturday 6th of April, to nominate a candidate for the approaching election. It was also agreed that Municipalities could vote by proxies resident in the riding, if duly appointed by the Township Associations. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed throughout the meeting, and all were unanimous in their approval of the course pursued by both the Mackenzie and Mowat Governments, and the strongest confidence was expressed that the riding would be carried by a majority equal, if not greater than in 1874.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

The Conservative Party are apparently endeavouring as much as possible to ignore the Eastern portion of the East Riding, as witness where they held their Convention for the nomination of a Candidate to contest the Riding at the approaching election. Norwood is no doubt the most central part of the riding for holding such a meeting, but the Conservative clique of Peterborough were afraid if they met there, that Norwood would have too large a voice in the matter, and hence the holding of the Convention at Indian River. We believe there were four names before the Convention viz., Dr. McCrae of Keene, P. M. Grover of Norwood, John Burnham, Ashburnham, and John Carnegie, Peterborough. Upon a ballot been taken, the vote stood as follows: McCrae, 3; Grover, 13; Carnegie 3; Burnham 40. Mr. Burnham will therefore be the standard bearer for the Conservatives of the East Riding, and is no doubt the most popular man belonging to the party in the Riding. Although his popularity will enable him to poll a large Conservative vote, still he has a bad cause to battle for, and with united action on the part of Reformers he will be defeated without doubt, and the Riding still represented in the Commons by a supporter of the present Government.

We rather pity the Conservatives of Peterborough, seeing that they are afflicted with the Rev. Vincent Clementi, whose motto, if it is not, should be, Aliquis in omnibus nemo in singulis. He never misses a chance to spread himself, either in print or in the oratorical role, and is continually putting his foot in it. At a meeting in the First Ward last week he was allowed to air his eloquence, and sought to convey the impression that he knew something of trade concerns by quoting and approving a Chicago paper's remarks on Canada. The over-clever Vincent evidently doesn't know Chicago's relation to Canada as a through route to hot sea-board, and the various interests that control the paper from which he quoted. If this is the best he can do for the Tories of this town, the Reformers will have to thank him when the results are developed. The reverend gentlemen also made a quotation (He's "some" on quotations,) from a speech of Hon. W. E. Gladstone, in which a compliment was paid to Sir John Macdonald. This he evidently thought would be d accepts as a reason for "unbounded confidence in the ability and patriotism" of Sir John. Mr. Gladstone before the meeting of the High Joint Commission at Washington said of Sir John:—"No one can better represent and defend the interests of the Empire and of British North America." It was a pretty compliment, and may or may not have meant all the words express. If it did, then so much the worse for the man who could so well represent and defend our interests, and did not. But the very mention of such an utterance by Mr. Gladstone before the the Commission met, suggests to the mind the enquiry whether any such estimate of Sir John has been published since. Will she or she'll Vindex quote from the Parliamentary or Commercial Reports of both parties any such favorable opinion of the Canadian Confederation for which Mr. Gladstone would use a paper, and qualifying "patriotic" comment that led to his resignation of the post of "Prime Minister of Canada," lest he should be dismissed for "high crimes and misdemeanors." Will the Rev. V. Clementi, B.A., tell his Tory hearers at Ward meetings what is Mr. Gladstone's present estimate of the dishonest and drunken leader of Her Majesty's Loyal opposition in Canada?

STRANGE of the feeblest contrast of the DeBoucherville party for the Province of Quebec, the Kingston Whig says:—There country, by refusing the supplies, of course forced on the dissolution, for which they will doubtless be ready enough to blame the Liberal party. It will now transpire in due time which party possesses the confidence of the people. So far as the popular demonstrations are concerned there can be no question as to the side towards which the public feeling is decidedly leaning. The Lieut.-Governor and the new ministers have been vociferously cheered by crowds of electors wherever they have appeared, while we have seen that for some time prior to the maturing of the crisis the indignation of the people of Quebec found vent to anti-Government demonstration including the hanging and burning in effigy of the more obnoxious members of the odious Cabinet. As to the affected respect of the latter for His Excellency, however, their conduct at the close of the Assembly's proceedings was quite fit to rank with that of as many ringleaders of a mob in its coarseness and total disregard for the etiquette which is supposed to control and regulate the proceedings of a deliberative assembly. At the last moment they disloyally refused to obey the summons of His Honor as conveyed by the Black Rod and contemptuously insulted the Representative of Royalty by ignoring entirely the formalities of prorogation. The party of tyranny will in all probability be weakened in numbers and possibly be shown some of its impudence when they retire from the polls.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

JOHN JOSEPH HAWKINS has been elected President of the South Brant Conservative Association. He now says Sir John is just the cleanest-handed politician anybody could desire. Yet in September, 1874, this was what John Joseph said at Glenece:

"He had been present at the firing of the last gun when the political sun of Sir John Macdonald went down for ever in the winding-up of the nefarious Pacific Scandal transaction. (hear hear.)

JOE RYMAL says Dalton McCarthy is to the late Hon. J. H. Cameron as Satyr to Hyperion, as mud to marble, and as a singed cat to a Royal Bengal Tiger. Hard on Dalton.

THE masterly speech delivered by Mr. Bertram in the House of Commons lately, will be found on our first page. It is well worth a perusal; it explodes the Protection Bubble.

REFERRING to the Ontario Governments Tile Drainage Bill, the Norwood Register (Conservative) says:—"The object of the Bill no doubt is a good one. If any portion of our industries need fostering and encouraging, it is that of cultivating the soil, and any step in this direction should meet with favor and approval.

MURDERER WANTED.—The County Attorney of the County of Ontario offers a reward of $100 for the apprehension of George McCulloch, against whom a verdict of willful murder was returned by a coroner's jury, for the killing of Joseph Balforn, in the County of Ontario, on February 16th. McCulloch is described as being about 5 feet 7 inches in height, with ruddy complexion and stout.

HON. GEORGE BROWN does not think it worth while to notice the absurd report that he advised the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec to dismiss his late Cabinet. What would the Tories do without George Brown to compliment as being the one man who causes all important events? We are afraid they give him credit for a superhuman ability he cannot possibly possess. If any one is to blame for the dismissal of the DeBoucherville Ministry it is Mr. DeBoucherville himself.

C. CLARKSON, B.A., Principal of the Brockville Model School, has been for some time past contributing to the local press a series of useful articles on subjects connected with practical education. It would do good if skilled educationists in other localities were to follow his example. Our columns are open for correspondence on this subject as well as all other correspondence of public interest, while confined to reasonable space and avoiding personalities.

THE Globe says:—The defeat sustained some months ago by the promoters of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway has not so discouraged those interested in the undertaking as to prevent its becoming again talked of as feasible. There is no doubt about the earnestness of the people along the line in its support, and there is reason to believe that many in this city who formerly opposed the granting of a bonus would be quite willing to see one voted, yet on conditions somewhat different from those formerly offered. The vitality of the project is unquestionable.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The situation as regards the differences between England and Russia increases in gravity. A protest has been sent from London to St. Petersburg against the continued advance on the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles, but no reply has yet been received. England stands to her demand that Russia will formerly engage to submit all the terms of the San Stefano Treaty to the Congress, and Prince Gortschakoff has again replied, merely reiterating his promise that all the conditions shall be submitted to the Powers. The Times declares the latest phase is that Russia, while willing to submit all the points of the Treaty, declines to be ultimately bound by the decision of the majority of the Powers. A correspondent at the Russian capital of the North German Gazette says Russia will not allow the war indemnity, Armenia, or Bessarabia to be discussed. Turkey, in the event of the difference between Russia and England resulting in war, has, it is reported, decided to remain neutral, which means, if true, that she will stay by and see her former enemy either gain additional glory and more power to crush her, or look on and not take the advantage to administer a blow which might ultimately restore her to her former status. The proposition for a preliminary Conference has been coldly received, and is not expected to come to anything. England has requested permission from the Porte to establish a coaling station on the Island of Tenedos.

R. A. E. RINE IN TROUBLE.

He is Arrested for an Indecent Assault, and Committed for Trial—Examination in Mitchell and Stratford.

On Thursday last Mr. D. I. K. Rine, the temperance lecturer, was arrested in Mitchell upon a charge of "indecent assault," laid against him by a Miss Eliza Gibling a servant in the employ of a Mr. Hurst of Stratford, a merchant, and a leading temperance man as well as a prominent member of the Methodist Church, at whose house he had been a guest the previous night. The case was remanded until Monday when it was again brought up, and the following evidence adduced:—

Eliza Gibling, being duly sworn, said,—After tea on Wednesday night Mr. Rine came to Mr. Hurst's house and slept there that night; saw Mr. Hurst next (Thursday) morning; got breakfast for him; Mr. Rine did not breakfast with him; Mr. Hurst went to the store; no one was in the house but the nurse girl and I; Mr. Rine was up stairs in his bedroom; Mr. Rine came and asked me for a pin, said he could get him one; he said, "Bring it up to my bedroom," he was dressed at the time; I said, "All right, I will bring you one;" took a pin up; the bed-room door stood ajar; knocked at the door; Mr. Rine came to the door; gave him the pin; he said, "Wait a minute, I'll give you some back;" waited, and as he returned the package he took me by the arm and pulled me into the room; he said, "You are a nice stout girl, do you think you are anything like my wife?" I said, I don't know, sir;" he laid his hand on my breast and pinched me; I asked to be let go; he said he wanted to speak to me; tried to get from him and struggled; broke away a step when he caught me again; he told me to stay, that he wanted to speak to me; his face was white; he then pulled me towards the bedstead and kissed me; he had his arm around my body; escaped and got down stairs; while kissing me he did not say anything; Mr. Hurst came in about a quarter of an hour afterwards and I complained to him.

Mr. Jones, of St. Mary's, appeared for the defence, and subjected the witness to a severe cross-examination without materially affecting her testimony. She said—He took hold of my hand and asked for a good-bye kiss before he went; he took me by the arm and pulled me into the room; did not think the affair a joke; saw a woman's photograph, which Mr. Rine said was his wife's; the door was open all the time; asked three or four times that he should let me go to do my downstairs work; Mr. Rine asked how old I was; said fifteen, and he said I was a fine stout girl; the whole occurrence occupied about ten minutes from beginning to end; he said nothing indecent to me; placed his hand on my shoulder and squeezed me; placed his arm around my waist; did not tell the other servant in the kitchen about the affair up stairs; Mr. Rine stayed to dinner and witness waited at table.

Mr. Hurst examined—His attention was drawn to the girl by her pale face when he came to dinner; demanded to know what had occurred; don't know that she consulted her father before the information was laid; had a conversation with Mr. Rine after the charge was laid; the latter offered to apologize, and said he had attempted improper liberties with the girl; witness said it must be done through her father and the proper court.

The Magistrate committed the accused for trial, and accepted bail for his appearance at the next Court of competent jurisdiction, himself in $1,000 and two sureties. Mr. J. H. Rogers, of Toronto, and Mr. Trout of the Monetary Times, in $500 each.

Lindsay & Bobcaygeon Railway.

On Saturday last a meeting of the Railway Committee, and of the Provisional Directors of the Railway Company, was held at Simpson's Hotel. The attendance was numerous. M. Boyd, Esq., was in the Chair. A long discussion ensued as to the prospects of the enterprise, and after being fully debated the conclusion was arrived at that it should not be postponed for another year, but that an effort should be made to proceed with the enterprise at once. A Committee was appointed to draw up a Village By-law granting $15,000 to the undertaking. Some bills were ordered to be paid, and a resolution passed urging that the parties interested should pay their subscriptions to the fund for defraying the expenses. On Monday the Committee again met, this time in the Town Hall, to consider the draft of the By-law. After receiving careful consideration the draft by-law was approved, and was submitted the same evening to a special meeting of the Village Council. The Council gave the by law a first reading, and appointed a date for the vote of the ratepayers sufficiently distant to permit of time for any amendments being made in the By-law, should such be requisite. The tax will amount to a fraction more than six and a half mills on the dollar. This is very moderate. Whether the bonus will carry in this village is not by any means certain, and still greater doubt prevails as to the prospect of success in the Township of Verulam. The old idea, which has been so fatal to the interests of this vicinity, still prevails, and people imagine that there is somewhere a 'they' who are interested in building a railway to this place, and who will spend money and time in promoting it. This idea should be banished at once and for ever. There is no 'they' at all. The Village Railway Committee are the only persons moving in the project, and outside of that body there is no other organization which cares a red cent whether Bobcaygeon lives or dies. If the people themselves have not enough energy and force of character to organise a Company to build the railway, the matter will speedily come to an end. The Whitby Company have offered to run the road when built, and to find a contractor who will take $2,000 a mile in bonds. This is the full extent of the Whitby Company's offer. Therefore it is evident the people of Bobcaygeon, Verulam and Harvey, have themselves alone to rely upon, except, perhaps, some little pecuniary assistance from Lindsay. These are the plain facts, and they cannot be too clearly understood. There are men enough interested to make the project a success. If they all exert themselves, the project will succeed and the railway will be built; if they do not, failure is unavoidable. And this should not be disguised from the people. Let us hope for the best, and let each one do all in his power to help on the good cause.—Independent.

CELEBRATION SUPPER.

The Bobcaygeon Independent of last week says:—On Friday evening last, the whole of the men who have been employed on the locks celebrated the successful completion of the undertaking by an Oyster Supper at the Lock Master's office. The storehouse at the back was handsomely fitted up for the occasion, and was decorated with the glorious banner of England, and also with the famous Tricolour of France. The superintending engineer of the Trent Works, Mr. Thomas Belcher, presided, and a very merry party sat down to oysters, and all the canned delicacies of the season. He was supported by Mr. Irwin, the lumberman from Port Hope, and by Mr. Petrie, lumberman of Bobcaygeon. The Vice chair was ably filled by Mr. C. Edwards, the Clerk of the works, supported by Mr. William Keanedy, the foreman of the works, and Mr. Kelly, the Lockmaster. After the oysters had been disposed of, the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were given by Mr. Belcher, and in due time a gentleman present proposed the health of Mr. Belcher, pointing out that the work so successfully accomplished had been one of great difficulty, owing to the nature of the rock, and that only considerable engineering skill, and great perseverance, had accomplished the task. The locks were of great importance to a large and growing trade, and any delay in their repair after the opening of navigation would have caused, not only great inconvenience, but would have been ruinous to some of our most important industries. He congratulated Mr. Belcher on the success of his operations, and complimented the men on their persistence and energy. Mr. Belcher replied in suitable terms, and proposed the healths of the various others. Several songs and speeches followed, and a very interesting evening was spent, the meeting breaking up at an early and temperate hour.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 21, 1878

LOCAL NEWS

Sinking.—The river has risen considerably during the past few days.

The New Temperance Act.—We will next week give the principal provisions of the new Temperance Act.

Personal.—John Bertram, Esq., M.P., made a short visit home on Saturday, but left again for Ottawa on Monday. He is looking well.

St. Patrick's Day passed off very quietly in Peterborough, there being no celebration of any kind in commemoration of Erin's patron saint.

Good Intentions.—Many men are now receiving to have a model vegetable garden. In two month's time they will sit in the front yard smoking, while their wives prod around a consumptive red currant bush.

The Organ Question.—We understand that the vote on the organ question in St. Paul's Church resulted in a majority of 23 in favor of the organ. The vote being as follows:—125 for, 102 against, and 150 not voting.

No Service.—There was no service last Sunday evening in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church owing to the very serious illness of Mrs. Watson. We regret to learn that she still lingers in a very precarious condition.

Midland Railway.—Mr. F. Whitehead, the Secretary and Treasurer of the Midland Railway, having resigned, Mr. Charles Percy, late Secretary and Treasurer of the Great Western Railway, has been appointed to the vacant office.

Early Sowing.—The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"As a proof of the early season it may be noted that Mr. J. C. Robinson, of South Verulam, on Monday and Tuesday of this week was engaged in sowing grain, the land being in good condition."

Spring Goods.—Our merchants, with their usual enterprise, have already received a great portion of their spring goods. Our advertising columns contain many interesting announcements anent the same, which should be carefully noted.

Crushed to Death.—The Mr. Laidlaw that was crushed to death at Cobourg on Monday of last week, while coupling cars, belonged to Lindsay, and was the second son of the late Capt. Laidlaw, of same place. The body was brought to Lindsay for interment.

Special Services.—Special services still continue to be held in the George-street Methodist Church with good results—the roll of Church membership being largely increased during the past few weeks. Services of a like nature are now being held in St. Paul's Church.

Boots and Shoes.—Every lady and gentleman in want of a neat and serviceable article in boots, shoes, or slippers should inspect my stock which is now well assorted with new goods for the Spring and Summer trade, from the leading wholesale manufacturers of Montreal and Toronto. W. J. Wallace Lakefield. 13-3ins

Personal.—Mr. Thos. Short formerly of Keene, who acted as Bursar for the past four years in the Central Prison, Toronto, has been removed to the same position in the Asylum, London, Ontario. He has been succeeded by Mr. Robert Mathieson, who has acted for the past six years as Bursar in the London Asylum.

"The Millennium."—Owing to an affection of the throat, the Rev. Mr. Torrance was unable to deliver his promised sermon on "The Millennium" last Sabbath evening. His place was supplied both morning and evening by the Rev. Mr. Ballantyne, of Cobourg. Should health permit it will be delivered next Sunday evening.

Returned Home.—Dr. O'Sullivan reached home on Saturday from the Local House at Toronto. It was prorogued a week previous, but he may have had matters of State to settle before leaving the Provincial Capital, or perhaps, had to visit friends at a distance. The hard study necessary for the preparation of his speeches (?) during the session has not apparently affected his personal appearance.

Ontario Medical Council.—The Ontario Medical Council have decided, contrary to their original intention, and to the general expectation of the majority of candidates, to hold the annual spring examination of students on the 20th of April next. It is understood that the greater number of the students will petition for the date to be changed to the latter part of May, the time first intimated for holding the examination.

These Resolutions.—We observe that at Tory meetings in various parts of the country, resolutions almost verbatim the counterpart of each other are being passed in favor of Sir John Macdonald's restore-the-equilibrium-readjustment-national policy. The resolutions are understood to be furnished on slips by Mr. Macdonell, the Tory organizer, who is personally visiting the country, and are about as much indicative of public opinion as are speeches of certain Town Councillors indicative of a knowledge of public affairs.

Selling at Cost.—We would call special attention to Messrs. Muncaster & Sanderson's advertisement this week, where they offer their large and varied stock of watches, clocks, jewellery and plated ware at cost. The well known quality of their goods and the reliability of the firm speaks for itself. And we need scarcely inform the public that they will consult their own interests in purchasing from them, now that they offer such a chance for procuring first class goods at cost prices. Give them a call and satisfy yourselves. Advt.

Flower, Field and Garden Seeds.—We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Messrs. Ormond & Walsh, in another column. Those requiring fresh and reliable seeds should give them a call, as their long experience in, and an extensive knowledge of the seed business, enables them to keep in stock only those which they can recommend and guarantee for freshness and vegetative power. All their seeds are sold by weight, so that purchasers may have exactly the quantity they obtain, and not be put to the annoyance of buying old stock and then not full measure.

"The Elephant."—Notwithstanding the continued depression in trade and stringency in the money market, "The Elephant" still flourishes, and its well-known and popular proprietor, Mr. John Elder, reports a better and more prosperous business during the past year than ever before in its history. In order to meet the requirements of this largely increasing trade, he has this spring laid in an extensive stock—larger than any previous one—and having purchased them on the most favourable terms, purchasers can rely upon getting them fair and decided bargains, as he promises to sell the cheapest and best goods at the lowest prices in the town. Read his new advertisement in another column: visit his establishment and judge for yourself.

Misfortune.—The event of the week has been the arrival here of a gentleman who is about to start a newspaper in this place, to be called the Misfortune Herald, and to be devoted to the interests of the English Company. A paragraph in a reader from Passion first announced the gentleman's intentions. He is now here, and waiting the propitious moment for starting a newspaper, he is selling and peddling a washing machine. Not only does he sell the washing machine but he is so far from all vanity or pride that he is willing to hire out by the day with his machine, and do washing. He washed for Mrs. Gamp on Monday, for Mrs. Partington on Tuesday, and for Mrs. Micawber, and on Saturday he washed all day at McElvain's. Robert says he is the best washer he ever saw in Peterboro. The way he can clean dirty linen is surprising. When he starts the Misfortune paper he will have a splendid opportunity of advertising the merits of the Company and the fluid. If he can wash the ladies free from the Misfortune of dirty linen, he will be an out-and-out washerwoman. However, getting a paper and going and washing we think he can make a very good living, and so he will no doubt receive the Company's washing he ought to be as happy as a frog in a new puddle.—Independent.

When he gets through with the foregoing programme we would suggest a journey southwards calling at Bobcaygeon, where special services might be rendered with great effect on our "Mr. Smith," and as a grand finale to an eventful career, we would recommend that the machine be set up in the office of our Saturday contemporary, where we can rest assured one of its operator he might be able to grant a rest to the people of Peterborough by shunting the tedious paragraphs of that mud-throwing journal.

AGRICULTURAL COUNCIL.

The Collection of Taxes—Improvements on Streets and Sidewalks—Roads Traced.

The Council met at the Council Room, adjoining the Town Hall, Monday evening 11th inst.

Present:—The Reeve, John Burnham, Esq., and Councillors Calcutt, Phillips, Rogers and Ward.

The Clerk read the minutes of last meeting, which were confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From John Armstrong, asking to be allowed to use a portion of the road allowance between lots 26 and 27, in the 12th con. of Otonabee, for the purpose of making a road from his property to the Locks' Bridge. On motion the request was granted.

From Robertson & Co., stating that they would not hold themselves bound by the joint tender recently handed in to the Council with reference to the printing for the municipality.

COLLECTION OF TAXES.

Moved by Councillor Calcutt, seconded by Councillor Ward.—That the time for the collection of taxes be extended till the 1st of May next.

After some discussion on this matter the Collector was authorized to collect all taxes due without further delay.

APPOINTMENT TO FIRE COMMITTEE.

On motion of Councillor Ward, seconded by Councillor Calcutt.—Mr. Geo. C. Rogers was appointed to act on the Fire Committee, and the Clerk was authorized to notify the Peterborough Fire Brigade of the same.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were handed in and upon motion ordered to be paid:—

John McWilliams	$25.71
Peter Glover	1.20
Mrs. Swanston	4.50

SOPHIA STREET CUTTING.

A considerable discussion ensued as to the advisability of undertaking this improvement, and as to the probable expense of the same.

Councillor Ward thought it would entail for removal of some 1200 yds. of material at an outlay of 20 cts. per yard.

It was finally resolved to ask for tenders for the work in view, said tenders to be received up till the 19th instant.

Councillors Rogers and Calcutt were of opinion that $120 was fully as much as it was expedient to spend on the cutting in question.

APPLICATION FOR RELIEF.

Edward Tighe applied to the Council for relief and upon motion he was granted 15 lbs. of flour per week at the pleasure of the Council.

TENDERS FOR MARKET.

The Clerk was instructed to ask for tenders for market and weigh scales, to be received up to the 26th instant.

SIDEWALKS.

Mr. Sargent made application to the Council for a sidewalk on the north side of Robinson Street.

Councillor Calcutt stated that he had been interviewed by several other property owners with a view to other improvements of a similar nature. He suggested that they be all considered together and those most urgently needed attended to first.

The Clerk was instructed to make up a list of all road and sidewalk improvements needed, to be considered at the next meeting of the Council.

PLANTING TREES.

The Reeve suggested that it would be desirable to encourage the planting of trees this season, and would bring it before the Council again with a view of having some action taken in the matter.

Councillor Ward asked if the offer of the corporation to furnish trees for those who would plant them still held good.

The Reeve replied in the affirmative, and it was resolved, on motion of Councillor Rogers, seconded by Councillor Ward, that applications be received till the 29th inst. from those willing to plant trees, said trees to be furnished by the corporation.

Council adjourned.

"IRISH LIBERTY."

O'Donovan Rossa's Lecture—The Witness at St. Patrick's Hall Riddled—Three Men Shot and Many Injured by Stones and Batons.

(From The Mail.)

Seldom has the advent of any lecturer in Toronto been accompanied with so much excitement as that of the notorious O'Donovan Rossa. During the day the streets were pretty well crowded; a large element of the throng was evidently extraneous to the city, and, it is said, a considerable proportion came from the other side. However that may be, it is certain that a more foolish exhibition of rowdyism than that which occurred has seldom disgraced Toronto. Mr. O'Donovan Rossa arrived in Hamilton on Sunday. On Monday morning he left for this city, and got off the train at the Great Western Round House, where he was met by Mr. Moriarty, leather dealer, residing on Queen street. Where O'Donovan Rossa resided during his brief stay in this city was withheld from the public. At about eight o'clock the crowd on King street could not have numbered less than four thousand, and it gradually increased until the conclusion of the lecture. The throng had evidently congregated with the intention of making mischief. Revolvers were brandished once or twice, although not a single shot was actually fired. The lecture was delivered in St. Patrick's Hall, and between one hundred and fifty and two hundred persons were assembled there to hear it. The hall, though small, was by no means crowded. The lecturer entered the room amid great cheering, and took his seat on the platform. Mr. D. Moriarty and Mr. Patrick Boyle were seated on his right and left respectively.

Mr. McGarrity introduced the lecturer. He said it had been reported that O'Donovan Rossa had been brought here to stir up strife. It was false. They had made this country the home of their adoption, and they did not desire to bring into it any man who would do anything of the kind. (Hear, hear.) They were faithful to the land of their adoption, and they were the law-abiding people of the country. They were satisfied at all times. At the same time, however, they did not forget the land of their fathers. ("Never.") Were they to forget the place where lay the ashes of their fathers; where they themselves had first breathed the breath of life? If they did, they were bestardizing themselves. They became bastards, and were not worthy of the name of men. O'Donovan Rossa had suffered as they were all aware. The history of his prison life was a disgrace to any civilized nation, and when they thought on all the martyrdom through which he had passed, could such a man be forgotten by them. ("No, no.") A grateful people must not forget him. In fact O'Donovan Rossa should be enshrined in their hearts. (Hear, hear, and cheers.)

THE LECTURE.

O'Donovan Rossa then began to speak amid loud cheering. He had not come among them to break their laws. If he had he would not claim protection, because when he broke the laws of any nation he thought it was not right to claim protection. He thought he would not say anything to-night worse than a gentleman who governed this country had said of the English Government. He then read a very lengthy quotation from an article written, he alleged, by Lord Dufferin, relating to the manner in which the English had destroyed the commercial independence of Ireland. If there was any man present who thought he would say anything worse than what he had just read, he would give him leave to carry out his threat of shooting him. He hoped no one present would think that he was a personal enemy of his. It was true he went for the independence of Ireland. If there was any man present who thought he (Rossa) was antagonist to him politically or religiously, he would tell that person that he had spent many a dark hour in prison, and that during his underground prison life his memory was carried back to the time of his freedom in the west of Ireland. (Applause.) He then related the circumstances of his imprisonment. At a town named Newtownards, fourteen miles from Belfast, he was arrested for swearing in men, for which he received his punishment. At that time, he said, the appointment to the English rule in Ireland was on much the same principle as Orangeism on Catholicism. He wished he could see similar united action in Canada. The people here, although belonging to Britain, were just as free as the people of the United States. There was, however, one curse among them, and that was their religious dissension. The speaker briefly sketched a number of verses composed by himself while in gaol and sentenced to penal servitude for life. He spent some time in describing his treatment in Mountjoy and other prisons. His words were to the effect that he, with his fellow prisoners, had suffered great hardships, and were treated far worse than other prisoners. He had no prejudice against any man of any race, creed, or color. He was only sorry to see what he saw here to-night, and the dissensions which existed among men who should be brothers. He would not injure or hurt any man. (Another windows was broken.) But while he would not injure an Englishman individually, he would do all he could to free Ireland of English rule. (Applause.) He believed Ireland was quite capable of governing herself, and while he was in America he would do all he could to help the cause of her liberty. He only asked them to hear these things quietly in the meantime. During the lecture the windows were struck in all about a dozen times, but without causing anything more than a momentary disturbance.

At the conclusion of the lecture the lights in the hall were extinguished, and the lecturer, accompanied by a friend, left the room and made his way along the west side of the market, thence to corner of King and Church streets, where they entered a cab and drove away.

AFTER THE LECTURE.

The scene outside the hall was indescribable. Jarvis and King street, east and west of the hall, was packed with a howling, shrieking mass, mad with excitement, and prepared to follow any leader that might turn up. The stone throwing continued with increasing violence, and repeated cries were made for Rossa to appear. Some one would call, "there he goes," and immediately a rush would be made, and though the police "used their clubs freely they could not resist the pressure. Capt. McPherson bestowed his men with much judgment, and they worked together charmingly. After a severe tussle with the police, in which many heads were damaged, and after nearly all the windows in the hall had been broken, and it became known that Rossa had escaped, the cry of "Owen Congreve," was raised, and the crowd made a rush up Jarvis and along Queen street. At the corner of Adelaide and Jarvis streets another brush with the police occurred, and Policeman Worth was struck with a stone in the head and was rendered insensible. He was carried into the White Rose Tavern, where his injuries were found to be so severe that orders were given for his removal to his home, No. 143 Church Street. The stone struck him on the temple, and at last accounts he was very low and not expected to recover. The crowd at the junction of the two streets named was dispersed, and the different squads of police were ordered to move up west along Queen street as rapidly as possible. The sidewalks were crowded with men hastening towards Cosgrove's, where great fighting was expected. The police warned all they passed to depart to their homes, but their warning had very little effect, for minute by minute the open streets emptied their crowds into the main thoroughfare, and the mob became more disorderly at every step. At Simcoe street the police charged with their clubs swinging, but met with stubborn resistance, pistols being frequently used. At this point a young man named William Clegg, living at No. 151 Queen street, was shot in the back. The bullet struck the shoulder-blade, and glanced upwards and lodged in the shoulder, inflicting a painful and dangerous wound. He was carried to his house, near at hand, and his wounds were dressed by Dr. Pollard. The wounded youth was a spectator. A man named March was shot in the face, his nose being broken. John McConnell, of Parkdale, another spectator was wounded in the head. Edward Foley, of 20 Victoria street, was severely cut in the head by a policeman's club. Samuel Archer, of 143 Agnes street, was wounded in the head. Three men, names unknown, were shot, one in the arm, another through the leg and another through the palm of the hand. The rattle of pistol shots in the street was incessant. Before the police could get in a favorable position to protect Cosgrove's house the mob opened a fusillade of stones upon it, and in a few moments the windows were demolished, and the old house badly wrecked. It is said by the police that Cosgrove opened fire on the mob from a revolver and was fired upon in return and wounded, but the veterans of so many storms of this kind could not be found, so the statement goes for what it is worth. A crowd soon collected in William nee Dummer street, and the stone-throwing was carried on most vigorously. Finally the police charged in full force and the mob gave way. Cosgrove's house presents a lamentable spectacle—to taxpayers, as they will have to bear the burden of this nightly folly. It is stripped by many that not half the wounded are known. That men were shot and removed with such despatch and secrecy that no trace of them could be got in the excitement of the scene. A boy, name unknown, was shot in the stomach, it is said, and removed by his friends to a house in Bagshaw street, but no trace of him could be found. Three men were taken to Dr. Bethune's surgery, Simcoe street, where their wounds were dressed. Most of the drug shops and surgeries along Queen street were filled with men having their injuries attended to. All those suffering from injuries either by clubs or bullet seemed to have a vast repugnance to the police for assistance, perhaps for fear of the police system, or the discovery of weapons on their persons. The mob seemed well organized going along Queen street, and the sound of a bugle seemed to direct its movements. After being dispersed from Cosgrove's, a large number of men collected in front of St. Patrick's Market. The sound of a bugle was heard west ward along Queen street, some one cried "double," and they fell into line and at the double quick ran away. Suspecting that Collin's saloon, corner of Esther and Queen streets, where Rossa is stopping was the next point of attack, a strong body of police was moved with much rapidity in that direction, and none too soon. Their arrival was so opportune that the crowd had not time to collect and a squad dispersed the struggling, then saving Collins' from the same fate as Cosgrove's.

Too much praise cannot be accorded the police. Though encumbered with their heavy winter coats, they displayed a commendable activity whenever called upon to charge, and though the stones were falling like hail, they never flinched when called upon to advance and do battle with the mob. Of course a great many complaints were heard from spectators who had been clubbed, but as they had no business there they can meet with little sympathy. Reuben Wells, coroner for Johnson and Wellington wore several times during the day, and was consulted by Grangeites as to whether their wounds were attended to. Captain McPherson deserves the thanks of citizens for the admirable manner in which he handled his command. The detective force was also out and did good service. It is impossible to estimate the loss which the riot will entail on the city. The expense in the employment one all sufferers, as far as glass is concerned, while along Queen street, from Chestnut street to Spadina avenue, the loss has been great in glass and goods stolen.

LITERARY NOTICES.

HARPER'S FOR APRIL.—Harper's Magazine for April is an excellent number, over-flowing with illustrations and interesting reading matter. Among its twelve illustrated articles are "The American Clyde," a description of shipbuilding at Chester, by Mr. Charles Barnard; "The City of the Winds," a description of Simon Milton's "L'Allegro," with illustrations made ninety years ago by the artists of the London Shaking Club; "The Friar Ass," an adaptation, by Henry F. Cary, the translator of Dante, of one of Pignotti's fables, and illustrated by Springs, and "The Normal College of New York City," adorned in a manner very complimentary to the power women who attended it, by Reinhart and Miss Curtis. This number of Harper's is well adorned with fiction, also, Thomas Hardy's "The return of the Native," and William Black's "Macleod of Dare" are continued, the latter with an illustration by Geo. H. Boughton.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of Littell's Living Age for the week ending March 9th and 16th, respectively, have the following noteworthy articles:—Dr. Schliemann's Explorations of Mycenæ, Edinburgh Review; Charles Sumner, Westminster Review; Constantinople —a lecture delivered in Aberdeen, January 3rd, 1878, by James Bryce, Macmillan's Magazine; A Ride for Life, Blackwood; Rizzo, a serial story translated for the Living Age from the German of Fran von Ingenheim; The Education of Girls,—their Admissability to Universities, Westminster Review; Above the Clouds; a Reverie on the Bel Alp, Blackwood; Liquefaction of Oxygen, Nature; with the usual choice poetry, etc. The back numbers containing the first instalments of Erica, and a story by Miss Thackeray, are still sent gratis to new subscribers for 1878. For fifty-two numbers, of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,000 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; or for $10.50 any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies is sent with The Living Age for a year, both post-paid. Littell & Gay, Boston, are the publishers.

The North Monaghan Reeveship.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I have read the correspondence in your paper anent the last election for the Reeveship of North Monaghan, and as I feel that an injustice will be done to a good man to allow the matter to stop where it is, I wish to give as nearly as I can a verbatim statement of a conversation I had with the present Reeve, in the afternoon of the election day. Speaking of Mr. William Robson and his candidature. Mr. Collins said. "What would you think! He came to "my house on the Saturday night, late, "before the election and wanted me to "retire in his favour, and he would give "me all the milage and fees for this year. "I told him I was not for sale—that he "could not buy or sell me in that way, "and I turned into my bedroom and left "him." I replied to Mr. Collins, that I was surprised that he, meaning Robson, would do the like. Mr. Collins answered, "you may believe my word." I replied, that I thought William would have been the last man in the township that would do the like. Mr. Collins replied, "you "may depend on my word, for Merrick "came to me on the day of the nomination, and said to me," "Collins, how can you keep in? Why don't you let out on him—let him hear about Saturday night!" To which he replied, that he would not say one word to hurt his election, for he knew that he(Mr. C.) could get in with a larger majority in spite of all he could do.

I then said to Mr. Collins, that I would not have thought that he (Robson) would have tried to get in in that way. "Nor I "either, said Mr. Collins you may believe "what I have told you, for we have al-"ways been good friends, and he was a "good honest councillor, and I am sorry "that he did not do as I offered to him "on the day of the nomination, that if "he did not oppose me this year, I would "pledge my word to do all I could to "get him in for Reeve next year, and I "said that he would be greatly missed "from his usual place, and that I would "have liked to have seen him in the "Council next year."

The above Mr. Editor, is a simple statement of the conversation, and as it speaks for itself, I think it due to myself and to all parties, to take it just as it occurred. If instead of Mr. Robson it was some other person who made the dirty proposal to Mr. Collins, he should have laid the charge against the right party, and not given the people to understand it was the proposal of one, whom we all know to be incapable of any dishonorable act.

Yours, &c.,
GEORGE HOOEY.

In connection with the foregoing we wish to state that in condensing Mr. Collins communication of last week two errors crept in.—"On the Saturday night before the election" should have read "on the Saturday night before the nomination." The tossing up of the copper occurred in Mr. Brealey's house and not in Mr. Robson's as stated. We are now compelled to close our columns to any further controversy on this subject, as a satisfactory termination of the affair is about as far distant now as when it commenced. Besides it has now become a personal matter and is no longer of interest to the general reader, and will if further indulged in be productive of more harm than good! We have given all concerned ample opportunity to make explanations and now must request them to withold any further correspondence upon the matter. [Ed. Examiner.]

REMARKABLE LAKEFIELD.

To the Editor of the Examiner;

Dear Sir,—Surely every lover of good things will rejoice at every ray of light as the harbinger of the glory of the millenial morn. Your columns have been heavily laden with controversy of late and also with the morning, noon and night, and half a dozen things besides of Christ's second coming, and a Personal Anti-Christ. Now sir, if the sentiments and statements in your columns are true (but nobody knows) then back in Lakefield the "signs of the times" are already at hand. Is it not said—"That they all may be one," not politically of course—party before principle for ever—but religiously. Now in the fulfilment of this, surely last Sabbath must have been a red-letter day among them, when to the joy of Episcopacy and Ritualism every rivulet of different opinion became absorbed in the broad stream of so-called "Apostolic Succession." There gathered in the hall a large crowd may be to forget for ever their catechism, and Methodistic and other proclivities to behold on the platform an emblem of the —no, not the Trinne, but, a Trio performing their different functions of philanthropic millennial effort. The vast crowd must have been delighted with this new phase of things, for who could fail rejoicing to see the fulfilment of scripture. The lion shall lie down with the lamb, etc., and that not a link be missed by the observer, it was seen that a third in several childhood fulfilled the saying, "a little child shall lead them." The delight of this occasion with the squeezing of its figures reached its climax of fulfilment in the astounding consumption, at the close, to the chorus of the spectators, that henceforth all mystery can be solved by being told before the oracle of Delphi—"This is the order of things henceforth, &c. &c. for ever, we suppose, ad infinitum, but cannot be, if your reported theory be correct, for it is said that Anti-Dunkin, no not that, but it seems to us, as something of the said predic, but however, whatever it was, said to be, it was to be destroyed. We hope to hear from "Respectable Lakefield" again, and hope to see how your Millenial figures and future feats shall dovetail. In the meantime we suggest to the other churches here, run to grass for a while, and cease bark bye and bye, to enjoy the grand issue of this race de guerre. O foughten! O more! For the time, Mr. Editor, we are

Yours truly,

THE DUNKIN BILL CAMPAIGN FUND.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—With your kind permission I would state on behalf of the Dunkin Bill Finance Committee, that the accounts all audited can be seen at any time, by any one who subscribed any sum to meet the expenses of the Campaign, but as the Times never paid one cent into those funds, or in any way did any thing to increase them, it, is not one of those who can see them. Neither will they be published to meet its wishes. All whose names appear on the subscription list for even ten cents are invited to call on the Treasurer, or any one of the Auditing committee, from whom the fullest information of the disposal of every cent can be obtained, and they can satisfy themselves as to the disposal of all the money collected. If the one will do so they will find that the Times had the excessive honesty to bill the committee for over fifty dollars, for nine dollars worth of work. Is not the Times a model Temperance advocate? Perhaps if this extorbitant account had been paid, the leaders of the Dunkin Bill agitation in this county, would not be subject to the contemptible and scurrilous would-be-jokes, as contained in late issues of that journal.

Yours &c.,
One of the Committee.

LAKEFIELD.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Considerable dissatisfaction exists here at the Conservative Club of Peterborough for appointing R. C. Strickland as the President of our club. We think that they had no right to interfere or dictate to us who we shall have to preside at our meetings. We are quite as capable here of dealing with our affairs as is the club in Peterborough, and if we are to be dictated to as to who shall be our President, they had better come up here and run the affair themselves. As I for one, will not sit under a man of his reputation.

If they had waited till his examination was over, we might have submitted to such a domineering process. But as it is, we will not submit to it.

Yours &c.,
A CONSERVATIVE.

The Cheap Clearing Sale at Wm. Fairweather & Co's is causing great excitement. The Store crowded the whole day.

The Montreal Witness publishes as a supplement a map of Canada, showing in colors the various sections in which the Dunkin Act has been carried. In Ontario the color rests on a number of the finest counties.

A meeting of Reeves and Deputy-Reeves of Durham county, called at Millbrook to discuss separation from Northumberland, would have ended in smoke but for an oyster supper of which some of the Councillors partook.

Hard Times.—Times in this country at present are what we may call "hard;" and there is no doubt that they are hard according to the American acceptation of the term. Large numbers of men are out of work, and many others find only sufficient employment to keep body and soul together,—Detroit Free Press.

The President of the United States was recently urged by a prominent Republican to change his policy as, if persisted in, it would ruin the party. To this Mr. Hayes replied:—"That he considered the Republican party practically dead when he entered the White House, and he believed that his policy is the only thing that will infuse life into the party.

Cheap Gas.—The trustee of the Philadelphia Gas Works has been examining a new process of making gas at a cost of 20c. to 35c. per thousand feet. The new process uses slack or refuse bituminous coal dust. The inventor offers the city the free use of a patent, provided the consumers are furnished at the rate of 50c. per thousand. He guarantees a saving of $10,000 to $15,000 a day, and intends making the same offer to New York city.

A terrible story comes from the Ottawa, Canada, lumber woods. A lumberman named Paquette was discharged and undertook to walk home. He got lost in the woods and wandered without food for seven days, when having suffered all the pangs of starvation he lay down to die. It happened that a person drove by in a cutter and found the almost exhausted man. The driver took him home and spread a bountiful supply of provisions before him. He left Paquette alone at the table while he attended to his horse, and when he returned Paquette was writhing prostrate on the floor in the most horrible agony, having gorged himself with food. In a few minutes the unfortunate man was dead.

The Efficacy of Burgon's Peppermint Wafers in curing Coughs, Colds, and all Bronchial Affections, and clearing the afflicted, has passed into a proverb. In the United States where these marvellous Wafers are known, the, bear down all opposition and eclipse all rivalry; the demand for them has steadily increased for the last twenty years, until now the sales average over one hundred thousand boxes a year. Eminent members of the medical profession without number admit that they know of no preparation producing such beneficial results as the Wafers. When taken in season they effect a permanent cure. Hide Bound Horses.

A horse is said to be hide-bound when his skin will not slip under the pressure of the hand, but sticks as if it were fixed, which condition is when the digestive organs are out of order, and giving to them a healthy condition the disease or complaint will disappear. Dr. Parker's Cordial is the best adapted in this case for Parker's Cordial Powders and Arabian Horse Remedy." It has been used in numerous cases with complete success, generally effecting a cure in a few days. It is the best condition powder known, and may be given with safety to mares in foal, and does not require that the horse be kept from work. Manufactured by Parker & Co., and the genuine of Hurd & Co. is on every package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for Canada. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

Mr. Vennevar, Dr. Pierce's Genuine Medical Discovery and Golden Medical Discovery, which has proved a perfect panacea for all sufferings of the Lungs and Blood, yet cannot help expressing their gratitude for the benefit they have received from the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in mid winter a pestilence prevailed in the neighborhood of Mr. Vennevar, and most families were afflicted with the disease, and many died. INSURANCE.

'Tis better to endure the wrong
Which evil hands and tongues commit:
The blast of calumny and wit,
The shafts of calumny and wit,
The mournful hearing of the proud,
The sneers and laughter of the crowd.

And harder still is it to bear
The censure of the good and wise,
Who, ignorant of what you are,
Or blinded by the slanderer's lies,
Look calmly on or pass you by
In silence, with averted eyes.

But when the friends in whom you trust,
As steadfast as the mountain rock,
Fly, and are scattered like the dust,
Before misfortune's rudest shock,
Nor love remains to cheer your fall—
This is more terrible than all!

Yet eventide, and there—are more.
One he endured, and hope survive;
The noble spirit still may soar,
Although the body fall to grave;
Sorrow and wrong may wear the frame—
Thank God! the soul is still the same.

Hold up your head, then, child of grief,
Nor despair to the tempest bend:
Fate clouds or lulls many come relief—
The darkest, darkest night will end.
Within the heart—hope never dies;
Trust on! your day star yet may rise!

PROTECTION.

Manufacturers Manufactures Protest against the high tariff—The Woollen Manufacturers.

The manufacturing and commercial interests which were represented before the Ways and Means Committee by well-known gentlemen of this city, were made to favour a general reduction of the present tariff, or, at any rate, its decided simplification. It is only a repetition, in a larger form, of the unanimous demands of the wool manufacturers at their recent Convention in this city. This compound absurdity of the tariff is now pretty well understood. There never was such a hodge-podge of taxation imposed on a people as the present tariff inflicts on the taxpayers of this country. If the object was simply revenue, when revenue was most sorely needed in the nation's extremity, it manifestly defeated itself on its own theory, for the reason that the less we imported the smaller must be the receipt from customs. It was an enormously inflated currency that broke down the restraint, and invited importations which never would have come in by any other means. It is never for simple revenue that prohibitory, sometimes called protective, duties are laid; for in a normal state of currency they will defeat their nominal end.

The wool manufacturers, looking back over the history of the past ten years, say with one voice that they have had enough of protection, and in fact too much of it. The "infant" has grown weaker instead of stronger. The manufacture of wool has failed to be built up by it. Enterprise has been arbitrarily restrained, trade has been constricted and natural advantages have been cut off. That is the plain fact as it is to-day stated by the manufacturers themselves. In such a result to be called protection or spoliation? Everybody knows that we had the greatest prosperity the country ever saw when the duties were lowest, which was from 1857 to 1860. By this time, if ever, after the people have been taxed so enormously in order to keep our foreign productions and establish our own manufactures, it ought to be fairly ascertained whether they cannot successfully compete with foreign productions without any further tax. The testimony of the wool manufacturers must be accepted as final on the subject. They are experts, who know more about the matter than others. If they are the ones to sound the knell of protection, it is full time to prepare for the funeral.

As for a state of "infancy" in manufacturing, there is no such thing. A manufacture starts into life just when circumstances call for it, and it is no more alive ten or twenty years later than when it began. It may expand its operations and cover a larger extent of territory, but it never would do that unless it possessed the vigor to do it from the start. No real expansion of a human industry is to be secured by nursing; on the contrary the more nursing there is the more infant, and consequently the less vigor and growth. We should have fully learned so simple a fact in this country without being made to pay so dearly for it in the school of experience. Protection at the average rate of fifty per cent., which ours was very nearly in 1870, would in eighteen years make a sum of money that at six per cent. interest, would forever supply the country with the articles protected, and not another dollar ever to be paid for it. Give us free and natural competition at home and abroad, and there will be no need of putting healthy and sick industries on the same footing by legislation.—Boston Post.

RUSSIAN FINANCES.

The difficulty of the financial position in which Russia finds herself may be imagined from the fact that, excluding the war expenses and allowing the official estimates of receipts to be correct, there was a deficit of over $20,000,000 to account for in her budget. Enormous issues of inconvertible paper money have been made, and the rouble is correspondingly depreciated abroad. She has expended on the war not less than $300,000,000, and as the exaction of a money indemnity from Turkey is out of the question, that immense sum will become a charge on her debt, and will further increase the deficit in years to come. Her credit has fallen so low that she has to pay seven per cent. interest. It will be seen in how unfit a state she is to continue the war with fresh antagonists who have practically inexhaustible wealth at their back. But though anything but speedy peace is almost out of the question with her, it is not quite clear what Russia is going to do about her finances when that desirable end is attained. British and Dutch capitalists are beginning to fear that in lending money to Russia they have made another dreadfully bad investment.

WOODEN MONEY.

Advocates of inconvertible paper currency may perhaps derive some satisfaction and encouragement from the fact that from the reign of Henry I. down to the period of the establishment of the Bank of England the legal-tender money was fabricated out of wood. This instrument was called an exchange tally, and by virtue of it the holder was entitled to receive from the crown the value inscribed thereon. It really consisted of one half of a four-sided rod or staff, on which, when in its entire state, the sum it purported represent was carved in transverse notches, varying in width for thousands, hundreds, scores, pounds, shillings and pence. These signs were for the unlearned; for the advantage of those who could read, the sum was written in ink on two opposite sides of the staff, and, finally, with a knife and mallet the staff itself was split in two longitudinally. One half called the tally or check, was given to the person for whose service it was intended; the other half, called the counter tally, was laid up in safe keeping until its corresponding tally should be brought in by the person who had last given value for it. Its intrinsic value was, of course, only that of the wood of which it was composed, but by the representation it deemed large sums. It was a current token of real money, and served actually to distribute it from man to man by this exchange. From this primitive tally was derived the exchequer bill, first introduced in 1696 by Mr. Montague, the chancellor of the exchequer. The word "bill," too, was no doubt obtained from the Norman French word, bille, which means a staff. Hence post bills and bills of exchange in our own day came from the same wooden base, and the soldiers are said at this hour to be "billeted," or talked to the victuallers upon whom they were quartered. In olden times officers of the army who were taken into the King's own pay were said to be put on the staff, that is, they were paid with exchequer tallies, or wooden money.—Scientific American.

DESPERATE PARTY RIOTS IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, March 11.—More party rioting took place yesterday at the east end. It seemed that two party leaders named Harkin and Hurst, who had a previous fight, consented to settle the dispute with fisticuffs about 3 p.m., when they began stabbing each other. An immense crowd collected and scenes were soon at it, the whole of Papineau Square being full of yelling, swearing and bloody-faced men. The police charged and succeeded in dispersing the crowd very quickly. They took three prisoners as follows:—Jaspe Hurst, a young man and brother to one of the originators of the disturbance. He had been stabbed by a knife in the right shoulder and also had the fingers of his left hand terribly lacerated by catching the knife while attempting to defend himself. Another [illegible] Peter Leecy, who was also wounded by a knife stab in his left arm and in the [illegible] identity was also arrested. The originator of the disturbance, Bob Harkin and Bob Hurst, are up to latest accounts, not at. On the person of Peter Leecy was found a small clasp knife, the blade of which had been broken in halves and upon the remaining portion blood stains could be distinctly observed.

Another row occurred between Orkland Alger's cricket club evening at the same place, and, it is [illegible] a reinforcement of police was supplied from No. 9 Station, Chief Foster himself reporting with his staff of detectives. A young man named James Gunning Bell received a pistol wound in his side. He was carried into St. Bridget's Church, and for some time it was feared he had but a few minutes to live. Subsequently he was moved to the hospital, and his wound, which is in the left side, attended to. Two Protestants, named Carpenter, were arrested. An immense mob gathered again, and were dispersed with the baton. It was evident to every one that several will be killed on either side before the [illegible] will be over.

CHURCH DEBTS IN NEW YORK.

The New York Times has ascertained after painstaking investigation that the total value of church property in the metropolis is $56,191,696, incumbered to the extent of $7,770,314, which is a heavy burden upon property that in a secular sense is a good investment. When men, who themselves in these distressing times are mortgaged up to the last point and find it difficult to meet their interest rates, are compelled to meet this further obligation upon the religious society with which they may be connected church membership receives but few recruits. Owing to the magnificent Trinity church property, the Episcopalians are the richest denomination in New York. There is no debt on the Trinity property, which comprises some of the very best sites in New York, and is worth altogether some $15,000,000. The total value of the Episcopal property is represented as $26,175,000, with an indebtedness of $1,341,200. The Roman Catholic denomination comes next, having church property valued at $11,176,500, incumbered to the extent of $3,043,614. Then in order, but dropping to $5,802,000, follows the Presbyterian church.

A Caution to the Sick and Nurses.

It must have happened in the experience of most practitioners that a patient appeared unaccountably worse shortly after the administration of a new remedy, which at the outset seemed to produce satisfactory results. There is a possible explanation of this untoward experience, to which it may be worth while to direct notice. The practice of increasing the dose of a remedy without the consent or knowledge of the practitioner when benefit appears to be received, is by no means uncommon, even among persons who should be well informed. It is not known or it is forgotten that the same drug often produces totally different effects in diverse doses, and when one has been exhibited with success it is dangerous to change to another without a perfect knowledge of the action of the medicine in all its gradations of strength or quantity. A point to notice, remarks the Lancet, is that the smaller the dose in the first instance the greater the risk of increasing it. For example, if a practitioner has prescribed the sixth part of a grain of some powerful drug, it is a serious, and may be a perilous, experiment to take one-third; more perilous than the increase from a fourth to a third would have been. It is not worth while, perhaps, to speak of degrees of folly in respect to this wholly reckless practice, but it may serve a useful purpose to point out that the greatest danger besets the slightest departure from the precise terms of a medical prescription, and those who are wise will, for themselves and others, avoid incurring the risk.

THE HISTORY OF CURLING.

Though curling is so eminently a Scotch game, evidence goes to prove that the pastime was brought to Scotland from the continent not very long ago—three hundred years or so. Some ultra patriotic curlers claim for it indeed a native origon, or at least one lost in the mists of antiquity, citing a passage in "Ossian" to prove that the Fingalian heroes beguiled their winters with the game, because in one passage it is said "Swaran bends at the stone of might;" but this notwithstanding, it is quite clear that at in the case of golf, we are indebted to outsiders for the first rough sketches of the "roaring game." The technical language of the game is all of low country origins, as it is supposed to have been introduced into Scotland by the Flemish emigrants who settled there about the end of the 15th century. No mention of it is made by any writer for long after this; but must have been well known in 1607, for Camden in his "Britannia," published in that year says that in the little island of Copinshe, near the Orkneys, "are to be found in great plenty excellent stones for the game called curling."

At this time and for long after, the game appears to have been merely a rough kind of quoiting on ice; indeed for a great part of the last century its common name in the country was kaiing. The stones of that day, rough undressed blocks—so different from the polished missiles now used—had no handle, but merely a kind of hollow niche for the finger and thumb, and were evidently intended to be thrown for at least part of the course. Since these days, great strides have been taken in the improvement of the game; now it is highly scientific, and with its many delicate strokes, its "wicks," calculations of angles, of force, and of bias, it may without presumption be called the billiards of ice. In some places, however, the old game with its primitive implements, usually flattish stones from the bed of the nearest stream still holds its place under the name of "channelling."

In the head roll of curling are no such mighty names as those that golf boasts of; this winter game has not got mixed up with historic events and personages, as the older pastime has; but what her devotees lack in greatness is made up by the intense affection shown by them in all ages for their favorite sport. It appears to have been a great game with poets. Allan Ramsay and Burns allude to it, and a host of minor bards have sung its praises at varying lengths, but with uniform appreciation of its excellences. One of the most excellent passages in Christopher North's "Winter Rhapsody" deplores the failing popularity of the game in his latter days; for like many other good things, curling has had its ups and downs in the world, and districts where it once flourished for a time, the interest in the game has died out; but of late years the establishment of so many clubs has given a new impetus to the game, which now prospers in its season beyond all former experience. The south-western districts of Scotland were long the chosen home for curling, and the players of Lanark and Dumfriesshire trace directly downward for their great skill in the art; but now it has spread over the whole country, and the grand matches of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club witness the friendly rivalry of worthy farmers from Haddenkirk to John O'Groat's, and excite the enthusiasm of branch clubs south of the Tweed.

Cox's General Insurance Agency.

ESTABLISHED 1858.

GEO. A. COX would respectfully intimate to the insuring public of Peterborough and Vicinity that for over 19 years he has been doing a successful and steadily increasing Insurance business; the many losses that have occured during that time have EVERY ONE been promptly and honorably paid, and NOT A SINGLE CLAIM CONTESTED.

He still continues to solicit business for such old and reliable companies as THE ROYAL OF LIVERPOOL established in 1845. Assets over Nineteen Millions of Dollars.

THE NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE, of Edinburgh established in 1809, with accumulations of Twenty-three Millions of Dollars.

THE PHŒNIX OF LONDON, established in 1782, and which for nearly one hundred years has paid loss or averaging $1,344 per day.

These companies have all passed through the great fires of Quebec, Chicago, Boston, New York, Portland and St. John, and the enormous losses were promptly paid without affecting their stability in the least degree.

Rates as low as is consistent with absolute security.

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

THE AMERICAN EYE-SALVE is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. RINGWORM and OLD CHRONIC SORES, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the AMERICAN EYE-SALVE. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. PETTIT'S AMERICAN EYE-SALVE," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

WELCOME TO ROSSA.

The following is the poem forming part of the address which was to have been presented to O'Donovan Rossa on his arrival in Dublin.

[illegible]
To the land of the Maple Leaf;
For you come to inquire in our Queens
A heart that will never decay;
Ah! well have we triumphed over Erin
By your journey to Canada's bay.

You embrace O'Donovan Rossa,
And intend us with treasures to crowd;
Our green flag if they dared would pull down,
But the blood of the same runs that waved it
For centuries in battle array.
Again would he shed ere the flag of our land
Would be lowered on St. Patrick's Day.

As children of exiles we welcome
You Rossa, because you were true
To the land that is dear to each member
Of Canada's I.C.B.U.
Yes, we love it, the home of our fathers,
And oh! how our hearts long to see
[illegible]
Over Ireland, great, glorious and free.

LAKEFIELD.

BASE BALL.—Steps are being taken to form a base ball club in the Village.

WOLF SHOOTING.—Mr. Armstrong poisoned a wolf east of Stony Lake, Friday. By counting Lakefield got the carcass and the bounty.

EARLY SPRING.—Magnus Dixon, of the township of Smith, showed five dozen of spring wheat last week.—Mail.

KIRKFIELD.

A reform meeting was held here on the 14th, in Graham's Hall, for the purpose of organising a Reform Association. Mr. John Goodman was called to the chair, and was afterwards appointed President, Mr. Graham, Vice President, and the following gentlemen a Committee, viz:—William Davey, John Stevens, junr., Robert Hogle, Paul Gee, Henry Hogestone, and William McDonald.

DUMMER.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—The anniversary of Ireland's Patron Saint passed off quietly in this Township as most of the people were busy at work on their farms. There was no demonstration of any kind, every one [illegible] their usual business.

THE WEATHER.—Our roads here this year have a good hard bottom, but it takes long legged horses and good waggon wheels to reach it. The fall wheat looks well in this part of the country, and should the fine weather continue till the soil settles down and the surplus water runs off, the prospect will be good for an abundant crop.

BOBCAYGEON.

THERE has been some considerable arrivals of maple sugar in the village.

RAILWAY MATTERS slack. A flaw in the By-law will probably have to be mended.

WE are authorized by our own weather prophet to announce that the lakes will open on Saturday next toward evening.

WOOD.—There have been large deliveries of wood during the week in the village. It was of courses delivered in waggons. The wood trade has been seriously inconvenienced by the want of snow.

THE LIME KILN is getting ready for work, and when once the fire is lighted it will probably not be extinguished until next November, turning out regularly 400 bushels a day. Now lime kilns will be built without delay. —Independent.

HARVEY.

BEING UNWELL.—The [illegible] of Harvey, which was for long held in high repute, has of late years received a considerable degree of attention from settlers and capitalists, and quite a number of the former have made large clearances with hopeful results. There is much land that is incapable of cultivation, but then there are large tracts that can be turned to good account. During last season Mr. Boyd had, it is said, over 100 acres of the Big Island cleared and sown with wheat, and is still going on to clear more. Mr. Elliot, of Smith, lately acquired a large tract of land which he has begun to cut down with the intention of clearing and sowing with grass, in order to raise stock to furnish milk for his cheese factory. When men such as these are wealth in Harvey, we may be sure that it is there; and it would be good for the country at large if we had more of them, as then there would be thousands of acres contributing somewhat to the good of all classes, instead of, as at present, yielding nothing.

NORWOOD.

SEEING WORK.—Quite a number of farmers' in this vicinity have taken advantage of the fine weather of the past week or so, and have made considerable progress in their spring work, which has been commenced, in many instances, fully a month earlier than has been the case for many years. We hope a good beginning may make a good ending.

CHILD DROWNED.—A woman giving her name as Ellen Hampshire—said to hail from Norwood—appeared in Court in Montreal, a few days ago, to answer to a charge of child desertion and admitted leaving her child at the Western Hotel of that city, with the intention of deserting it. She was sent to the interim asylum. Norwood utterly repudiates the above imputation, as there never has resided in this village, or its vicinity, any person by the name of Hampshire.

PARALYZED STRIKE.—We are sorry to learn that Mr. John Spence, of Dummer, was [illegible] with a paralytic stroke of [illegible] on Wednesday morning last. He was in the act of hip fields for his usual meal [illegible] and strength when he suddenly fell to the ground, and it was [illegible] that he had lost the power of his left side. Mr. Spence, we are sure, has the sincere sympathy of his many friends in this community on this unfortunate occurrence.

SAD ACCIDENT.—We regret to state that, on Friday afternoon last Mr. John Pettigrew, of Asphodel, met with another painful accident. As he was walking on a portion of our defective sidewalks with a friend, the latter, not being accustomed with the delapidated condition of the walk on Queen street, stepped on one end of a loose board, and caused the other to raise up, instantly tripping Mr. Pettigrew, who falling with outstretched arms, unfortunately came [illegible] which had been broken about a month before from the back of a horse. Dr. Fotheringham [illegible] the injured limb, and it is to be hoped nothing serious will result from this second fracture.—Register.

LINDSAY.

FIRE.—The barns and shed on the Medd farm on Monday evening last. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A young man named John Dobson, son of Mr. Stephen Dobson, of this town, aged 29 years, who has for 20 years been subject to fits, died Tuesday afternoon last. He was working about Mr. Maltby's foundry and on the day mentioned he had a very bad attack at noon. Just recovered sufficiently to go on with his work. Some hours after he was missed from the shop by one of his fellow workmen and on search being made the unfortunate young man was found lying in a pool of muddy water into which he had evidently fallen face downwards, where attacked by the convulsions, quite dead from suffocation.

FAILURE OF MR. C. L. BAKER.—The announcement last Monday morning that Mr. C. L. Baker had been compelled by financial difficulties, owing mainly out of the hard times and [illegible] on business of the bad state of [illegible] to call a meeting of his creditors and in the meantime suspend business, occasioned general surprise, but the prevailing sentiment was one of the warmest sympathy for Mr. Baker. The extensive business carried on by Mr. Baker has in its several branches been a great benefit to the town, and its suspension will be detrimental in many ways. Mr. Baker came here some eighteen years ago and by his enterprise, shrewdness and ability built up [illegible] and [illegible] business [illegible] in the Province. As a business man he has been very prompt, liberal and enterprising, and has been thoroughly identified with the interest and growth of Lindsay. He was a very large grain buyer and dealt heavily in other produce, while his pork-packing establishment had a provincial reputation. It is not for us at present to enquire into the causes of a financial difficulty that is so generally regretted, but it will probably be found that among them are some large losses in grain and produce recently. Everybody would be pleased to see Mr. Baker upon his feet financially again and as hard at work as ever in the cares of business, which were to him apparently a pleasure. We regret, however, to have to add that the strain of the past week has had an effect upon Mr. Baker's health and that he was at one time quite ill, but we are glad to say that he is recovering. Mr. Baker's liabilities amount to $167,000, against which there are very large assets.

THE STURGEON POINT HOTEL.—The re-opening announcement of the Sturgeon Point Hotel for the season of 1878 will be issued this week. The steamboat and railway facilities will be much better than last season. A train will, it is expected, leave on the Victoria Railway each evening at 5.30 o'clock, connecting with the steamer Victoria at Fenelon Falls, arriving at the hotel at 6.45. In the morning the boat will leave the hotel in time to connect with the train arriving in Lindsay at 7 a. m. The steamers Vanderbilt and Maple Leaf will also run in connection with the hotel. The connections with the [illegible] will be made more convenient for parties at a distance. The proprietor is also making improvements in the premises which will be appreciated by guests, and the prospect is that the incoming season will be a lively one at the Point. The hotel under Mr. Dunham's management has attained a popularity enjoyed by no other summer resort in Eastern Ontario and the evidences of success following his venture are warmly greeted by his numerous friends.

OBITUARY.—It was our melancholy duty a week ago to chronicle the death of Mrs. Robert Hudspeth, and a few days afterwards of her husband, who never recovered from the shock occasioned by the death of his wife. Thus have passed away an aged and highly respected couple, under affecting circumstances. The funeral sermons were preached last Sunday by the Rev. Mr. Hastie, and from the brief sketch given at the close of an eloquent discourse we gather some particulars of interest. Mrs. Hudspeth, who was in her 78th year, was descended from a line of Scottish ministers back to the Reformation and was noted for her warm interest in and attachment to Presbyterianism: Mr. Hudspeth had attained the advanced age of 80. He was born in the north of England, near the border, and was educated at Edinburgh for the ministry. He was licensed to preach but owing to his diffidence and want of confidence felt impelled to abandon that calling, for which as far as intellectual ability and scholarly acquirements went he was well fitted. He opened a private school in Edinburgh and was highly successful, having among his pupils many who afterward attained eminence —one of them being Dr. Tait, the present Archbishop of Canterbury. He came to Canada in 1834, and tried farming back of Cobourg, but, like many others, did not succeed, and opened a private school at Colborne, whence he went to Cobourg, and then to Newcastle. He spent nearly ten years in teaching and again went back to farming near Cobourg, but, becoming subject to rheumatism which caused permanent lameness of the left knee, he was compelled to abandon farming and resume teaching, which he followed up to within a few years of his death. In his social circle and strength when he, suddenly fell to the ground, and it was discovered that he had lost the power of his left side. Mr. Spence, we are sure, has the sincere sympathy of his many friends in this community on this unfortunate occurrence.

SAD ACCIDENT.—We regret to [illegible]

PROTECTION.

Will a sufficiently high tariff give us a market of four millions all to ourselves?

Will it produce for a time exceptional high profits to manufacturers?

Will these profits have to come out of the consumers' pockets?

Will these exceptionally high profits cause capital to be diverted from other industries in which it is now employed?

Will the competition then caused reduce the high profits?

Will this be likely to result disastrously to manufacturers?

Will not the country, then, be full of bankrupt factories?

Will not producers of raw material, and other creditors of manufacturers, lose largely by such bankruptcies?

Is not this the condition of the United States to-day?

CAMEL-BREEDING IN TEXAS.

A Texas camel-breeder speaking of the rearing of the "ships of the desert," says: "They are no more trouble to raise than horses or cattle. The colts for the first three or four days are rather tender and require close attendance, but after that take their chances with the beard. They feed on cactus and brush, eschewing all grasses that cattle and horses eat if the favorite cactus can be had. The females, with proper care, give a colt every year, and the price at which they are sold, the ease with which they are raised, their extreme docility, and the adaptability of our climate to their nature, would seem to indicate that camel-raising is a profitable business in Texas. Mr. Lanfear says there is one camel in the herd that has travelled 150 miles between sun and sun, and that almost any well-broken camel is good for more than 100 miles in a day."

MANUFACTURERS MAKE A NOTE OF IT.

In his reply to the Finance Minister's Budget Speech Dr. Tupper backed down from his usual position on the Protectionist platform and alleged what his Party urged was not increased taxation but a readjustment of the tariff. Let the manufacturers be prepared to stand from under. Face to face with the country, the opposition abandon Protection, and prefer to let the manufacturers go, as of course that is what it amounts to, for, as Mr. Cartwright pointed out, if the tariff is not raised the manufacturer cannot be more protected than he is at present. And now what becomes of Sir John's "retaliatory tariff," putting our dues as high as those of the United States? The Chieftain goes in for retaliation—for duties ranging from 40 to 200 per cent. His lieutenant goes in simply for a "readjustment" of the present tariff. A rehearsal is wanted by this pretty pair of leaders who give contradiction to each other in the most amusing fashion. What reliance can the country confide in such a span, pulling direct against each other?

Manitoba Railway Matters.

Communication with Minnesota.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The consul at Winnipeg reports much activity in railroad matters in Manitoba. Canadian and English parties have purchased the first mortgage bonds of the St. Paul & Pacific Railway, and propose to construct a northern extension in Minnesota from Red Lake River to the Manitoban frontier during the summer. They also propose to complete the Pembina branch of the Canada Pacific Railway to connect with the Minnesota extension, and by the first of next November it is expected trains will be running from St. Paul to Winnipeg, and twenty miles from there north, to where the branch line crosses the main line of the Canada Pacific at Selkirk. From this point contracts are in execution for the construction of the main line eastward to Lake [illegible] of the Woods, 110 miles. An open distance westward of Thunder Bay, on Lake Superior, is also under contract. The consul thinks a mutually profitable intercourse between the Dominion and the Western States would be greatly aided if the United States and Canadian Governments were to make international arrangements for aiding the construction of a system of railways from Ottawa to Sault Ste. Marie, thence to Montreal River, to connect with the Northern Pacific, be sides completing the latter eastward to Duluth.

TREATMENT OF INEBRIATES.

The Trustees of the Toronto General Hospital have resolved on a course which promises to be attended by great and beneficial results. They propose to undertake the treatment of inebriates. For the last year the cases of this kind which have been brought to the Hospital have been treated with so much success as to leave no doubt about the possibility of the disease being successfully combatted provided the patient has the slighest desire for reform. This desire, however, is found to be so much an essential that where it does not exist there is no use, the Trustees say, in sending on such cases.

One great recommendation of the system proposed to be adopted in the Hospital is that the treatment is to be private. It will not be proclaimed to all and sundries as it is when one goes or is sent to an inebriate asylum that he is a drunkard, and has been treated as [illegible] he were a lunatic. Those who wish to be freed from the terrible malady (for however much brought on by themselves it is a malady) will come as ordinary paying patients, and will be regarded and treated accordingly. We are convinced that a large number who have lost all control of themselves, and are yet longing and anxious to be free from the cruel bondage of intemperance, will gladly avail themselves of the opportunity which in this city is offered to them. We hope the movement will be successful as it certainly deserves to be.

DEEP PLOUGHING.

The depth of ploughing must depend on the character of the soil as to its fertility, the crops to be raised and other circumstances. A notable fact may be ploughed deeply, but on a soil hard through which their roots can scarce be made to find. For general crops the depth of soil may be gradually increased to twelve inches with great advantage. For gardens and horticultural purposes it may be deepened to fifteen or even eighteen inches with profit. The entire depth of the soil should be brought up by the plough, and what is beyond the reach of the plough should be thoroughly broken up by the subsoil plough, and some of it occasionally mixed with that upon the surface. This should only be done, however in small quantities. It should then be exposed to the action of the atmosphere during the fall, winter and spring, or in a summer fallow, after which it should be manured for the forthcoming crop. If the soil is too shallow it should be gradually deepened by the use of proper materials for its improvement. When two indifferent soils, as a stiff clay and sliding sand, occupy the relation of soil and subsoil toward each other they should be thoroughly mixed by deep ploughing and then subjected to cultivation, when they will frequently produce a soil of value. At the North, clay lands should be ploughed in the fall for spring crops, as the earth is then enriched by snow, pulverized and broken by frost, and left in good condition for early planting. If ploughed in the spring they must be neither too wet nor too dry; if the former, the earth subsequently bakes and becomes almost impenetrable to the hoe or harrow; if too dry it is so compact as to be turned over only with great difficulty, and then in solid lumps. For the greater part of the South it is not advisable to plough clay lands in the autumn, as the heavy winter rains harden the loss earth and render it unfit for crops without further ploughing. With us fall ploughed land is better fitted for the reception of seed than it can be by any further working, unless by a slight harrowing in case the surface is too rough. Sandy or dry soil require flat ploughing, which may be done when they are either wet or dry, but never until they are wanted for use.

We are happy to say that the statements we made last week in regard to the Snowdon Iron Mines have in every instance been verified.

Mr. Hagel, of the Midland Railway, has agreed to give Mr. Myles a rebate of $5000 in tolls, to assist in building the branch railway from Kinmount to the Iron Mines, and also to build "Pockets" at Port Hope for the reception of the ore.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 28, 1878

PROTECTION RUN TO EARTH.

The wholly abstract and unmeaning character of the Opposition resolutions on the tariff has been frequently pointed out, as well as their utter absurdity in a practical point of view. The evident intention of their introduction from time to time was, that the speculative discussion arising from them might give the people an undefined yet positive idea that something must be wrong where there is so much talk. This plan might have worked with some of the less inquiring minds had it been possible to avoid particularity; but this could not be done. And the moment particular considerations are entered upon, and a practical test applied to some definite entity, the so-called "national policy" of the opposition falls to pieces. Such was the case the other day in the House when a discussion took place in committee on a resolution to repeal the duty on malt, imposed last year for the simplification of excise matters. Maltsters in Canada have since petitioned for its removal; because the American Maltsters are using it as an argument for an increase of the United States duty on malt sent from Canada. Herein we have one practical example of the effect of the retaliatory tariff proposed by the Opposition. They pretend that they want reciprocity, and that they believe the way to bring it about is to force the United States into it by imposing duties on American imports equal to the duties levied on Canadian commodities going into the neighbouring Republic. The absurdity of four millions of people thus contending with forty millions is fairly exemplified by this malt duty, the effect of which was to bring about an increase of the American duty rather than its removal, and hence to shut the American market against Canadian maltsters.

The treatment of the resolution by the Opposition proved plainly the unstable nature of their views on fiscal matters; and showed the Conservative leaders to be like the old man of the fable, who tried to please everybody; but who in the end pleased nobody, and was punished as he deserved for his folly and anxiety to become popular. Mr. Mitchell in his eager and guileless way rushed into the discussion as an opponent of the resolution, which he doubtless considered another attempt to further "the destructive Free Trade tendencies of the Government." What must have been Peter's horror and dismay when Tupper, Gibbs, and even Sir John Macdonald afterwards favoured the reduction of the duty, Tupper even declaring that the measure was an eminently protective one! The policy of imposing heavy duties for the purpose of forcing the United States to reciprocity was forgotten; and the member for Cumberland was fain to content himself with the consolation of the declaration that in this case is a proof that Canadian action has an effect on the arrangement of the United States tariff. It is, however, an effect entirely contrary to that which has been proclaimed by the Tory leaders for two or three years past; and an effect disastrous to Canadian interests. Sir John attempted to allay the confusion of his following by talking about a "scientific and artistic" tariff, Canada does not want a scientist experimenting with her fiscal affairs, nor an artist in tariffs going into expensive embellishments in the way of duties. There is no reason to show that as with the malt duty so it would be with any other increase on our list. United States citizens in the same line of business would move for additional duties, and Canadians would find themselves still more cribbed, cabined and confined on this continent than they now are. Clearly a retaliatory policy is not the way to bring about reciprocity with our neighbors. The truly national policy is to mind our own affairs without an attempted interference into what we cannot control; and by leaving business affairs to the business men of the country without unnecessary embarrassment from tariff changes, allow the United States people to find out for themselves the mistake they have made in supposing that Canada could be coerced into annexation, or even moved as the Conservative party pretends, by large American duties on imports. Protection on the other side of the lakes has proved a delusion and a national calamity; and Canada has a plain warning before it to avoid all such folly. We in this country want only such duties as the revenue requires. The present tariff gives sufficient protection to all healthy manufacturing concerns, and no other industry needs say.

The only declaration now left to the Opposition is that they would readjust the tariff so as to foster different branches of trade. This we contend is now done so far as it is necessary. It may be that some slight changes such as that made in the malt duty are advisable; but the general policy of the administration is correct. When the Opposition members talk of a readjustment they show their imsincerity by studiously avoiding suggestion as to where changes might in their opinion be advantageously made. Some of their journals are not so careful, and sometimes offer a chance for practical argument on a particular commodity as it may be affected by an import duty. One paper tells us, for instance that a duty of 50 cents on coal would, if coal continued to be imported, give us a revenue sufficient to reduce the duty on tea one-half, and that these would thus be no increase of taxation. It will not however benefit the people to pay a tax on fuel, which is a necessity, rather than on tea, a luxury; nor will the change of duty in such a case do away with the increased cost of the coal. But if the duty were such as to shut out the importation of foreign coal (which it would not do,) we are told the increased number of miners employed in Nova Scotia would contribute a revenue sufficient to allow of a reduction of duty on some other commodity; and that the expenditure of money in carrying coal from Nova Scotia to Ontario would permit of still further reductions on other articles. But by no manifestation or transfer can the gross capital of the country be increased; and the people will not benefit one cent's worth by taking from one account and putting to another. As well might a man expect to add to his cash by the simple act of changing it from one pocket to the other. Even the duty on flour proposed as a compensation to Ontario for the increased cost of Nova Scotia coal, would be no advantage to the country as a whole in point of increase of capital. Such unproductive interchange would simply, as Mr. Fortram expressed it in his speech in the House of Commons, "rob Peter to pay Paul, and then rob Paul to pay Peter back again; and in that operation some money would doubtless be dropped by both Peter and Paul." There can be no gain without a corresponding loss somewhere; and the only hope of the Protectionist is that his may be the gain at the expense of some one else. But, if as the advocates of a "scientific and artistic tariff" propose, all are to be protected against all others where is the gain to come in to any? And what is to compensate for the trouble and cost of such "scientific and artistic" readjustment of duties, and for the disarrangement it must of necessity cause to trade? This is what the people would like to knew from the "scientific and artistic" politician who talks so glibly of playing impossible pranks with the country's fiscal affairs.

THE NEW LIQUOR BILL.

The Government have redeemed their promise to introduce a Liquor Bill more effective than the Dunkin Act. This the Hon. Mr. Scott did last week. Like the Temperance Act of 1864 it is optional; that is, depends on the will of the electors. It will be limited to cities and counties, the towns to be included with the counties in which they are, although separate for municipal purposes. The Gov.-General will order the taking of a vote of the people, on petition of one fourth of the electors in the city or county praying that such vote be taken. If carried, it cannot be repealed for three years, unless after one year a petition to have it repealed be submitted containing one half the electors of the district concerned.

The election will be held under the direction of the Sheriff or Registrar, as in an election for a member of the Dominion Parliament, and will be conducted in the same way as a Dominion election. Penalties are provided against corrupt practices or means to influence the votes of the electors. The penalties for violation of the Act will be enforced by the same machinery as is the ordinary criminal law of the country. The proposed legislation has no five gallon clause, but provides that the manufacturer may dispose of his own manufacture in portions of not less than ten gallons, and that only to persons who are to remove it wholly out of the district where the law is in force. For medicinal, mechanical and sacramental purposes, the sale will be confined to druggists under restrictions that it is to be used for these purposes and these only. The sale for sacramental purposes will be on the certificate of a clergyman; for use in the arts or trade, on a certificate signed by two justices of the peace. All such sales are to be duly registered in a book to be kept for the purpose. When the sale is for medicinal purposes it must be on the certificate of a physician.

The only really objectional portion of the Bill is the 5th sub. sect. of sect. 95 (2nd part) which is as follows: "Provided also, that any merchant or trader "having his store or place for sale of goods "within such county or city may thereat "keep for sale and sell intoxicating liquors, but only in quantities not less than "ten gallons at any one time, and only to "druggists and others as aforesaid; or to "such persons as he has good reason to "believe will forthwith carry the same "beyond the limits of the county or city, "to be wholly removed or taken away in "quantities not less than ten gallons at a "time."

EAST RIDING REFORM CONVENTION.

We would ask our Reform friends everywhere in the East Riding to make arrangements to have a full representation at Norwood, on Saturday, the 6th of April, the day of the convention, to select a standard bearer for the party in the election likely to come off ere long. A large meeting will give eclat to all the proceedings, and will also be a means of friends meeting friends to make arrangements for the canvass, we should not be indifferent to the fact that our opponents are at work, and determined to win, if in their power to do so, this should awake a kindred spirit, and ensure a determined front, so as to secure a decided victory. A well earned victory in the more honorable as it has cost the greater sacrifice, and hence the sacrifice of a little time at the commencement of a campaign will prove in the end the greatest gain. Every Municipality should send forward its delegates. There need be no fear of sending too many. If in the multiplicity of counsellors there is wisdom, then the larger the convention the more easier will be found out the minds of the electors. The roads will be much improved by the day fixed for the meeting, and one day in five years is no after the selection of a candidate to represent us for the next five years in the Commons, should be cheerfully offered. We hope, therefore, to see a mass convention on the 6th of next month.

The Clergy Clearing Sale at Wm. Fairweather & Co's is causing great excitement. The there crowded the whole day.

RETROSPECTIVE NOTES.

The Lakefield News, (Conservative,) in an outburst on the subject on the Budget says: "Mr. Bateman's position is a manly and clearly defined one."

Educational.—The Hon. Mr. Crooks and Dr. McLellan will take part in a Teachers' Convention, in Lindsay, on the 15th of April.

Ship Captured.—During a violent gale which passed over England on Sunday, the Europica, a training ship, capsized of the Isle of Wight, and 400 persons—men and boys—were lost.

The Queens Election.—The House has been dissolved, and the writs issued for a new election. The nominations take place on 24th April, and the House meets on the 1st of June. It is expected that Mr. Joly will secure a small majority in the new House, and if so it will increase as legislation proceeds.

A largely attended Reform Convention, at Millbrook on Wednesday of last week, tendered the House of Commons nomination for East Durham to Mr. L. Ross, M.P., who accepted it by telegraph from Ottawa. Mr. Ross deserved the honour and reports go to show that he will carry the riding.

Here is an other man insulting Highlanders; and he did it to their faces, too. Sir John told them the other day they were

"A motley crew of bare legged beggars MacLeod's, McDonalds or McGregors:"

and they all laughed heartily, and did not seem a bit insulted. But, then, it was Sir. John said it; and that made it all right.

On Dit.—That at the Conservative meeting at the Indian River last Friday, from words they almost came to blows. Town dictation was so strong and strongly asserted, that the representatives from Norwood, or at least one of them, threatened the use of the knuckles on the town dictators. The consequence is great dissatisfaction prevails, we will not say with the choice of the meeting, but with the way it was brought about. But the Tory family quarrel is none of our business.

Anonymous Letter to the Premier.—Monday's Globe says that the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie received an anonymous letter on Saturday, threatening his life, and telling him he had only two days longer to live. The letter was placed in the hands of detectives. The Premier felt but little concerned, as he feels that he has done nothing to induce such an act. It is to be hoped that the writer of the missle may be found out and made to see the folly of engaging in that kind of letter writing.

Sir John Macdonald is connected with another scandal not quite as bad as the Pacific Scandal, but one that requires all the logic of his friends to extricate him from the unpleasant dilemma in which he is involved. It is said that he paid Mr. J. G. Moylan a sum of $2,500 ostensibly for printing no entry being made in the Public Accounts until after Mr. Mackenzie had attained to office. It is asserted that no printing had at all been done by Mr. Moylan, not a dollar's worth of any kind of work through which this money could be honestly obtained.

In the discussion on the item of Department of Justice, Mr. Dymond drew the attention of the House to the following facts: That Colonel Bernard, Sir John Macdonald's brother-in-law, in 1868, whilst Deputy Minister of Justice, received $500 from the Northern Railway Company as Parliamentary Agent; that Sir John Macdonald, whilst Minister of Justice, appropriated $545.25 by extortion from poor people holding Ordnance leases in Ottawa; that whilst occupying the said position of Minister of Justice he gave Crown business, in thirty-seven cases, to the law firm of which he was a partner. These proceedings Mr. Dymond characterised as highly improper and indecent.

There is a strong family resemblance between the productions of his gifted pen. For instance:

June 19th, 1873.

Mr. Ross, Clerk of Contingencies, will please to make an advance to Mr. J. G. Moylan, Esq., Canadian Freeman, for printing, $1,000, and oblige. Yours truly.

(Signed) John A. Macdonald.

Toronto, Aug. 28th 1872.

Must have another $16,000. Last time of calling. (Sgd) John A. Macdonald.

Hon. J. J. Abbott, Montreal.

If we could only get down to the bottom facts still covered up in secrecy, his expenditure in 1872 to buy a fresh lease of office would without doubt be discovered to be vastly more scandalous even then it is now known to be. It is only gradually being unearthed.

Ready! Aye, Ready!—The Review boastingly informed its readers last week that the Conservatives of the East Riding were ready for the contest any time, as they had their candidate, Mr. Burnham in the field already. We can quietly inform our contemporary that the Reformers of East Peterborough are also ready at a moments notice; but as the elections need not be expected for a little while longer, we would advise him not to become too inflated all at once, lest, like the frog in the fable, his cover become to tight for him, and direful might be the consequences. Very soon candidates for both Ridings will be at work, and Reformers have no fears of the result. The electors cannot forget the Pacific and other Scandals yet a while. Hence our dear friend may make up his mind to remain (at least) five years longer in opposition until the sins of the Tory party be atoned for fully.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The Anglo-Russian deadlock remains in statu quo, and those in authority at St. Petersburg are reported as expressing little hope of its solution. It is next to impossible, however, to get at even an approximation of the true state of affairs, owing to the contradictory nature of the despatches from different sources. According to one account Russia, acting upon Germany's advice, is bending all her energies to the conciliation of Austria, disregarding England, and at the same time quietly preparing for war. According to another version, both France and Germany are disposed to support the British view, and one correspondent even goes the length of asserting that Germany will do nothing unfavourable to England. Still another authority hints at a reconstruction of the Triple Alliance, with the especial object of opposing Great Britain's policy, and there is some talk—in the now probable contingency of the Congress not taking place—of a meeting of the three Chancellors at Berlin. In the meantime Russia's final answer is anxiously awaited in England, and the military preparations continue. Gen. Ignatieff is at present at Vienna endeavouring to complete negotiations for a system of parallel annexation, the hitch in this direction being due to a demand by Austria—to which Russia objects—for part of Macedonia in addition to Bosnia, the Herzegovina, and northern Albania. The Grand Duke Nicholas has paid a friendly visit to the Sultan at Constantinople, and diplomatic relations between Russia and Turkey have been resumed by the appointment of Gen. Nelidoff as Russian Charge d'Affaires at Constantinople.

MORTUARY CHAPEL.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I see by the report of a town paper that the directors of the Cemetery Company have let the contract for the erection of a Mortuary Chapel, according to the report of the President at the last annual meeting. I am sure that such an act cannot be endorsed by the people of that church for whom it is about to be built. This disregard of the principle of doing to others as they would wish to be done to them, must have been forgotten by the present directors, or they would not take the money of other denominations to erect a chapel for the use of a denomination which chances to have a majority just now, on the board of directors. They have raised the prices of lots, and increased the charge for keeping those occupied in order, thus taking from the lot owners, or stockholders, the very money which they have accumulated, and now, contrary to the wishes of the parties from whom the money was taken, they are applying it to erect a building that few of them will ever use, possibly will enter except to view the misappropriation of their money. This is perpetrated too, at the suggestion of a minister of the Gospel, who should at least respect the principle of the Golden Rule. Can it be that he intends carrying the principles of his church in England, into Canada, and effect which deny people the right to inter their dead unless the services of his church be used thereat? It is true that "the price of liberty is eternal vigilance," and I therefore urge the friends of justice to be after the affairs of the cemetery in future, so as to prevent the continuance of a directorate that so far forgets the justice due to other sects, that they will rob them of their rights, to ensure a temporary triumph to gratify the ambitious designs of a would-be-religious dictator.

Yours truly,
A STOCKHOLDER.

CONSERVATIVE DICTATION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I noticed an article in the Review of the 22nd inst., stating that the charge made by me against the Conservative Association of appointing Mr. R. C. Strickland as one of the President's was not true, and also that the writer was not a Conservative or he would have known the facts: I state that the charge made by me against the Association is correct, and have only to refer to the following part of the report of the meeting of the Conservative Association given in the Review of the 8th of March. "After Mr. Scott had addressed the meeting the election of officers was proceeded with and the following was the result:—R. A. Morrow, Esq., President, eleven Vice-President's, and then Mr. R. C. Strickland Vice-President for Lakefield. Even if the Conservatives at a packed meeting should have nominated that gentleman better judgement should have guided the Association in making the nomination, and taught them to keep that gentleman in the back ground until the present bank-ruptcy case was cleared up. If the editor of the Review would spend a few days in this village and compare the style in which these gentleman are living (who offer 25 cts. in the $.) with that of their poor creditors; some of whom are scarcely able to procure the common necessaries of life, he would think there was good reason to complain. But, sir what grieves me most is to think that they made a cloak of religion to enable them to accomplish their objects, and while one of the firm was professing to be so full of the Spirit that he defied Satan, he was at the same time incurring liabilities that he must have known he would be unable to meet. Their actions appear to have been guided by Hypocrisy and deceit as witness their doings in connection with the P. C. A. Hall at the present time. It is about time that the mask was taken off these aristocratic gentlemen, and that they were lead to see themselves in their true colours, and I am only surprised to see that but one newspaper in this section of the country could be found to expose their wrong doing. As to the statement in the Review that the writer of the article is not a Conservative, I will only say that I have been as true a follower of the party as the editor himself, and am well known to him, but being a Conservative will not prevent me condemning what I believe to be wrong. I will also inform that gentleman that I am not the only Conservative that has found fault with the appointment, and if he will take the trouble of consulting with the local member he will find that others have raised the same objection.

Yours truly,
A CONSERVATIVE,

Lakefield, March 26th, 1878.

LAKEFIELD P. C. A. HALL.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me a small space to make a few remarks respecting the change that has taken place in our P. C. A. Hall service of late. Now, I do not wish in this communication to give offence to any one, but I do believe that there is something wrong, not in "Denmark," but in reference to the matter above alluded to. I dare say, Mr. Editor, that you are well aware that ever since Miss S. opened what is called the P. C. A. Services in Lakefield, that she has endeavoured to keep it as free from sectarianism as possible, this I believe she strictly observed up to last Sunday week, when it happened that the sons and daughters came up to present themselves unto the Lord, when it was noticed that another person appeared on the platform also. The surprise was increased, when that other person appeared on the platform and proceeded to open the service, a privilege Miss S. has never to my knowledge given to any other minister before, although ministers have been present on many occasions. Now, I will not stop to discuss the right of the one who appeared on the platform to take part in the service, as I understand that a document has been prepared by the Rev. Gentleman, and submitted to Miss S. for her signature, which accounts for the presence of his reverence on the occasion. If I understand the matter aright the signing of the document referred to is nothing more nor less than a complete surrender on the part of Miss S.

I am sure that it was not for want of church room that the Rev. Pastor sought an agreement with the female Evangelist, but rather in my opinion a scarcity of hearers in his own church, and also an intense desire to do away with female Evangelists; and if I am not wrongly informed as to the contents of the document, he has wrongfully succeeded in carrying out his purpose so far as the P. C. A. is concerned. I was to the P. C. A. last Sunday, and had I not known some little of the agreement between the Evangelist and the Pastor, I no doubt, would have come to the conclusion that Miss S. had, at last, succeeded in converting her Pastor to believe in female Evangelistic work, as there were no less than two ladies on the platform with him when he proceeded to open the service with prayer. We have always enjoyed the plain and simple, yet interesting, utterances of Miss S. in her devotional exercises in the Hall, and [when I say this, I think I speak the mind of a very large majority of all who heard her. In conclusion, I would put one question in regard to the purpose for which the Hall was built, viz:—Did all those who subscribed so liberally of their means and labour towards its speedy erection, understand that it was afterwards to be made an auxilary to forward sectarian succession, and help the English church in Lakefield. If this was the understanding at the commencement of the enterprise, I have nothing more to say on the matter, but simply to add, to all appearance it has taken its place; but if on the contrary it was to have been the property of all denominations, and for the benefit of all religious institutions that might avail themselves of it, there is something seriously wrong in the divergence that has taken place, and I am sorry to have to say, with the consent of its promoter, Miss S.

Yours,
A CONTRIBUTOR.

Inland Navigation.—The steamer Maggie Sommerville, burnt last spring, has been rebuilt and commenced her regular trips to Keene-ville Hastings on Monday, and the next day started for Peterborough. The Golden-Eye arrived on Tuesday from Peterborough, with freight and passengers. The lake is now entirely free from ice.

CAMPBELLFORD.

Suicide.—Mrs. Dunk, wife of Lewis Dunk, residing on the Eagle line, in the township of Seymour, committed suicide on the evening of Tuesday, by drowning herself in a creek. She had only been missed for about ten minutes, and when discovered life was extinct. Cause, temporary insanity.

KEENE.

Temperance Entertainment.—An entertainment was given here on Friday evening last for the purpose of reviving the Temple at Mathers Corners, which was very successful. The attendance being large. Mr. E. Howson occupied the chair, and Miss Kindred presided at the organ. Without mentioning how well the various persons performed their parts in the programme it may not be amiss to say that there efforts were highly appreciated. The parties taking part in the programme being the same as those who so successfully took part in the entertainment at Mather's Corners a few weeks ago.—Com.

Fire.—A fire broke out last Wednesday night about 9 o'clock in the residence of George Read, Esq., and totally consumed the place. There was a considerable part of the furniture saved, but in a damaged condition. The residences of the Rev. Mr. McCullock and of Wm. Campbell were saved with great exertion on the part of the neighbors. At one time it was thought Campbell's place would go. The furniture was all removed but considerably damaged. The place of Malcolm Campbell was also in danger several times, but the roof was kept wet all the time. Mr. Read's loss on his insurance will be between seven and eight hundred dollars.

VICTORIA.

The proceedings at the Reform Conventions held at Fenelon Falls and Lindsay on the 19th and 20th inst., leave little room for doubt as to the result of the forthcoming elections. Mr. Hector Cameron's tenure of the North Riding was never strong, and it has been growing weaker session by session. Mr. Maclennan will undoubtedly make a better run than ever should he accept, and in Mr. Dickson, who is by profession a land surveyor, and has had large municipal experience, they will have a strong and popular colleague. Better nominations than those of Mr. Connolly and Mr. Wood for the South Riding could not have been made. Mr. McQuade, the present member for the Commons, will probably be dropped for a stronger man.

HARVEY.

Council Meeting.—The Harvey Council met at the Clerk's Office, on the 18th March, pursuant to adjournment. The Reeve and Councillors all present. Minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. A petition was read from P. Lavery and others, requesting the Council to survey and open up the allowance for road between lots 25 & 26, concession 16; also from P. N. Murdock, to survey and open up the sideline road between lots 24 & 25, Concession 19. The Clerk was instructed to notify James Dickson P. L. S. to run said lines. Thomas Kingsborough accepted an order on the Treasury for $20, in full for land taken for forced roads on his part of lot 25, concession 16, and fencing and all damage for said roads; A new road beat was formed from Nogies Creek to the Galway road, and W. D. Ventress was appointed pathmaster on said beat. Wm. Irwin was appointed Collector for 1878. The collector was instructed to take steps to collect the arrears of taxes on North part lot 15, concession 11, for the years 1874-5 also South part of lot 15, concession 11, and lot 12 concession 10 both for the arrears for the year 1874 and the tax for 1877. Orders were drawn on the Treasurer in favour of David Brodie, junr., and P. N. Murdock as auditors, each the sum of $3, and D. Brodie rebate of taxes year 1877 of $1.20; George Oliver, $40, part salary as Collector for 1877. Thomas Brummell, $10, as compensation in full for all claims and damages to East ½ of lot 20, concession 13, for forced roads; Walter D. Ventress, $44.38 for crossways; also $9 to Fred. Pearo as charity. A grant of $150 was made by the Council to be expended on side line road between lots 20 & 21, concessions 15 and 16, to the Squaw River road, near Mr. Arscotts house; S. H. Crow, Commissioner to expend the same. The further sum of $50 was granted, to be expended by James Elliott on his road beat, from John Shorey's to the side line between lots 20 and 21, concession 15, near John Tates. The said grants to be paid in December, 1878. Alex. Clysdale received $2 for work overdone on his beat in the year 1877. On motion it was resolved that the Council take no further action on the memorial from Wm. Ventress and others. A By-Law, No 118, was passed appointing Mr. Pearse sub-treasurer of certain school monies; Also By-Law No 120 was passed to provide for the payment of interest on arrears for County Rates, to the County treasurer on motion, the Clerk was instructed to notify the County Treasurer to reduce the statute labour tax on certain lots owned by John Carnegie, in accordance with their resolution in December last, as provided in sub-section 2, Section 87, Cap. 120, Revised Statutes of Ontario Wm. McKenty was appointed Pound Keeper instead of John Landrum. The Council adjourned to meet at the Town Hall, as a court of Revision, on the 3rd day of June, 1878.—Com.

EAST DURHAM.

The Conservative nomination of Mr. Williams has not unnaturally resulted in a party split so pronounced as to require the presence of the deputy leader of the Opposition to smooth matters over. That gentleman came all the way from Ottawa on Friday night—had votes not preventing—to act as mediator. That there was need for mediation as between the Millbrook and Port Hope Conservatives, the following passage in a letter to the Millbrook Messenger conclusively shows:—

"An appeal, in conclusion, is made for unity, though what we are to unite on is not mentioned, but if there be any meaning in the appeal, it must be for unity in approving and defending Col. Williams' political record in the past, and from this as judge of what he is likely to do for us in the future. Before the Colonel was said to be a candidate for nomination, we were told it was premature, etc., to discuss his political doings. When he was a candidate, and explanations were asked, we were told that he could not be expected to remember his votes, etc. After his nomination, we, as Conservatives, are to swallow him and his bad votes without grimace. Now, if this is not going it blind, and if this is not an attempt to shut off all discussion amongst Conservatives of Col. Williams' political doings, I am very much mistaken. If Conservatives are to cut discussion short in this matter, let them remember that the residences of [illegible] consul in the Land Grant [illegible] the [illegible]

The Market.—The market, owing to the improved condition of the roads and the fine weather, was more largely attended on Saturday than it has been for some weeks past.

Separation.—A movement is on foot to separate the Counties of Durham and Northumberland, and it is said that definite action will be taken in the matter during the coming year.

W. Fairweather & Co's Clearing Sale is an excellent opportunity for buying Marriage Out-fits Cheap, and Tailoring done in First Class Style by Pete Simons, the Master Cutter in the art.

Unfulfilled Prophecy.—The last sermon of the series, by the Rev. R. F. Torrance, on "Unfulfilled Prophecy" will be delivered next Sunday evening, when the subject of the sermon will be—"The end of all things."

A Cold Snap.—Sunday last was ushered in with one of the coldest snaps of the season, it continued during the day and Monday. After the fine spring weather of the proceeding days the cold was much felt. It is now pleasant once more.

Good Work Appreciated.—The splendid business Messrs. Madison & Green have been doing since they opened their Merchant Tailoring Establishment demonstrates that skilful and thorough work makes business good even in dull times.

The Lumber Trade.—Information has been received from a reliable source that Chicago and the West are pretty well cleared out of sawed lumber, and that a large demand will be made on Canada for their requirements during the coming season.

Degree Meeting.—We have been requested to announce that the quarterly meeting in connection with the Orange Association of this town, for the purpose of conferring degrees, will be held to-morrow (Friday) night. A full attendance is requested.

Fashionable Clothing.—A person in need of fashionable clothing need have no fear but that his wants can be fully supplied at the tailoring establishment of Mr. T. Dolan. That gentleman has in stock the best material while skilled workmen are engaged to convert these into the latest fashionable styles of wearing apparel.

Boots and Shoes.—Every lady and gentleman in want of a neat and serviceable article in boots, shoes, or slippers should inspect my stock which is now well assorted with new goods for the Spring and Summer trade, from the leading wholesale manufacturers of Montreal and Toronto. W. J. Wallace Lakefield. 12-11ns

To Sportsmen.—A sportsman who knows says the fact is becoming well established in the mind of every true sportsman, that shooting ducks in the spring must be stopped, if good shooting in the fall is to be secured. There are very few ducks which are fit for food in the spring, and thousands of broods are lost by the general slaughter.

Base Ball.—At a meeting of the "Pine Grove" Base Ball Club, held on Monday evening last, the following officers were elected for the ensuing season:—President, M. H. Halpin; Captain, N. Toole; Field Captain, John Callaghan; Secretary, M. Tierney; Treasurer, Wm. Green. Committee—Messrs. Rutherford, Hayes and Connolly.

Peterborough Rifle Association.—The regular monthly meeting of this Association will be held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening next. We hope there will be a full day evening next. We hope there will be a full meeting to arrange for the regular practice which will begin almost immediately. Any persons desirous of joining the Association should make it a point to be present and have their names enrolled.

Removal.—Mr. J. R. Ormond has removed his jewellery store to the shop one door north of Mr. Thos. Menzies bookstore, where he purposes to continue his clearing out sale. Mr. Ormond promises to sell goods at prices that will astonish all who may favor him with a call. His stock of gold and silver watches, jewellery, &c., is of good quality and those wanting a good article should call early.

Lay the Dust.—We believe a requisition is being circulated among those resident within the water limits, asking the Council to take immediate steps to have the streets watered. We hope our Councillors will lose no time in arranging for the necessary contract, as a few days like Monday last would destroy more goods in the shops on George street than would many times pay the cost of the street watering for the year.

The Great London Show, including Sanger's English Menagerie and Doskrill's Parisian Circus, will visit Peterborough during the coming season. This great Combination is acknowledged to be the leading Zoological and Equestrian establishment of the world. The whole affair is transported on three massive trains of their own, each train containing thirty-six cars and four sleeping coaches attached to each train for the accommodation of their performers.

The Business Way.—The following is the idea of Messrs. Lord & Taylor, the prosperous merchants of New York:—"Of all the methods open to the merchant for advertising his business, an experience of nearly half a century enables us to unhesitatingly declare in favor of the newspaper. It is, without exception, the most economical, persistent, painstaking and successful canvasser any business firm can secure, for the purpose of bringing their goods to the attention of the consumer."

"Solid" Men.—On Saturday last Messrs. James Miller, Roach Way, Fred. Winch and Antoine Wood met on the Market Square, and as they are among the most corpulent men of the town or vicinity, were after some hunter by them present, induced to get weighed. They accordingly mounted the scales, when their united weight proved to be 1,129 pounds—Mr. Miller, 399 pounds; Mr. A. Wood, 389; Mr. F. Winch, 275 pounds; and Mr. R. Way, 365 pounds. What county can find equals for these gentlemen.

Toronto and Ottawa Railway.—The Mail of Wednesday has the following:—We understand that in the intention of the promoters of the Toronto and Ottawa railway to have petitions prepared and presented to the City Council at an early day, praying for the submission of a by-law for the approval of the citizens granting to the road a bonus of three hundred thousand dollars. We are also informed that the strength of the directorate will be increased by the addition of the names of gentlemen of considerable influence.

Love Games with the Spring.—The following specimen verses are from a twenty-six stanza idyl, by an inspired young fellow who has been wrought up by the first bright beams of the spring's warm sun:—

She hasn't slept upon the fence,
And then she'd have a cat,
And for his footsteps down the lain
She waited patiently.

And presently he came to view,
And then she patted a pall;
A heavenly heart of joy she hovried,
And her bosom swelled a swell.

Something New.—Messrs. Madison & Green, Merchant Tailors, George street, have been called upon to clear for hats, that they have bought some select styles, which they will open out to-morrow. They will be sold cheap.

Room Paper for the Million.—Messrs. Wilson & Davis, this week announce the receipt of an immense stock of room paper, ranging in prices from five cents upwards. A visit to their shop will convince any one that this is a bona fide announcement, and that their stock is all that it is represented to be. They have at present on hand between ten and twelve thousand rolls, and are weekly receiving fresh additions. Intending purchasers will therefore see the advantages of inspecting their stock before purchasing elsewhere. In other lines of goods their stock is well assorted and marked down at bottom prices. Mottoes and Motto frames a specialty. Call and examine.

A Word for Assessors.—The following clause from the recent Act of the Ontario Legislature to give finality to voters' lists is "going the rounds" for the benefit of assessors:—"Any person who wilfully and improperly inserts or procures or causes the insertion of any name in the assessment roll, or causes or procures or causes the omission of any person at his high an amount, with intent in either or any such case to give to any person not entitled thereto, an apparent right to vote at any election; or who wilfully inserts or procures or causes the insertion of any fictitious name in the assessment roll, or who wilfully and improperly omits, or procures or causes the omission of any name from the assessment roll, or assesses or procures or causes the assessment of any person at too low an amount, with intent in either case to deprive any person of his right to vote, shall upon conviction thereof before a court of competent jurisdiction, be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty hundred dollars, and to imprisonment and of the jail for a period, or to imprisonment in the common gaol of the county or city, for a period not exceeding six months, or to both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court."

"Grip."—Grip's last cartoon is very clever. Sir John is seated in a sparsely-furnished room, whither he has withdrawn for refreshment, and a capital piece of satire is introduced in the fact that the "refreshment" is found in a jug labelled "cold water." A fyle of the London Advertiser lies on the floor. To the refreshing Chieftain comes a disconsolate troop of his followers to tell how the Reaction is getting on. Tupper is in the van, and his plaint is—"Terrible news, sir! Blake ain't going to leave after all. Following come Bowell and Langevin hand-in-hand, the sagest Orangeman and the devout opponent of Orangeism jointly murmuring—"Yes, and our beautiful clerical Conservative Government in Quebec is all smashed to pieces." Millbell, with the dejected attitude of a school boy caught in the act of chewing gum, whimpers—"Yes, and Dymond has discovered another big scandal against you, sir." With heels high in air, is his efforts to reach the Chieftain, Palmer breathlessly shouts—"Yes, and Mackenzie is sober, and offers us a committee to investigate our charges against him, but we won't take it." In the dim distance, with his queue at an angle of ninety degrees, Bunster completes the horror by the blood-curdling announcement—"Yes, and Plumb has the floor!"

Another Old Resident Gone.—This week we have to chronicle the decease of Mr. John Paul of Smith. He died at his residence, on Thursday, 21st instant, at the age of 70 years. He had always been a hale, robust man, and was in town in his usual health the Saturday previous. During the greater part of the next day—Sunday—he was quite well, and went across one of his fields with his nephew in the evening as the latter was returning home from paying him a visit. Shortly after his return to the house, however, he took ill, and never rallied, and on Thursday morning he passed away to his reward. Mr. Paul was a native of Northumberland, England. He emigrated to Canada in 1831, stopping at Brockville during that year. In 1836 he removed to the Township of Smith, when he settled on an excellent farm on which he resided until his decease. He then fore-watched his section of the country passing from a wild forest until it had become one of the finest townships in Ontario. He was an inoffensive and kind neighbor, an intelligent advocate of Reform principles, and was respected by all who knew him. He leaves a wife, one son and two daughters to mourn their bereavement. His remains were interred in the Little Lake Cemetery on Saturday, followed thither by a large funeral cortege of relatives and neighbors.

LITERARY NOTES.

Belford's Monthly.—The March number of this excellent magazine is on our table and it contents are quite up to those of former numbers. First we have "Glimpses of Constantinople," by Sheila Hale, profusely illustrated and well worthy of perusal. R. C. Allison contributes an interesting paper on "Shakspere's Henry VI.;" followed by the tale "How Hiam Was Cured," an episode of the old slave times by Jenny Woodville; Martin J. Griffin has a treatise on "Disraeli's Works;" "My Daughter's Admirers," by R. C. Dember; "The Spectre Guide of Mount Vesuvius," a story founded on facts, by "Giovanni;" further instalments of "Roxy," which with several articles on scientific subjects by learned writers, make up a most interesting number.

POLICE COURT.

Non-Payment of Wages.—The enlarged case of J. St. Peter vs. Irwin & Boyd, for non-payment of wages, came up on Tuesday morning for hearing and was dismissed with costs.

OBITUARY.

The Late Mrs. Frances Augusta Watson.

Last week we made mention of the severe illness of Mrs. Watson, wife of the Rev. C. Watson, of the Methodist church here, and it is our sad duty this week to chronicle the melancholy intelligence of her death, which took place in Belleville at an early hour on Sunday morning last. It is only about five months ago since she was married, after which she came to reside in Peterborough with her husband, but shortly after she took ill, and was confined to her bed almost ever since. Latterly her condition became more critical, and convinced that her end was approaching she expressed a wish to be taken home to Picton. Last Friday, arrangements were made for her removal, and on Saturday she was taken from here to Belleville in a special Pullman car, in order to avoid change, from which place she was to have been removed to her parental home in Picton at the first opportunity. The following account of her arrival at Belleville and particulars of her death we take from the Belleville Ontario of Monday last:—

"Arriving here at noon on Saturday, the invalid was met at the depot by Mr. Lake's bus with a bed and comfortable wrappings, and carefully taken to the residence of her cousin Mr. Mark G. Robin, where every care that love, and friendship could devise was bestowed upon her. Her husband, two sisters and a brother accommanied her from Peterborough; and her aged mother, who has been bending watching by her bed side for many days, proceeded them a day in order to get things ready for the sick woman's reception at home. During Saturday and Sunday she seemed considerably cheerful, and seemed to anticipate so much from the dear scenes of "home, sweet home." No particular change was observed during the early part of the evening, and the watchers were rather cheered than depressed with the symptoms. Shortly after midnight her husband, who was sitting by her, detected something in the look that alarmed him, and calling Mr. Robin they found the chill of death upon her. She simply fell asleep in Jesus, and left the world without a sigh. Her life had been blameless and her end was peace.

"Mrs. Watson was the youngest daughter of the late Daniel McMillan of Picton, and was 28 years and 7 months old at the time of her death. She was only married last October, and had not been home since, owing to her delicate health. She was kind, affectionate, and esteemed—an ornament to society and a true helpmate for him who now mourns the loss of a fond and Christian companion. But his loss is her gain. She was patiently waiting for the summons that would relieve her from so much suffering, and upon its receipt spirit the portals of "that better land," where pain and sickness never enter. She died as she had lived—an humble disciple of the Redeemer. The bereaved friends have the heartfelt sympathy of the community."

While in Peterborough, by her many excellent qualities, she had endeared herself to all who knew her, and her removal by the hand of death will be sadly mourned over by those who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. The bereavement to her husband and relations must be a sad and trying one, but they have the warmest sympathy of the community in their affliction.

THE MILLENNIUM.

Fourth Sermon by the Rev. R. F. Torrance on "Unfulfilled Prophecy."

On Sunday evening last the Rev. R. F. Torrance delivered his fourth sermon of a series on Unfulfilled Prophecy—the subject of the present one being—"The Millennium." The Reverend Gentleman took for his text the first three verses of the 20th chapter of Revelations, and said:—

I directed your attention in my last sermon to the coincident circumstances of the Second Advent, showing that we may then expect the rapture and glorification of the Lord's people, the destruction of Anti-Christ and the conversion of a remnant of these Jews who had been restored to their own land. I wish to speak to-night about which this world is to enjoy, and which—If the views presented in the previous discourses be correct—will begin shortly after the Second Advent, when the dead in Christ shall be raised and changed, and the living saints caught up to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Then are come of the Psalms which refer to the most glowing terms to the universal reign of Christ:—

THE MILLENNIUM OR THOUSAND YEARS OF BLESSEDNESS,

"Ask of me and I will give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession." Psalm II. 8.

"He shall have dominion also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth. They that dwell in the wilderness shall bow before him, and his enemies shall lick the dust. The Kings of Tarshish and of the Isles shall bring presents; the Kings of Sheba and Seba shall offer gifts." Psalm LXXII. 8-10.

Again we say what a contrast does this present to the state of things existing at this present time! Satan is now the God of this world, and the vast majority of the human race bow in subjection to the sceptre which he sways. But the time is coming when the power of Satan to deceive the nations will be shaken away, and when these false religions shall be destroyed, and when the Lord shall be king over all the earth, then being one Lord and His name one, (2.) The Millennium will be a time of universal peace. There are several passages in the Old Testament—Prophets—which bear upon the subject. In Isaiah we read:—

"He shall judge between the nations and decide for many people; and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

"They shall not hurt or destroy in all my holy mountain, for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea."

The Millennium will differ in this respect Hitherto from what has been the condition of the world from the very earliest times, and from the condition of the world at present. Few years have ever elapsed without some of the nations of the earth engaging in war, and even now the nations of Europe are fully armed as though waiting for an opportunity to declare war against each other. Never had these nations such large standing armies; never have the science of war been brought to such perfection as at the present time.

THE OUTLOOK OVER THE POLITICAL WORLD

is far from assuring, and it seems as though a spark might set all Europe in a blaze. How comforting to contrast the present state of the world with its state during the millennium when overturning to think of that time when the nations shall live together under the hand of a common brotherhood, and when there shall be war no more.

(3.) The Millennium will be the time of the personal reign of Christ and his saints. We will not enter into any details here, but will merely refer to one or two passages which speak of it. In the 20th chap. of Jeremiah we read:—

"But they shall serve the Lord their God and David their king, whom I will raise up unto them."

And in the 37th chap. of Rev.:—

"And David my servant shall be king over them, and they all shall have one shepherd: they shall also walk in my judgments and observe my statutes to do them."

And in the 19th chap. of St. Matthew we read that the Apostles shall share this reign.—

"And Jesus said unto them, verily I say unto you, that ye which have followed me, in the regeneration, when the Son of Man shall sit in the throne of His glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel."

And finally in the chapter before us we have a reference to the reign of the saints, for we read:—

"Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection; on such the second death hath no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years."

If these things be true there is a bright future for this world and for the faithful followers of Christ. We can say in the words of the Watchman: "The morning cometh," when the darkness now reigning will be dispelled and the world flood with Gospel light.

Madison & Green are receiving an addition to their spring stock. Their garments have an attractive appearance which their competitors find it difficult to imitate.

Myths are but Symbols of Truth.

As the Scholar sees in the vain but beautiful mythologies of the ancients the embodied expressions of the hungry human soul, blindly groping after the Infinite, so the physician sees in that popular myth of the nineteenth century the fountain of perpetual health and youth—an expression of the longings of suffering humanity for a remedy that should forever prevent the incursion of disease. The wilds of Europe were ransacked for this wonderful fountain, and Ponce de Leon sought for it in the cypress-swamps and tangled everglades of our sunny Florida. Men have searched for it everywhere and anywhere but where it really is—in the human body itself. The blood is the real fountain of perpetual health and youth. When this source is corrupted, the painful and sorrow-producing effects are visible in many shapes. The multifarious forms in which it manifests itself would form subjects upon which I might write volumes. But as all the varied forms of disease which depend upon bad blood are cured, or best treated, by such medicines as take up from this fluid and excrete from the system the noxious elements, it is not of practical importance that I should describe each. For instance, medical authors describe about fifty varieties of skin diseases, though as they all require for their cure very similar treatment, it is of no practical utility to know just what name to apply to a certain form of such a disease, as you know how best to cure it. Then again, I might go on and describe various kinds of scrofulous sores, fever sores, white swellings, enlarged glands, and ulcers of varying appearance; might describe how virulent poison very often dwells in various forms of erysipelas, shingles, sore throat, bony tumors, etc.; but as all these various-appearing manifestations of bad blood are cured by a similar means, I deem such a course unnecessary. Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the vital fountain of life, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution will all return to us. For this purpose Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Purgative Pellets are pre-eminently the article needed. They are warranted to cure tetter, salt-rheum, scald head, St. Anthony's fire, rose rash or erysipelas, blue-worms, white swellings, tumors, or any enlargements of the glands, scrofulous sores and swellings, fever sores, white swellings, carbuncles, boils, malignant ulcers, scrofulous sores and swellings, fever sores, white swellings, tumors, enlargements of the glands, and all diseases of the liver, stomach, kidneys, and bladder.

From L. J. Rankin, Esq., of Le Rheuve.

"Having experienced the most gratifying results from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, I am induced to forward you my testimonial. I was troubled for a long time with a severe cough, which finally settled on my lungs, and I was given up by my physician and friends to die of consumption. I was induced to try your Discovery, and to my surprise found relief from the first dose I took. I continued taking it for three months, and was entirely restored to health. I am now a well man, and can recommend your Discovery to all suffering from pulmonary complaints. To be sure, I used a number of bottles, but I was very low, and had a bad case, and I think I was entirely cured. I also used your Pellets, and they proved very beneficial for taking them in connection with the Discovery. To be sure, I used all of druggists in a country thirteen miles by 25 miles in size.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a recipe that will cure, FREE OF CHARGE. THE DEATH BED.

We watched her breathing through the night—
Her breathing soft and low—
As in her breast the wave of life
Kept heaving to and fro.

So silently we seemed to speak,
So slowly moved about,
As we had lent her half our powers,
To help her living out.

Our very hopes hushed our fears,
Our fangs our hopes hushed—
We thought her dying when she slept,
And sleeping when she died.

For when the morn came, dim and red,
And with mild maiden meekness,
Her quiet eyelids closed—she had Another morn than ours.

THOS. HOOD.

THE FARMER'S CREED.

Let this be held the Farmer's creed:
For stock seek out the choicest breed—
In peace and plenty let them feed;
Your land, now with the best of seed;
Let it not dump or drowning need;
Tedious, plough, reap, with care and speed,
And you will soon be rich indeed.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

How to Feed Cattle.—Stock doing well; have carcass and condition (when there is any) every day; no abortions, and lately no calves, so far; young stock growing fine weeds in a corn field in June. Six bushels Tight oats, seven quarts oil cake meal, and one pint of salt, mixed with three times as much cut hay as there is in bulk of grain, making one day's rations for seventy-five cattle, young and old. Feed is dampened, and stands (when weather is not too cold) twelve to twenty-four hours before feeding, and is apportioned to the stock according to age and condition.—P. H.

For Rooms.—A physic ball may be prepared by taking six drachms of good Barcadoes aloes, ginger and gentian of each one drachm. Make into a cylindrical shape about two inches long, then stand at the horse's left side, you facing the horse, draw out the tongue at the side of the mouth, and with your right hand run the ballswiftly but gently down his throat. To give yourself confidence, give ball or two first of linseed meal only. For three days previous to giving the ball feed two meshes of bran daily, and for a few days after count feed laxative diet. There need be no changeswade regarding the working of the horse after the ball has operated.

White Clover.—At certain times of the year white clover will give more feed than any kind of grass or clover, and no pasture should be without it. Its dwarf character renders it unfit for the scythe, while the abundant and densely matted mass of sweet, rich feed, which it furnishes, makes it invaluable for pasture lands. Where there are bare places in meadows, secure a growth of white clover by pasturing and brushing in the seed. Where ever it is once started the ground will become filled with the seed, which will start up wherever an opportunity for growth offers. It will do fairly well in the partial shade of a grove or orchard, but to reach the highest excellence it should have the advantage of full sunlight. It is peculiarly partial to clay lands, with a rich vegetable mould on the surface, but will not flourish on very damp or very poor soils. The addition of gypsum will sometimes give great luxuriance. There are several varieties of white clover, all of which are hardy, nutritious and self-propagating.

Strawberries.—Strawberries are as easily grown as cabbages. It is only a matter of careful planting at the start, and clean culture afterwards. Many suppose there is a subtle art about strawberry-growing. They have tried to raise them, "but never had no luck." The reason probably is that they got worthless plants, or those of an incomplete species. Some varieties of strawberries need flowering sorts intermixed with them to make them fruitful. What is worth doing at all is worth doing well. If you propose to grow this luscious fruit, buy 50 or 100 plants of a well-known kind from the nearest nurserymen. They will cost perhaps a cent a plant—a cheap enough start surely. We recommend to all beginners in strawberry culture, Wilson's Albany Seedling, as a good kind for general purposes. It is not the most delicate in point of flavor, but it is hardy, a great cropper, a solid market berry, and by those who have never tasted better, will be pronounced good enough for anybody. Why should not farmers grow this delicious fruit, and have them in abundance during their season, laying in a stock for the rest of the year in the shape of canned or preserved strawberries?

POLITICAL NOTES.

—Sir John Macdonald, when speaking at Simcoe some time ago, said there was nothing in the Pacific Scandal business that he would not do over again. He says the same thing now of all his other tricks and doings.—St. Thomas Journal.

—It is reported from Quebec that Sir Alexander Galt is of the same opinion as Sir Francis Hincks in reference to the conduct of the Lieutenant-Governor, and that he will support the Joly Administration.

—The Opposition whips are credited with saying that they will keep the House sitting till May in order to prevent a too early appeal to the country. This rather contrasts with the professed eagerness of the party to go to the polls. Of late less has been said on that point.—Ottawa Correspondence.

—We can fully endorse what is said by an Ottawa correspondent about Dr. Orton, when he states that "he is not nearly as popular as he was a year ago, as the farmers find out that he has humbugged them." It was significant that he was allowed, during the year, to speak at but one Tory pic-nic.—Guelph Mercury.

—Sir John has no conviction on the subject of the tariff, but has been speaking at one place for "incidental protection," and at the next city for the Chinese-wall system, just as the taste of the local Opposition demanded while his lieutenants have been advocating "agricultural protection." Previously who is to be benefitted by the "national policy" we cannot see.—N. Y. World.

East York must be a queer constituency, at least there must be a lamentable lack in it of half respectable Tories. It seems they have accepted Alfred Boultbee—foisted on them probably by the U. E. Club—as their standard bearer in the forthcoming election for the Commons. Decent men must be scarce in that constituency, when a nondidate had to be chosen who was sent to Coventry in the Local House, and whose misconduct forced him to absent himself for a whole session.

It is said that the reason Mr. Plumb so persistently pulls himself forward as a leader of the Conservative party is because, last summer he advanced large sums of money to pay the expenses of the pic-nic excursions indulged in by Sir John Macdonald and others. he holds the written acknowledgements of the U. E. Club for repeated advances, and, it is understood, has in writing the promise of a Senatorship should he be defeated at the next election and should his party return to power. Be this as it may, he has some secret hold on the heads of the party which they cannot shake off.—[Ottawa Cor. Hamilton Times.

It is not often that Parliamentary debates are relieved by the exhibition of such ready wit as that shown a few evenings ago at Ottawa, during the time when Mr. Mitchell was boring the House with a long speech on the subject of the expenses of the Governor-General in British Columbia. Several sharp encounters had already taken place between the speaker and other members, and the member for Northumberland was become somewhat testy. After one of several he had addressed the chair, which he called out sharply across the House: "Who was it that heard it?" and the answer, "It was only an echo," promptly given, was greeted with a burst of cheers in which even the Speaker, with a laugher.

DOMESTIC NOTES.

Cleaning Knives.—Vinegar and fruit stains upon knives can be taken off by rubbing the blades with raw potato, and then polishing on the knife-board in the usual manner.

To Make Boots Waterproof.—Yellow beeswax, Burgundy pitch and turpentine, of each two ounces; boiled linseed oil, one pint. Apply to the boots with the hands before the fire till well saturated.

A Taste in Season.—If the corner of a carpet gets loose, prevents the door opening, or trips every one up who enters the room, nail it down at once. A dog-eared carpet marks the slovenly as well as the dog-eared book.

Ants.—If ants are numerous among jam and jelly pots, take a large sponge, wet it in cold water, squeeze it nearly dry, and then sprinkle white sugar over it. Place it on the infested shelf, and next morning dip it quickly and carefully into a bowl of boiling water. Repeat the operation, and in due time you will be free from the pests.

To Prevent the Condensing of Moisture.—By wiping the glasses of optical instruments and of mirrors used as field instruments with a cloth dipped in glycerine, no deposition of moisture takes place on the sudden transition from a warm to a cold locality, and the cloudiness is thus prevented. The glycerine absorbs any moisture that may form, and keeps the instrument clear.

Breakfast Rolls.—Mix one-half of an ounce of sifted white sugar in two pounds of finest flour, make a hole in the centre and put in about two tablespoonfuls of fresh yeast, mixed with a little water; let it stand all night; in the morning add the yolks of two eggs, a piece of butter the size of a walnut, and sufficient warm milk (about thirteen or fourteen); bake half an hour in a brisk oven.

Prevention is a preventive of decay, in a degree; it is well, therefore, to pepper hung joints. Powdered charcoal is still more remarkable in its effect. It will not only keep the meat over which it is sprinkled good, but will remove the taint from already decayed flesh. A piece of charcoal boiled in the water with "high" meat or fowls will render it or them quite sweet. A piece of charcoal or powdered charcoal should be kept in every larder. Game, after being smoked, may be kept for any length of time packed in powdered charcoal.

Paste for Scrap-Book.—A lady asks how to make a good paste for a scrap-book. We always use starch. On wash days there is always enough thick starch left, or sticking to the sides of the pan to last through the week for paste. If wanted in large quantities, of course starch would be expensive, but we have made several large picture scrap-books with this starch as well as the dog-eared book.

To Stiffen Collars and Cuffs.—Take clear starch, scrape into it some floor wax or spermaceti, which can be procured in any drug store, and mix with cold water; then pour boiling water in it until it is thick enough; boil a few minutes, then rub the starch good into the collars, then let them dry; then a few hours before you are ready to iron, take a teaspoonful of starch and dissolve it in cold water, about a pint, then dip the collars in it and ring out, roll in a dry cloth, and when you get ready to iron do not have the iron too hot, and iron perfectly dry.

Mrs. H. W. Beecher says that for sweeping carpets she has found nothing so safe and serviceable as moistened bran. Instead of stopping to clean the broom every few minutes, sweeping the carpets with bran not only cleans the carpets, frees it almost entirely from dust, but keeps the broom clean at the same time. It must be moistened only enough to hold the particles together. If too wet, there are the same objections as to each of the various ways above mentioned. It will leave the carpet so damp that the dust which will settle over it will clean it. Besides it makes the work much harder, because the bran becomes heavy with much moisture. Distribute the bran evenly over the floor, and then sweep as usual. The bran scours or cleans the whole fabric. Very little dust is made when sweeping with it, and scarcely any settles after the work is accomplished, because every thread, bit of paper, lint or dust, is gathered into mass of bran that is moved over the floor, and is so thoroughly incorporated with it that it cannot be easily separated. Carpets swept in this manner gather very little dust, as will be plainly seen whenever they are taken up for shaking.

SCIENTIFIC AND MEDICAL.

A remedy for poison-ivy—bran poultice.

A gargle of sulphur and water has been used with success in some cases of diptheria.

Ringworms may be cured by an application daily of vinegar, in which an old fashioned copper penny has lain a day or two.

Acute Cure for a Penny.—Five or six drops of strong Nitric Acid given in a little gum mucilage every two hours, until sixty drops have been taken, is sufficient to break the fever and restore health.

Carbolic acid is recommended for moistening the tools with which metals are worked. The duty of the grindstone is even said to be increased by the use of the acid. The dark and impure acid can be used for this purpose.

Ready Relief from Pain.—Alcohol, one quart; gum guaiac, one ounce; gums myrrh and camphor, and cayenne pulverised, of each, one ounce. Mix. Shake occasionly for a week, and let settle. Apply freely to surface pains, or it may be taken in teaspoondose for internal pains.

To Find a Seat of Inflammation.—A correspondent recommends persons who have horses suffering from inflammation in the joints or muscles to apply cold water to the supposed parts; the seat of the trouble will be found where the moisture dries off the quickest.

Laughter.—In his "Problem of Health," Dr. Greene says there is not the remotest corner or little inlet of the minute blood-vessels of the human body that does not feel some wavelet from the convulsions occasioned by good, hearty laughter. The life principle, or the centeral man, is shaken to its innermost depths, sending new ideas of life and strength to the surface, thus materially leading to insure good health to the persons who indulge therein. The blood moves more rapidly and conveys a different impression to all the organs of the body, as it visits them on that particular mystic journey when the man is laughing, from what it does at other times.

Hints for Sleeping.—Grown persons generally require seven hours sleep in summer, and eight in winter; few, indeed, except invalids, will fail to sleep well who go to bed at a regular early hour, on a light supper, in a large room, and clean comfortable bed. If there is no sleeping in the day time, and not more than seven hours in bed. Our every twenty-four will prove this. Children, within faithful trial school or engaged drive, and all persons at all the sleep they in hard study, should take to bed at a regular hour. Every business will make it a religious duty to arrange every child shall go to bed in an offenand lying and glad spirit. If wakeful during the night, get up, draw on the stockings, throw back the bed cover to air it, walk the floor in your nightgown, with the mouth closed, all the while rubbing the skin briskly with both hands, until cooled off and a little tired. Except from August first to October first, in favor and ague localities, a chamber window should be open two or three inches at least.

It is stated that the race between Ross and Hanlan is to take place in St. John's on July the 15th. Hanlan's backers have agreed to the terms proposed.

There is little doubt the British iron fleet taken collectively, both as regards weight of armament and defensive power, is a match for the joint naval forces of all the rest of the world.

The Hamilton Times remarks that it does not speak very well for Mr John's prospects at the next election in Kingston that he is already mentioned as a candidate for a Manitoba constituency.

The Orangemen have asked the Government for protection on the 12th of July. If they do not receive it they threaten to send 10,000 men to Montreal. This is loud talk. —Montreal True Witness.

The New Model School at Madoc was recently destroyed by fire. The cause of the fire was that some boy while playing in an adjoining barn, dropped a match in the hay. Loss $1,000, and no insurance.

A Brough of Promise case is on the docket for hearing at the forthcoming assizes at Cobourg. The defendant is a well-to-do young farmer, and the plaintiff a Miss Hotchinson. Damages are laid at $3,000.

A young cow, 21 months old, belonging to Mr. James Pickard, Blanchard, Ont., gave birth last week to a calf which is quite a curiosity. It (or they) have two distinct bodies, being only attached at the hips; two heads, six legsand two tails.

The temperance body is no more responsible for Mr. Rice's offence than is the moderate, moral, and circumspect drinker for the thousands of revolting crimes daily perpetrated under the influence of alcohol. Let every tub stand on its own bottom.—Montreal Star.

On Friday evening last, Mr. Bowell, in the absence of Mr. Haggerty, moved in the House of Commons the second reading of a Bill aiming to return to the pestilence in the Kingston Election case, his deposit of $1,000. The Bill was objected to, and again stood over for consideration.

Sixty thousand commercial travellers are employed by the wholesale merchants of the United States, at an over age annual expense of $3,000 at least, making the aggregate the enormous sum of $180,000,000. There is a move among some of the prominent merchants to do away with the system.

Iowa has been trying the abolition of the death penalty for some years, and doesn't like it. Murders have grown more frequent, and the knowledge that the murderers wouldn't be hung, with the chance that they would be pardoned out in a few years, has stimulated Lynch law, which has become alarmingly prevalent.

Notice is given that the semi-annual examinations to be held in June of the present year, for candidates desiring to be admitted as cadets to the Military College, Kingston, will commence at the headquarters of the several military districts, on Tuesday, 18th of that month, the medical examinations being held the day previous.

Brought to a fine point, the Tory theory of protecting to sugar refining simply means that the people of the Dominion shall only be able to get eight pounds of sugar for a dollar instead of 10 or 12, in order that a few refiners in Montreal and Halifax may accumulate for times. This kind of "legislating for the masses" may be a benefit to the whole country but we fail to see it.

A resident of Guelph, Ont., living on the corner of Waterloo and Grant streets, has a hen that has made her mark in the world as an early bird, and has delighted its owner. The hen was hatched in July last—seven months ago, and distinguished itself by hatching out a brood of chickens on its own account on Thursday. The owner would like to hear of smarter birds if there are any.

It has been said that fewer children are born of American parentage in New York than in any other city of the continent. The reason is that begetters of children are frowned upon by landlords, boarding-house keepers, and maids-of-all-work, until one of the first laws of nature appears to be a social crime. The possession of small children seems to be untoched audacity or an indecency, if not a mixture of both.—[Chicago Tribune.

In 1873 the number of miles operated on the Intercolonial was 345, and the cost of operating them $1,016,992.60, being at the rate of about $2,950 per mile. That was under the late Administration. In 1876 the present Administration managed 765 miles of the same road, the cost being $1,061,675.86, or an average cost per mile of about $3,320, being some $720 less per mile than the cost under the old government. So says the Ottawa Free Press.

The "Skirmishing Fund" over which O'Donovan Rossa presides is managed after a style that would gladden the heart of Sir John. No one must know how it is spent; nor must the operations of the "Skirmishers" be enquired into, as publicity would be fatal to the cause. All that is to be done by the patriotic is to send in their money, and, repose full confidence in the men into whose pockets it goes. They will spend it for "the good cause," but in what way none but themselves are to know.

By unearthing another of Sir John Macdonald's most flagrant iniquities Mr. Dyer has drawn down upon himself the wrath of the Tory press, which his for him an especial fear as hatred. This is the way the London Free Press speaks of him: "Dyer, send of the Globe, may be described as a half headed want on the nose of the first carpet." Could anyone, after this unanswerable argument, deny that Mr. Dymond's course has been most reprehensible, and that Sir John is a pure minded statesman?—[Woodstock Sentinel.

It was a foolish miscalculation of means to evade the time Orange mob at Toronto to burn and sack the and strong to suppress that wretched murderous mob, Rome. Only about a hundred persons went to hear his lecture? which was in fact a miserable failure, and still fewer would have patronized him if the Canadians had had the good sense not to make such a fuss over him. It is upon such mercy lence that demagogues of his stamp contain themselves. Treated to the silent contempt they deserve, they would speedily disappear from the earth, or degenerate to their natural level in the economy of nature—that of tramps and paupers.—[Detroit Daily News.

The news which reaches us to-day from Rome that Pope Leo. XIII. is really negotiating a new "method of life" with the Italian Government, and that he intends to leave the Vatican and occupy the beautiful Papal residence at Castel Gandolfo when the season of the Roman effluvia comes, confirms and completes the many intimations already given that with his pontificate a new era in the history of the Catholic Church is about to begin. It is of itself the dawn of a new day when we see a patrician, a poet and a pontifical accountant of the highest order mounting the throne of the papacy and wielding the keys of St. Peter.—[N. Y. PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Films, and Weakness of the Visual from any cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and Old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Pettit's American Eye-Salve," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TICDOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often proves to CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

THE QUEBEC CRISIS.

The Tories seem utterly at a loss to know what to do or say in connection with the overturn of the De Boucherville administration. It seems hard for them to cavil and deny the right of the Sovereign, or her representative, to choose or dismiss his advisers—a prerogative the crown has possessed from time immemorial, and which all Reformers still admit. In fact the position of the political parties are completely reversed. In 1843 the Liberals of that day quarrelled with Governor Metcalfe because he insisted on performing certain administrative acts independently of the advice of his ministers while the Tories defended him. Now the Tories are assailing Lieutenant-Governor Letellier for dismissing advisers whom he believed to be ruining the country, and choosing others in whom he had more confidence, and whom he believed to be in the confidence of the country, while the Liberals have come to his rescue. A glance suffices to show that the Tories and not the Liberals have changed with respect to this question. The latter stand on the very ground they occupied in 1843, while the former have for the time become more than Radical. They have grown utterly revolutionary. Their utterances with respect to prerogative will yet, like chickens, come home to roost; meanwhile they have not even the poor satisfaction of gaining by this means a temporary success.

During the past few days a flood of light has been thrown on the constitutional aspect of the case by the writings of Sir Francis Hincks and of Mr. Alpheus Todd, the former is the most veteran Parliamentarian in Canada, a man of great ability, and a philosophical student of politics In two articles published in the Montreal Journal of Commerce he completely justifies, from a constitutional point of view all that Mr. Letellier has done. The latter had a perfect right to dismiss his advisers and appeal to the county against their policy so long as he was able to find new advisers willing to become responsible for his dismissal of their predecessors. In other words, so long as he differed from his Ministers on public and not personal grounds, he was, not only justified but, under the circumstances, bound to dismiss them or act unconstitutionally. Their Railway measure and Tax Bill he did not approve of and was unwilling to assent to; and as he believed they were hurrying the country into bankruptcy, he could do nothing less than call to his councils advisers who were opposed to both. On other grounds he was justified in getting rid of Mr. DeBoucherville and his colleagues. They treated him from the first with studied neglect, and went so far as to affix his name to important official proclamations, what he never saw till he saw them in print. No Governor with a particle of spirit would for a moment put up with such treatment, and it is surprising that Mr. Letellier bore up under it so long. Mr. Todd, the learned Librarian of the House of Commons, and author of the best extant work on Parliamentary Government, has just issued a pamphlet on the subject in which he lays down with great clearness the limits within which the constitutional functions of the Sovereign or his deputy must be exercised. He sums up his conclusions in a series of propositions two of which are so applicable to the Quebec situation that we quote them entire. His fourth and fifth principles are as follows :—

4. "That in order to enable a constitutional Governor to fulfil intelligently and efficiently the charge entrusted to him by the Crown, he is entitled to require—that the fullest information shall be afforded to him by his Ministers upon every matter which at any time shall be submitted for his approval; and that no policy shall be carried out or acts of Executive authority performed by his Ministers in the name of the Crown, unless the same shall have previously received his sanction."

"That while under ordinary circumstances a constitutional Governor would naturally defer to the advice of his Ministers, so long as they possess the confidence of the people, as shown through their representatives; if at any time he should see fit to doubt the wisdom or the legality of advice tendered to him; or should question the motives which have actuated his advisers on any particular occasion—so as to lead him to the conviction that their advice had been prompted by corrupt, partizan, or other unworthy motives, and not by a regard to the honour of the Crown or the welfare and advancement of the community at large—the Governor is entitled to have recourse to the power reserved to him in the Royal Instructions, and to withhold his assent from such advice. Under these circumstances he would manifestly act, not in the first instance, in opposition to the wishes of the people, but in accordance with them, as expressed by a majority, or possibly by a large majority of their representatives. But if, on reconsideration, Ministers should persist in tendering the same advice, or refuse the opportunity of his Ministers, or to dismiss them from office, and to call to his Councils a new Administration."

It has been interesting over and over again that Mr. Letellier acted as he did at the instigation of Mr. Mackenzie. There is not a shadow of proof furnished to sustain the assertions on allegation. The men who strive to indulge daily in statements so gross, and charges so unfounded, that an imputation of this kind seems the most natural thing in the world, but the country will not so regard it. If Mr. Mackenzie had interfered between Mr. Letellier and his advisers even to the extent of advising the dismissal of the latter it would have been a very improper step to take. If Quebec is ever to be raised out of the slough in which she has been plunged the reform must come from within and there is absolutely nothing to show that either Mr. Letellier or Mr. Joly has miscalculated the feelings or misread the convictions of his countrymen in making to them the appeal they have made. The finances of Quebec have fallen into a perfect muddle and the Province has been brought to the very verge of insolvency. The Stamp Tax Bill was intended to prevent a threatened deficiency, but Mr. Joly assures his fellow-citizens that he can make both ends meet by cutting down expenses and otherwise improving the administration of public affairs. If he can do this he need not fear an early dismissal from office.

THE KAMINISTIQUIA.

There has been sitting for some weeks at Ottawa a Committee of the Senate appointed for the purpose of investigating certain alleged acts of corruption and mal-administration on the part of the Premier, who, as Minister of Public Works, is officially responsible for the location of the Pacific Railway terminus on the Kaministiquia, and the transactions necessited thereby. From the line of examination and cross-examination adopted by Messrs. Aikins, Macpherson, and others, as well as from the pic-nic speeches of the Opposition leaders and the utterances of the party organs, it is manifest that for their own purposes, Mr. Mackenzie's enemies are bent on confusing the public mind by mixing up in inextricable confusion three distinct charges, and the evidence adduced in support of them. So far as we are concerned the issue shall not thus be obscured. We shall state these charges separately and point out the object in view in associating them. In the first place, then, Mr. Mackenzie is charged with selecting the wrong place as a terminus, when he preferred the Kaministiquia as a harbour to Prince Arthur's Landing; in the second, he is charged with selecting the wrong place for the railway reserve on the Kaministiquia, when he chose a part of the Fort William town plot in preference to the McKellar farm; and in the third, he is charged with paying for the land, covered by the reserve, far more than it was worth. The sting of this series of charges is, like the Scorpions' in its tail. The insinuation is that he paid an exorbitant price for the land, in order to benefit the firm of Oliver, Davidson & Co.; that in order to have an opportunity of paying them this exorbitant price, he deliberately rejected Mr. McKellar's farm, and selected the town plot; and that in order to have an opportunity of choosing the town plot, he deliberately rejected Prince Arthur's Landing, and chose the Kaministiquia as the harbour terminus of the railway.

This is the issue put fairly and squarely, without any effort at exaggeration. The object in view in associating these charges now becomes clearly apparent. A reasonable Opposition might perhaps have regarded the preference accorded to the Kaministiquia over the Landing as a mistake, a mere error of judgment on the part of Mr. Mackenzie and his professional advisers, but a malignant, unscrupulous, and unfair Opposition, could not resist the temptation to impute dishonourable, corrupt, and unpatriot motives. Similarly the preference given to the town plot over the McKellar farm might have been looked upon as an error of judgment, and treated as such, but because Mr. Adam Oliver happened to be one of the owners whose land had to be expropriated if the former spot were chosen, the temptation to say, that it was chosen because he was an owner, was too great to be resisted. And lastly, since the amount paid was determined by two valuators, one a Reformer and the other a Conservative, one a good business man, and the other both a good man of business and a land surveyor—who, had spent years in the pursuit of his calling in the vicinity of the terminus—it might have been deemed an error of judgment to pay so much for a terminus, when the land could have been forced from the owners for a smaller sum; but again the chance of imputing corrupt motives was too good to be lost, and hence all the fuss. The inherent improbability of this tissue of insinuations is so great that it would be in the last degree uncharitable to suppose that its authors believe what they allege. On the principle that it is less of an insult to call a man a knave than it is to dub him a fool, we prefer to regard Messrs. Plumb, Aikins, Macpherson and their coadjutors, as deliberately pressing charges they feel to be untrue and baseless, rather than as playing the part of honest and well-meaning ignoramuses. If they prefer the other alternative they are welcome to it, however.

As the evidence intended to substantiate the above charges has not yet been completed, while the rebutting testimony is at this writing hardly begun; we shall not attempt at present any analysis of either. In a future issue, however, we propose to return to the subject, and show from the testimony adduced by the conspirators themselves how utterly baseless their accusations are. Before closing we may add that in view of the herculean task assumed by Mr. Mackenzie, in view of the fact that he found himself surrounded by traitors in his own department, and in view of the additional labour entailed upon him as Premier, it is perfectly astonishing that his lynx-eyed and malignant personal and political foes have found so little material out of which to manufacture charges of corruption on mal-administration against him. The best test of the utter baseness and worthlessness of these men is the way in which they condone the tackle of their idol, Sir John A. Macdonald, to say nothing of the disgusting Northern Railway frauds, the Secret Service Scandal, the Moylan business, and other revelations of genuine unmistakeable corruption, there stands the great political crime of Canadian history, the Pacific Scandal. The hypocrisy of the men who profess to be unable to accept a reasonable explanation of the apparently high price paid for land for a trans-continental railway terminus, and yet swallow at a gulp and without a grimace, the gigantic and treasonable plot to sell the whole railway for the means of keeping their party in power, is beyond the power of the English language to depict.

NORTH VICTORIA.—We are gratified to be able to state that Mr. James Maclennan has accepted the nomination as candidate for the Commons tendered by the Reform Convention of North Victoria. We are confident that by good management through organization and hearty support which he is sure to get—Mr. Maclennan can even more carry the riding—by a decisive majority.—Lindsay Post.

TROUBLE IN THE CAMP.

In a late comparison of the different way in which Reformers and Conservatives go about party organization we referred quite incidentally to the danger of too great haste in these matters, as likely to prevent a proper steering of the popular voice in the selection of standard-bearers at elections. We then alluded to the hurry of the Conservatives in this County; and it would appear that they have fallen into the very pit against which they might have taken warning from the EXAMINER. Whether the unnecessary haste displayed in calling the convention at Indian River was designed or merely the result of a sort of party demoralization, we have no means of determining with certainty; but the fact remains that matters were hurried along by somebody, and that the place of meeting chosen was not the most central in the Riding by a good deal. Whatever may be the cause of haste there will at all times be found those to take advantage of it in furthering their own peculiar ends. Not only often did precipitate action preclude fair representation from all parts of the Riding, it also permitted of the placing in office, and the selection as delegates of men objectionable to the rank and file—the less busy, but more self-possessed and reflecting of the party. In such a case it was not impossible for a dictatorial member of the convention to press his peculiar views with success, and ignore the well-understood wishes of the majority in the end, as their rights were at first ignored in the composition of the gathering and the place of meeting. In spite of strong and even violent demonstrations of opposition the will of the self-constituted candidate selector of the Tory party in Peterborough prevailed, Mr. Burnham was chosen and Mr Grover rejected, though it was known that he formerly commanded even Reform votes on personal and local grounds. Even the Review itself sees the necessity of excusing the selection in the way it was made; and it therefore instances a contingency in which it may be well "to choose,—not the man "whom perhaps a majority of that Party "would individually prefer to honor with "their suffrages—not the man whom "many of them consider best entitled to "the position, on account of past services, "qualities, or fitness for the position of "standard bearer—but the man under "whose banner those entertaining similar "views as to the issues of the contest can "be best united, and who shall have least "real or supposed sins to answer for."

We had thought that the man on whom any party could best unite was he whom the majority preferred to vote for, particularly if he be one whom many consider best entitled to the position on account of past party services, good qualities and fitness. But the Review says this is not the case in the Tory party; and herein we have another difference between Reformer and Conservative.

A little further on in its apologetic article, the Review tells those whom it would fain have as the faithful followers of the Tory candidate-selector, of Peterborough, that the fact of there being "in "every constituency a greater or less number of electors whose votes are cast not "on the important issues of the contest, "but upon grounds of a personal or local "character . . . . . "cannot be entirely ignored, and must have "very great weight where two or more "candidates, otherwise equally desirable, "present themselves for the suffrages of a "Party."

This hardly squares with the loud protestations concerning "well defined principles" and "a great and live issue before the country." Probably the most honest expression of party principle is contained in the assertion :—"The one ruling aim "of our party at the present time should "and must be the selection of the men, all "things considered, who are most likely to "lead us to victory."

With the evidently personal application of many of the phrases in the Review's article we have nothing to do. We leave them to the consideration of those Conservatives at whom they are levelled.

DOMINION EXPENDITURE.

Opposition organs continue to harp on what they call the extravagance of the Reform Ministry. They complain that the public expenditure has not been reduced, not being conscious that while so doing they are tacitly admitting that the disbursements of the late Government were too great for the public good done. It is apparently admitted that the growth and development of the country, the extension of public institutions, and the prosecution of new and great public works tend to produce a steady increase in the outlay from year to year. The heavy obligations placed on the country by the late Government before they went out of office, must be fulfiled. To repudiate would be to disgrace Canada. To carry them out is the only honourable course. That they have been so far carried out honestly and faithfully, is nothing to the praise of that party which when in power got the country saddled with them, and which in opposition tried to throw every possible obstacle in the way of their fulfilment. Even now those who defended the course of the Macdonald Ministry in its reckless pledging of the country's credit and honour now complains of the cost of preserving that credit and honour under peculiar circumstances, blaming those who warned against the danger when it might have been avoided, and who have since met the difficulty their detractors brought about. The necessity of the present time requires a much larger outlay of public money than even the extravagance of Sir John's Government made in the later years of its disgraceful existence, and in spite of the legacies of debt and obligations left to be arranged for by Reformers, whom the country placed in charge of its affairs the increase in expenditure has not been so rapid as before the much needed change was made. This Conservative complaint of extravagance was pretty fully disposed of by Mr. Bertram in his late speech in the House of Commons, he showing plainly that the rates of increase has been smaller under the present, than under the late Administration; and that if the proportion of growth of expenditure under Tory rule be taken as a basis (they themselves inviting it) our actual saving has been effected by the Reform Ministry since Sir John and his followers thrifts were kicked out of office by a deceived and disgraced people. Such decrease as shown by Mr. Bertram cannot be denied; but the Opposition paper in this town makes a sort of attempt to criticise his line of argument. We say, "attempt to criticise," for the fault-finding referred to is the merest carping. The demonstration by Mr Bertram of the ruinous expenditure of Sir John Macdonald's Government is quite consistent with a defence of the moderate outlay of the Mackenzie Administration, taking the circumstances of the country into consideration. This every sensible man who considers the matter will do, and this Mr. Bertram did in his speech, entering fully and unanswerably into the merits of the case and disposing in a broad and statesmanlike manner, very unlike that of his would-be critic. In 1872 Mr. Bertram was probably as willing as now to make allowance for the admission of Provinces to the Dominion; but he nor many of his fellow-citizens were satisfied that such new-comers should be subsidized and bribed to come into the Confederation, as was the case. But the fault-finder is positively clumsy when it comes to figures, for here the attempts at criticism only result in a general admission of the decrease the coal-stroke writer vainly tries to explain away. In fact he could not have done better for Mr. Bertram in the Tory camp than thus publish the figures he has chosen. We congratulate Mr. Bertram.

EAST RIDING CONVENTION.

We again remind all Reformers of the East Riding, and all the supporters of the Present Government in that constituency, of the meeting to be held in Norwood, on Saturday, the 6th of April, at 12 o'clock noon, for the nomination of a candidate to contest the riding in opposition to Mr. Burnham, who has accepted the nomination from the "clean handed" party, who are only looking after office to enable them to remunerate their friends and pay off "those ten thousands." Mr. G. R. Patullo, secretary of the Ontario Reform Association, is expected to be present. We hope to see a large meeting of Reformers from all parts of the Riding.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE death of Mr. W. B. O'DONOGHUE, whose name is known in connection with the Northwest troubles, is announced from St. Paul, Minn.

CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.—As we go to press we learn that at the Conservative Convention held yesterday, to select candidates to contest the West Riding at the coming elections, Mr. George Hilliard received the nomination for the Commons and Mr. W. H. Scott for the Local. Both parties we believe have accepted the nominations.

IF "the eastern portion of the East Riding meets" (as the Lakefield News elegantly puts it,) "previous to the Western portion and selected the same hour, and day, and place" for the Indian River convention how comes it that the secretary in Norwood, published as his authority for inviting conservatives to that convention, a letter from Lakefield notifying him of the time and place of meeting named as an "informal meeting?"

IN its last issue the Lakefield News or patent shower-bath professes to be disgusted with the EXAMINER. We were rather glad of it; for we fully intended to disgust such Tory circulators of scandal and usurpers of popular rights as the News. Our style doesn't suit the News, we are glad of that too; for we wouldn't like to be commended by a paper that calls a contemporary a "smut machine," says it "lies," and attempts to strike at the personality of the editor. The News reference to the "Collector of Inland Revenue Editor" is a sample of impertinance, and though Mr. J. J. Hall is so good-natured that he is not likely to resent it, it is none the less an unwarrantable liberty, as well as an unprofessional piece of stupidity on the part of the News. It is a great pity that one should, while condemning another, fall grossly into the very fault denounced.

A NUMBER of the Conservative journals of this district of country, affect great horror and indignation because we referred to Sir John Macdonald as "the dishonest and drunken leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition in Canada." One calls it "shameful." So say we, it is indeed shameful that a man of such character should be retained as leader by any party, but more shameful still that he should be lauded as a hero and upheld as a model by a minister of the church. It was this shameful fact that induced us to make the strong reference we did, and which none of our horror stricken and indignant Tory contemporaries have attempted to deny. Indeed the public history of the man is the plain proof of our words; shameful though the facts may be. But we are told "the battle is not now one of personal likings or dislikings, but of certain well defined principles." We fail to see any change in the Tory system of carrying on the battle, and certainly they have never avoided an appeal to personal likings or dislikings, when they thought these would give them a party advantage. As for well defined principles, they are so scarce with the Tory leaders and the Tory press as to prevent them from understanding each other, or even following in one line for any length of time, Conservative as they purpose to be. If it be meant that the Opposition have well-defined views on the tariff question, let them promulgate them, and they will be met in the most killingly and logical manner. But instead of such one of the well defined principles they say they have, and which they severely keep to themselves, they spin platitudes concerning Sir John Macdonald, and sometimes go so far as to get a Rev. B. A., to express his "personal likings" for the knight of Pacific Scandal fame, and spree-indulging notoriety. At this we expressed our disgust, and are glad to find that the Tories would prefer the discussion of well-defined principles, such as having a respectable leader for instance.

THE COBOURG ASSIZES.

LIFE SENTENCE.—The case of the Queen vs. Robinson was disposed of on Friday before Chief-Justice Harrison. The prisoner was arraigned on the charge of outrage and aggravated assault on a Mrs. Newton, aged 66 years, both parties residing in South Monaghan. The prisoner, a young man 24 years of age, was ably defended by Hon. S. Smith, Q. C. The jury, after a short consultation, brought in a verdict of "guilty." The prisoner was sentenced to imprisonment for life in the Provincial Penitentiary. The usual sentence for such an offence is death.

THE CASTLETON TRAGEDY.—The trial of Maryn Welton, charged with having been concerned in what is known as the Castleton tragedy, was commenced at the Cobourg Assizes on Monday. The accusers of the man David Smith, convicted of abortion at the previous Assizes in connection with the case, has been commuted from a life term to twenty years' imprisonment. Smith and Cope Mallory, the seducer of the girl Alberta Wade, the victim in the tragedy, who has turned Queen's evidence, were both placed in the witness-box. After hearing evidence and addresses by both Counsel and Judge the jury fastened, but were unable to agree, seven being in favour of acquittal and five against. They were accordingly discharged, and Welton held in $2,000 bail. Cope Mallory was held in $2,000.

¶ At the London Assizes last week the tavern-keeper Mears, on trial for murder, was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment.

THE EASTERN WAR.

THE ANGLO-RUSSIAN ATTITUDE.

March 27.—A London despatch says: Considerable excitement over the threatening state of the Eastern Question has extended to the Stock Exchange, where a feverish feeling characterizes transactions. Consols have greatly declined.

A despatch from London says the Government has ordered additional horse-boats to be delivered immediately.

The Times says: To surrender the hope of the Congress is to throw away the only means of submitting the Eastern Question to a quiet consideration. To sacrifice substantial principles, even for the sake of avoiding such danger, would be to incur an equal peril. Brought to be the object of all the Governments, Russia included, to promote the meeting of the Congress.

The utterances from Berlin on the Eastern Question this morning—the first semi-official expression since the hitch in the Congress project—are entirely different from the assertions hitherto made. The Berlin Post, which prints nothing political without a purpose, and which is one of Bismarck's organ's says:—The failure of the Congress would probably result in Russia and England remaining at peace, but arming for war. These prolonged arguments England can infinitely better afford than Russia, as Russia cannot attack England while England is perfectly in a position to hide her time. The Czar will probably be driven to extend his conquests better to be prepared for a collision when it does occur, but in such a case Austria and Greece would join England to protect their interests. Germany will never fight for Russia or any other foreign interests. Russia, therefore, had better restrain her ambition.

GORTSCHAKOFF'S REPLY.

The Daily Telegraph says:—On Tuesday night Her Majesty's Government received the reply of Prince Gortschakoff. The Cabinet assembled yesterday to consider it. As our Paris correspondent states, the reply is to the effect that Gortschakoff fully understood the wish of England to take up (soulever) the conditions, and the general purport of the provisional treaty, but that from a Russian point of view he must maintain the exercise of a veto upon the discussion of those terms which are considered at St. Petersburg as out side of European jurisdiction and concern. The Telegraph adds:—The natural consequence of Russia's answer is that the Congress will not meet. A Vienna correspondent seems hopeful, and intimates that Austria is endeavouring to arrange a compromise. These sanguine views, however, conflict with the general tenor of the news. This correspondent also declares that Austria has not thought of a Congress without England, nor has such an idea been suggested elsewhere.

THE CONGRESS.

It is authoritatively stated that the European Congress scheme has absolutely failed. There is not the faintest possibility of any meeting being held.

A Vienna special to Paris reports that Andrassy informed Sir Henry Elliott that Austria would remain neutral in the event of an Anglo-Russian war.

CALLING OUT THE RESERVE.

March 29.—The situation, as depicted by this morning's despatches, seems almost to leave no hope of a pacific solution of the Anglo-Russian difficulties, and that the bursting of the storm which has so long been brewing is now only a question of days, perhaps hours. Right Hon. Gathorne Hardy, in the House of Commons, and Lord Beaconsfield in the House of Lords, announced that the aspect of affairs was such that the Government, in defence of British interests and freedom has been compelled to issue orders calling out the reserve.

All the troop-ships have been ordered to prepare for the transportation of troops on an emergency.

AUSTRIAS POSITION.

In Austria, however, a peaceful solution of the differences is not yet considered out of the question, and General Ignatieff is reported to have declared his opinion that the differences were merely a misunderstanding of words. Even all there seems some doubt as to Austria's attitude in the event of an Anglo-Russian war. It is denied that Count Andrassy ever told Sir Henry Elliott that Austria would remain neutral in case of such an event, and rumours are given currency to that the Count has only been feigning sympathy with Russia, and intends to declare for an active policy with the whole of Hungary at his back. It is further stated that while Russian prospects looked promising at the beginning of the week, they have now reassumed an uncertain aspect, as General Ignatieff speaks only of explanations instead of concessions.

GRAIN EXPORTATION FORBIDDEN

Russia has forbidden the exportation of cereals from the Lower Danube.

A St. Petersburg despatch says the Russian Government has stopped the exportation of grain from Toulcha and Kustenje, on the Black Sea.

THE BRITISH FLEET.

March 30.—General Nelidoff presented a note to the Porte requesting that the withdrawl of the British fleet from its position in the Sea of Marmora be demanded, and that the note having been handed to Mr. Layard, he replied that the fleet would remain where it was until the withdrawl of the Russian troops from the vironens of Constantinople.

THE SITUATION.

In the House of Commons yesterday Lord Bartington referred to the calling out of the reserve as an indication that the situation was one of intense gravity.

It is said that Austria has become emboldened by England's conduct, and that should her apprehensions be laid at rest it will only be by greater concessions from Russia than she was at first willing to yield. Russia is increasing her forces before Constantinople, and has requested Servia to occupy Sophia in order to allow the Muscovite soldiers to advance towards the Turkish capital.

RUSSIA'S AGGRESSION.

April 1.—A Times editorial says:—"Neither the objects Russia proclaimed at the outset, nor the events of the war, justified her advance upon Constantinople or her approach to the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles. As long as she remains in that menacing position, we shall find it necessary to retain our ships in the Sea of Marmora, and so long will peace be uncertain. It is Russia who has trespassed upon the forbearance of England, not England who has shown a lack of consideration for her. That forebearance has now been strained to its utmost limits. Nothing but necessity would induce us to assert our rights by force. Timely and temperate concession on the part of the Russian Cabinet would, without in the least compromising the interests of Russia insure the peace of Europe."

A COMPROMISE IMPOSSIBLE.

The Pall Mall Gazette of last evening said:—England and Russia are too definitely committed to positions which they have respectively assumed to allow any withdrawal. The difference is so essentially one of principle that it is impossible for any third Power to suggest an acceptable compromise. The advance of the Russian troops to the Bosphorus or on Gallipoli may be immediately expected." The Pall Mall Gazette is the property of the First Lord of the Admiralty.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

April 3.—The European situation is beginning to define itself more distinctly. The atmosphere shows signs of clearing, and the probabilities of a European war are apparently diminishing, the action of Austria having completely turned the scale in favour of the English demands. And in the meantime Russia, completely taken aback by the exorbitant character of Austria's demands, is pressing her game of fast and loose by turning from Austria to England in the hope of coming to an understanding with the latter. Lord Salisbury's circular has greatly increased the friendly feeling of Austria towards England, and it is felt at Vienna that Austria must support England's demand for a full discussion of the provisions of the treaty with a view to important modification therein. The Roumanian hostility to the treaty grows apace, and Servia, despite the orders from Russian headquarters, evinces a decided leaning towards Austria.

A proclamation is published in London ordering the reserves to assemble on or before the 15th inst.

Snow Ploughing.—The Council this year, if we are to judge from their remarks last Monday evening, are determined to control the accumulations on streets and bridges, especially the [illegible] miles.

Baptist Church.—Rev. Dr. Davidson, of Guelph, will preach in the Baptist Church here, on Sabbath morning and evening. On Monday evening at 7:30 he will deliver an address on the Mission Fields south of the Ocean.

Early Sowing.—Mr. Thomas Wilson, of North Monaghan, commenced ploughing on the 25th March, and sowing on the 1st of April. From present appearances the latter will be pretty nearly finished by the remainder towards the middle of the week.

Runaway.—Yesterday afternoon a team belonging to Mr. Robert White, while attached to the "bus" took fright and ran away, tearing down a fence, and wrecking other things which they came in contact. The "bus" is but slightly injured.

Social.—We have been requested to announce that a literary and musical entertainment will be given in the Temperance Hall, under the auspices of Friendship Temple, on the Tuesday evening next. Proceeds in aid of the organ fund. Admission 15 cents.

Vennor's Lecture.—Mr. Vennor concludes a letter to the Montreal Star as follows:—"The 'probabilities,' then, I point to in this communication, chiefly are: Heavy rains and frequent thunderstorms; a rapid rise of streams and rivers towards the middle of May, and high waters throughout the summer.

Horses for England.—A million sterling has been appropriated by the British Government for the purchase of horses in Canada. The horses are to climb not less than 600 and not more than 800 each. Mr. James Walsh has some very fine horses which he has purchased for the English market, and intends shipping them in a few days.

The Police Court.—During the past week the Police Court authorities have had a busy time, owing to the number of assault cases coming before them. On Friday John Donoghue, James McNamarra, Peter Deignan, Robert Trowsith and Thos. Morris, were, on information of Robert Stewart and E. Irwin, cast up for trial for an assault committed upon them on Wednesday night.

Fire Alarms.—The Council at their last meeting adopted the report of Fire Committee recommending the placing of fire alarms upon the bells of St. John's and St. Peter's Churches, the Bay Mason Book and Lynch having given their permission. This will be agreat benefit in case of fire, as from the situation of the present bell, residence in the suburbs are frequently unable to hear alarms.

W. J. Wallace, Lakefield, while in Toronto last week succeeded in getting some special bargains in plain and fancy Dress Goods, from 10c to 40 cts. per yard, Black Lustres from 15c to 60 cts., Prints from 5 to 15 cts., Cottons from 5 cts., Cotton Shirtings from 10 to 35 cts., Ladies Umbrellas from 60 cts. to $2.50, Stockings and Gloves from 10 cts., Also a nice lot of ladies mantles very cheap. Inspection invited. 14 Mar.

Base Ball.—The young men attending the Collegiate Institute have organized a base ball club to play during the summer months. They do not intend confining themselves to ball playing alone, but will engage in general athletic sports. The following is a list of officers:—Captain, Robert Scobie; Secretary, J. M. Cameron; Treasurer, J. W. Pullin; Committee—A. Tymon, W. Hill, A. Collins, E. Wood, J. A. Fife.

The Hand.—Now that the summer season is approaching would it not be well for some of our citizens to arrange for some suitable place—either the Court House Park or the Agricultural Grounds—where the Band could give open air rehearsals once a week during the season, as in days of yore. These rehearsals were a source of much pleasure formerly, and now that our Band has gained any stage ahead it would be taken to enable them to afford enjoyment to our citizens. It is useless to expect the Band to furnish both rehearsal grounds. Who will move in this matter?

Odd Fellowship.—On Monday evening last a number of the members of "Peterborough" Lodge No. 111, attended a special meeting of Anchor Lodge, Lakefield, at Bert Hope, [illegible] by Bro. Underhill, of London, M. W. G. R. of Ontario. After the business of the evening was concluded, the visiting brethren from the District were entertained to a supper at the Queen's Hotel, by the members of Durham Lodge, Port Hope. After Justice had been done to the bountiful meal the usual toasts on such occasions were proposed and responded to. The party separated about the wee sma' hours.

Squatter Club.—At the annual meeting of the Peterborough Snaring Club the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, S. S. Stevenson; Vice-President, E. J. Taylor; Captain, G. C. Rogers; Committee—[illegible], Honeyside, Hall, Eaton and [illegible]. The Club are making the necessary arrangements for [illegible] on Monday, 24th May. In the Agricultural grounds, and in the evening a promenade concert and gymnastic exhibition will be given, when the presentation of prizes will take place. The condition of the best rooks will take place on the 2nd instant.

The Fire Company.—The members of the Fire Brigade have been meeting together and expressing their indignation at the method adopted by the Council this year, of [illegible] Chief and Assistant Engineers. A copy of these resolutions was presented to the Council on Monday evening, and by them referred to the Fire Committee. The Brigade therefore to resign en masse at the end of the year, if the council do not reconsider their action. [illegible] by the letter of receiving orders only from their officers. We should like to know what's "reasoning" to offer—the Brigade or the Council?

Bible in the Streets.—The Montreal Star complains that it is constantly receiving applications to circulate handbills by enclosing them in the papers, and rises to remark that it doesn't do that kind of business, and that intending applicants may save themselves the time and trouble involved in making the application. There isn't a paper in the country that isn't annoyed in the same manner, by persons who are not willing to pay for legitimate advertising but who want to employ what they consider a better medium at a lower rate. The press generally should take this stand and refuse to encourage a practice at once troublesome and contrary to the post office regulations.

Canada at Paris.—A Paris correspondent writes:—"Most of the Canadian contributions have arrived, and some of them are already in place. The exhibit will be very similar to that shown by the Dominion at the fair of 1855. There will be some improvements in the Agricultural Department; the display of native woods will be rather finer; and there are, I believe, more exhibitors than at Philadelphia. The Canadians are displeased because they did not succeed in obtaining more space, and have appointed a Canadian Commissioner to remain on the spot behalf. Canada is an [illegible] of thinking that those here, and in some classes of exhibits her rewards will certainly be substantial."

The City Clothing Store.—Mr. H. LeBrun has now on hand one of the largest stocks in town, of cloths, tweeds, gents' furnishings and ready made clothing, and of which we would advise an inspection by those requiring clothing of any description. As Mr. LeBrun makes a specialty of this business he is enabled to devote his sole attention to the selection of the leading styles in clothing, and is consequently prepared at all times to take advantage of the markets, which benefit he gives to his patrons. He has this season secured the services of Mr. T. Lawrence, late of Montreal, a cutter who has been long connected with the leading clothing establishment of that city. Gents can therefore depend upon getting their garments cut in the latest city styles, and made up in the best manner.

Landlords and Tenants.—The Ontario Legislature has passed a Bill on this subject which is of importance to the tenant. Heretofore landlords had the power to go in and sell everything; and the tenant lost everything for rent due and payable. Now the tenant must have forty-eight hours' notice of the landlord's intention to sell the goods and chattles for rent; when the tenant can give notice that he will give up possession, and the landlord is then precluded from selling anything that is exempt by law. This provision will be the means of saving to the tenant indeed to many tenants, a large amount of their household stuff. There will no doubt be "tricky" tenants to bother and cheat their landlords, from time to time, but this bill does not go too far in the way of protection to the tenant class.

Words Fitly Spoken.—A correspondent of a New York paper writes these true words:—"And here it comes in—that everybody should write for the paper. The local paper [illegible] is the best educator extant. It can perform no higher service for the human race than to induce old and young to contribute regularly. Writing gives facility in expression, [illegible] observation, fixes [illegible] on with facts and principles and gives mankind the best there is to offer. Geometrical and rhetorical commonplace deserve no quarter, but any man who has something useful to communicate, and says it short, deserves profound thanks. Editors who correct manuscripts earn their money, and a vast deal of gratitude besides. Inexperienced writers should always keep a copy of their manuscript, and carefully compare them with the revision."

A Dead Rest!—The following paragraph appears in one of our exchanges. We wonder if this is the same person who lost fall during the Dunkin By-law campaign championed the cause of the "Antis" in this town, posing under the name of "Capt. T. O. Bridgewater"—one of the gallant "six hundred." His "gallantry" however, did not induce him to pay his bills, as several of our business men know to their sorrow:—

"On or about the 22nd of February, an individual calling himself F. T. Bridgewater, called on several of our hotel keepers soliciting subscriptions to the Toronto Observer, a newspaper edited at Toronto, in the interests of the Anti-Prohibitists and Licensed Victuallers. He obtained quite a number of subscriptions of the cash, and after beating his hotel bills departed. Days lengthened into weeks and still no paper arrived, and one of the parties becoming able to smell a rat, wrote to Toronto from which place he ascertained that Bridgewater was a fraud, and that he with his friends had been victimized. The jester also stated that a warrant has for some time been lying at Toronto for Bridgewater who is [illegible] "dead beat."

TOWN COUNCIL.

Large Number of Street Improvements Asked for—Appropriation for Streets and Bridges—Reports of Committees—Watering the Streets—Fire Alarms.

Council met on Monday evening pursuant to adjournment. Present.—His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors Cahill, McMain, Smith Orsond, Paterson, Yelland, Douglas, Rutherford, Deane, Carlisle and Millar.

Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From John Jeffers, complaining of the reckless manner in which the funeral cards of the late Robert Jeffers had been mutilated and destroyed, and asking the Council to take action in the matter.—Referred to the Constables to investigate and report.

From Rev. E. Roberts, Secretary of the Ministerial Association of Peterborough, asking what use the town intended to make of the old burying ground, should it be given to them.—Received.

From J. Carnegie, enclosing a resolution from the Town Trust Commissioners asking for debentures of $20,000 to retire a like amount falling due on the 1st of May, 1878.—Referred to Finance Committee.

From the Chief and Assistant Engineers of the Fire Department, the following:

To the Mayor and Town Council:

We have inspected the Fire Department and we find it in good condition. We recommend that new couplings be placed on the leather hose the same as that which is on the rubber hose. We find it a great inconvenience at a fire in coupling the rubber and leather hose together, and sometimes causes a great deal of trouble and delay. There is 250 feet of leather hose laying in the engine house, and there is a great deal of trouble in getting them to a fire if wanted, for the want of a hose cart to reel them on, and we recommend that a two wheeled hose cart be purchased for the Fire Department, there is nine hose keys in use, and we recommend that one dozen more be purchased as the others are not sufficient.

It is our opinion that there should be more protection provided against fires, either in purchasing a new steam fire engine, or building local water works. We mentioned this in case of an accident happening to our present steam fire engine, and should there be an accident happen at a fire it would cause a great deal of trouble, and perhaps a great loss of property.

G. L. MITCHELL,
J. C. KENNEDY.

Referred to Fire Committee.

From John McGee, asking the Council to pay him the price of two suits of uniforms over the consent of his salary.—Referred to Finance Committee.

PETITIONS.

From Jas. Stevenson, stating that he would furnish the water supply for the street this year for $800.—Received.

From John McDonald, stating that he had erected a house on the line of Lock street, south of [illegible] street, removing it to be a portion of [illegible] leased by him. He asked the Council to allow him to remain on the property to him.—Referred to the Street Inspector.

From L. Dobbin, Secretary of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, transmitting a resolution passed at the last meeting of the Brigade, complaining of the manner in which the Engineers had been appointed, and tendering their resignation in the event of the Council not reconsidering the matter.—Referred to Fire Committee.

From Robert Renahan, asking for the grading of Dalhousie and Sherbrooke streets in accordance with profile made some years ago.—Received.

From W. H. Moore, and several others, asking that that portion of George street lying between Sherbrooke and Wolfe be raised, and that in the event of the grading of Dalhousie and Sherbrooke being proceeded with, the gravel taken therefrom be placed on this portion of the street.—Received.

From James McFadden and others, asking to have a culvert laid on Donegal street.

From Richard F. Cook, asking for a crossing opposite his residence.

From John Cameron, in reference to corners and other nuisances in the vicinity of his dwelling.

From T. Dolan & Co. and others, asking that the stone crossings at the corner of George and Simcoe streets be replaced by plank crossings.

From Henry Best and a large number of others, asking that the watering of the streets be proceeded with this year under the same arrangement as last year, viz: that the town pay for the water and those within the Rating for laying it on, and Archibald Richard O'Dea be said to be employed at $600, he having given satisfaction last year.

From the Widow Welch, asking to be relieved from payment of her taxes.

From John Hall, asking to be allowed to fence in a portion of Water street in front of his property.

From Wm. Davidson, asking to have the grading of McDonnel and Hobson streets completed with.

From Wm. Dundis and others, asking for a new sidewalk.

From Wm. Crate and Samuel Reay, asking to have a new sidewalk laid down on the east side of Hunter street between London and Dublin streets.

From Wm. James and others, asking to have Dalhousie street graded.

From James Bird and others, stating that they required the opening of Lake street to the water's edge, and objecting to its disposal.

From H. T. Brown, asking to have the time for the payment of his taxes extended to the 1st of May.

In addition to Committee minutes and petitions for street improvements were for the present received.

The petitions in reference to taxes were referred to the Finance Committee and the Collector.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR STREETS AND BRIDGES.

Moved by Councillor Smith, seconded by Councillor McMain,—That the sum of three thousand dollars be and is hereby appropriated for repairs and improvements on the streets, to be performed during the present year, and the Street Inspector be and is hereby instructed to expend the said moneys so that all streets of the town requiring repairs and improvements may receive an equitable proportion thereof, and all applications for repairs and improvements on said account be referred to the Street Inspector with power to call Aldermen together at the approval of this Council.

Councillor Carlisle in submitting the resolution stated economy in this department this year, and said as there would be a deficiency in revenue from the loss of taxes, economy should be exercised in all departments. Last year $2,500 was appropriated and this sum would have been sufficient had it not been for new work.

Councillor Rutherford thought $3,000 too low an estimate. He objected to the source from which the estimate came, and moved in amendment that the motion be referred to the Finance Committee.

Councillor Orsond seconded the amendment, believing the estimate too low, and though the Finance Committee better able to deal with the matter than private members.

Councillor Millar thought the Council should have the controlling of the work.

Councillor McMain favored making the appropriation low, as at present the cry of high taxes was heard from one end of the town to the other.

Councillor Cahill thought the motion out of order as it involved an expenditure of money, and asked Councillor Smith to lay it over as a notice of motion.

STREET INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

During the discussion the Street Inspector handed in a report, which, on motion was read. The report was as follows:—

I beg leave to report on the state of some of the streets of the town.

1. In answer to the petition of John Spence and others, asking for sidewalk on Park street, I think the prayer should be granted, I think about one hundred dollars would grade and lay the sidewalk.

2. King street from Aylmer to the bridge wants gravelling and water tabling.

3. Aylmer street from Wolfe to Perry wants gravelling, and Aylmer street at Dublin street wants widening.

4. Reid Street, north of Dublin street, wants gravelling and a good water-table on the east side.

5. Downey street, north of Dublin, where the drain is, wants cribbing or something done to protect the street.

6. The Commercialism Road as far as the Corporation extends, wants gravelling.

7. The River Road from the Port Hope Railway Crossing north on far as the Corporation extends wants gravelling and a water-table on the west side and a good culvert to carry the water across to the river.

8. And the road on the Hudson Reserve wants repairing and the bridges rebuilt, as they are in their present state dangerous for teams to cross.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

GEORGE JOHNSTON,
Street Inspector.

Councillor Smith commented to allow his motion to stand over as a notice of motion.

All petitions were referred to the Street Inspector to report at the next meeting of the Council.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Donaldson, as Chairman of the Committee on Appointments, reported verbally that no one subject of importance had been referred to them, namely, that complete with the teachers. As the rules of order would bear supervision on this the Committee did not think it advisable to report accordingly.

RULES OF REFERENCE.

Mr. Shaw said the matter of processing books of reference had been before the Committee several times but no action was taken in the matter, for want of information. A list of the books needed was handed him now by the Principal, and on looking over it he thought they would be of much service to the pupils of the school.

Moved by Mr. Donaldson, seconded by Mr. McClelland,—That the report of the Principal in reference to the books of reference, be referred to the Finance Committee with power to act, provided that the cost be not over $[illegible].

PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

General Repairs.—The report recommended the repairing of the fences, the grading of the yard, the fixing of the water pipes and the necessity of the cleaning and repairing of the water closets, as well as a lot of minor repairs to work. They also recommend the removal of the stable lately occupied by the Janitor, and the proper cleaning of the yards, and that all fowls and cows and animals be at once removed and the nuisance properly disinterred. They also recommend the removal of the Janitor from out of the Central School building, and that the rooms occupied by him be remodelled, and fitted up for school purposes, thereby giving accommodation for about one hundred children; they submit to the Board to have the opinion and estimate of the City of a competent building and that Mr. Ernett be appointed to confer with the City Engineer and Surveyor in reference to the same. Your report also recommends the purchase of a piece of land in the rear of the Central School, and other alterations in the arrangements of the Mechanics' room, where about 60 children are daily crowded. A resolution for repairs from Mr. T. Rendse was submitted.

On motion to receive the report, Mr. McClelland said that in addition to that already said he would like to see a Board of Order to preside for the Board going into a Committee of the Whole so that the report could be taken up, clause by clause and thoroughly discussed.

The report was laid over till the Rules of Order were adopted.

MEMORIALIZING MINIST.

On motion of Mr. Donaldson, seconded by Mr. Romaine, the Chairman and Secretary were authorized to borrow the sum of $5,000 from the Bank of Montreal or other chartered banks, for the purpose of meeting the expenditure of the year, awaiting the receipt of moneys from the town.

STANDING RULES OF ORDER.

Mr. Ernett read the report of the committee appointed to draft the Standing Rules of Order and recommending the passing of a By-law confirming the same.

The Board went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading of the By-law. After a great deal of discussion and considering the several clauses were passed after some amendments had been made. The Committee then rose and reported progress.

It being after 11 o'clock, Mr. Edwards left the Board, and as there was not a quorum remaining the members separated.

The Tick of the Clock at Midnight

"Tick-tock" is the chief [illegible]
Sounding startingly clear,
Like the click of a revolved pistolon
Made audible to the ear.
Through the house reigns a death-like silence,
The death-like silence of sleep,
While the fragments of time, like meteors,
Pass flashing across the deep.
From the coming eternity rushing,
They illume for a moment our sky,
But no power can stay their progression;
They vanish as soon as nigh.
They touch on the hour of the watcher,
And utter these words in his ear:
"Can ye not watch for one hour,
And our swift-[illegible]
We are God's messengers [illegible]
With swift [illegible]
And we speak [illegible]
Of the quiet dead-hush of the night.
Remember we carry our messages,
Of what ye are doing on earth,
To the Bountiful Father in heaven,
Who endowed you with souls at your birth.
What are ye doing, oh, mortals!
" With [illegible] gift of a soul?
[illegible] are your present [illegible]
[illegible] is the height for you?
Pleasure, and power, and riches,
Leisure and freedom from care—
Is it for these you are striving?
Such strivings must end in despair.
Like a butterfly crushed in the grasping,
So pleasure is crushed when caught,
And power must end in weakness,
And riches must end in nought;
While indolent leisure ties banking,
Sleepily, sickishly clad,
Till the adder of conscience stings it,
And the viper doth it spoil.
Soon the dawn will shrink the horizon,
And herald the fateful day;
Prepare! Lo, the kingdom of heaven
Approacheth! Watch and pray!"

PRESBYTERY MEETING.

Regular Quarterly Session of the Peterborough Presbytery.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough, was held last Tuesday and Wednesday, in St. Andrew's Church, in this town. Present—Rev. Messrs. White, (Moderator pro tem) Bennett, (Clerk,) Cleland, Donald, Windell, Ewing, Clark, Cameron, Andrews, McWilliam, Fotheringham, McKay, Torrance, Bell, and Hadden; and the following Elders:—Messrs. Tully, Haig, Sanderson, Little, Hogue, Smith, Hall and Carnegie.

The Rev. Dr. Robb, of Toronto, being present, was requested to sit with Presbytery.

The minutes of last meeting were read, and, after amendment, were confirmed.

It was reported that the congregations of Bobonygeon and Dunsford had been declared vacant.

HOME MISSIONS.

Mr. Bennett read reports from [illegible] Home Mission Fund of the Presbytery, and it was agreed to apply for the amounts and missionary required.

On motion of Mr. McKay a committee consisting of Messrs. Bell, Torrance and Clark, was appointed to confer with Mr. Robertson, a member of the Coldsprings congregation, who wished to be recognized as a Catechist, and to be reported to the Home Mission Committee for employment. At a subsequent stage of the proceedings the committee reported most favorably with regard to Mr. Robertson and his application was granted accordingly.

THE MINDEN MISSION.

Mr. McKay reported with regard to the Minden Mission, stating that after paying in conjunction with Mr. McDonald the sum of $14 for the purposes of that Mission, he had now on hand the sum of about $52 which he had not forwarded for reasons which he stated and he now moved that the Presbytery retain in the meantime in its own possession the money collected towards liquidating the debt on the Minden manse, and also that the trustees of the said manse be requested to send a copy of the deed to the Clerk of the Presbytery with certificate of registration. Agreed to.

The Presbytery agreed to make application for $3 for Minden field instead of $2 per week as heretofore from Home Mission Fund.

CALL FROM WOODSTOCK.

In the matter of the call from Woodstock to Mr. McKay, of Baltimore, the call and other papers were laid on the table by the Clerk, and after Rev. Mr. Donald, of Port Hope, and Mr. Watson, of Woodstock, were heard in support of the call, and very large deputations of Coldsprings and Baltimore against the same, the call was put into Mr. McKay's hands, who, in reply, said that after much deliberation, and with not a little hesitation, he had arrived at the conclusion that it was his duty to accept the call from Woodstock.

On motion of Mr. Bell, the translation was granted.

Mr. McWilliams was appointed Moderator of the sessions of Baltimore and Coldsprings, and Messrs. Bennett, Donald and Cleland to prepare a suitable minute to be entered on the minutes of Presbytery with reference to Mr. McKay.

On motion of Mr. Carnegie, the Presbytery agreed to adjourn from half-past six to half-past eight o'clock.

Mr. McKay handed in a statement of certain expenses incurred by him in the performance of Presbytery duties which was ordered to be paid.

DELEGATES TO GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Presbytery then proceeded to nominate delegates to the general assembly, when the following were appointed:—Rev. Messrs. Wilson, Ewing and Windell, (by rotation), and Messrs. Bell, McWilliam and Cameron, by election; and Messrs. Sanderson (Springville,) Russel (Coldsprings,) Carnegie (Peterboro',) Fotheringham (Norwood,) Morrison (Omemee,) and Smith (Lakefield,) Elders.

RESULTS FROM ASSEMBLY.

The Presbytery then proceeded to the consideration of the several results from the General Assembly, with the following results:—

1. Widows and Orphans Fund, result approved, except that the fee for not contributing thereto should be increased from one to two dollars per annum.

2. The appointment of a Home Mission Agent. It was resolved that the appointment of such an agent was inexpedient.

3. Aged & Common Fund for the College. It was resolved that the present arrangement should continue for another year.

Committees were appointed to examine the records of Coldsprings and St. Andrew's (Peterborough) congregation. Presbytery adjourned.

The Presbytery resumed at 8.30 p.m.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH RECORDS.

Mr. Clarke reported that the minutes of St. Andrew's congregation had been correctly kept since Mr. Bell's induction, but that there were no entries for the previous six years, nor of Mr. Carnegie's election to the Eldership.

On motion of Mr. McWilliam, it was resolved that the Session Records of St. Andrew's Church be attested as correctly and carefully kept from 1st July to the 22nd March, '78. The Presbytery note the fact, that there do not appear any minutes of meetings held during the incumbency of Rev. Mr. McLennan, and instruct the Clerk to communicate with Mr. McLennan on the subject, and obtain from him if possible, the minutes of meetings of sessions held during those years.

RESIGNATION OF MR. HADDETT.

The next matter taken up was the resignation of Mr. Haddett, of Perrytown, Oakhill, and Knoxville.

Mr. Cleland reported on behalf of the Committee appointed to visit these congregations, and stated that they found both the congregations of Perrytown and Knoxville willing and anxious to do all in their power to retain the services of Mr. Haddett, and that they had agreed to do all that the Committee had deemed it advisable to ask them to do. The Oakhill congregation, however, could not be induced to do anything more than they had done duty.

The congregation having been duly cited, Mr. Gray appeared on behalf of Perrytown, and stated that the congregation were most attached to retain Mr. Haddett. The people of Knoxville were also equally anxious to retain him.

Mr. Little, of Perrytown, also supported the statements of Mr. Gray.

Mr. Ferguson, of Oakhill, said that they would like to retain Mr. Haddett, but the congregation could not be induced to promise anything more than the $130 already promised.

Mr. Haddett urged the acceptance of his resignation for the reasons given by him in his letter of resignation.

After some discussion, in the course of which the feeling was freely expressed that the Oakhill congregation could do what was asked of them, and which had been so readily acceded to by the other congregations, if they really desired to do so, it was resolved, on motion of Mr. Carnegie, that the resignation of Mr. Haddett lie on the table until the next regular meeting of Presbytery.

The Committee appointed to examine the records of the congregation of Coldsprings reported that the same had been correctly kept, and the same were attested accordingly.

On motion of Mr. Ewing, it was resolved that the next regular meeting of Presbytery be held in Millbrook on the first Tuesday in July.

Presbytery adjourned at 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. Wednesday morning. Presbytery to assembled.

COMMUNICATION FROM LINDSAY PRESBYTERY.

A communication was read from Lindsay Presbytery, asking that steps be taken to make a re-arrangement of Mission Stations, and for the union of the charges of Fenelon Falls and Bobonygeon.

It was agreed that the Clerk, and Rev. Messrs. Bell and Ewing, and Mr. Carnegie be a Committee to confer with the Presbytery of Lindsay at its next meeting on this subject.

SABBATH SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Mr. Fotheringham (Convener,) Mr. Clarke, and Mr. Henderson, of Cobourg, were appointed a Sabbath School Committee, and authorized to arrange for a Sabbath School Convention.

MINDEN MISSION FUND.

Mr. Carnegie was appointed Treasurer of the Minden Manse Fund, in room of Mr. McKay.

ASSEMBLY RESULTS.

The consideration of assembly results was then resumed:—

4. Shall the names of retired ministers be retained on the Roll of Presbyteries.

On motion of Mr. Ewing it was resolved that the names of ministers retiring by leave of the Assembly, and living within the bounds be retained on the Presbytery Roll.

Mr. Fotheringham requested his dissent from the finding of the Presbytery to be entered on the minutes.

5. The result about ecclesiastical procedure was referred to a committee composed of Rev. Messrs. Donald and Cleland, and Mr. Craik, to report to a meeting of Presbytery to be held in Kingston during the meeting of Synod.

6. The result of questions to office-bearers and the formula, were all agreed to without amendment.

The Presbytery then adjourned.

Our report of this meeting would be incomplete did we not mention that the members of Presbytery were most liberally and heartily entertained to dinner and tea on Tuesday, and to dinner on Wednesday, by the ladies of the St. Andrew's and St. Paul's congregations, and that the members of Presbytery from a distance were provided for during the night by various members of the two congregations, in the most hospitable manner.—Review.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

OATS.—A writer in the Rural New Yorker, says that he has raised, the past year, fifty bushels more oats, from three acres, than he had ever raised on the same ground before. The reason he ascribes for this success is the fact that the ground was all subsoiled. No doubt, on heavy land this practice would prove most beneficial. A subsoil attachment has been used by some successfully, though we think the draft must be rather heavy for a light team. Many do not plow their land until seeding time, and then think they have no time for subsoiling, as it requires twice more time than the usual way. On some land it will pay to subsoil, on others the result would be doubtful; while there is no doubt, that on others it would be pernicious.

PLANTING POTATOES.—Plant the so called Irish potato in two and a-half feet rows and twelve to eighteen inches apart. Repeated experiments at the Pennsylvania Agricultural College disprove the idea that it is better to cut the potatoes some days before planting. Fermented stable manure, well-fired with a little acid phosphate, and plenty of well-rotted (but not leached) ashes, is the best manure. A quickly maturing plant like the Irish potato demands a highly soluble manure, if the manuring is done simultaneously with the planting.

POULTRY.—It is now that the early layers will become broody. March or April chicks are very profitable, and every broody hen should be set at once. Give clean nests of oat straw or hay, and put a handful of feathers under the eggs to keep them warm when the hen is off of the nest to feed.

HORSES.—The breaking up of winter brings heavy roads and severe work for teams. When extra exertion is called for, it should be done deliberately and with caution. Chains and harness should be strong; sudden jerks are dangerous to the teams, harness, and wagons. Above all things a driver should be patient and gentle. Willing animals should never be fretted by the obstinacy or stupidity of ignorant hired men. Just now let the farmer keep a sharp eye on his horses.

MEADOWS and pastures are frequently injured by pasturing as soon as the snow is off. Nothing is gained, but damage results from such a course. As soon as dry enough, roll the surface thoroughly. Sod heaved by frost is restored by rolling, and stones or lumps are pressed down smoothly. The good effect will be appreciated when the mower is used. Walk behind the roller and pick up and throw into the box stones that may project enough to catch the mower blade.

HEN MANURE.—Hen manure, which is usually wasted on the farm, when properly applied to corn or other crops at planting time has given the best of satisfaction, and the experience of those who have used it is that is far ahead of any fertiliser that can be brought to the market at $40 per ton.

FARM FENCES.—In your walks over your fields wherever you see a loose fence post make it firm by tramping with a rammer and drive as many loose stones down around them as possible. A little attention to your fences now may save a field of corn or grain from destruction latter on. Cattle have sufficient intelligence to find the weak places very readily.

GENERAL NOTES.—A pail of milk standing ten minutes where it is exposed to the scent of a strong smelling stable or any offensive odor will imbibe a taint that will never leave it. The manure, if all saved, from a ton of hay and economically returned to the land will grow more than a ton next year. If this were not so our agriculture would be a humbug and the world would starve. Let us aim to sell nothing off the farm that will impoverish the soil unless we are sure of a price that will make all good. Let us remember the good rule, "No manure, no crops, no cattle, no manure."—Vermont Chronicle.

The Revised Statutes of Ontario say; Any person may kill any dog which he sees pursuing sheep, worrying, or wounding any sheep or lamb.

THE NEW GAME ACT.

The extract below from the Game Act recently passed by the Ontario Legislature, shows the different seasons within which the following game must not be taken or killed:

Deer, between Dec. 15 and Sep. 15.
Partridge, between Feb. 1 and Oct. 1.
Quail, between Jan. 1 and Oct. 1.
Woodcock, between Jan. 1 and August 1.
Snipe, between May 1 and August 15.
Ducks, such as mallard, grey, black, wood ducks, and teal, between Jan. 1 and Sep. 1.
All other wild ducks, geese and swan, between May 1 and Sep. 1.
Hares or rabbits, between March 1 and Sep. 1.

It will be well for every person who handles the gun, not to pull the trigger on any of the above during the close season, as agents are constantly on the alert to get wind of infractions of this highly beneficial act.

A STRANGE SUPERSTITION.

The military superstition that it is dangerous to change the color of a horse during a campaign has been illustrated by General Skobeleff. He does not like a grey horse, but he happened to ride one in the first battle and soon came to believe that he could never be killed on a horse of that color.—A Paris correspondent of a Socialist paper, who served under Skobeleff during the American civil war states that that officer had a similar superstition. His color was sorrel, and he firmly believed that he could never be killed while mounted on a horse of that hue. He was wounded three times, but never while riding a sorrel horse. He had 24 horses killed under him in the various encampments in which he was not wounded, and in every instance the horse that went down under him was a sorrel. Once a ball struck the brim of his large felt hat, and scratched his forehead, and he fell heavily from the saddle; but he was on his feet in an instant, shouting to his men "I cannot be killed to-day, for I am on a sorrel horse."

He Didn't Know the Reason.

Sothern invited a party of gentlemen to dine with him. The hour had arrived, and, with one exception, so had the guests. "We may as well begin," said Sothern, "——— is sure to come, and he would rather we did not wait for him;" upon which the company sat down, and were just finishing soup when the card of the missing guest was handed to Sothern. A sudden inspiration of fun led him to propose that before the gentleman came in they should all get under the table. Without an objection and trusting to Sothern's wit for some comical denouement, the unsuspecting fellows hurriedly crept under the table and awaited results, totally ignorant of the fact that their wicked host had not followed their example, but had quietly continued his soup. The belated guest came in full of apology for his tardiness. "Don't mention it," said Sothern; "it isn't of the slightest consequence, we are only at the soup; sit down and be helped." The gentleman did so, but with a puzzled look at the empty chairs about the table. "Oh!" said Sothern, "you miss the other gentlemen. They are all here, but, for some extraordinary reason, they all got under the table! What they are doing is more than I know." It is easier to imagine than to describe the variety of expression upon the faces of the deluded victims as one by one they came crawling sheepishly out from under the table.—Boston Post.

St. Patrick's Day in Quebec.

Eloquent Speech of Hon. Mr. Joly.

The new Premier of Quebec was one of the guests at the St. Patrick's dinner in the ancient capital, and in reply to a toast, thus eloquently referred to Ireland. The report is from the Quebec Chronicle: Is there a nation in the world that can claim a brighter distinction than that earned by Ireland; a prouder title than that of the preserver of religion, learning and civilization? (Applause.) I have often gazed on the Alps at sunset, at the Yungfrau, and Mont Blanc, and their giant companions, looking anxiously for a rare and wonderful exhibition of natures grandeur, in its most beautiful form—for what the Germans call the "Alpen Glum;" some of my friends around me must have seen it. Immediately after sunset it happens sometimes that the snowy peaks of the mountains, the icy needles of the glaciers assume a livid, purple, greenish tint, like the hues of death. It looks as if death had come over the whole living world at last, as if the bright sun would never rise again and never set again over our beautiful earth. For a few minutes of a dead silence—the winds even are dead—you remain crushed under a feeling of awe and fear. All of a sudden the world comes back to life; a beautiful pink color, growing deeper and brighter, spreads itself over the field of snow, shows in the sparkling glaciers, with their long crystal steeples in bold relief, and our hearts fill with joy and gratitude and wonder, for it is as if the sun were rising in the west. (Cheers.) In a few minutes, night resumes its sway, and shrouds once more the mountains and glaciers behind the black veil, but it leaves in the heart of man a light, a hope that never fades. Such is the "Alpen Glum" on the Alps; such it was over Ireland in the dark ages, when the sun threatened to set forever, but it rose again, on the shores of Ireland, the western outpost of the Old World. In those days, in the days of St. Patrick, St. Columban and the long array of their noble followers, whatever gleam of sunshine brightened the Old World, it came from the west. It is beautiful to follow their footsteps, to pass at the lonely Iona, the seat of piety and learning; to see the hundreds of refugee left by them on their road for the keeping and protecting of all that was worth preserving; to see them working step by step their way back to the East, bringing back, with compound interest, what the West had once received in trust and treasured for the world, and spreading light and knowledge over the great court of the greatest western Emperor who ever lived—Charlemagne. (Cheers.) Then the fierce Norsemen came, and then began the long life of misfortune and mourning. But Ireland has done the work reserved for her hands by God. She had saved religion, learning, civilization she had sheltered them, and returned them faithfully to Europe when the hour of danger was past, and if, from that day she had suffered, if her history has been a sad one, full of sorrow and tears, a grateful world must sympathise with her and never forget what it owes to Ireland. (Prolonged cheering.) I have listened with delight to the noble feelings expressed by Mr. Curran; he believes in the strength of the brotherly tie that must bind all Irishmen together; he wants the men to forget all their causes of discord, and to remember on such a day as this that they are brothers. It is a noble idea, but it must become a reality; the gathering of this evening is a proof that it can be made a reality. Oh! what a joy it would be, for Canada, as for Ireland, if these two brothers, entering as for so many years, who have come here 'hand' me, filled the forest of Canada side by side, 'shoulder to shoulder under the snows of winter and the' scorching heat of summer side by side, but for away in heart, grown prosperous in the fortunes they have made for themselves; what a joy it would be for Canada, as for Ireland, if these two brothers, entering as for so many years, who have come here 'hand' me, filled the forest of Canada side by side, 'shoulder to shoulder under the snows of winter and the' scorching heat of summer side by side, but for away in heart, grown prosperous in the fortunes they have made for themselves; what a joy it would be for Canada, as for Ireland, if these two brothers were at last to turn to one another, clasp one another's hand in a brotherly grasp, and to mix their voices in a joyful sound of brotherly love. How the western gales would take it up on their wings and carry it over the broad bosom of the Atlantic, over the long, rolling western waves on their way to the shores of Ireland, carry the song of joy to those two brothers to gladden the heart of their mother at home, and make Ireland weep for joy. (Loud and continued applause.)

GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM,

—FOR—

Coughs, Colds, Bronchial and all Throat Affections.

The Gum which exudes from the Red Spruce tree is, without doubt, the most valuable native Gum for Medicinal purposes.

Its remarkable power in relieving certain severe forms of Bronchitis, and its almost specific effect in curing obstinate hacking Coughs, is now well known to the public at large. In this Syrup (carefully prepared at low temperature), containing a large quantity of the finest picked Gum in complete solution, all the Tonic Expectorant, Balsamic and Anti-Spasmodic effects of the Red Spruce Gum are fully preserved. For sale at all Drug Stores. Price, 25 cents per bottle.

ELECTRICITY.

Thomas' Eclectric Electric Oil.

Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold—Pain cannot stay where it is used.

It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, asthma, and croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity has cured back of eight years' standing. It cures swelled neck, tumors, rheumatism, neuralgia, contraction of the muscles, stiff joints, spinal difficulties, and pain and soreness in any part, no matter where it may be, nor from what cause it may arise. It always does you good. Twenty-five cents worth has cured bad cases of chronic and bloody dysentery. One ten-spoonful cures colic in 15 minutes. It will cure any case of ulcerated nipples or inflamed breast. For bruises, if applied, often and bound up, there is never the slightest discoloration to the skin. It stops the pain of a burn as soon as applied. Cures frosted feet, boils, warts, and corns, and wounds of every description on man or beast.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cts. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

THE AMERICAN EYE-SALVE is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflammation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. RINGWORM and OLD CHRONIC SORES, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the AMERICAN EYE-SALVE. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. PETTIT'S AMERICAN EYE-SALVE," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST; and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

BEWARE.

The bear of Russia stretches his paws.
And one by one he unrolls his claws:
With an eye on the West and one on the East,
He settles down to his toothsome feast,
And watches to see how far he may dare.
Beware.

The Lion of Britain, with doubtful tone,
Somewhere between a growl and a groan,
Sends forth his chips by thousands of tons,
Ready with rearing of thunderous guns,
To startle the earth and affright the air.
Beware!

The Austrian eagle, instead of a hat,
Wearing a crown, looks this way and that;
With a German head and a Magyar head,
It is doubtful whither he may yet be led,
And he fears as he hopes that the day will be fair.
Beware!

And the Prussian anaconda, too,
Looks over the waters, broad and blue,
And across the Rhine and towards the South,
While he opens wide his ravenous mouth,
And his hungry glance is everywhere.
Beware!

The eagle of France, with a broken wing,
Unable to fight is content to sing;
But he sharpens his spurs and whets his beak,
For he cannot guess what quarrelsome freak
May occur to his enemy over there.
Beware!

The bear of Turkey, beaten, betrayed,
No longer looks for uncertain aid,
To the fox in frost he yields up his power,
While Mussulmanes wait for the reckoning hour,
And behind the Sultan sits black care.
Beware!

The birds and beasts of Europe, you see,
As a happy family don't agree,
And a swarm of kites and a crowd of crows
Are snuffing at every wind that blows.
Each one anxious to seize his share.
Beware!

"FARMERS' CLUBS."

Second Letter.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

These words, farmers' clubs, in the sense in which I here use them, mean associations of persons for their mutual edification and benefit. They may be likened to mechanics institutes, as I understand them. These clubs when formed, would enable the farmers, their wives, sons and daughters, if deemed advisable, to meet together at stated places and times, when they could read books and papers and talk over matters of a purely social and intellectual character. They should possess a continued supply of good sound reading matter, that is to say, a library for each club. And I would suggest that a club should be formed in every school section. The members need not necessarily be confined to one particular place of meeting, but might meet alternately in each others houses. The library, however, would need to be in one place, and under the control of some careful, trustworthy person. Fifty or a hundred volumes of good standard works in history, ancient and modern, agriculture, geography and astronomy, with some few books of lighter, but instructive reading, and some five or six good newspapers, as free from politics as possible, would form a good nucleus for

A GOOD LIBRARY.

Each club should be presided over by a chairman, with his secretary, and each should possess a carefully prepared constitution and by-laws for its government—which should as carefully provide for the exclusion of all matters and all discussions of a political or sectarian character. These clubs should be held as far away from all taverns as possible, and the constitution should strictly provide against the use of tobacco or liquor, or of profane or other improper language or conduct, by every member while at the club, or in going to or returning from it. In fact every thing there should be conducted with as much decency and sobriety as at a church service—and the one sole purpose and object should be the moral and intellectual improvement of the people. The constitution should also provide for the expulsion of any member for breach of the rules and for just cause. Having once established these clubs, and provided the necessary machinery for their working, all the rest will be easy and will follow as a matter of course, if the people are honest, earnest and sincere in the work. Of course ever thing will depend upon them. If they approve of these associations, if they really wish to benefit themselves and the rising generation, they will set about their speedy organization in real sober earnestness, and they will not stop short of their full reality. There is nothing that I know of which can produce so much good in a community as clubs of the kind above referred to; and if properly carried out, they will do more to the manners and the habits of the people, than I can well explain, and will do more than any other thing, to keep the people, both old and young, but especially the young, from improper resorts and from places of doubtful character. And their beneficial influences will be felt and acknowledged in all the after years of the members lives. And I trust they will materially help to elevate the conduct and character of the people in town, as well as at home, and that it shall no longer be said, as I have often to my sorrow, heard it said, on fair days and at other times of public gathering, that on these occasions the people from the country have spent hundreds of dollars on cigars and whiskey—but very little on anything else, because there sayings reflect injuriously upon the farming community, and imply their unwillingness and their inability to act like respectable, decent people. And being the son of a farmer myself, I feel such statements as an insult upon me. As a class, farmers ought to occupy the first place in the community. Their profession is the most respectable, the most ancient and better calculated to elevate the hearts and feelings than any other calling. And there is no other class of the people who should be, and who can be so independent and comfortable as the farmer. All his surroundings are elevating and pleasant. He rises up in the morning and can go out and behold on all sides the beauties of nature, and look upon his prosperous fields with feelings of pride and gratefulness, and at night, when the labors of the day are over, he and his family can retire to a peaceful rest, undisturbed with care and knowing that another day will but usher in pleasure and comfort and happiness. Amidst all these things he is free to live and to do what to him seemeth right and best. All that is lacking is more care for the intellectual well-fare of himself and his family. It is quite true that schools abound, and that in these his children can be taught the common rudiments of knowledge, but the child's education should not stop here. His real education begins after he has left school, and when he is about to enter upon the active duties of life. And then commences his real danger also. Brought up as he has been in comparative retirement, learning nothing of the snares and troubles which then beset his foot-steps,

CULTIVATE AND IMPROVE THE MIND,

HE REQUIRES SOMETHING MORE.

than the school to fit him for the duties of life. He requires the lessons and experiences of those who have gone before him. And nowhere can he obtain these but from the writings and teachings of history, and other books in which are handed down to him all the wisdom and knowledge of great and good men. And if the parent is wise and desires the best interests of his child, he will take care to provide him with the means of this education by his own fireside, where the long evenings can be passed with profit and comfort to the whole family as well. There the young man or young woman grows up matured in experience—with a mind cultivated—and thus their hearts and feelings are made wiser and better, and thus they are preserved from dangerous examples and influences. And in this way, and in no other way can they be brought to feel happy at home, and to know that they are inferior to none. And they can then go into the world with a consciousness of their own superiority and will receive that attention and respect which is always accorded to modest worth. I have seen young men of very humble life, by their ambition and energy, rise to positions of respectability and comfort. And I have seen the companions of their youth looking up to them and paying a willing deference to their ability and worth. And I have often thought how easy it is for these very same companions to rise to a perfect level with the others and to become their equal in all that gives those others this advantage. If they would but understand that

"THE MIND MAKES THE MAN,"

and that knowledge alone can open the way to their elevation and advancement, and that this knowledge is only obtained from extensive and wise and careful reading and study, and know too that all those things are equally attainable by them, and if they and their parents possess any ambition and self-respect, they will seize the opportunities that are within their reach, and they will realize how good and how pleasant a thing it is to have the mind stored with

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 11, 1878

IN LINE.

The Reformers of East Peterborough are now ready for coming events, and are persuaded that they will come off victorious in the approaching contest. Mr. Back, who was the unanimous choice of the Convention on Saturday last, is a gentleman well known to almost every man in the Riding. He has carried on extensive business relations through the east part of the county for many years, and one of the safest marks of his popularity is that not a single person can be found to speak a word disparagingly of him. The Reformers of the Riding also took time to consult their friends all over the Riding, and are convinced that they have the confidence of the party everywhere in their choice, as the best man that they could select as a standard bearer at the present time. He must necessarily secure a large eastern influence and support. His unblemished character and good name will secure for him a large vote that might have been doubtful for any other candidate. He is a farmer—and hence must because of this have the sympathy and support of the farming community. It has often been used as an argument against a candidate, that he was a lawyer, and could not therefore take much interest in things concerning farmers. But in this case this point cannot be raised. Mr. Back is a successful farmer and understands their positions and wants, and, as a farmer, he must have a strong leaning towards and sympathy for them, and will be a respectable representative of that great interest in the Commons. We ask our Reform friends everywhere in the Riding to be sure to use all reasonable care to make a close and active canvas for him. He will no doubt call on the people at an early day and make known to them his position and views, when we feel confident that he will gain the good will of all Reformers and moderate men in the Riding.

TARIFF RE-ADJUSTMENT.

While the advocates of the so-called "national policy" of the leader of the Opposition were allowed to deal in vague generalities, they pumped up a great deal of eloquence concerning the ruinous Free Trade principles of the present government, and the era of prosperity, which was to be brought to full effulgence by imposing protection duties. It is a very easy matter to blame the government's revenue tariff for the lately depressed condition of the country; but it is impossible to prove that the existing import duties are in any way to blame, especially as the times are harder and the labour troubles infinitely greater in the severely protected United States. And while Opposition papers prate of a re-adjustment of the tariff, in no case are they able to show any change that would be beneficial. They deny that they have any desire to increase the gross duties beyond the requirements of the revenue. In this they appear to agree with the Reformers. But they do pretend that they could, were they in power, so change the duties on various articles as to get a revenue, and at the same time, assist certain industries within the borders of the Dominion. The idea sounds well; but somehow it ends in mere sound. The party in Opposition cannot agree on a single article upon which to advocate an increased duty, for the patriotic purpose of doing the whole country good. Indeed, try to avoid any such particularity, by declaring that it is not the duty of an Opposition to formulate a policy. What then is the duty of an Opposition? The popular and the correct view of an Opposition's duty is that it shall as far as possible, prevent error on the part of the Ministerial majority, and point out persistently to the country where an error may have been committed. If then, the present tariff is objectionable to the Opposition, it is the duty of that Opposition as guardian of the people's interests, to point out definitely the grounds of objection. Such pointed objections successfully taken become party gains, by pointing out plainly to the people who are watchful of their interests. If then the Opposition in the House of Commons could attack the tariff schedule with any hope of popular approbation and popular advantage, duty and party interest would both induce the making of objections that would be plain to the House and the country at large. That such a course is not adopted by the Opposition is then the best proof that tenable objections cannot be taken to the present tariff.

We notice that such an issue as Opposition leaders have tried to evade, is being forced by certain members of the House, by the introduction of resolutions in favour of levying increased duties on certain commodities. Discussions on such motions will bring out the truth, as regards the effects of high duties on these particular articles, and show to the people that the proposition for an increased revenue tax is either bad or good in these instances. Of such a character is the resolution moved by Mr. White, (Hastings) and seconded by Mr. Ross, (Durham), in relation to an increased import duty on wheat, and another introduced by a couple of Quebec members respecting a larger duty on barley and other grains. We have no doubt the discussion on these resolutions will be read with a great deal of interest by the farming community, and that no little instruction will be got from it on matters of trade and commerce, and on that fallacy called "agricultural protection" particularly. It will show, we have no doubt, that Canadian agricultural products need no protection; and that the imposition of higher duties on them, so far from being beneficial, would be positively injurious to the country, by producing a great disturbance of trade at a time when it can by no means be borne.

THE FARMERS AND THE TARIFF.

The following table has of late been published in a great many Conservative papers, and alluded to as an evidence of "injustice to Canada." As the present Government is blamed, we presume the inference is meant to be drawn, that the Opposition if in power would impose Canadian duties on the articles enumerated equal to those collected by the United States. We shall not do more than merely allude to the non-protectionist policy of the Conservatives when they were lately in power, and give our readers at once the comparative statement of Canadian and United States duties on the thirty-five articles selected by the readjustment and retaliatory advocates:—

	Canadian duty	United States duty
Wheat	Free	20c per bush.
Rye and Barley	Free	15c "
Indian Corn	Free	10c "
Oats	Free	10c "
Wheat Flour	Free	20c "
Live Animals	10 p.c.	20 p.c.
Pine Lumber	Free	$2 per thousand.
Coal	Free	75c per ton.
Pig Iron	Free	$7 per ton.
Iron Rails	Free	$14 per ton.
Steel Rails	Free	$28 per ton.
Bar Iron	5 p.c.	25 to 37 per cent.
Plate and Boiler Iron	5 p.c.	$25 to $30 per ton.
Wood Screws	17½ p.c.	35 to 40 per cent.
Saws	do	40 to 60 "
Cars and Locomotives	do	25 per cent.
Machines	do	35 "
Stoves and Iron Castings	do	30 "
Wool	Free	10 to 30 per cent.
Woollen Cloths	17½ p.c.	35 to 70 "
Flannels & Blankets	do	35 per cent
Ready-made Clothing	do	35 to 60 per cent.
Carpets	do	40 to 50 "
Alpaca Goods	do	35 per cent.
Heavy Cottons	do	40 "
Finer Cottons	do	50 to 70 per cent.
Cotton Yarn	do	40 to 50 "
Spool Thread	do	67 to 81 "
Silk Cloths	do	50 to 60 "
Linen Cloths	do	35 to 40 "
Fur Goods	do	35 per cent.
Rubber Goods	do	35 "
Leather Goods	do	45 "
Glass Bottles and Lamp Chimneys	do	35 "
Clocks	do	35 "

There is really nothing new in this list. It has been public for a long time. It is interesting just now as including those commodities specially chosen by the tariff re-adjustment party, as those on which they would impose certain duties, got at by choosing the figures of the United States tariff, as the "juss" rate. In the whole list we find only six productions of the agriculturist, five of which are now admitted free, a merely nominal duty of ten per cent being charged on the other, live animals. The proposition to apply the United States duty on these thirty-five articles, means simply that the farmers, the actual producers of the country, are to pay the high duties shown in the table on twenty nine articles, which any increase of duties on the six articles of their production, would be not only practically useless and unprofitable to them, but indirectly injurious and crippling in their effect. Our farmers can readily sell for exportation all the wheat, barley, rye, oats, wool and live stock they can raise; and these will always bring their full value in the world's market. They do not depend on the home market; and it would be a pity if they were forced to. The man who talks of Canada for the Canadians, and eating all our own cattle at home, must know that Canada's productions held within her own borders would give an oversupply, which would ruin prices. It is the world's market we want for all we have to sell, and then we can command the highest price. But if we entirely shut out the articles other countries have to sell to us, we cannot expect them to buy our productions, and we thus, by high protection duties, shut ourselves into the narrow market which cramps our trade. What grain is imported into Canada does not materially affect the price of the better quality grown in this country; and while that brought in goes out again as flour, bringing a profit to Canada, the Canadian grown wheat and barley command the highest prices wherever they go. Corn is the only grain in the above list of which Canada imports more than exports. This is used for feeding purposes, and goes to make up the fine animals for which Canada is becoming famous the world over. Only in a few counties in Canada can corn be grown to any extent, and even in these it pays better to use the ground for more valuable crops, as Western corn can be imported so cheaply, and used to such good purpose. A duty of ten cents per bushel on corn would make feeding very dear to Canadian farmers, and take the profits pretty completely off the prices obtained for animals fed. A duty of twenty-five to fifty per cent on imported wool would make no difference, to the farmer, in the price of wool grown by him; for the simple reason that the Canadian supply is greater than the Canadian demand, and a shutting up of this trade to Canada would unnecessarily make Canadian wool a drug in the Canadian market. Besides this, while the wools of different countries are exchanged Canada has an advantage in two ways. She can sell her native wool at a good price in other markets; buy cheaper qualities for import and manufacture, and by sending out the woollen goods made from it gain a double profit on the whole transaction. Heavy duties would then, not only greatly injure our woollen manufacturers; it would also destroy our trade in native wool with other countries, by shutting out all and sundry those articles, the sale of which induces a continuance of commercial relations. And be it remembered, always, that on the farming community, as the great producers of the country, falls the effect of any such derangement of the country's trade.

Opposition Organs cry out that Canadian industries are "burdened and destroyed by unfair competition." How we would simply ask what Canadian industries have been "destroyed," and what Canadian industries are "burdened" by "unfair competition?" And will the burden of increased duties proposed by the Opposition not destroy Canadian industries?

"THE MACKENZIE-HUA"

These Tory journals which refer to the "Kamanistiquia job," (as they aptly call the attempt to get up a scandal in connection with the Canada Pacific Railway terminus at Fort William,) take very good care not to publish the evidence taken before the Senate Committee. They take portions of the testimony which have been fairly contradicted, and shown to have been given under an erroneous and biased impression by witnesses. For instance the man Clarke who sold lots at Fort William to Mr. Davidson, and who swears Davidson showed him the location of the railway terminus is confounded by the evidence of the engineers of the Department who show that there were no decided surveys at the time mentioned by Clarke. This knocks to pieces the theory that "the Department supplied Davidson with trasings" or that "Davidson himself fixed the location and imposed it on the Department." All these fine-spun Tory suspicions vanish into the air in the light of facts, yet the Opposition press continue making the accusations, just as if they had not been completely refuted and exploded by a Committee of the House in which they hold the majority. The Neebing hotel is another of these petty tales founded on suspicion. A witness of whom much was hoped tells that he built the Hotel, and was one of the company. He then by an acknowledgment of morality in himself, tries to fasten such an accusation on others, with whom he evidently quarreled because they would not accede to his demands on them. But even this black mailer has to acknowledge that the building was worth $2,000, and surely the lot in such a location is worth the balance of the price paid for the whole. This is not denied, though the insinuation is made that such is not the case, and a great deal of small wit and petty scandal is wasted on the price of nails, paint, shingles, &c. The fact is, the Tories are frantic in their efforts to draw public attention from the main issues between the Ministerial and the Opposition parties, and their want of success so far makes them the more reckless.

THEN AND NOW.

Under Sir John in 1873 the rate of interest paid by the Dominion was 5.09; in 1877 under Mr. Mackenzie it has been reduced to 4.86, effecting a saving under a Reform Government of not less than $276,560 a year.

The cost of collecting the Customs in 1873 was $357,609
Sir John in 1873 increased the salaries 56,670
Sir John made 111 new appointments at 86,700
Cost of Collection by Sir John $743,961
The cost of Collection by Mr. Mackenzie 721,600
Or a saving under Reform Government yearly of $67,961

The Conservative Government of Sir John MacDonald increased the debt of the country by their votes over $100,000,000 to be expended in ten years, to build the Pacific Railway. The interest on this yearly would be $4,860,000; instead of rashly expending the whole sum at once and then having to provide for the interest, Mr. Mackenzie expends the interest or about that amount yearly in constructing the road. By this means he will effect a large saving to the country in the way of fixed debt and will build the road into the bargain.

Sir John paid Mr. Moylan's newspaper $2,500 (apparently to ensure the Catholic vote,) as no work was done for the money. Mr. Mackenzie refuses to retain newspaper editors as witness the Paris Star. The office of Collector of Customs at that port became vacant, the editor applied for it, and threatened that a refusal would result in his going into opposition. He was refused, and now he is "coming down" on the Government. Sir John would have bought him off. Mr. Mackenzie would not, and did not.

Sir John took $360,000 of Sir Hugh Allan's money to carry the elections, and corrupt the people. As soon as Mr. Mackenzie got into power, he passed a law preventing bribery and corruption.

The Examiner is still accused of "vile and disgraceful abuse concerning Sir John A. Macdonald." The fact is Sir John has vilely abused himself, and become a disgrace to his party, or to those who have the sense and feeling to, blush at such a leadership. Those who ask that the highest position in the public gift shall be conferred on a man who has been convicted of dishonest use of the public funds, and who has repeatedly appeared drunk on public platforms, declare that we should not made reference to these matters. Why not, pray? Is the character of a public man nothing? Should the country confer position on one whose habits would prevent his engagement in any private capacity? It may be right to give a chance to those whose former life has been clouded by their own errors, but only when they show sorrow and contrition, and evince a determination to do better. This Sir John Macdonald has not done; but on the contrary he tries to justify his former offences. Conservative papers and Conservative spouters, who should know better, refer to this plundering and imbibing politician as "the illustrious statesman," and then tell us we should make no personal reference to him. They would deify a disgusting object and then grow angry at those who would instruct them in the folly and shame of their idolatory. Their own fulsome adulation calls attention to the man they acknowledge will not stand the blaze of truth.

The Review now free from Mr. Mackenzie personally from the accusation of plotting with the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec for the overthrow of the De-Boucherville Ministry, yet clings to the charge that other members of the Dominion Cabinet have had something to do with it; also that Hon. Geo. Brown is somehow responsible for the whole crisis. We have before remarked that Geo. Brown is given credit for being much more clever than he really is. Even granting that he had an interview with Mr. Letellier, what then? Is he, as a public man to be debarred from conversation with his friends should they happen to meet. Yet it is insinuated that from such a meeting sprang the dismissal of the De Boucherville Ministry. No proof is offered further than the assertion that they met and talked; and a clamour is raised because these gentlemen do not see fit to make a specific denial of the absurd story. Did they do so, it would be hugged as a proof that there was something in the accusation. Of such self-complaisant stuff is a Tory Scandalmonger made.

As the Conservative candidate in East Durham, Mr. A. T. H. Williams, has pledged himself to vote want of confidence in the government. This does not compare very well with a former declaration of his, that he was willing to "support any government." Mr. Williams is what people generally call "a nice man;" but he is altogether too complaisant for a public position, being too easily swayed by those who may press him for the time, and too readily led by circumstances as they arise and change. It is hoped that his popularity with the 45th Battalion of Volunteers will help to elect him; but it may be the man of the regiment will prefer to retain him as an officer, to voting him out through his election to parliament.

We are willing to let the following "official records" tell their own story:—

The undersigned desires that the sum of $1,300 be advanced by the Accountant of Customs to J. G. Moylan, Esq., proprietor of the Canadian Freeman, to be paid by work in printing for the several Departments, [and that with this object the several Departments do send their orders for printing through the Accountant of Customs.]

JOHN A. MACDONALD.

N.B.—That in brackets was added at the time by the Auditor.

Received the amount (Signed)—J. G. MOYLAN.

MONDAY, 23rd Jan.

MY DEAR ROSS.—Will you be good enough to make an advance to the proprietor of the Canadian Freeman, of $600 to be repaid by printing work. Yours truly,
(Signed) JOHN A. MACDONALD.

27th MARCH.

MY DEAR ROSS.—Will you pay Moylan's printing account without reference to the back values? Yours truly,
(Signed) JOHN A. MACDONALD.

JUNE 18th, 1872.

Mr. ROSS, Clerk of Contingencies, will please to make an advance to Mr. J. G. Moylan, Canadian Freeman, for printing, $2000, and oblige. Yours truly,
(Signed) JOHN A. MACDONALD.

While the Peterboro' Review strongly advocates the imposition of a duty on coal, this is the way the Port Hope Times, another "national policy" paper, talks of it:—

"A deceptive howl has been raised over the one item of coal, which is admitted free,—and there is no doubt it will continue to be so admitted, at least into this Province, for as we do not produce the article, and as we must necessarily buy our supply from the Americans, there is no doubt Sir John Macdonald is too much of a statesman to collect his revenue upon such an indispensable article."

This is but one instance among many of the disagreement that arises among Opposition papers, and Opposition members in the House too, when any article is singled out whereon to base a "re-adjustment of the tariff" on what Sir John Macdonald so very lucidly calls a "scientific and artistic basis." The fact is no material change could be made in the present tariff "without disasterous consequences to the already depressed commercial world of Canada.

The Mail says the echoes of Governor de St. Just's acts will "come back on an outraged people from every mountain-top and valley in Ontario." It forgets that Ontario is a very flat country, St. Thomas Home Journal. The Journal forgets that there are some pretty well fattened Orfs scattered over its surface.—Lakefield News.

And the News forgets there are some Conservatives in Lakefield who were born "flat," and have remained so ever since, or they would not have forgotten the "flattening out" that followed the Pacific Railway disclosures and the publication of such choice morsels as the following:—"any sums of money you advance will be recouped to you;" "must have ten thousand;" "must have another ten thousand;" "these hands are clean." Score one for brother Jonathan of the News.

The Irish Canadian nominates Mr. Nicholas Flood Davin for West Peterborough, thus insinuating that the electors don't know enough to choose their own candidate. It is certainly a poor compliment to them to suppose they would accept Mr. Davin, especially after he has been stumping in East York for the notorious Boultbee, the U. E. Club's nominee for the unhappy Tories of that constituency.

The Canadian section at the Paris Exhibition is making rapid progress, and French authorities say that its display of woods will be one of the most remarkable features of the show.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Although during the latter part of last week matters in the East looked very like as if a declaration of war between England and Russia might at any moment be expected, we are pleased to be able to state that matters are now taking a more pacific turn and, an impression appears to prevail that Russia will ultimately yield to the pressure brought to bear upon her, and that negotiations will be renewed for the hold. Germany seems to have abandoned her passive attitude, and Bismarck is said to be actively engaged in endeavouring to bring about an understanding. The news from St. Petersburg would seem to indicate that Russia is expecting a proposal for a compromise from some quarter. Prince Gortschakoff has notified Austria that he will postpone his answer to her demands until England has formulated her counter proposals so that he may reply to Austria and England simultaneously.

In both Houses of the Imperial Parliament on Monday, the address in reply to the Queen's proclamation calling out the reserves was under consideration. In the House of Lords the address was carried after some debate, in the course of which Lord Derby threw some light on the cause of his resignation. In the Commons Mr. Gladstone attacked the Ministerial policy but offered no amendment.

Yesterdays despatches, which contain Prince Gortschakoff's reply to Lord Salisbury's circular, state that this circular has put a still more pacific appearance upon the state of affairs in Europe. The document is regarded in England as showing a genuine desire to insure a peaceable solution of the present difficulty, although it contests Lord Salisbury's assertions point by point. The Russian Chancellor defends the arrangements relative to the new State of Bulgaria as being based upon the principles of the Constantinople Conference, and expresses Russia's willingness to abridge the term of occupation of that Principality, as well as to relinquish the clause of the Treaty of San Stefano guaranteeing the passage of Russian troops through Roumania. The vexed question of the retrocession of Bessarabia is also touched upon, and defended upon the ground that the freedom of the Danube is secured by the International Danube Commission.

DUMMER.

MR. GEORGE HILLIARD.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—The Conservatives of West Peterborough feeling that they could not carry the Riding on the merits of their party, have cunningly tried to win the seat by taking as their standard-bearer a man whose character is so high that they think the electors in serving the man will forget the party he is of.

Mr. Hilliard is a Methodist; very good. Mr. Hilliard is an honest man; good. Mr. Hilliard is a temperance man; very good.

Mr. Cox and Mr. Dumble were Methodists, but Mr. Hilliard voted and worked against them, Mr. Cox, Mr. Dumble and Mr. Bertram are honest men, but Mr. Hilliard voted and worked against them. Mr. Cox and Mr. Dumble were temperance men, but Mr. Hilliard worked and voted against them.

Alex. Mackenzie and his government favor temperance legislation, and are giving us a temperance Act, and Mr. Hilliard is brought out against Mr. Mackenzie and his government. Mr. Hilliard has consistently and always been first a Tory—and why the Conservatives think that Methodists or Reformers will now vote for a man, who however good in his own character, has all his life been an out-and-out supporter of the government of Sir John A. Macdonald, it is hard to say. If Mr. Hilliard wants to be first a temperance man let him go in as a supporter of the government, which is giving temperance legislation; but so long as he is a supporter of Sir John and his army of tavern keepers, he will look in vain for support from the Reformers or the temperance party. As a citizen I give Mr. Hilliard a first place in my respect, but it has always been a mystery to me how, with his principles, he could consistently support a party led by Sir John Macdonald, who has been always supported by the entire whiskey influence of the country.

Mr. Hilliard will think twice before he attempts to carry West Peterborough. The people of this county have too recently battled with the enemy, and now with the glow of victory on their brows, they are in no humor for supporting a party which never did and never will do anything to remove from our land the curse of intemperance.

I am, sir,
Yours truly
TEMPERANCE.

THE QUEBEC GOVERNMENT'S DISMISSAL.

Lieut-Governor Letellier's Report to the Governor-General.

The message from the Governor-General last week, relative to Quebec affairs and containing a long letter from Lieut-Governor Letellier in vindication of his course, fell like a bombshell into the Tory camp here. It contained developments and facts of so startling a character that the feeling in the lobbies is that Lieut-Governor Letellier, instead of dismissing the Deboucherville Cabinet when he did, should have done so long ago There is, however, one reservation in his favor, which is, that while he was unduly generous to his Ministers, he was giving them the necessary rope to hang themselves, which they have done most effectually. Relying on their brutish and slavish majority, they trusted him (hating him as a Liberal) as a cypher. He was snubbed, lied to and tricked. His name was attached to important documents which he not only did not sign but never saw. His advice was asked for, apparently accepted and then spurned. The long and the short of it was that M. DeBoucherville and his creatures, acting on the promptings of party hacks and Tory scribblers in Montreal, determined to show Lieut-Governor Letellier that he was not wanted in Quebec, and that his nomination to the high position he holds was to them intolerable. They decided to make his tenture of office unbearable and manifest their contempt for him as a leading member of the Liberal party by snubbing him continually, and without even the form of politeness to make it more acceptable. The wonder expressed everywhere is that a man like Lieut-Governor Letellier, who is a marvel of firmness and self-confidence, should have so long tolerated the insults of underlings who were "jacks-in-the-boxes" worked by wires from outside. The only explanation conceivable even to his friends here, is that he resolved to let his advisers run the length of their tether, so that when he did bring them to account their overthrow would be complete. He finally brought them to book, and for their pains they had the satisfaction of being kicked out of doors to make room for a Reform Administration, the very thing of all others that they mortally dreaded. Lieut-Governor Letellier's indictment against his late Ministers is regarded as unanswerable, because they are irretrivable condemned out of their own mouths He brings ten specific charges, which may be condensed as follows:

1. That his recommendations to the Cabinet did not receive the consideration due the Representative of the Crown.
2. That his name was signed by them to documents he never saw.
3. That proclamations were published in the Official Gazette and the Legislature summoned without his consent.
4. That Thanksgiving Day was announced in the same high-minded manner.
5. That, in express opposition to his expressed wishes, a principle was introduced in a Bill which took from the people certain privileges they had hitherto enjoyed.
6. That without having even asked his consent a measure of general taxation was brought down.
7. That after his resignation, in direct violation of his duty, M. DeBoucherville, when making his explanations, endeavored on false grounds to prejudice public opinion against him (Gov. Let'tellier.)
8. That pretended conversations of a confidential character were made public.
9. That faith generally was broken.
10. That these facts render it necessary for him to vindicate his course to the Governor-General.—Hamilton Times Ottawa Correspondence.

Mr. Alfred F. W. Hayard, late of Port Hope, has become a Royal Academician.

One of the buildings of the Steuben county N. Y., poor house was burned on Saturday night and fifteen inmates perished.

Dr. Allen, of Belleville, has been sentenced to one year's imprisonment at hard labour for his share in the Belleville abortion and murder case.

Wm. Vaughan convicted of the murder of Mary Quinn, was to-day sentenced to be hanged on Saturday, June 22nd. The prisoner said he had nothing to say, except that he left the matter in the hands of a just God. He was quite unmoved, and exhibited an overallow of bravado.

O'DONOVAN ROSSA SPEAKS.—The arch-Fenian, referring to the Toronto rioters, says:

"If Lord Dufferin would for a time forego the nominal government of Canada—nominal because he cannot restrain those people whose own friends are fiends and devils—the Irishmen would very soon bring those people to their senses."

Greater impudence could not be conceived.

CROCKED TO DEATH.—A death from a singular cause occurred at the Toronto Asylum on Saturday, while the patients were at dinner. One of them, as he was eating a dish of pudding, suddenly filled his mouth and throat with the food and immediately choked. The attendants at once called medical aid, but in less than five minutes death had occurred. The deceased came from the neighborhood of Watford, and had only been in the institution a couple of days. This is one of the means of self-destruction against which it would be impossible to guard, even were the design suspected.

THE HORSE TRADE.—The Globe says: "The Horse Market everywhere is Many to receive a sensible impetus, from the manner in which the British Government have directed one of the famous six stallions starting vested for war purposes. Twenty one thousand horses are to be bought at from £40 to £60 each. The age of the animals is to be rising five or six years; the height, fifteen and a half to sixteen hands, the dimensions [illegible] weight of strong bus horse. As the stamp of horses is getting [illegible] while we in Canada have animals that would [illegible] as say in the world, [illegible] that our farmers [illegible] out of the present [illegible]

The Moylan investigation has turned up just as unsavoury an odour as can possibly hang round a living statesman, and Sir John will now not only have the scum of the Northern Railway frauds, but also this foul-smelling affair of the Moylan business, pounding him to the polls. Again we advise the Conservative party, if they hope ever to come into power, to have a handsome subscription, provide Sir John with an annuity, and a statue, and a public demonstration, and then firmly but kindly put him on spot ice, and find another leader whose reputation is clear from the blots which stain that of Sir John. There is not much in this Moylan business,—but there is enough.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Springless Trusses.—See G. W. Hotchkin's springless truss and supporter advertisement in another column.

Mill Fire.—Farmers and dairymen requiring milk pans should see Adam Hall's stock before purchasing elsewhere.

The Norseman began her regular trips between Port Hope and Charlotte, on Saturday last, about three weeks earlier than usual.

Remember!—Every kind of plain and fancy Book and Job Printing executed at the EXAMINER Office on the shortest notice. Call and see samples and prices.

Spring Assizes.—The Court of Assizes for the County of Peterborough will open in the Court House here, on the 23rd instant,—a week from Tuesday.

Idyl Wild.—The steamer Golden-Eye will run an excursion on Good Friday (19th instant) to Idyl Wild. As it is the first excursion of the season we presume it will be well attended.

Temperance Convention.—We have been requested to state that a meeting of the temperance people of town and county, will be held in the Temperance Hall, George street, on the afternoon of Saturday, 20th instant.

Temperance Vigilance Committee.—The Members of this Committee are requested without further notice, to meet at the Temperance Hall, at 8 p.m. on Monday night, the 15th instant, to consider matters of importance.

Accident.—On Tuesday while Mr. A. H. R. Sproule was attempting to catch a runaway horse belonging to Mr. Hamilton, he was thrown down, the carriage passing over him inflicting some very serious injuries, which will necessitate his confinement to bed for a few days.

Y. M. C. A. Excursion.—We understand that the Young Men's Christian Association of Port Hope, are making arrangements for an excursion to Rochester, by Steamer Norseman at an early day. Our friends desiring a cheap trip by water should bear this in mind.

Police Court.—Ann Brennan and "Lis" Dafoe, two notorious vagrants, appeared before the P. M., on a charge of vagrancy. "Ann" was "sent up" for two months, and "Lis" was remanded for a week in order that her dressmaker might have her travelling suit completed, at which time she promised to leave town.

Collegiate Institute.—Mr. Buchan, High School Inspector, examined the Collegiate Institute here on Monday and Tuesday. He speaks very favourably of the work being done in the Institution at present. He also examined the senior department of the public schools of which he spoke in flattering terms. On Wednesday he visited the separate schools of the town.

Midland Railway of Canada.—Statement of traffic receipts for week, from 7th to 14th March., 1878, in comparison with same period last year:—Passengers, $1,488.04; Freight, $3,220.04; Mails and Express, $288.32; Total, $5,085.40. Same week last year, $3,444.89. Increase, $1,580.19. Total traffic to date, $39,825.94; do. year previous, $34,788.45. Increase, $5,088.49.

"Drenched but not Drowned."—Under this heading the Lakefield News contains an account of an accident that befell two or three boys in that village while playing in the vicinity of the river. Would not the same words have been appropriate in recording an event that happened when Madame Demontford was staying in Lakefield.

A New Mode of Advertising.—Mr. John Elder and Messrs. T. Dolan & Co.—two of our most enterprising merchants, so far as advertising is concerned—have secured the privilege of advertising on the sides of the watering cart. The idea is a novel one, and as it attracts considerable attention will no doubt repay the money invested.

Personal.—Marvin Knowlton, representing the Good Templars, and Thomas Webster, of Brantford, representing the Sons of Temperance, are reported as at Ottawa doing good service in perfecting the Permissive Bill. Since writing the above we regret to learn of Mr. Knowlton's severe illness. He is confined to his room at the Windsor Hotel, Ottawa, by inflammatory rheumatism.

Shot At.—We learn that on Friday night last, while Mr. George Cochrane, Fishery Inspector, was discharging his duty at Beckhorn Lake, he was shot at by Archy Johnston, who was keeping sentry in a creek while others were fishing at its mouth, whither the Inspector was going. Johnston fled to the woods, but after four hours' chase Mr. Cochrane succeeded in taking him prisoner.

The Late George Barlee, Esq.—The funeral of the late George Barlee, Esq., took place on Thursday last, and was attended by a large number of friends and citizens—the members of St. George's Society, of which deceased had been for a number of years President, turning out in a body to pay the last tribute of respect to one who was held in the highest estimation by all with whom he came in contact.

W. J. Wallace, Lakefield, while in Toronto last week succeeded in getting some special bargains in plain and fancy Dress Goods, from 10 to 20 cts. per yard. Black Lustres from 15c to 60 cts., Prints from 5 to 15 cts., Cottons from 5 cts., Cotton Shirtings from 10 to 25 cts., Ladies Umbrellas from 50 cts. to $1.25, Scotsings and Chinzes from 10 cts. also a nice lot of ladies mantles very cheap. Inspection invited. 14-2lns

Wedding Dinner.—A story is going the rounds that a young gentleman employed in one of the leading drug stores on George street, while escorting a young lady home the other evening, attempted to relieve her cough by giving her, as he supposed, a trochie, telling her to allow it to dissolve gradually in her mouth. The next morning he received a note of thanks, inclosing a metallic button which, she said, she had been unable to make dissolve anyhow.

The Weather.—Finer or more favourable weather than has been enjoyed for the last few days could scarcely be enjoyed anywhere, not even in "sunny Italy," that paradise of English tourists in search of a mild climate. The mud usual at this time of the year has disappeared, owing to the mildness of the season, and effectively thickly before each passing breeze, to allay which the watering cart was brought into requisition on Saturday last. Trees are thickly budded, and if no late frosts occur the crops will likely mature early, and the season be one of unusual abundance.

Lakefield Reform Association.—A meeting of the Reformers of the Village of Lakefield, was held last Friday night, for the purpose of forming an Association for the Village. After transacting routine business the following gentlemen were elected officers of the Association for the current year, President, J. Hall; 1st Vice-President, Dr. Bell; 2nd Vice-President, G. J. Galvin; 3rd Vice-President, J. H. McWilliams, Secretary, H. Sewell; Assistant Secretary, Wm. Thornton; Treasurer, Robert Hamilton; Committee, Messrs. Walker, Stark, Nelson, Richardson, W. Graham, J. C. Sherin and D. Smith.

Bonnets versus Birds.—The Toronto Legislature at its last session, passed a stringent amendment to the Game Act, imposing heavy penalties upon persons killing insect eating birds. It is to be hoped this law will be rigidly enforced against a class of heathenish persons who every summer destroy large numbers of these useful birds. The large and wanton destruction of prairie hens at Manitoba, besieged in incredible numbers, and without doubt the destruction of insectivorous birds here will do infinite damage to farmers and market gardeners, by the large increase of insects devoured by these birds.

Cheap Cash Store.—We have much pleasure in directing the attention of our numerous readers in Lakefield, and its vicinity to Mr. Robert Graham' advertisement in another column. Mr. Graham has received his spring stock, which is very complete, and embodies all the latest and leading styles in this season's goods. His millinery rooms were opened on Tuesday, and the display made was very creditable to the establishment, and these having charge, being much admired by an extremely large number of visitors. As Mr. Graham is selling for cash only, he is determined to sell the best goods in Lakefield for the least money.

Disgraceful.—On Monday night or early on Tuesday morning, our town was disgraced from one end of the town to the other, with a mass of [illegible] the strongest language. The only possible object in view could have been to raise a feeling among the ultra Protestant portion of the community against the unwary, gentleman who has during the past week been holding revival meetings at the Catholic Church here. The flysheet gave what purported to be the text of the Jesuits oath, being similar, we believe to that, which appeared in a late number of the Montreal Witness. Such acts as these cannot be too severely censured and must recoil eventually on the heads of the perpetrators.

Oratorio of Esther.—Prof. Tansey, who has been engaged for the past two years in teaching the voice and rendering the above Oratorio in all the leading towns of Ontario, west of here, proposes to organize a school of instruction in Peterborough, composed of the different choirs and other singers of the place, and will render this Oratorio with local talent combined. We find the press and clergy of Ontario speaking in the highest terms of praise of Prof. Tansey's instruction and this Oratorio. He has just closed a most successful engagement in Lindsay and we trust the singers of Peterborough will not be behind other towns in giving the Prof. their hearty support. He meets the singers this evening in the room adjoining the Opera House. The Brampton Conservative in speaking of this entertainment says:—"For sublimity, grandeur, and moral excellency, Brampton has never had anything equal to this Oratorio of Esther, as rendered by Prof. Tansey.

Belford's Monthly Magazine.—In the April number of Belford's Magazine there are several articles of considerable interest. There is abundance of variety. Indeed if the publication has a fault, it is that the articles are frequently of so slight a texture as to be hardly fit for a monthly magazine. Mr. Eggleston's story of "Roxy" bears the reader forward of a stream of genuine interest. "Love the Little Cavalier" is a charming poem by that master of verse de société, Charles Sangster. Among the remaining contributions two will prove specially interesting to the reader. The first of these is "Down the Rhine"—admirably and profusely illustrated—the Courtyard, Heidelberg Castle, and the Cathedral of Worms being, as we can testify, very truthful reproductions of famous spots. The other article, "Division Nights in the House of Commons," reproduces, with Mr. J. L. Stewart's vivid touch, the scenes of sanguinance and the frectal impatience we experience when a subject fully discussed is held back from final decision by boors, and in doing this he gives a good picture of the House of Commons on such occasions.

The "Times" on Mr. Dumble.—The Times of its last issue in referring to matters that it is entirely ignorant of, makes an exhibition of itself which is really pitiable. The writer allows his intense personal feelings of hatred towards Mr. Dumble, to get the better of what little judgment he was supposed to have had. No paper has ever thrown out manner insinuations anent any gentleman than has that paper in the unscrupulous efforts to belittle Mr. Dumble. That servile organ never had one atom of manly independence itself, and cannot conceive such a thing possible in any other person. Mr. Dumble's most bitter political opponents will give him credit for being both manly and independent. The Times is prompted solely by bitter personal feelings against him. We had occasion once before to refer to this matter, but it seems that though "there bray a fool in a mortar, among wheat with a pestel, yet will not his foolishness depart from him." Fortunately Mr. Dumble does not need a recommendation from his malicious neighbor. An unfavourable mention of any public man in that journal is by far more complimentary than a favorable one.

Illegal Fishing.—We learn from the Port Hope Times that Mr. Chas. Gilchrist, Fishery Inspector, made a flying visit to the happy hunting grounds of the mosquitoes last week, and was rewarded by capturing three infidel fishers in the Keene River, a tributary of Rice Lake. At 2 o'clock on Thursday morning, Mr. Gilchrist lay in wait for a suspected party of three, who were fishing with jack-light and spear, and astonished them by laying his heavy hand upon them when they were in the jolliest possible mood, singing away like good fellows. The parties were Michael Greer, James Boles, and Robt. Launderville, of Otonabee, and after a severe reprimand, Mr. Gilchrist fined them each $20 and costs, or in default, four months imprisonment. This, it is hoped, will serve as a lesson to those who heedlessly break the law, and if they are determined to have fish at that price all we have to say is that they are more fond of that kind of food than we are. One thing they can depend upon is that Mr. Gilchrist will do his duty, and if he once undertakes to watch for them he is sure to catch them, he is not, it will be seen, particularly light in his sentences.

Slander Retuted.—The Times of this town has been at its usual dirty work for several weeks slandering this paper, as well as throwing out untruthful insinuations against the late editor and proprietor thereof, asserting that he ill cannot mean the present proprietor, for he does not possess a house in Ashburnham) has been offering to rent his dwelling house in Ashburnham for a tavern. The whole thing is an unmitigated falsehood—flowing from the disordered intellect of the semi-lunatic editor of that paper. We are in a position to state that the late editor of the EXAMINER has not spoken to Mr. Roddy on any subject for several months —much less on that of renting his house to him, and, moreover, we can assert that neither the Times nor his following have funds enough to purchase Mr. Stratton's dwelling for the purpose of converting it into a tavern. As the Lindsay Warder has been good enough to give currency to the falsehoods of the Times, will he kindly do him who has retired from the editorial walk of this paper, the justice to correct the ungenerous and unfounded charges of last week.

Miss Sophie Miller.—As will be seen by advertisement in another column, this distinguished Tragedienne purposes visiting Peterborough for a short season, commencing on Monday next, 15th instant, and will appear at the Opera House in a series of first-class [illegible], supported by Spackman's Dramatic Troupe, composed of first-class artists. The ladies and gentlemen of Ontario speak in the highest praise of the [illegible] and our theatre-going public will have an opportunity not often afforded of witnessing a play selected for the opening in Buckstone's English Drama, entitled "The Green Bushes; or Ireland and America 30 Years Ago," to be followed by a number of London and New York Successes. We copy from the Hamilton Spectator the following:—

"We again have much pleasure in calling attention to the appearance of this talented lady, and the excellent troupe supporting her, at Mechanics' Hall, on Thursday evening next, 14th instant. The occasion—the benefit of the charitable fund of the St. Andrew's Society; the play—Sir Walter Scott's "Guy Mannering." Miss Miller's rendering the authoress pet of King Merrilies. We have not often spoken in praise of the superior acting of this accomplished lady and troupe that we deem the many appearances merit sufficient. Friday evening we are promised the legitimate comedian, "Sam Model," Saturday matinee, the emotional "Camille," and Saturday evening, Daly's New York success, "Under the Gaslight." The season will, we have no doubt, prove a remunerative one to Manager Spackman, who has earned the good wishes of our theatre-goers in catering so conscientiously for their entertainment."

She who from April dates her years,

Emblem of innocence is known.

—Avoid that which you blame others for doing," says one of our wise men. Well, things have come to a pretty pass if a man can't hire his own wife.

Here come your poverty, here end your anguish
Ink will bring patronage; try it my lads.

—The sequel to that beautiful song of Hugues Field, "Grass on the Griddle, Birds Dead on the Fence," is just out. We have only room for one stanza:
Scratch my back, oh brown-eyed Mable,
Throw the best wheat flour over;
Scratch as long as you are able,
Harder, stronger; that's the way,
Somewhat higher; little lower;
Closer to the chamber blade;
Dig!!! Good heavens go it clever!
Murder! Thunder! Come, that's played.

Reform in East Peterborough.

The Largest Convention Ever Held in the Riding.

Great Unity of Action by Reformers.—A Vote of Confidence in Electorate and Mowat.—A Strong Candidate Chosen in the Reform Interest.

A Convention of the Reformers of the East Riding of the County of Peterborough, was held in the Town Hall in the Village of Norwood, on Saturday last, the 6th instant, to nominate a candidate to represent the Riding in the House of Commons in the coming elections. The delegates were all present and the utmost unanimity and enthusiasm prevailed throughout.

T. G. Choate, Esq., Reeve of Dummer, and President of the East Riding Reform Association presided, and W. B. Rexburg, Esq., of Norwood, acted as Secretary.

Before proceeding to nominate a candidate the following resolution was unanimously

Moved by Mr. T. Blezard, seconded by Mr. W. Burgess:—That this Convention cordially approve of the [illegible] of Mr. Blezard as our Reeve, and Mr. Mowat at Toronto, and that we will use all reasonable efforts to secure for this Province and for the Dominion the return of candidates pledged to support in carrying out the principles of Reform, progress, and economy as widely initiated and so ably prosecuted during the period these Governments have had the direction of the public affairs of the country.

The nomination of candidates then being in order the following nominations were made, with suitable speeches by the movers and seconders:—

T. G. Choate, Esq., Reeve of Dummer, was nominated by Mr. A. Smith, of Dummer, and seconded by Mr. P. Foley, of Douro.

D. W. Dumble, Esq., was nominated by Mr. J. Rorke, of Asphodel, and seconded by Mr. J. G. Galvin, of Douro.

J. B. McWilliams, Esq., was nominated by Mr. Thomas Blezard, of Otonabee, and seconded by Dr. Bell, of Lakefield.

W. B. Rexburgh, Esq., was nominated by Mr. D. Kennedy, of Otonabee, and seconded by Mr. W. Sharp, of Asphodel.

Thomas Buck, Esq., of Asphodel, was nominated by Mr. S. H. Dewart, of Norwood, and seconded by Mr. A. R. Kidd, of Dummer.

Messrs. Dumble, McWilliams and Rexburgh retiring, thanked the Convention for the mention of their names, when a ballot was taken between Messrs. Buck and Choate, resulting in favor of Mr. Buck, whose nomination was then made unanimous by Mr. Choate moving a resolution to that effect.

Mr. Buck was then called on and accepted the nomination, and thanked the Convention for the honor conferred upon him in thus choosing him as the standard bearer of the Reform Party. He expressed his entire confidence in the Government of the Dominion and also in that of Ontario, and said that he would use all reasonable and earnest efforts to lead the Reform Party to victory in this Riding.

Mr. Dumble and others followed, complimenting the Convention upon the nomination made, and urging unity and activity in preparing for the contest.

The Convention closed by rousing cheers for the Queen, Mr. Buck, the Chairman, and the Hon. Messrs. Mackenzie and Mowat.

Our Watering Cart.—The watering cart has at length made its appearance, handsomely decorated with advertisements of some of our city firms. This useful vehicle would undoubtedly make a better 'sottserion 'ot water, if the firm of Madison & Green were blessed upon it in yellow, as it would have been, had the opportunity been offered them. This firm is doing rushing business, has a complete stock to which additions of Tweeds, Hats, and Furnishings are made nearly every week; and its already enviable reputation is rapidly increasing. The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was received from Mr. John Bell, asking for an extension of time to pay his taxes. On motion the Collector was instructed not to press Mr. Bell for his taxes until notified by the Council.

John Craig	21 60

After an explanation from the Reeve in reference to the number of shade trees likely to be required this year, Councillor Phillips was authorized to let the contract for the delivery of the same.

CONSTABLE'S SALARY.

Moved by Councillor Calcott, seconded by Councillor Rogers,—That an order be drawn on the Treasurer in favor of John Craig for the sum of $41.60 in full for services as Constable and Road Overseer up to the 1st of April.—Carried.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Special Meeting—Notes Maturing and no Appropriation to meet them—Raising the "Needful"—The Market By-law—The Collectors Roll.

A special meeting of the Town Council was called last Friday evening by order of the Mayor. Present—His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors Cahill, Meade, Smith, Dewart and Peterson, Reazitor, Yelland and Dumble.

The Mayor explained his reason for calling the Council together this evening, namely, to provide for the payment of sundry notes at present floating in the bank, and which had been carried over from last year, and were a part of the deficiency of several years past.

The reading of the minutes of the last meeting were dispensed with,

THE ISSUING OF DEBENTURES.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Dumble, —That the Town Solicitor be requested to prepare a By-law, if required, for the purpose of issuing debentures for the payment of the balance of the deficiency due on the 1st of January, 1877, and that the question as to the amount of debentures to be issued be referred to the Finance Committee, with instructions to report at the next meeting of this Council, and that the said Committee do take the necessary steps to ascertain on what terms we can obtain the most favorable bank accommodation, and that the Chairman and Treasurer be authorized on the report of said Committee to issue the amount necessary.—Carried.

Councillors Carlisle and Douglas entered and took their seats.

THE MARKET BY-LAW.

On motion Mr. E. Green, Market Clerk, was heard before the Council in reference to the Market By-Law. He had come to state that day with Mr. Stapleton in reference to a sale of stock to a hotel yard, the stock having towards from Minden. The clause permitting auctioneers and bailiffs to sell in yards adjacent to the Market was unduly and injurious to him, as he had lost $8.25 by this particular sale,

Councillor Gibbard asked if these parties only sold by auction, and was answered in the affirmative.

Councillor Dewart thought the By-law was framed to meet such cases.

Councillor McBain asked if this clause was not in the By-law when the tenders were asked. The matter here dropped.

DEBENTURES ISSUED FOR COMPENSATION.

Moved by Councillor Smith, seconded by Councillor McBain,—That the Mayor and Clerk be and are hereby authorized to borrow from the Commissioners of the Town Trust $2,000 to be paid by the issue and sale of debentures about to be issued under the Special Act passed during the last session of the Provincial Legislature, entitled an Act relative to the Town of [illegible] and that the Corporate seal be attached to the [illegible].—Carried.

PAYMENT OF BARIE.

Moved by Councillor Dewart, seconded by Councillor McBain, that the Collector be and is hereby instructed to return the Roll to the Council by the next meeting of the Council.

Councillor Cahill suggested that the time be fixed for the 1st of May. He feared if payment was not enforced immediately, that many poor people would be sold out.

Councillor Dumble dissented as unless that a man owing as much as $300—which he understood one of our wealthy citizens did—should be allowed to run as long as this without being made pay—while poor men had to pay promptly. It was not the wish of this Council that any poor person who was unable to pay their taxes should be sold out.—In fact they had instructed the Collector not to press any poor man.

TREASURER'S MONTHLY STATEMENT.

The Clerk read a statement from the Treasurer showing amount of receipts and expenditure for the month of March.

AUDITORS REPORT.

Moved by Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Dumble,—That that portion of the Finance Committee's report made at last meeting of the Council, in reference to the Auditors Report be rescinded unless such report can be got ready by the printer within six weeks.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

Another Special Session in Reference to the Floating Debt.

Council met again in special session on Monday evening at the call of the Mayor. Present —His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, McBain, Smith, Ormond, Paterson, Rutherford, Reazitor, Dumble and Carlisle.

The Mayor stated that he had thought it his duty to again call them together for the purpose of taking steps to put the Treasurer's account in the Bank in a better shape. He had attended a meeting of the Commissioners that morning but they would take no definite action as to the purchase of the debentures. The best way he thought under the circumstances to do, was to authorize the borrowing of a sum of money for current expenses, and then to borrow from that department to meet the present notes as they fall due, and from time to time as the debentures were sold, to replace the money then borrowed by the proceeds of the debentures.

Councillor Smith suggested that this course of action might not be legal and advised obtaining the Town Solicitor's opinion on the subject.

A messenger was despatched for the Town Solicitor, and awaiting his arrival general business was taken up.

The minutes of the two last sessions were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATION.

From George Dunsford, calling attention to a petition sent into the late Council by Peter Hamilton and others, in reference to a sidewalk on Water street, between the Market Square and King street.

Councillor Cahill moved that a four plank sidewalk be laid down as petitioned for, but Councillor Rutherford raised a point of order as the resolution involved an expenditure of money, and the objection being held good the matter was laid over till next meeting, to be dealt with, when those of a similar nature were being disposed of.

ACCOUNTS.

An account from Wm. Hamilton for repairs to the Fire Engine amounting to $16.80 was referred to the Finance Committee.

THE FLOATING DEBT.

Mr. E. B. Edwards being now in attendance gave it as his opinion that should money be borrowed for current expenses, and afterwards applied to the payment of the notes now maturing, the transaction would be illegal and the Bank be in no better position.

Councillor Cahill said he had a proposition prepared which he thought would meet the exigencies of the occasion. He wished to submit the following:—

Moved by Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Smith,—That the Mayor and Treasurer be and are hereby indemnified in renewing the notes of this Corporation to the extent of $12,000 now floating in the Bank of Commerce, pending the issue of debentures to meet the same as authorized by the Special Act obtained for that purpose and that the Corporate seal be attached to this resolution.

DEPOSITING MONEY.

Councillor Paterson moved for the first reading of a By-law providing that $100 be deposited in all cases before any By-law proposing to grant aid by way of bonus to individuals or companies be voted on by the electors.

In the second reading Councillor Smith moved that the first clause be amended so that any By-law may be submitted without the deposit being made on a majority vote of the whole Council.

The motion was carried and the By-law read a second time without further amendment.

Council then adjourned.

THE BOYLAN FRAUD.

The following is an extract from the Cornwall Freeholder—understood to be owned and edited by Mr. H. S. Macdonald, son of the late Hon. John Sandfield Macdonald. Says the Freeholder:

"The relation of what had passed between man who were the now living Mr. Moylan and the dead Mr. Sandfield Macdonald rather startled the Committee. But there happened to be gentleman on the Committee who knew something of public affairs about that time. Mr. Hallon was a colleague of Mr. Macdonald's; and he thought that Mr. Moylan's claim was rejected because it could not be shown to be a valid one. Mr. Rymal stated, what must have been what is vulgarly called a staggerer to Mr. Moylan, that he had understood that as between Mr. Sandfield Macdonald and Mr. Moylan the corrupt advance was made by the latter who had offered to give the support of the Freemasonic influence to the Government if the latter would pay his claim. Mr. Rymal further said that he understood Mr. Macdonald to have responded to Mr. Moylan's disinterested offer of support by telling him to go to a place that is usually described as being uncomfortably warm.

"We will venture to say that there is not a respectable man in Canada, who knew the two gentlemen, Mr. Sandfield Macdonald and Moylan, who will have any difficulty in placing his belief as between the conflicting statements of Mr. Moylan and Mr. Rymal. We will venture to say that Mr. Moylan's statement, being improbable, is untrue; and that Mr. Rymal's version of the affair is probably correct.

"The affair as it stands is one that reflects credit neither upon Mr. Moylan nor upon the Government that paid him a bogus claim. There is not a doubt, we should say from having heard the evidence, that Mr. Moylan will be called upon to restore the money. And public opinion will lay to his charge the discreditable part of having attempted to strengthen his claim by bribing the chairman of one who is dead and unable to defend himself. Fortunately the memory of Mr. Sandfield Macdonald will not suffer from the aspersions of such men as this Moylan."

BIGAMY.

The Converted Brahmin, T. V. Roy, has Two Wives—The First Wife appears in Court with her Child.

Toronto, April 8.—An unusually large crowd assembled at the Police Court this (Monday) morning, brought thither by the report that T. V. Roy, the so-called converted Brahmin priest, was to be tried for bigamy. The æditicum was crowded to excess, there being no sitting room in the court. At half-past eleven o'clock Roy was placed in the dock, having been brought up from Cobourg on Saturday night, at which place he had been arrested. The prisoner is slightly built, with rather pleasant-looking countenance, but the most prominent features are his eyes, which at times, while gazing on his first wife, sparkled with a dangerous and vindictive light. Mrs. Roy No. 1 entered the court with a baby in her arms, the child bearing an unmistakable resemblance to the prisoner. The child, although dark, is much lighter in complexion than the prisoner, who is nearly black. Mrs. Roy is a pleasant-looking woman of about twenty-eight years of age, and appears to be determined to punish Roy for his alleged villainy.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty to the charge of bigamy, and elected to be tried by a jury, after which his Worship read the following lengthy information, sworn to by Mary Elizabeth Roy: "That on the 2nd day of December, 1875, in Philadelphia, Penn., U. S., I was legally married to and became the wife of T. Veerasgaum Roy, alias Roy, by virtue of a marriage duly celebrated according to the rites of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the States, in conformity with the laws of the State of Pennsylvania, by the Rev. Samuel Dunbarrow, a minister of the said church duly authorized to solemnize matrimony; that I was born in New Jersey, and have always resided in New Jersey; that my father was and is an American citizen; the said Roy, alias Roy, is a British subject, and is now a resident of Ontario, where he has resided six months; that the said Roy, alias Roy, was on I am informed and believe, married to one Mary Sarah Grogg on the 16th, February, 1876, in Toronto, by Rev. C. Webber, a minister of the Christian denomination, and that such second marriage is registered in the books of the City Clerk, Toronto; that I lived with the said Roy alias Roy, as his wife until the 1st of January, 1877; that the said Roy alias Roy, has procured no valid divorce from the bond of the said first marriage, nor has my said marriage been declared void by the sentence of any Court of competent jurisdiction, contrary to the form of the statute. Complainant prays that a warrant may issue and that justice be done.

"Mary Elizabeth Roy.

A number of interesting letters were read in court, showing that the Brahmin "convert" has very peculiar notions in regard to the sacred state of matrimony.

The prisoner was remanded to the 16th in order to give time to produce the clergyman who married Roy to his first wife.

The Crisis.

What think you would be the result if the earth should stop spinning around the sun? Were you ever near a large and intricate machine when one of its wheels became clogged or broken—near enough to hear the grating, jarring clash, the sudden, deafening crash? Astronomers assure us that precisely similar effects, only on an inconceivably grander scale, would be produced if our earth—one of the wheels in the universe-machine—should suddenly cease its revolutions. In other words, there would be a general clash and crash of satellites, planets, and systems. And we term financial crises are due to similar causes. One of the wheels in the finance-machine is connected clogged, perhaps shattered. The terrible "Wall-street "crash" which follows is communicated to every part of the financial organization of the country. But explanations do not help here. There is that other [illegible]-lism, the most intricate of all—sometimes called an organism because it generates its own force—the human machine. When one of its members fails to perform its office, the whole system is thrown into disorder. Members before considered unimportant, break down under the unnatural pressure. The shock comes, and utter prostration is the result. Reparation can only be effected by the restoration of the impaired parts, and the re-adjustment of its levers,—the physical forces. There is one part of the machine more liable to disorder than any other,—the liver,—the great balance-wheel of the machine.

The liver being the great depositing or blood-cleansing organ of the system, set it at work and the foul corruptions which render it the blood and rot out in many the machinery of [illegible] are gradually expelled from the system. For this purpose Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, used daily, and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, taken in very small doses, are presently the article needed. For Severe Coughs and Hoarseness.

Messrs. Seth W. Fowle & Sons:

Gentlemen.—Miss S. Burns, of 17th and Centre streets, has long been a sufferer from a severe cough and hoarseness, which I considered chronic. She was treated by some of our most eminent physicians, but they were only able to afford her temporary relief. I prescribed Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, the use of four bottles of which entirely cured her, as it is now four months since she took the last of it, during which time she has had no return of the complaint. For the good of suffering humanity Miss Burns has requested me to lay the case before the public. Yours truly,

THE BETTER PART.

If men cared less for wealth and fame,
And less for trickery and glory;
If wrist in human hands became
Second better than trophy and story;
If men heeded of worldly pride,
Would learn to hate and to abhor it.
If more relied
On love to guide,
We all would be the better for it.

If man dealt less in stocks and lands,
And more in bonds and deeds fraternal;
If love's work had more willing hands
To link this world to the supernal;
If men stewed up love's oil and wine,
And on bruised human hearts would pour it;
If "yours" and "mine"
Would once combine,
We all would be the better for it.

If mens would not the play of Life,
And fewer spoil it in rehearsal;
If Bigotry would sheathe his knife
Till good humanness more universal;
If priest-craft, gray with ages grown,
Had fewer blind men to adore it—
If talent shone
In Truth alone,
We all would be the better for it.

If men were wise in little things—
Affecting less in all their dealings;
If hearts had fewer rusted strings
To isolate their kindly feelings;
If men, when Wrong bears down the Right,
Would strike together and restore it—
If Right made Might
In every fight,
We all would be the better for it.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

In selecting fruit trees, or any others, be careful to choose those with smooth, healthy-looking bark, which have entirely shed their leaves. Trees on which the leaves remain after frost sets in, and stick to the branches, may be regarded as not healthy, and in some way lacking stamina.

Sun Flowers for Poultry.—Every poultry-keeper who has any extent of territory may raise a quantity of common sun-flowers upon his premises with the greatest of ease. The seed of this flower produces its thousand fold annually and will grow luxuriantly anywhere—around the inside of the fences or walls of your place, without any trouble as regards cultivation. Plant the seed a foot apart in any soil, and they will do well. In the fall, when ripe, they furnish large returns, and these seeds may be fed to your fowls to great advantage once or twice a week, and are eaten by poultry with avidity and profit.

Onion Culture.—There is no vegetable, if we except the potato, that comes into more general use than the onion. It is inseparable from a good stew, stuffing or hash. The ground should be dug deep, well pulverized, well levelled and made of great richness with any kind of well rotted manure, but manure from the hog pen is much the best; or the seed may be sown at once in drills in ground prepared as above. The drills should be fifteen or eighteen inches apart, so as to give room for hoeing; if too thick they can be thinned out to four inches apart in the drills and transplanted in the spaces between the drills. Onions need a great deal of water, and should be kept always moist to give them great size and to make them tender and sweet. Keep them free from weeds and the dirt from the bulb so that it has room to expand and vegetate on top of the ground and you will have no difficulty in raising onions of great size and the very best quality.

Remedy for Scratches on Grease.—Take 1 pint of fish oil; 1 ounce of verdigris; 1 tablespoonful of salt; heat well, and stir thoroughly; and then add 2 oz. of white hellebore powder, and 3 oz. of sulphur; stir as it cools. Then rub in with end of fingers filling all cracks. After a day or two, wash thoroughly with castile soap, and rub nearly dry, when fill all the hair, as well as the sore, with dry sulpher. Use the salve until all the scabs come off, when only the sulpher need be used. If scabs show again, use salve again. Whenever the legs are wet, dry with the sulphur. Use and report.

Leather Horseshoes.—Mention is made of an English horseshoe "constructed of three thicknesses of cowhide compressed into a steel mould, and then subjected to a chemical preparation." The "claims" for it are, that it adheres so closely as not to permit water to penetrate between the shoe and hoof; never causes the hoof to split, or in any way injures the foot; is so elastic the step is lighter and surer; needs no calks, as even on rock the wearer never slips; and, finally, is more durable than iron, and only one-quarter as heavy.

Parsnips contain almost twice as much dry matter or real food as turnips and this of a superior quality. Carrots, again, contain about as much dry substance as mangolds but are richer in sugar and of better feeding quality.

Good seasoned muck is of immense service to farmers when used as an absorbent, and the stalls for animals should be so constructed as to admit of a wide passage in the rear, with generous room for the muck to be used daily with the droppings.

The French Journal d'Agriculture Pratique states that worms in pots can always be got rid of by using for the plants water to which a tenth part of grated horse chesnut has been added. Under this treatment, it is said, the worms must either fly or die.

A kitchen garden should have all the permanent beds—such as rhubarb, asparagus, strawberry and cold-frame and hot-beds, herb, small salad and radish beds—all together. Grapes, raspberries, blackberries, gooseberries, currants and pear and peach trees can be grown alongside of the fence or on the sides of the large walk, being careful to plant the trees wide enough apart so that they will not keep the sun from the vegetables. Manure and cultivate well, and aim to produce the best.

Lime as a Fertiliser.—It is a great mistake for farmers to consider lime as a direct fertiliser for plants, for it is not except to a very limited extent. If lime was a manure, then its application in large quantities would be beneficial, but the effect is quite the contrary, and while the results of a first application to some soils is often quite remarkable, a second time may leave the land totally barren.

Cure for Lice or Cattle.—A correspondent of the Country Gentleman gives the following sure and safe remedy for killing lice on animals. "A month ago I bought a colt, and after getting him home I found that he was infested with lice. I did not like to apply the various solutions and powders used to destroy lice—it being winter. I recollected that when a boy in England, I had seen a gardner fumigate house plants with his pipe and tobacco, to kill lice. I procured from a beekeeper here the instrument that he smokes bees with. It is a tin box holding about an ounce of tobacco, with a nozzle or pipe at each end, one end permanent: the other end to screw on; fill it with tobacco, set fire to it, and blow the smoke into the hair thoroughly all over the animal. Three such pipes will fumigate any animal with sure death to the lice.

Selection of Crops.—In selecting crops to plant, it should be borne in mind that the growth of some crops impoverishes the soil more than that of others, and also that some make richer manure than others. A crop of red clover, for instance, does not impoverish the soil as one of timothy grass, while a ton of clover hay will make manure worth about half as much again as that made from an equal weight of timothy hay. The manure from a given weight of peas and beans, also, it has been calculated, is worth as much as that from an equal weight of oats, rye barley or Indian corn.

Saving Wheat or Horseback.—A sack or sack is made fast in front of the rapper, while the bridle rein is attached to each of his feet. He then uses both hands, scattering both right and left, while the horse is guided by the feet. This foot arrangement is no improvement.

DOMESTIC NOTES.

For Marmalade Pudding, take of bread crumbs half pound, beef shet very finely chopped six ounces, mix the two together with three tablespoonfuls of marmalade, three table-spoonfuls of powdered loaf sugar, the juice and grated rind of a lemon, and a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, then gradually stir into the mixture three eggs beaten up; pour into a plain mould, and steam it for three and a half hours. Serve with marmalade sauce.

To Preserve Moths.—If a small piece of paper or linen, moistened with turpentine, be placed in wardrobes or drawers, two or three times a year, it will effectually prevent any damage from moths. When furs are packed away in the spring, they should be beaten well with a rattan, in order to dislodge any eggs of the moth; afterwards brush thoroughly and sew up carefully in a linen pillow case; over all, pin newspapers, leaving no crevice where an insect could insinuate itself. It would be well to paste the edge of the paper together. If well done, you need not fear for the most valuable furs.

To Tan a Skin with the Fur on.—Flesh and clean the hide; wash out in luke warm water, salt and soap. Take one gallon rain water, one gill sulphuric acid, a little salt, and a small piece of alum; put the hide in this bath; let it remain one-half hour, then wash out well in warm rain water and soap, rub dry, and grease with neat's foot or other good oil.

To Take Rust out of Steel.—Wrap the steel up in a soft cloth well saturated with kerosene: let it remain 24 hours or longer, then scour the rusty spots off with brick-dust. If badly rusted, use salt with hot vinegar; after scouring, rinse every particle of brick-dust or salt off with boiling hot water; dry thoroughly, then polish off with a clean flannel cloth and a little sweet oil.

Flour, two pounds; butter, a quarter of a pound; sugar, ginger. Make a paste with yeast, four spoonfuls, and warm milk a sufficient quantity. A quarter of a pound of well washed currants may be added. This will make plain buns.

If rusted boots are occasionally dressed with petroleum between the soles and the upper leather, they will not rip. If the soles of boots and shoes are dressed with petroleum they will resist wet and wear well. The pegs, it is said are not affected by dryness after being well saturated with the liquor.

Tailor's Chalk for Grease-Spots.—Tailor's chalk is one of the best things to remove greases from dresses. Simply rub the chalk on the spot and let it remain a few hours; or place the dress on the ironing-table with a brown paper underneath; place another brown paper and a warm iron over that, and let them stay until cold; brush off the chalk, and, if the grease is still visible, try again.

To Clean Feathers.—Cover the feathers with a paste made of pipe-clay and water, rubbing them one way only. When quite dry shake off all the powder and curl with a knife. Grebe feathers may be washed with white soap in soft water.

Hop Yeast.—Take six potatoes and eight good-sized hops, and boil in three quarts of water, tying the hops in a bag; into a stone jar put one cup of flour, one cup of white sugar, and one-half cup of salt, stir all together with a little of the boiling water the hops are cooking in; when the potatoes are done take the hops out and pour the rest of the water into the jar, leaving the potatoes whole; they must not be mashed but left in the yeast until it is used up, and then thrown away. Let the potato water cool before adding the yeast; set in a warm place to rise; when the yeast has risen, take out a pint and keep by itself to start the next with. To sponge the bread, take to quarts of new milk and scald—not boil; set away until nearly cool, then stir in some flour and add one pint of yeast. This makes four loaves.

SCIENTIFIC AND MEDICAL.

Antidote to Strychnine.—A correspondent of Nature saved the life of a terrier, which had been poisoned by the sixth of a grain of strychnine, by injecting, under the animal's skin, forty-five grains of chloral in solution.

Persons troubled with neuralgia will be glad to learn a cure. Two drops of laudanum in one half teaspoonful of warm water, and dropped into the ears will give immediate relief.

Corns.—If possible remove all pressure from the corn, using one of the circular plasters, which have a small piece cut out from the middle. The corn will then gradually disappear. We have heard that a slice of lemon bound on the corn over-nigh will make it so that it can easily be removed.

Lemon juice and glycerine, equal parts, are recommended as infallible in removing tan and freckles. For cleansing, softening, and whitening the skin of the hands and face, nothing can be better. Apply at night and wash in the morning.

A Cure.—Every little while we read of some one who has stuck a rusty nail in his foot or some other part of his person, and lockjaw has resulted therefrom. All such wounds can be healed without any fatal results following them. The remedy is simple: It is only to smoke such wound or any wound that is inflamed with burning wool or woolen cloth. Twenty minutes in the smoke will take the pain out of the worst case of inflammation arising from any wound.

Ear-Ache.—The Journal of Health gives the following: "There is scarcely any ache to which children are subject, so hard to bear and difficult to cure as the ear-ache. But there is a remedy, never known to fail. Take a bit of cotton batting, put upon it a pinch of black pepper, gather it up and tie it, dip in sweet oil, and insert into the ear. Put a flannel bandage over the head to keep it warm. It will give immediate relief.

A Good Diet for an Invalid.—Warranted not to injure the well. Crumb crackers into a bowl—more or less, according to the size of the crackers. Pour boiling water, sufficient to soak them, over the crumbs. Break a fresh egg, and add quickly, stirring the whole rapidly. The boiling water cooks the egg. Season according to discretion, with salt, pepper, cream, or butter.

Milk and Lime-Water are now frequently prescribed by physicians in case of dyspepsia and weakness of the stomach. Often when the functions of digestion and assimilation have been seriously impaired, a diet of bread milk, and lime-water will be found beneficial. Procure a few lumps of unslacked lime, put the lime in a stone jar, add water until the lime is slacked, and of, about the consistence of thin cream, the lime settles, leaving the pure clear lime water on top. Three or four tablespoonfuls of it may be added to a goblet of milk.

Unhealthy Gums.—Unhealthy gums are very common. A lotion made from the following receipt will be found valuable in restoring them to a healthy condition:—Carbolic acid, 20 drops; spirits of wine, two drachms; distilled water, six ounces. Use first a soft toothbrush with water, after which pour on a second toothbrush, slightly damped a little of the above lotion. After using this for a short time the gums become less tender, and the impurity of the breath, which is commonly caused by bad teeth, will be removed.

Relief for Burning Feet.—To relieve burning feet, first discard tight boots; then take one pint of bran and one ounce of bicarbonate of soda, put in a pail, and add one gallon of hot water; when cold enough soak your feet in this mixture for fifteen minutes. The relief is instantaneous. This must be repeated every night for a week, or perhaps more. The bran and bi-carbonate should be made fresh each week's use. Bi-carbonate of soda can be purchased for about ten cents a pound from wholesale druggists. The burning sensation is produced by the pores of the skin being closed, so that the feet do not perspire.—New York Times.

THIS MONTH WE COMMENCE THE PUBLICATION OF Dolan's Ladies Journal.

In presenting it to our Lady Friends we have made ample arrangements to make it all the name implies. Our object is two-fold to form a closer intimacy with our Customers, and to present to them monthly a fair representation of the changes ever going on in the World of Fashion. The Journal will not be altogether devoted to Fashion, but will contain Literary Selections, short Sketches, Chit-chat, Valuable Information, and a large amount of Useful and Entertaining Matter. The Journal will be published early in the month, and will contain Illustrations of the Fashions for the same, as they appear in Demorest's Magazine. Those introduced, we leave the Journal to those it is intended for, trusting that our efforts to please and interest will be appreciated, and that the Journal will be welcome on its merits alone. ESTABLISHED 1858.

GEO. A. COX would respectfully intimate to the insuring public of Peterborough and Vicinity that for over 19 years he has been doing a successful and steadily increasing Insurance business; the many losses that have occured during that time have EVERY ONE been promptly and honorably paid, and NOT A SINGLE CLAIM CONTESTED.

He still continues to solicit business for such old and reliable companies as THE ROYAL OF LIVERPOOL established in 1845. Assets over Nineteen Millions of Dollars.

READY.

BY MARTIN F. TUPPER.

When Alfred Queen Athelney fought—
Those pleasing thoughts that the Bard hath taught,
Decisive to his fate he no quarter sought,
But cut his back'd, and stubbornly fought
His foes of the Heathen Foe!

And brave Queen Bess, when at Tilbury Fort
She rode out stern and stout,
Throng'd by her People, her Guards and her Court,
When Drake in the Channel, and Howard in Port,
O how that old Queen of the Pope made sport
And jeer'd at a Spanish Foe!

And now, well muster'd on Wimbledon Heath,
Victoria's sons will show
How wisely—tho' friends—we are armed to the teeth,
And care for no Power on earth, or beneath,
—Should even a "faithful ally" slip sheath
And come sword in hand as a Foe!

Ready—ay, Ready; for Freedom we stand;
And as the wide world shall know
That, girt by her children, one brotherly band,
Riflemen swarming all over the land,
With plenty of Drakes in the Channel at hand,
Old England fears no Foe!

POLITICAL NOTES.

The elections for the Dominion Parliament will probably not take place until late in the fall—perhaps November. The present House does not expire until March, 1879, and there will, therefore, be no necessity of any haste to elect a new one.

Dr. Forbes Watson, in a paper lately read before the Royal Colonial Institute, declares that her Colonies constitute "the element on which the future greatness of England mainly depends. At no distant date we may hope to see both the Mother Country and her colonies merged into one great federated empire."

Sir John in the House objected to giving power to Postmasters throughout the country to intercept improper publications, suspicious documents, etc., "knowing as he did the character of many of these gentlemen." Inasmuch as the only Postmasters he can have any particular acquaintance with are his own political friends who got into office when he was Premier, it was rather an unkind cut.

A correspondent at the capital says the Quebec members who have been visiting their homes report that the chances that Mr. Joly will be sustained are brighter and brighter, and that there are the best reasons for believing the province will give a lasting Liberal majority. The Tories have tried to raise a cry of interference from Ottawa, but instead of being received with curtes, as was hoped has been lustily cheered, though it was an untrue one.

A Short and Sharp Method.—A Tory journal, published in a neighboring city, has hit upon a short and sharp though quite original, way of settling the political difficulty in Quebec. Here it is in the writer's own words:

"While we think the assassin of Lincoln entertained wrong views, and was prompted by erroneous motives in the commission of his great crime, we do not think the people of Canada would think it an undeserved punishment were Lieutenant-Governor St. Just, of the Province of Quebec, to meet his doom at the hands of an enraged populace."

Just let's see who would be benefitted by a high tariff, which according to the Tory programme is going to regenerate the country. In 1871, the industrial classes numbered 213,000, of whom no less than 190,000 were butchers, bakers, blacksmiths, and like trades, who don't want the tariff adjusted, leaving only 23,000, for whom it is proposed to tax, over 4,000,000 persons. If we take out the stove makers, boot makers, implement makers, cotton spinners, &c., &c., who by their own statements are doing well enough, there wouldn't be a corporal's guard left to be protected.

Says the New York World: Sir John Macdonald has no convictions on the subject of the tariff, but has been speaking at one place for "incidental protection," and at the next city for the Chinese wall system, just as the taste of the local Opposition demanded, while his lieutenants have been advocating "agricultural protection." Precisely who is to be benefitted by the "national policy" we cannot see.

"An Honest Confession."—Conservative journals are making great ado over the alleged "honest confession" of the Paris Star, which has come out in support of Sir John Macdonald. The fact is simply that there were two Reform papers in Paris, and one of them has been purchased by the Conservatives of North Brant to assist in the effort to defeat Mr. Fleming in the coming elections.

In order to prove their assertion that the Kaministiquia and Fort Frances affairs were extravagances the Opposition have obtained Committees of enquiry and are summoning witnesses from Thunder Bay and all other parts of the country, who will travel long journeys to reach Ottawa, live in high style at the Russell House for some weeks, and run up big bills for the country to pay. And then they find out nothing wrong after all. Good fun for the witnesses; and perhaps the people who have to pay for it all like it. Conservative economy.

John A's Extravagance.—Another instance of the illegal and extravagant manner in which Sir John Macdonald squandered the public money while in office has been brought to the surface. The Public Accounts for 1874 contain an item of $1,200 paid to Desparats, of the Canadian Illustrated News, for which it cannot be shown that any value was received in the way of printing or advertising for the Government. There were two payments of $600 each, one in July, 1872, the other in Sept., 1874. About the dates mentioned there appeared in the Canadian Illustrated News portraits of Lord and Lady Dufferin and of Sir John and his Cabinet colleagues. The $1,2000 was no doubt given to the proprietor of the Illustrated News to pay for the vanity of Sir John and his colleagues, who desire to see their handsome faces in print accompanied by glowing autobiographies, which an admiring country no doubt supposed was a tribute from the pen of some independent journalist. There appears to be nothing in the way of luxuries, from cabs to cartes de visite, that Sir John and his associates did not help themselves to at the public expense while in office.—Free Press.

The London "Times" on Sir John Macdonald.

An outside opinion is very apt to be a true one, especially if it has been formed on a knowledge of the facts in the case; and this gives some value to the estimate which the London Times places on Sir John Macdonald and his clap-trap "National Policy" resolution. The Times seems to sympathize with Sir John to some extent in his misfortunes; at all events it does not want him to hurt himself any more than he has done. So it thinks that "his conduct is to "be regretted in the interests of a reputation that requires rather carefulhandling." When in office he showed a somewhat "distressing carelessness as to the means "of retaining power, and cynical negligence of the purity of his administration." This is very severe, but it cannot be said to be undeserved. The Times proceeds to express its regret that Sir John was unable to resist the temptation of professing to be a "Protectionist" against his own common sense, and playing with those who have Protectionist leanings with the intention of getting rid of them and their demands if he ever should become a Cabinet Minister again.

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

The American Eye-Salve is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and Old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the American Eye-Salve. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. Pettit's American Eye-Salve," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its affect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TICDOLORUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

FAREWELL.

At the close of the last of the series of dramatic entertainments at Seldom Hall, Lady Dudfein recited an original farewell poem. We quote the last stanza of the "Farewell":

And now, one last Farewell—a few months more

And we depart your loved Canadian shore.
Never again to hear your plaudits rise,
Nor watch the ready laughter in your eyes
Gleam out responsive to our author's wit,
However poorly worthy we get it;
Nor see with artist pride your tears o'erflow
In homage to our simulated woe.
Yet scenes like these can never wholly fade
Into oblivion's melancholy shade,
And oft at home, when Christmas fire logs burn
Our pensive thoughts instinctively will turn
To this fair city with her crown of towers,
And all the joys and friends that once were ours.
And oft shall yearning fancy fondly fill
This hall with guests, and conjure up at will
Each dear familiar face, each kindly word
Of praise, that o'er our player souls hath stirred.
Till 'neath the making spell of memory
Our love flows back toward you like a sea;
For know—whatever way our fortunes turn—
Upon the altars of our hearts shall burn
Those votive fires no fuel need renew,
Our prayers for blessings on your land and you.

NORWOOD.

FINLAY'S HUB FACTORY.—Work has again commenced in Mr. Finlay's Hub Factory.

PERSONAL.—We are glad to see our old friend, Mr. T. M. Grover, Barrister, back to our village again, to resume the practice of his profession here.

A BREAK.—On Monday evening last, about eight o'clock, a considerable portion of the floor of the second story of Mr. N. B. Gould's back shop succombed to the weight of grain stored there, causing damage to goods underneath, and a loss of grain. Mr. Gould had only left that part of the premises a few minutes previous to the occurrence of the break.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that Mrs. Thos. Cuthbertson, of Dummer, on Friday morning last met with a very painful accident. While assisting to work a straw cutter the fingers of her left hand were caught by the feeder, and drawn in as far as the knife before the machine could be stopped running. The four fingers were severely torn and lacerated, one being almost completely cut off.—Register.

COBOURG.

FIRST RUN.—A train on the Cobourg Peterborough and Marmora Railway, made the first run of the season to Harwood on Saturday, having on board the steam yacht Alert, formerly the Grip, which is intended to make trips on Rice Lake during the summer.

ROBBERY.—On Saturday night last, some evil-designing person or persons effected an entrance into the Congregational Church in this town, and stole the wine which was to have been used for Sacrament on the following Sunday morning. Thieves are becoming so cheeky that the people will have to make application for the repeal of the law prohibiting the carrying of revolvers.

ANOTHER.—On Monday morning last, between 7 and 10 o'clock, some parties broke into Mr. Floy's house just west of the town, and carried off a valise, a pair of trousers, and a blacking brush. They obtained entrance by forcing open a cellar window. We hear also that a house near the residence of Hon. S. Smith was entered one day last week and some clothing stolen. It evidently won't do to leave things around loose.

THE BAND has received new uniforms,—black pants with white stripe, red coats trimmed with yellow, and a fatigue cap, with yellow band and a gold button,—in which they present a very neat appearance.—Star.

LINDSAY.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Master Leister Coulter, son of Dr. Coulter's, while "teetering" the other day, unfortunately fell, sustaining a fracture of the small bone of the arm, in addition to which his wrist was dislocated.

OFF FOR MANITOBA.—A party of about 40 persons consisting chiefly of strapping young fellows arrived by the Victoria Railway on Tuesday last "en route" to Manitoba. They go by way of Detroit, Chicago and Duluth to Fisher's Landing, from which point they proceed by wagon to their destination. They took with them from here horses, wagons and agricultural implements. Mr. Langton, of Minden, who accompanies them, was in charge.

NABBED AND JUGGED.—Chief Constable Smart informs us that on Tuesday last he succeeded in capturing and jugging John Fitzpatrick, for whom there has been a warrant issued for some time, on the charge of stealing a cow. He is also suspected of having committed a number of thefts in town and country.

MASONIC EXCURSION.—Preliminary arrangements have already been made for a grand excursion to Buffalo, under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity of this district, on Dominion Day. The route proposed is by Midland Railway to Port Hope, thence by Grand Trunk to Georgetown, and from there to Buffalo by the Hamilton and North West cars. The fare for the round trip is to be at a very low figure, and the tickets made good for seven days, thus enabling those that wish, the opportunity of visiting Niagara Falls and other places of interest.

MEETING IN INSOLVENCY.—A largely attended meeting of creditors and others interested in the estate of Mr. C. L. Baker, was held at the Court House last Thursday afternoon. After considerable discussion a proposition made by Mr. Baker for the payment of unsecured debts, of fifteen cents in the dollar, in three, six, nine and twelve months, was accepted.—Warder.

NEARLY SUFFOCATED.—A little girl of Mr. Geo. Wesm's was nearly suffocated on Monday morning last by a cat which had placed itself on the little one's breast and putting its head close to her mouth prevented respiration. The parents discovered the condition of the child just in time to save its life. Parents cannot be too careful in keeping cats away from the sleeping apartments of children.

FAIR WEIGHT.—Our reports from all parts of this country show that the fall wheat was struck in a better condition. It has wintered remarkably well, and now its fields are green and beautiful. Farm work for the season is in an unusually forward state, and the prospect is that our friends in the country will have plenty of time in June to go to the polls and cast their ballots en bloc for Mr. Mackenzie. There is a suspicions among some of our town Tories that the Premier has brought the spring on earlier in order to surprise the Opposition by a midnight march, and it really looks as if there was some ground for it.—Post.

THE SKIRMISHING FUND.

The O'Donovan Rossa fund, which that worthy has been collecting for the past two years for the avowed purpose of "hurting" England in some mysterious way, has reached $50,000?, but the "patriots" are beginning to lose faith, and some of them openly denounce the scheme as a swindle. The name having been changed from the "skirmishing fund" to the "Irish national fund," and a new set of trustees having obtained possession, Dennis J. Mulcahy, of New York, who has hitherto been active in aiding the project, asks a supreme court injunction restraining them from expending the money, and Rev. Father James P. Ryan, of St. Paul's Church, last Sunday "came out" pretty strongly telling his congregation to "beware of frauds and humbugs. Keep your eye on the dynamite patriot and the "skirmishing fund adventurer." Meanwhile Rossa, ably seconded by the Irish World is pulling every wire to scrape together additions to the fund from his poor countrymen's hard won savings, and received $878 last week, mostly in dollar contributions. Poetical and pictorial circulars are scattered broadcast, which hint mysteriously that something terrible is soon to befall England, and that the Irish patriot's opportunity is not far off. There certainly ought to be some way of putting an end to this heartless swindle.—Springfield Republican.

THE USE OF FLIES.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 18, 1878

A FARCE PLAYED OUT.

The debate in the House of Commons on the Brown-Ross motion for a duty on wheat and flour imported into Canada, ended in a crushing defeat for the fallacious doctrine of agricultural protection. After the question had been freely discussed the vote stood 148 nays to 28 yeas, or five to one against the resolution. And, what is more to the point, of the two dozen and a quarter members who voted for the motion not one is a farmer, all the agriculturists in the House going against the absurdity of a tax on the poor man's loaf, on pretence of protection to the most independent industry in the world. No one member from Quebec voted for the resolution, though that province, at present sends the great bulk of the Opposition. Not one of the Quebec Tories dare vote for a wheat and flour tax and go back to his constituents with any hope of re election. Twenty-five of the twenty-eight were from Ontario, all Tories but the seconder of the resolution; unless, indeed, the mover be considered no longer a Tory, seeing that some of the Opposition organs in their rage at this defeat, show an inclination to read him out of their party. New Brunswick, like Quebec, did not give the bread tax a single vote; neither did Prince Edward Island; while but one member each from Nova Scotia, British Columbia and Manitoba could be found willing to encourage a restoration of the old and execrated Corn Law. The only prominent Opposition members who voted for the resolution were Sir John Macdonald, T. N. Gibbs, and Mackenzie Bowell, the others all shirking the vote or going against their chief, for fear of popular retribution at the polls. The kind of support given the motion is thus summed up by a correspondent at the capital:—

> Mr. Brown, who moved it, is an iron founder in Belleville, while Mr. Ross, of East Durham, is a dry goods merchant. Of those who spoke in favor of it, there were the Messrs. Gibbs, from Ontario, both merchants and millers: Sir John Macdonald, lawyer; Mr. Bowell, newspaper proprietor; Mr. Orton, doctor and brewer; Mr. Farrow, pedant and schoolmaster; Mr. Stephenson, newspaper printer; Mr. Wallace (Norfolk,) ditto; Mr. McCallum, shipbuilder; Mr. Campbell, coal mine owner; Mr. Jones (Leeds) implement manufacturer; Mr. Little, a retired sailor, and Mr. McQuade, a sort of nondescript.

Since the defeat of this motion the Tory press has been diligent in declaring that it was only so much clap-trap, intended by its mover and seconder to catch the votes of the farmers. But Sir John Macdonald supported this clap-trap motion both with voice and vote; because it was just like his own clap-trap resolution wherein "protection to our agricultural interests" was contained. In condemning Mr. Brown and Mr. Ross the Tory papers condemn their own party leader. The question was fairly before the House of Commons for consideration on its merits, and the House gave a very proper and decisive vote against the proposal to tax wheat and flour. If the object of Messrs. Ross & Brown was to catch votes they are, judging from the reception their resolution met with, likely to be disappointed in their calculation. Would the Tories, who accuse these two men of carrying favor with their farmer constituents be surprised if both are defeated at next election, though their constituencies are largely made up of the agricultural class. If such should be the result, it would go far to disprove the Tory assumption that the votes of farmers can be captured by men who would pretend to put money in the wheat grower's pocket by taking the bread out of the mouths of his poorer neighbours. We have a great curiosity to know how many of the twenty-eight names comprising the yeas of that division will be found on the roll of the House of Commons next session. We now venture the prediction that a number of them will not.

THE Lakefield News has the grace to admit its error in regard to its pointing out whom it supposed to be the editor of the EXAMINER, but maintains that its conduct was not unprofessional. The decision of that question can very well be left to the profession. We are quite satisfied with the News' correction of its former attempt to publish the personal history of the EXAMINER's editor, which it will then ready to be known by his neighbour's opinions, to defend them when necessary; and to appeal at the proper tribunal for judgment as to their PROTECTION AND THE WORKINGMAN.

Those who of late have been advocating protection in Canada have shown an unusual interest in the workingmen, as well as in the farmer. "Support to home manufactures" involved such a direct suggestion of gain to the manufacturers at the expense of those who must buy their wares, that something had to be done to cover up this ugly feature if possible. Accordingly the farmers and workingmen, who must suffer the loss whereby the gain of protected manufacturers would be made up, are met with glittering promises, the one class being promised protection in its turn, and the other appealed to with specious pictures of more work to do. The agricultural protection fallacy having been pretty well exposed already, we shall now deal with protection as it affects the interests of the workingman.

In the first place a simple encouragement of capital from one channel to another gives no gain to the country; and hence no advantage accrues to the workingman, even as a factor in the community. But those who have been working in businesses from which capital is diverted, and which are consequently closed or weakened, will certainly suffer for want of the employment on which they depended up to the time a tariff change took it from them. Not only so; the forcing of capital into particular channels would create an extraordinary demand for labour of certain kinds, and induce the influx of men to engage in such lines of work. This would directly lead to a lowering of wages in these channels, because of the inordinate supply of hands, and the increased competition among so many. No doubt the pampered industries would thrive for a time by the gain of decreased wages, and this would help them to last a little longer in their high-pressure race with each other; but in the end the manufacturing competition encouraged by protection would produce its natural fruit, an over supply. This result would be hastened by the restriction placed on foreign trade, and the shutting up of Canadians within their own country as a market, because those from whom we refuse to buy cannot be expected to buy from us. Commercial exchanges are necessarily destroyed by tariff restrictions.

Since the days of Adam Smith it has been accepted as an economic axiom, that the true standard of value is labour. The real worth of anything is the toil and trouble it can save to him, and which it can impose on other people. Money as well as other commodities, is the result of labour more or less remote, all increase of rational as of personal, comes from the sweat of the brow of the artisans and labourers. Only by an increase of productive labour can the wealth of Canada or any other country be made greater. Capital may be brought in, and applied to all kinds of improvements, but only as these are productive by reason of labour employed can they add to the general wealth. Diversion of capital from one Canadian industry to another, will do no more good than robbing one man and giving the plunder to another, on the old-fashioned plan pursued by Robin Hood and his merry men. Stagnation of production follows the locking up of capital in idleness, or its being put into losing enterprises. Labour being the true measure of national as of other wealth, a truly "national policy" must take into consideration the protection of labour. But while the policy of the Tory party in Canada professes to protect certain interests, it says nothing of the interests of the workingman, the foundation of all interests. Why not begin at the root, and protect labour? Why not protect the workingman by putting a heavy tax on immigrants?

While the workingmen are told protection to employers of labour will give more work, farmers are informed that an increase in the number of workingmen will give them a bigger home market. This increase in the number of workingman is just where the trouble comes in from the workingman's stand point. We have already in Canada more artizans than can find steady employment at good prices, and the introduction of others would still further depreciate the price of labour, while protection would still further act against the true wealth of the country by increasing the cost of the workingman's living. It will be seen that the so-called "national policy" begins at the wrong end. If any protection is national in its character it must be protection to labour. But it may be asked, "How can labour be protected?" We are forced to answer that we do not know, except it be by giving it lots of elbow room and letting it take care of itself, certainly labour cannot be fostered by act of Parliament, and when the source of wealth cannot be protected, it must follow that all Protectionist policies are humbugs and delusions.

MR. HALL'S WORTH.

Those who evince such unusual concern for Mr. Hall are a little late in their recognition of his worth; for while the Reformers strove successfully to place him in the representative position he has so well filled, these new-found admirers of his tried their best to prevent his election. It is not news to the Reformers to be told now by opponents that Mr. Hall was the strongest candidate. That they knew from the beginning; and that's the reason he was the party's choice for election; just as Mr. Buck is now. We are glad, however, that his political opponents are so willing to speak of Mr. Hall's great influence in the Riding; as we can assure them, that it will be added to that of Mr. Buck himself to secure the latter's election. Mr. Hall is no child to be influenced by the passing or omission of a formal resolution of thanks to him at the late Reform Convention. Votes of thanks are at best very much like giving bread and jam to appease an obstuporous baby. Mr. Hall and his constituents understand each other to well to make such a circumstance of any weight, for he knows, and they know, that he has the genuine esteem and gratitude of his fellow-Reformers, and they will be ready to show it on the first opportunity.

THE "IRISH CANADIAN."

We can assure the Irish Canadian that the Catholic electors of East Peterborough had an equal voice with their Protestant neighbours in the choice of the Reform candidate to contest, and we believe carry the Riding. Mr. Buck is well-known for his religious tolerance, and is therefore as highly respected by his Catholic fellow-electors as he possibly can be by Protestants. He was chosen as the party standard-bearer, not because of his Protestantism, or his nationality; but as the strongest candidate. Had a Catholic been appointed the best assurance he would have received the vote of the convention just as readily as Mr. Book. Circumstances being as they were Catholic Reformers in this county passive and acknowledge that a nomination simply on the basis of Irish Catholicism would have simply been a party defeat. As it is, however, there is almost a certainty that the Reformers will carry both Ridings. This the Irish Canadian itself sees, judging from its rap at the Conservatives, wherein it plainly tells them that they have "lost by selfishness, incapacity and intolerance, an opportunity to obtain a footing of victory." Is it possible that the Irish Canadian is angry because the Reformers of Peterboro began the contest with a decided advantage over their opponents? Surely not, as it professes now to have no preference for either party.

WEST RIDING CONVENTION.

As will be seen by posters and advertisement in another column, a convention of the Reformers of the West Riding, will be held in Bradburn's Hall, on Saturday, 27th, for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the Riding at the next election for the Commons. Let our friends throughout the Riding see that this, like the one held in Norwood, will be well represented from the different sections thereof.

We are on the eve of what promises to be one of the keenest political contests that ever was waged in Canada, and the Reformers of West Peterborough although victory for them is certain, should leave nothing undone to prepare for the fray. What is wanted is not mere blind enthusiasm that spends itself in shouting and arguing and making a fuss generally, but cool, steady, united and well organized effort. Elections are won by votes, and let the Reformers of Peterborough see to it, as we are sure they will, that the machinery is ready in good time to bring the votes to the polls.

A DISGRACEFUL SCENE.

The debate in the House of Commons on the Quebec crisis has brought out the leaders of political parties in their true colors. This local question that concerns the people of Quebec in particular, had to be dragged into the political arena of the Commons, in the hopes that some political capital could be made out of it, for the Conservative party. The debate too was of the most partizan kind, and brought to the surface the character of those who took them at active part in it. The constitutional aspect was lost sight of in the violent and unparliamentary manner it was discussed. Several days of the House were occupied in rehearsing stale and meaningless political tirades against the Reform party for which there is not the least foundation, accusing them of advising Lieutenant Governor Letellier to dissolve the Quebec House, so as to make political capital for the approaching elections. Unable to sustain this, they talked against time making exhibitions of inanity and folly that has rarely been witnessed in any Legislative body, and to cap the climax of their folly, some of them entered the House in a drunken state and made such spectacles of themselves as to disgust all reasonable and right thinking men of both parties. In the face of the example the Conservatives have set to the electors, can any man of intelligence support a candidate, who, if elected goes to Ottawa, pledged to support such men. Suppose a moderate temperance man were elected to support them, what would he be able to effect, surrounded and influenced by such drunkards! These are questions that concern every elector in the Dominion and should cause the people of this county to consider well to what party they should give there vote. No vote is given merely to the individual where his associates control hisactions. In voting for a party candidate it is the party that receives the support of that vote. We ask the Temperance men of this county to peruse the following extracts from an editoral in the Globe of Monday the 15th, and then ask themselves can they conscientiously support a temperance candidate, who, if elected will go to Ottawa to place those inebriates in power:

> "The disgraceful scene which took place in the House of Commons at Ottawa on Saturday morning was of such a character that it is necessary to speak of it in the plainest and most direct language. For the credit of Canada, be it said, such an exhibition is entirely unique in her history. On no previous occasion has there been seen in our legislative halls any such display of unmitigated rowdyism and such a fixed determination to set all rules and regard for decency at defiance. What adds to the gravity of this outbreak is that it came merely as the fitting close to a series of persistent efforts at obstruction carried on by the Opposition throughout the whole of the present session, with no possible object but to embarrass the Government and to make thoughtless people imagine that there was a desire on the part of the majority to circumscribe freedom of debate.
> We take no pleasure in saying what may be regarded as harsh things; but when the harshness consists in simply giving a statement of facts in the highest interests of the people of Canada, those must bear the responsibility whose conduct has rendered the exposure inevitable.
> That there was even the shadow of an excuse for such a proceeding in the case cannot be shown, and indeed is scarcely alleged. The matter under discussion had been fully ventilated.
> But even though there had been something like a reasonable excuse for persisting in talking against time so as to secure an adjournment of the debate, that would have afforded no palliation whatever for the outrageous course actually pursued by the leader of the Opposition and many of his prominent followers. Even in that case they ought to have remembered who they were and where they were, and ought to have tried at any rate to do their work of obstruction with some measure of decency.
> Did they do so? On the contrary they vied with each other in proceedings, which brought down the House of Commons to the level of one of the lowest saloons. To say that Sir John A. Macdonald was on Friday night some what under the influence of liquor, would be a grossly inadequate representation of the fact. He was simply drunk in the plain ordinary sense of that word. As the night wore on he became still more so, and from six to eight on Saturday morning he was, to quote the conventional language usually employed on such occasions, "thoroughly laid out," and had to be hid away by his friends, if not in shame at least in pity, and as an absolutely prudential proceeding.
> Shocking as such an exhibition was, it was by no means a solitary one. Mr. Macdougall, the member for Three Rivers, was also very drunk, and held the floor for two hours, uttering all the while the most unmitigated nonsense, unrelieved by even a glimmer of that wit and humour which the inebriated are sometimes credited with displaying. Was it in the interests of free discussion or from zeal for the constitutional liberties of the country that such a pitiable exhibition of drunken dulness was paraded before the "assembled wisdom" and the citizens of Ottawa?
> Nor did these two accomplished infamy of this strange scene. Mr. C. J. Campbell, the honorable member for Vhemont, E. T., shame ago, if it had been anything else, ought to have sustained him from such extraneous conduct, and exhausted his being introduced for the first time to the knowledge of the people of Canada, in the shocking condition in

THE WAR NEWS.

All kinds of wild rumours are afloat at Constantinople, which it is said, will be seized by the Russians the moment hostilities commence. In case Austria joins with England the Russians it is said will retire from Turkey, except from the principal fortresses and attack Austria from Galicia, Roumania, and Bosnia. It would seem that the Porte is determined to defend Constantinople against any attempt of the Russians to occupy it, and have 70,000 men ready to do so, with 17,000 at Gallipoli. The Turkish troops in Bosnia and Herzegovinia are coming to Constantinople by way of Salonica in order to increase the army of defence. The British Government is not idle in preparing for altered circumstances. It is at present negotiating with Sweden for a naval station on the Island of Taroe in the Baltic Sea, and roadways for agricultural and military purposes. This would place the British in a splendid position to watch the Russians. The whole Roumanian militia has been called out, and it is said that the officers and soldiers are continually quarreling with the Russians, who recently prevented a train laden with ammunition for the Roumanian army from leaving Bucharest. While all these things are in progress at the seat of war the British Parliament has decided to adjourn till the 6th of May; thus showing that very little danger is apprehended. It may be taken for granted that Russia is simply blustering for the purpose of getting a chance to lie down easy before the growling British lion.

Won't Accept the Challenge.

How utterly empty and silly were the boasts of the Tory pic-nic orators that they would "fight the beasts at Ephesus," is shown by the Parliamentary record. On the 27th of February, the Premier gave them a challenge. He said:

> These gentlemen who stated on the platform, and during their speeches, that there was corruption in letting contracts by this Government, ought to follow it up by an investigation. They ought to be able to prove that there was corruption, they ought to be prepared to bring the matter before a competent tribunal, they would not be performing their duty to the public if they did not do that. He had challenged them in public and he challenged them again to-night to do this.

The challenge of the Postmaster-General is equally explicit and manly. These are his words:

> "If the statements made by the hon. member for Kingston were true, if he believed them to be true; it was his duty—it was the duty of any man who believed them—to formulate them and bring them before the proper tribunal, or if he dared not do it, to have held his peace. It is here, under the shelter of Parliamentary authorities, that a man should practice the constitution, and he should not, under mere idle slander, attempt to consecrate a dishonest policy by which he means to gain an advantage at the polls. The very fact that he will not move for a committee, as an admission that all the charges the hon. gentleman opposite has made for the last five years, are as idle as the wind, and that he dare not formulate them."

The non-acceptance of these challenges is a tacit admission that the cowards who spoke slanders in open air-meetings were afraid to repeat them before their peers. To call Sir John a "statesman" after the miserable bravado in which he indulged at Tory pic-nics, is degrading the world to the level of poltroon.—Stratford Beacon.

DOURO.

REFORM MEETING.—The reformers of the Township Douro met at the Nine Mile House, Douro, on Thursday evening 4th inst; Mr. John Sullivan was unanimously elected Chairman and G. J. Galvin was appointed to act as secretary. The Chairman opened the meeting with a few well chosen remarks. After which the meeting proceeded to organize a reform association. The following is a list of the officers chosen Mr. John Sullivan, President. Mr. Aaron Maguire Secretary. Mr. Isaac Garbutt jr Vice President; and Messrs J. Jury and James Duff committee men. For Division No 1. Mr. J. Hogan, sr., Vice-President; and Patrick Torpy and Matthew Foley committee men. For Division No 2. Mr. William Moher, Vice-President and Christopher Quinn and John Hall committee men. For Division No 3. Mr. Michael Torpy Treasurer. The meeting was in every respect a success. The attendance was good the utmost harmony prevailed, and all parties seemed enthusiastic, and certain of success.

Hamilton Times: During the last three months 1,977 horses, valued at $146,666, have been sold in Montreal to United States buyers, and taken to the other side. This is 400 horses more than were sold at the same place during the whole of last year. The American duty on horses is twenty per cent., or, as a Tory orator pathetically put it at the Lincoln convention the other day, out of every five horses we export, one goes to pay the States duties. By the above sales, then, Canadian farmers have in accordance with this view, lost about 400 horses, or $30,000, and yet the foolish people keep on selling them! When Sir John gets into power he will put a stop to this sort of business, and carry out his great national policy by keeping Canadian horses for Canadians only. The degradation and wrong of trading with wicked foreigners will thenceforth be forever done away with, and Canadians will under his benign rule grow rich by making money out of each other only.

So far from the Tories in Parliament during the present session making good their pic-nic boasts and arousing the enthusiasm of their followers throughout the country, they are not in as good a position or in as good spirits to face the country as they were a couple of years ago. The disgraceful Moylan scandal has put Sir John back ten steps for every one he has gained, and that is overlooking the wretched disclosures of corruption unearthed during previous sessions.

Springing Trousers.—See G. W. Hotchkin's springless truss and supporter advertisement in another column.

Excursion To-morrow.—Remember the excursion, on the Golden Rye, to Idyl Wild, and Hastings to-morrow. Boat leaves the wharf at 7 o'clock a.m.

To the Ladies.—Wm. Fairweather & Co. would call special attention to the bargains they are offering in Black Silks, Velvets, Dress Silks and Real Laces.

Our Butchers.—All our butchers are making arrangements for their usual Easter display of meats. Extensive purchases have been made from our best home breeders.

A Fine Beef.—Mr. James McWilliams last week sold to Mr. George Wheeler a very excellent specimen of a fat cow for the Easter market. She weighed 1760 pounds.

Personal.—We regret to learn by telegram that Mr. Marvin Knowlton is still lying in a critical condition at the Windsor House, Ottawa, from an attack of rheumatic fever. Fears are entertained of his recovery.

For Good Friday.—Mr. G. Chamberlain has received a fresh supply of Finnan Haddies, by express yesterday for Good Friday market. They will be sold at lower prices than ever before in Peterborough.

Business, You Know.—A young swell of this town has his clothes made in Toronto. He says:—"If you get your clothes made at home you are damned for the money before they are half worn out. But from Toronto they only send the bill by mail.

Personal.—Mr. E. F. Hatton, son of D. G. Hatton, Esq., took the first of the two 1st year's scholarships at Trinity Medical College, Toronto at the recent examination. We are always glad to chronicle the advancement of any of our Peterborough boys.

Sale of Boat Racks.—We have been requested to announce that the sale of boat racks, in connection with the Boating Club, will take place at the Boat House on Monday evening, commencing at 7.30 p.m., sharp. Those interested would do well to bear this in mind.

P. D. Doran's Price List.—Mr. Doran has this week issued a reduced price list. 4,000 copies of which have been issued from this office. Every one should secure a copy and see the great bargains he is offering at the sign of the red, white and blue flag, George street. 16-1in

Oratorio.—The practising for the Oratorio of Esther is progressing favorably, the class now numbering over one hundred. We learn the entertainment will be in about two weeks. With the singing material Peterborough possesses this ought to be one of the best amateur entertainments ever given in this town.

Thos Shooting Affair.—Archy Johnston denies, through the Lakefield News, the whole story of his shooting at Fishery Overseer Cochrane, and his arrest by that officer as announced in the EXAMINER last week. Mr. Cochrane however, assures us that the statement of his arrest is true, and that the trial will take place at Lakefield on Saturday.

The Season.—Vegetation shows a rapid advance under the influence of genial rains and mild temperature. Fall-sown grain is thriving nicely, and buds on trees and bushes are almost ready to burst into leaf. The spring work of farmers and gardeners is well advanced, and a considerable amount of sowing and planting has been done. Prospects at present are highly encouraging. And all this under a Reform Government.

Musical.—To-morrow afternoon the Band will hold an open air rehearsal on George street, when the following programme of choice selections will be rendered:—

Quickstep	"See that my Grave's Kept Green."
Quadrille	"The Singing."
Polka	"Empress."
Valse	"Dear Dreams."
Selection	Rose D'Amour."
Quickstep	"Combination."
Fantasia	"Consuelo."
Schottische	"Pola."

God Save the Queen.

Harvey.—On Monday last a meeting of those favorable to the present Administration, was held in the Town Hall, Harvey—when the following officers were elected:

President	William Irwin.
Vice-President	Joseph Brodie.
Secretary	David Brodie.
Treasurer	David Brodie, sr.

Committee-men—Messrs. James Irwin, Thos. Fortune, John Graham, W. J. Northy, W. P Chase and Alex. Brodie.

Tippo Rattler.—We would say for the information of the farmers of the townships of Dummer, Asphodel, Keene, and Otonabee that Tippo Rattler will be on his old route this season, all being well; only he will go farther East, as far as Norwood and Hastings, where some of the best year old colts in the East Riding from him can be seen. Mr. Bell, informs us that out of 73 insured mares in the East Riding, there are only five that have not proved with colt this season. 16-2-1m.

County Court.—John Donoghue and Robert Treverth, two of the fire who were recently convicted before the Police Magistrate for assaulting Robert Stewart on the night of the 3rd instant, and who have since been in jail awaiting their trial came before Judge Deachtean on Monday last. After hearing evidence they were sentenced to one month each in jail, the Judge remarking that for the next offence of a similar nature he would be more severe, as he had it in his power to send them to the Central Prison.

Does Advertising Pay?—My success is owing to liberality in advertising.—Bonner. The road to fortune is through printer's ink.—P. T. Barnum. Success depends on a liberal expenditure of Printing offices.—J. J. Astor. Frequent and constant advertising brought me all I own.—A. T. Stewart. My sons, deal with men who advertise. You will never lose by it. —Ben. Franklin. How can the world know a man has a good thing unless he advertises the possession of it?—Vanderbilt? Then advertise in the EXAMINER.

Our Watering Cart.—The watering cart has at length made its appearance, handsomely decorated with advertisements of some of our city firms. This useful vehicle would undoubtedly make a better 'coalteration' of water, if the firm of Holmes & Green were bloomed upon it in yellow, as it would have been, had the opportunity been offered them. This firm in doing a rushing business, has a complete stock to which additions of Trunks, Hats, and Furnishings are made nearly every week; and its already enviable reputation is rapidly increasing. They are the coast Talkers of this section. 15-2in.

Petition in Peterborough.—The Cobourg Sentinel (Conservative) in an editorial under the above heading in the last issue, says:—

"At the Reform convention held on December last, many prominent members of the party were present, and among those we noticed the name of Mr. D. W. Dumble. Leaving out entirely party issues, we are only too glad to see that Mr. Dumble's worth is appreciated by his fellow townsmen, and we believe if he had consented to be the standard bearer of the party in the coming contest, he would have received the support of the entire Reform element in the county. It is a matter of regret to the citizens of Peterborough that the man who have left his name and good deeds as a heritage to his native town should be left out in the cold by the party he has served so faithfully

On the Death of Dr. Duff.

(Written for the Examiner.)

"He that winneth souls is wise." PROV. XI. 30.

Sad are our hearts, and bow'd beneath the tidings that has come
Of him, great herald of the truth, gone to his Heavenly home;
And high reward, while here he shone, a light of brilliance rare,
Whose lingering after-glow reveals a great one past'd away.
Gone—yet he speaketh in a voice, impassioned as of yore,
When pleading in soul-stirring words for son's on India's shore.
Ev'n now there from anguish'd hearts, from briny tears that roll
Down olive cheeks and eloquence that thrills our inmost soul:
"Forget not India; forget not thousands die each day Who've ne'r heard of Heaven, of Christ the only way."
How small and how unpromising, the work when first begun,
But by God's blessing on his work, he saw the little one
Become a thousand, and the seed he sow'd by his busy hand
Took root and flourish'd, till soon he saw rich harvests stand
All ready for the harvesting. But, where the reapers, where,
To cut the golden grain, and bind the sheaves and homeward bear?
'Twas this impell'd him oft to cross the ocean wave to seek
More helpers in his native land, constraining him to speak
Such words of fervidness that shook the whole church to the core,
And caus'd them nobly to respond, but still he, ask'd for more;
Yes, plead for more, for he had seen what made his heart to bleed,
A myriad hung'ring souls, but could not satisfy their need.

How good, how noble, and how great his life-work here below,
Surpassing grand, view'd by the results that ever onward flow.
What honors now are his, and what illustrious renown;
What glory will irradiate his many soul-stor'd crown."
We need no costly monument erected to his name,
Or chisel'd marble rare. No, his, when earth dissolv'd in flame
Shall pass away, immortal still in freshness shall remain
Engrav'd on hearts for whom he lived on Hindi's sultry plain.
But how can we most show how much we prize his matchless worth,
And gratitude for what he did—'twill be by sending forth
The very best our church can give to labor with the same
True soul inspir'd, and ardor in declaring Jesus name.

O, how can saints refuse to give their treasures at his call,
Address'd to ev'ry one:—"Go preach the Word to nations all,"
For they who give their pray'rs and means with those who go, unite
In scatt'ring heathen darkness by diffusing gospel light.
O, that all Christians would arise and strenuous efforts make,
Shake off the dust of worldly ease, from carnal sleep awake,
And consecrate themselves afresh and willing offerings bring,
Till loins afar due homage pay to Salem's glorious King.
For this Jehovah's gracious pledge a preach'd word shall fulfil,
The thing for which it purpos'd is according to His will.

A noble life, what one deserves the name of greatness more
Than he who in a foreign land, far from his native shore,
Toils on amid discouragements, perhaps for many years,
E're to his longing eyes the fruit of earnest work appears;
No kind friend in adversity his fainting heart to cheer,
With words of hopeful comfort when the way seems dark and drear.
But not alone, no, he can claim the blessed promise given
To His disciples as our Lord ascended into Heaven.
And thus our Saviour's presence is vouchsaf'd unto the end,
To comfort, strengthen and uphold, to bless him and defend
And shield him from the dangers that 'neath heathen darkness lurk,
And fill his soul with sweet delight and gladness in the work;
For blessed joy it is to tell a Saviour's dying love,
And then the glorious recompense of the reward above.

—E. B.

GRANGERS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—A long letter appeared in yours of March 14 styled "Advice to Grangers." Said letter I deny in toto being written by a Granger, for reasons plain enough to every impartial reader, which I will attempt to establish; however, styling himself a Granger we accept him as such.

Now, sir, I fully agree with Granger, and congratulate the country that the cash system is being largely acted on by merchants and others, and I have no doubt in saying the Grange has been the direct means of bringing about the much needed change, but at the same time we want no class of men to make themselves martyrs on our account. We are always willing to allow a fair margin of profit. How happy the idea of Grangers' friend to send our cash and orders to Peterborough to support a legitimate home trade. Now, sir, if he was a Granger, he would have his ticket and purchase his own goods in our stores, and no orders given by the Grange, when within reach of the store. The only object in view is alluding to this home purchasing, is injury to the order. There is not a Granger near Peterborough, but knows we have different kinds of stores—blacksmithe, waggon, buggy, and plough shops, of every description in Peterborough; stores and shops wherein we can purchase from a sewing needle to a thrashing machine. The only store we have not in Peterboro' is groceries, and will not till they come more in accordance with our views. "Friend of the Grange" is sorry while selling his farm produce in Peterborough, that he was not purchasing their goods in return, except at 15 per cent over invoice price. He can purchase all he wants and pay all the storekeepers like to charge him. No Granger will find fault with him. A word about the invoice system. I don't believe any Granger has availed themselves of the privilege accorded them by the arrangement with the merchant of our organization; but, sir, could any one read his scale of figures without coming to the conclusion that we had got Dean Swift amongst us. He places the farmers as the producers, and Mr. Townsman as purchaser at his figure of 35 per cent below the price asked. According to his argument the merchant stands on the same footing as Mr. Townsman: Having purchased his goods from the producer or forwarding merchant, a Grangers' friend has now got them on the same level, and either finding his foot getting into an iron boot, or not having brains enough to see his error stops; but I come now to the consumer who goes to Mr. Townsman, alias the merchant wishing to purchase, who modestly tell him, although bought at cash value at 35 per cent below the price asked, I must put that on again and a little more to meet all those unseen risks, till a man has passed through the mill. Referring to straw which affects our friends saddle, I can never see how any good farmer can sell it, I consider every good load of straw sold would be worth five dollars as manure on any farm, and while friend does we deal so largely in Peterboro we have a perfect right to offer our produce for a fair sale. Our friend finds bad about the Grangers' using the Midland Railway. I am not aware of the Grangers' getting their goods carried cheaper over the Midland than any one else. The same idea about purchasing in Montreal or Toronto. As a rule, the merchants in Peterborough do the same. What a pity the Grangers' friend did not live in Peterborough during the passing of the By-law and get himself a chance that some could get goods over the Millbrook branch only the Peterborough merchants. Would it not be well to amend the Red Lake Charter so that none could use that road only those wanting water from Mud Lake. But, Sir, as long as the Midland puts the traffic they don't care who own the goods, and we have as good a right to weigh our wheat and send it over the rails as any grain buyers in Peterborough. I fully agree about the agents, but I must say it has been the farmers, not the agent, who was the fool-He comes, now, with a caution to Grangers not to go to extremes, while he has tried every means and device to find out Grangeism. One good advice our friend gives us, although late in the day, is one to our own interests. That is the very identical thing we are doing. That is the whole interest, root and branch, of our Order: to transact our business, to sell our own produce, and purchase our own goods and not leave the management thereof to an inexperienced grocer. I think it would be well for him to attend to his candles, his tow onions, a little sugar, etc, and never mind the Patrons of Husbandry, they can attend to themselves. It is gall and wormwood for him and such as him for the farmers trying to elevate themselves to the position which they are destined to occupy in this our young Dominion. But, Sir, as our friend some time or other must shuffle off this mortal coil, and as it would be very ungracious of Grangers to allow his name to pass into oblivion, and having consigned him to his last resting place, and erected a monument over his remains, I can furnish them with the following epitaph:—

Beneath this stain friendly fades.
Death him and life hath painted;
He's no ta' blame, he died the same.
To Grangers aye lost hearted.

A TRUE GRANGER.

FARM AND GARDEN NOTES.

—Put a teaspoonful of sulphur in the nest as soon as hens or turkeys are set. The heat of the fowls causes the fumes of the sulphur to penetrate every part of their bodies; every louse is killed, and as all nits are hatched within ten days, when the mother leaves the nest with her brood she is perfectly free from nits or lice.

—In transplanting remember: Dig wide holes—cut off all broken or marred roots, spread out the roots in a natural position, set the tree a little above its previous depth, fill in with good soil (no manure,) work it between the roots with the hand, do not pull the tree up and down, and finally press the earth firmly down and if there is a likelihood of dry weather spread a mulch over the surface. Bear always in mind that plants are injured if their roots are exposed to sun or wind for even a few minuter.

—Make up your mind what you intend to do. Sit down and count the cost. Do not undertake more than you can perform. It is unwise to commence work that you are not able to finish in due season. Many a farmer loses more by getting behindhand with his spring work than would buy another team, and has, at any rate, lost more than would pay the wages of a man for a year. This once in our own experience. Have you not found it so?

—Both science and experience prove that soot is a valuable fertiliser. As a top-dressing to grass its effect is excellent. On peas, asparagus, strawberries, raspberries, and indeed on nearly all growing crops the application of soot produces marked result. When sown broadcast some of the ammonia in it escapes into the atmosphere and is wasted. It should, therefore, be mixed with water, say at the rate of twelve quarts of soot to a hogshead of water, and used as a liquid manure. A mixture in the above proportion makes a very powerful fertilizer.

—A regular allowance of grain will now be needed by working teams. It is economical to feed ground grain. Ten quarts a day is a full allowance for a hard worked horse. A pailful of moistened cut hay, with 4 quarts of ground feed mixed with it, is the usual quantity fed to each of our horses. This feed is not too bulky, and when given nearly dry, has not the injurious effect on the wind as wet, soft food. The best feed is equal parts of corn, rye, or oats, and wheat-bran.

—Never whip your horse for becoming frightened at an object by the roadside; for if he sees a stump, a log, or a heap of tanbark in the road, and while he is eyeing it carefully and about to pass it, you strike him with a whip, it is the log, or the stump, or the tanbark that is hurting him, in his way of reasoning, and the next time he will be more frightened. Give him time to examine and smell of all these objects, and use the bridle to assist you in bringing him carefully to them.

OBITUARIES.

Death of "Boss" Tweed and Hon. John Young.

"BOSS" TWEED.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Tweed died at Ludlow Street Gaol at noon to-day. Dr. Carnochan left him about eleven last night. At that time he was feeling easier and breathing better. At 11.30 he fell asleep and slept almost an hour. When he awoke, he complained of a great pain about the heart and sat up some time. After this he continued getting worse, being very restless. At seven this morning he fell asleep for a short time and awoke complaining that the pain at the heart was still greater. His medical attendants saw him about eight o'clock and found his pulse irregular and feeble From this time he gradually sank, retaining his faculties perfectly, and died without a struggle. About half an hour before he died he called Dr. Carnochan and said "I have tried to do some good. It I have not had good luck, I am not afraid to die. I believe the guardian angles will protect me." It was just as the great ball on Essex market struck the hour of noon that Tweed sank back dead on his pillow. His death was very quick. About a week ago, Tweed first complained of cold, and took his bed, which he kept to his death. Up to last night it does not appear he had any serious apprehensions, for he laughingly said "I'll be all right again by next Monday." A short time previous to death, he whispered to Ecclestein in disconnected sentences with great pain. All that his counsel could comprehend was a statement in regard to the moral effect of his imprisonment upon the public, and to quote his words, Tweed said:—"I hope now that everyone is satisfied." News of his death spread rapidly through the city and many of his former friends hastened to the goal. The body was placed on ice after the inquest, and it was said that it would be removed to his son's house, whence the funeral will probably take place on Sunday.

HON. JOHN YOUNG.

MONTREAL, April 13.—Hon. John Young died this evening after a short illness. He was born in Ayr, Scotland, in 1811, and emigrated to Canada in 1836, taking his residence in Montreal, and becoming a clerk in the firm of John Torrance & Co., of which he became a partner in 1838. He has since that time occupied a prominent position in commercial affairs, being instrumental in carrying out successfully many of the great improvements of the country. In 1861 he joined the Hincks-Morin Government as Commissioner of Public Works, but, differing from his colleagues on trade questions, resigned the following year. In 1864 he was again returned to Parliament from Montreal, but at the general elections in 1867 retired from political life and did not again enter Parliament until 1872, when he defeated Mr. Drummond in Montreal West. He accepted the position of Flour Inspector for Montreal in the following year which position he held up to the present time. He was also chairman of the Harbour Commission, and last year was appointed Canadian Commissioner to the Sydney Exhibition. His death will be heard of with general regret.

"Modern Protestantism a Pillar of Popery," was the subject of a lecture recently delivered in Stanley Street Presbyterian Church, Montreal, by Rev. C. Chiniquy. The lecturer affirmed that Protestantism has made no progress during the last three hundred years, because it laid aside its original agressiveness; that the present great increase of popery in England will yet lead to civil war and bloodshed; that the United States will be in the hands of Roman Catholics within twenty-five years; that prosperous Protestants in Canada have mistaken their mission; which is, not to keep peace and make dollars, build fine houses and live in luxury, but to fight a great battle against Roman Catholicism.

Last Monday week at nine o'clock a.m., Baker, convicted of the criminal assault on Miss Mary Penny, was brought into the London, Ont., gaol-yard in presence of a number of persons admitted by ticket. He was tied up to a triangle, and twenty lashes were administered with the cat o' nine tails according to the sentence. The person choosen to inflict this punishment proved very squeamish over the task, and the first few strokes were lightly laid on. The culprit during the castigation appeared sulked and stolid, and more than once cried out to his tormentor, "Plug in one place," "Plug fair," "Don't cut my ear," Don't cut my arms," "Heavens, don't cut my ribs." At the end of the whipping Baker's back was very purple, full of welts and bleeding. His shirt being given him, he hastily put it on, and asked an acquaintance for chew of tobacco. PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

THE AMERICAN EYE-SALVE is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application; being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. ERNWORM and OLD CHRONIC SORES, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the AMERICAN EYE-SALVE. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing effect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. PETTIT'S AMERICAN EYE-SALVE," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

THE PLAIN ISSUE.

Those Conservatives of the East Riding only display the weakness of their cause, who attempt to shirk the direct issue, by putting the party position of their candidate in the back ground. Party lines are plainly drawn by the respective nominations of Messrs. Buck and Burnham, and any attempt to disguise the fact is simply to practice duplicity for some dishonest purpose. Both men undoubtedly possess personal qualifications which fit them for the positions to which they aspire. Were this not the case neither would have been a candidate, one of the Reformers, and the other of the Conservatives of an intelligent constituency. Each man is to be looked on as the chosen representative of the particular views of his party, the members of which clearly intend, if they can, to send him to parliament to carry out certain obligations which, by actual agreement or tacit understanding, they have laid upon him. In becoming their candidate he submits himself to the general policy of the party, and to the party leaders. Every one in the constituency who knows anything is perfectly aware that Mr. Buck is an avowed supporter of the present Government of Mr. Mackenzie, while Mr. Burnham is just as earnest in his determination to restore to power, Sir John Macdonald and those who act with him, if he gets a chance. The question then, of the election of Mr. Buck or Mr. Burnham, is not so much one of mere technical ability in the men themselves, as it is of principles, parties and administrations. Mr. Buck upholds the views of the great Reform party, while Mr. Burnham strives to extend the narrower tenets of Conservatism. The first holds to that party in Canada which believes in the British doctrine of Free Trade, so far as it is applicable to this country; whereas the latter would by a protective tariff lower the wages and tax the bread, fuel and clothing of the poor, for the benefit of a few manufacturers, and unpatriotically shut out the trade of Britain as well as that of other countries. The Reform candidate asks to be sent to Parliament in order that he may help to sustain the administration of Mr. Mackenzie and his colleagues, and continue their careful and economic rule; but the Conservative candidate seeks election that he may aid in restoring to power the unrepentant sinners who scandalized Canada through their dealings in the matter of the Pacific Railway charter, besides indulging in many other departures from public morality, of lesser extent, but equally base motives, so far as motive can be judged from the perpetration of palpable wrongs for evidently selfish purposes. These are several of the broader points in which the electors will form their judgment as to how they should vote. There will be ample time to consider these, and others on which we will remark in due time.

THE QUEBEC CASE IN PARLIAMENT.

It must be highly gratifying to old Reformers, who fought the battles of responsible government, to see a noted opponent standing up in Parliament in the role of a defender of popular rights, against the undue exercise of the Royal prerogative. It was a tribute to those who struggled for the right of the people to govern themselves, when Sir John Macdonald assumed the position of an advocate of popular interests. But it was like the tribute vice pays to virtue. Popular rights had not been invaded, and therefore all the zeal of the temporarily enlisted soldier was of no practical use to the cause, beyond the gratification to its honest advocates mentioned at the outset.

It is pretty plain that the question of the dismissal of the DeBoucherville Government, by the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, was introduced in the Dominion Parliament for party purposes merely. If Sir John Macdonald wanted to allow Parliament to give a free expression on the matter, why did he introduce his resolution as an amendment to a motion to go into Committee of Supply, thus preventing further amendment? Had it been a clear expression respecting the case, it must have been voted on without any chance of bestering it; but even as a substantive motion, its ambiguity would have shown the insincerity of its framer. The resolution was as follows:—

Resolved—That the recent dismissal by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec of his Ministry was, under the circumstances, unwise and subversive of the position accorded to the advisers of the Crown, since the concession of the principle of Responsible Government to the British North American Colonies.

Here the charge against Mr. Letellier is nothing more than one of indiscretion, and hence of no practical moment, even could the resolution have been carried. It is easy to see, then, that the long debate indulged in by Opposition members was just so much time lost; and that the Premier did perfectly right in pressing for a division after a couple of days had been literally wasted.

With the wisdom or folly of Mr. Letellier's course the Dominion Parliament has at the present time nothing whatever to do. Indeed the Lieutenant Governor is personally absolved from all praise or censure, according to constitutional usage, he having obtained a new Ministry willing to be responsible to the people for his acts. It was therefore an act of indelicacy in any member of the House of Commons to presume either to accuse or defend Mr. Letellier's action. It was also an impertinent interference with the rights of the people of the Province of Quebec, in spite of any pretended concern for these rights. The whole case is now before the electors of that Province, who presumably are quite able to decide for themselves, and the more readily, if they be not troubled by officious and meddlesome persons in or out of the House of Commons.

The best authorities agree, that Mr. Letellier acted in a perfectly constitutional manner, having the undoubted right to dismiss his Ministers. When he became satisfied that they had been acting contrary to the interests of the people, it was his plain duty to dismiss them. This he did, and called on Mr. Joly to form a new Ministry. The new Administration is now ready to be judged by the electors of Quebec, and not by the members of the Dominion Parliament.

DRUNKEN AND DISHONEST.

A short time ago a good deal of fulsome flattery of Sir John Alexander Macdonald, indulged in by some of his admirers in this town, conspicuous among them being a teacher of the people and a preacher of the Gospel. We then deemed it well to point out the inconsistency of praising and pointing out the personality of a man who had shown himself to be "dishonest and drunken." Despite the fact that his Tory gilders sought to forget his public acts in their worship of the person, we advisedly, and with full assurance of the propriety of so doing, in strict applicability to his public career, alluded to Sir John Macdonald as "the drunken and dishonest leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition." A howl was raised that we should not make personal references; and we were thus rebuked by those who had themselves been pointing to Sir John as the impersonation of their hopes and desires. The Tory papers that were so ready to rebuke us, unfairly, have not themselves been chary of attacking private character. It is not long since one of them—the Peterborough Review—published a scandalous reference to the proprietor of this paper, and another—the Port Hope Times—had in the same issue wherein fault was found for the EXAMINER's reference to Sir John, a base and cowardly attack on the drinking habits of a private citizen from whom it formerly was glad to receive matter for publication. So much for the consistency of these Tory journals.

Of the private life of Sir John A. Macdonald we never had anything to say. But we do know that his public career has time and again been blotted by a shameful vice that only seems to grow on him, instead of being mastered by the wisdom and declining appetite of age. We were aware that when the country was invaded by a Fenian horde the then Minister of Militia, Sir John Macdonald was incapacitated through his own indiscretion from performing the duties of his position at a critical time. We knew of other instances in which he had lost Departmental discretion by indulgence in his besetting sin, yet we made nothing more than delicate reference to them. But the reckless way in which its knightly leader brought disgrace on the Conservative party, and on the whole populace, for which he pretended to speak, at several political pic-nics last fall, and his frequent outbursts since the opening of the session of Parliament, in a way that makes them peculiarly matters of public import, made further restraint of utterance a question of conscience. Then when we saw his party journals and party spouters alluding to him as a model, we thought it high time to speak out both as a moral and patriotic duty. If corroborative of our charge of drunkenness were needed it is furnished in the account in another column of the late disorderly scene in the House. However Tory members and Tory papers may try to deny it, or talk round it, the fact is well established that Sir John, as well as some of his followers was drunk early on that disturbing morning. Even the discussion introduced by Mr. Borrell next day is largely confirmatory out of the mouths of Opposition members.

It will not do for this or that man to say he saw the accused at a certain time, and then he was not intoxicated. The Irishman in the story could get scores of witnesses to swear they never saw him commit the offence for which he was arraigned, but they could not prove his innocence. The Globe did not, as the Review avers accuse Sir John with being drunk "during the prolonged session;" neither did any other paper that we have seen. The quibbling query concerning Mr. Mackenzie's consulting with the leader of the Opposition is a poor attempt at deception; for that happened after Sir John had been out for a long sleep. The comparative silence of Ministerialist members on the subject after Mr. Bowell introduced it in the House for debate is no refutation. The fact was well established in the eyes of hundreds of witnesses, and the Reform members could gain nothing by remarking from their places upon the disgrace to the country, even when tempted so to do by Oppositionists. The case needed no substantiation from the Ministerial benches, the occupants of which were more merciful to Sir John than were members on his own side of the House. Considering the whole circumstances he might well retire from the chamber to pray, "Save me from my friends."

As to the term "dishonest" which we used in connection with the other we shall only point for its truth to such public acts of Sir John Macdonald as the Pacific Scandal, the Ordnance Lands Fees, the Northern Railway Bill and its adjuncts, the Secret Service surplus, and the Moylan accounts. By these with a thousand and one smaller schemes he craftily and deceitfully bound men to him by promises, and placed them in his power by necessarily secret bargainings, which should satisfy even the most devoted of his fellowmen that honesty has never been a shining virtue in his public life.

NO QUESTION BEFORE THE COUNTRY.

The Lakefield News evinces a desire to avoid all reference to the leaders of the two political parties, or to their comparative fitness or that of their political friends, to honestly and diligently administer the affairs of the Dominion. It wants the election to be fought out solely on the discussion of Protection. We would be willing could this be done; but we have our doubt of such exclusive conduct of the campaign, confirmed by the declaration of the Norwood Register, that "there is really no great political question before the country." We are rather inclined to trust the expression of the Register, which is undoubtedly to some extent the "exponent of public opinion" in its more immediate locality. Its prompt disposal of the Protection cry, shows at once that the people of the eastern portion of the County look on the chief hope of the Opposition in the coming contest as a something really unworthy of serious consideration. What a crushing commentary on the violent attacks and petty complaints of the Opposition is this calm verdict of a journal not unfriendly to them, which declares that after six years of patronage of Reform Government, they can bring "really no great political question before the country."

We quite agree with the Register; and hold that there can be no question of the hearty endorsation by the people at the polls, of the general policy of the Mackenzie Administration.

THE OTHER SIDE.

The Review is much exercised over some mishap to the Locks at Young's Point, and tries to foist the blame of the whole affair on the present Ontario Government because forsooth they sent a gentleman from Lindsay to do some repairs to the gates. The Locks it is well known were built by the late Conservative Government at a cost of over $30,000. They too brought men from Glengarry, (if we remember rightly) to build them, although there were plenty of men competent to do so in this county. That same Conservative Government failed to see the work properly done. The foundations, we are told, are of the worst kind. Instead of providing against this by laying substantial foundations, they, as in all their other actions, allowed the contractor largely his own way. He did it in the easiest possible manner, and the result of this is now seen. With a sandy foundation the work could not stand: for, no sooner had the men commenced to repair the gate, no doubt looked by the closing stone-work, than a large part of the walls slid in. The present editor of the Review will no doubt remember that the very large expenditure for the construction of these locks was a question that he had to defend when contesting the riding for a seat in the Local House against the late T. M. Fairbairn in 1871. Why did not the Review then see that the work was done in a proper and workingman-like manner. If it had done so, the out lay at the present time would have been averted, and the country saved the cost of the repairs. The truth is, it is the shady Conservative foundation that gave way, and behold the consequences, a loss to the country to repair the damage, and a loss to those who were prepairing to immediately commence running steamers to Stony Lake.

THE COUNTY DUNKIN BY-LAW.

This By-law has been quashed with costs against the County, because the notices were not posted up in sufficient time to meet the requirements of the Statute. As before explained in the EXAMINER, W. H. Pendry was appointed by the County Clerk or somebody in authority to put up the required public notices (4 in each Municipality), for which he was paid or is to be paid $60. He did not do his part in proper time. The friends of the Bill from that time believed their labor would be useless, but continued the struggle to test temperance feeling in the County, and the vote proved that the people desire to do away with the disturbing usages of the day. The action of one man, who all along was opposed to the Bill, has for the present thwarted the desire and vote of the whole County, and has thus succeeded in forcing the traffic with all its attending consequences for another year on the people. The pity is that there is no way of punishing him for dereliction of duty, except by refusal to pay his pay, but even that would be no adequate punishment and would be a poor return for a year of the blighting influence of this evil. In the meantime the County has to pay the costs of quashing the By-.

THAT LETTER.

The Lakefield News is quite elated over some scrap of paper the editor has obtained in someway, which he "represents to be from Mr. Dinwoodie of that Village, to Mr. J. B. McWilliams of Peterborough, in reference to Mr. Choate's voting for Dr. O'Sullivan at the last election; and in some way known only to himself, he tries to implicate the proprietor of this paper with that letter passing between Mr. McWilliams and Mr. Dinwoodie. If it occured we most distinctly state we know nothing of it, had nothing whatever to do with it, and were no party to any intention to use any letters against Mr. Choate; and further we know that no letters were used against him. Our intentions from the first were to support the nominee of the Convention and if Mr. Choate had been the nominee he would have received our cordial and earnest support. It is a small matter to us for whom Mr. Choate voted at the last election. If he could not support the Reform candidate that was in the field, and in consequence voted for Dr. O'Sullivan, he had a perfect right to do so. We know that he thought that the Reformers had made a mistake, and he refused to follow them further than his judgment dictated, and if he did so, what has the News to do with it. We know too that Mr. McWilliams feels that Dr. O'Sullivan betrayed the trust imposed in him by Orangemen, and hence might arise any action he may have taken, but with which we have nothing to do. But we know also, that the slap-trap of the News will have no effect on Mr. Choate, as he is well known to be a consistent Reformer and will be found doing his part to elect the Reform Candidate when the time comes for action. During the evening the News refers to, we were nearly all the time with the editor thereof, and if a piece of paper fell from us in any way while in his office, and was afterwards used by the News to get up a sensation, does it not savor of something akin to having a loose idea of editorial etiquette and sadly reflects on the honor of the editor of that paper. If, however, the account paper fell from us, we distinctly say that it then had no letter on it, and if it since has one on it, it must have been written afterwards. Will the News explain how—as Mr. Dinwoodie denies giving any authority for putting his name to such a letter, and also denies having received a letter from Mr. McWilliams, as the following letter will show, while the ill concocted affair of the News says it was in an answer to a letter.

To the Editor of the Lakefield News.

DEAR SIR,—I was very much surprised to see a letter in your paper, of the 11th April, respecting Mr. Choate, of Warsaw, purporting to be signed by me, and addressed to J. B. McWilliams, of Peterborough; and I would state that I never received a letter from McWilliams respecting Mr. Choate, nor did I authorise any person to sign my name to any little document of the kind.

Yours, etc.,
JOHN DINWOODIE.

Besides all this, if the whole sensation were a reality what does it amount to?

THE LATE WM. LUNDY, ESQ.

It is our painful duty this week to record the decease of William Lundy, Esq., who died on Tuesday at the advanced age of 77 years. Mr. Lundy was a native of the County of Cavan, Ireland, and was born in the year 1801. He came to Canada in the year 1829, and commenced business in Peterborough in 1833; when it consisted of merely a few houses. By careful business habits, he became very wealthy, being considered one of the wealthiest men in the county. He gave up business a few years ago, retiring into private life. Up to about a year ago he enjoyed good health; but during this year his health necessitated medical advice, advancing years no doubt producing frailty and concomitant troubles. He was however, not considered in a dangerous condition until Saturday afternoon, when he returned home after a walk to the Market.—It is thought that while out he caught cold, which soon manifested symptoms of having seriously affected his chest and throat, rendering the taking of food or drink difficult. Dr. Harvey was called in, but was unable to secure any decided relief. Being no better on Monday afternoon, medical consultation was held, but no hopes of recovery were entertained. He remained in this uncertain state during Monday night, and on Tuesday morning was considered somewhat better, as he was able to move about his room. At one o'clock, p.m., he took a very sudden change, and expired about thirty minutes after, almost without a struggle, surrounded by several members of his family.

Mr. Lundy was a thorough business man, and amassed a large fortune during his business career. As a citizen he was highly respected, and was for many years elected a member of the Town Council, in which capacity he was active, careful and economical. He leaves a wife four sons, and five daughters to mourn their bereavement. Two children having died young. The funeral will take place to-day at 2 o'clock p.m.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Prorogation is expected by the second week in May.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says: "The rumour prevails that the Hon. S. C. Wood, Provincial Treasurer, will receive the appointment of Auditor General to the Dominion Government. By the Act of the present session, the salary is fixed at $5,200,00 per annum. Mr. Langton, the present Auditor General, will be superannuated, after a very long period of service which proved highly advantageous to the Dominion. Mr. Wood, if the rumour proves correct, will certainly make a most efficient successor, and his appointment would be received with satisfaction by all parties throughout the Dominion."

SAYS the Lindsay Post:—"The Peterboro Review is deeply agitated over the repair of the locks at Young's Point by Mr. Thomas Walters, of Lindsay, who, as it says, is "foreman in the employ of the Ontario Public Works Department." The Review is not satisfied with attempting to excite sectional jealousy by declaring that this arrangement casts "a slur upon the men of Peterboro," but goes on to exhibit unpardonable ignorance of the facts and general policy by stating that this is another instance of "Provincial expenditure on these navigations without authorization." The Review's editor has been in the Legislature and ought to know that there is always a vote of a couple of thousand dollars or more for repairs, and that the work in question comes under that head. It was undertaken after proper inspection and agreed by the Chief Engineer of the Department, Mr. T. N. Molesworth. The statements of the Review must therefore be ascribed to something less creditable than even unpardonable ignorance. Our contemporary evidently hopes by attacks of this kind to secure the luxury of being "walloped" once more for one of the Peterboro Ridings for the Local, and no doubt Conservatives will be foolish enough to give him every facility for the coveted indulgence, as Reformers will undoubtedly be active and determined enough to make a sure thing of it for him."

THE TEMPERANCE MEETING.

On Saturday last a meeting of the friends of temperance was convened for the purpose of selecting a candidate in the interest of temperance.

Mayor Toole presided, and Dr. Esmond acted as secretary by request.

Mr. TOOLE explained the object of the meeting, viz., to take action towards securing candidates who would support temperance legislation.

Mr. STRATTON asked permission to bring before the meeting the subject of securing amendments to the Temperance Bill now before the Legislature, before the meeting should proceed to what appeared to be the political object thereof; and he moved that certain amendments be solicited, and that Messrs. Bertram and Hall be requested to use their influence to secure those amendments.

Mr. DUMBLE seconded the motion upon condition that the whole question of amendments be referred to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Stratton, Cox, W. Graham and the seconder. This was accepted, and carried.

After some discussion as to the object of the meeting, Mr. Dumble moved that no action be taken in the matter of bringing out temperance candidates.

Mr. A. RUTHERFORD moved in amendment, that Messrs. H Collins, J. Cobb, W. J. Mason, D. Bellingham, and the mover, be a committee to wait on the candidates to obtain pledges from them, and to report to an adjourned meeting.

Mr. R. WEIR moved that Messrs. Collins, W. Graham, D. Kennedy, Evans Ingram, Geo A. Cox and D. W. Dumble, be the committee.

The latter amendment having no seconder was not put. Mr. Rutherford's amendment was lost. The original motion was then carried by 28 to 24, when the meeting dissolved.

It is said a mistake was made in calling the meeting to nominate candidates, but how this occurred, is explained as a "printers" mistake.

Several of those present believed there was some political legerdemain in calling it, and others believed that the candidates likely to be in the field in the West Riding, will stand equally well on the temperance question.

PETERBOROUGH SPRING ASSIZES.

[BEFORE THE HON. CHIEF JUSTICE HARRISON.]

The Spring Assizes for the County of Peterborough opened on Tuesday last, before the Hon. Chief Justice Harrison. Mr. G. E. Hendesson, Q.C., of Belleville, appeared for the Crown. Besides the members of the Local Bar, there were present, H. Cameron, Q.C., Toronto, Jas. Bethune, Q.C., Toronto; S. Smith, Q.C., Cobourg; D. Chisholm, Port Hope; John Wright, Port Hope; W. Mallock, Toronto; S. N. Kirchhoffer, Port Hope.

GRAND JURY.

The following gentlemen were sworn in as a Grand Jury:—

John Carnegie, Foreman.

D. Anderson.	Geo. Hilliard.
W. Armstrong.	W. Helm.
W. Blewitt.	R. Kingan.
Jas. Carter.	W. Mills.
Thos. Clarke.	R. A. Morrow.
T. E. Fitzgerald.	W. Mathison.
W. Foley.	W. W. Milburn.
J. Griffin.	J. H. Roper.
Hon. R. Hamilton.	John Whills.

ADDRESS TO THE GRAND JURY.

His Lordship, in addressing the Grand Jury said, that it gave him much pleasure, being his first official visit here, to see so large an attendance of Jurors. The cases that were about to come before them would not take up much time, and would not be of a very serious nature, with one exception.

After explaining the law and their duties to the Grand Jury in reference to the cases which would be submitted to them, His Lordship referred to the Act for the speedy trial of prisoners, which he said had produced most beneficial results, both to those who, though innocent, were unfortunate enough to be accused of crime, and enabling those accused of trivial crimes to be tried quickly and efficiently, and saving the County the expense of keeping prisoners in gaol needlessly and then being brought before a jury at the Assizes, at a cost to the County of about $200 a day. His Lordship also referred to the provision that had now been made for getting proper returns of the criminals tried and convicted, so that the Legislature might be enabled to employ whatever remedy might be needed, and the Judges by seeing what sentences had in particular cases been imposed by each other, would be enabled to secure greater uniformity in their sentences. His Lordship thought the number of Grand Jurors might be reduced one half, which would be a saving to the County; and he expressed his belief that in all probability some alteration in this would take place before long. In conclusion, His Lordship informed the Grand Jury that before leaving they were to visit the gaol and county buildings. He drew their attention to the absence of proper ventilation in the Court Room—and expressed a wish that some improvement would be effected soon. He also referred to the bad state of ventilation in the Lindsay Court Room and thought it would be a greater punishment to prisoners to commit them to it than their common jail.

CIVIL CASES.

ULLYOTT VS. RODDICK.—Action on Promissory note. Verdict for Plaintiff $336.26. Mr. D. W. Dumble, for Plaintiff.

DUNBAR VS. SNYDER.—In this case application has been made to lay over the trial till next assizes, which will be done according to the rules of this Court.

LAVELLE VS. LOUGH.—This was an action for illegal distress under a Landlord's Warrant. Verdict for Plaintiff for $943.20. E. Cameron, Q.C. for Plaintiff. J. F. Dennistoun, Q.C., for Defendant.

The Court then adjourned until 9.30 Wednesday morning.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

No settlement has yet been arrived at relative to the details of the proposed withdrawal of the Russian troops and the British fleet from the vicinity of Constantinople. Austria is said to have asked an explanation of Russia regarding the concentration of troops in Roumania. The relations between Russia and Roumania have improved. The Czar has written a letter to Prince Charles, personally friendly, but complaining of the attitude of his Government. It is reported that eighty thousand Montenegrins, armed principally with rifles and cannon left by Suleiman Pasha in his retreat, have attacked the Russians in the Balkan districts and killed nine hundred. A plot to restore ex-Sultan Murad, who is thought to be in favour with the new Ministry, is believed to exist at Constantinople. The relations between Mr. Layard and the new Cabinet are reported to be cordial. Mr. Layard has received numerous offers from all parts of Turkey to serve in the British army.

The Daily News, referring to the present military preparations going on in Russia says:—"They may be only precautions, but there is not only room for, but which does not exist, our present

Springtime Joggings.—See G. W. Hotchkin's spring and summer announcement advertisement in another column.

To Sports.—As a mere reminder to some of our early anglers, we might say that the trouting season does not commence until the 1st of May.

An Advantage.—It is a great advantage to have a large stock to select from, particularly in Boots and Shoes. That advantage can be had by purchasing from R. Stevens & Son.

Town Council.—There was no meeting of the Town Council on Tuesday evening, owing to the Finance Committee not being prepared to report. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening.

Communion Silver.—The Hamilton Times says:—"We understand that Mr. Jacobs has purchased of communion silver cups in circulation, it including 40 cups, and 25 cups and 20 cups and 25 cups pieces. The former bear the date of 1870, and the 25 cups that of 1874."

Centennial at Guelph.—On Wednesday (meeting Mrs. Hicks Rodgers was commended to guard by Christ Justice Harrison, to succeed to the office of Grand Master of Ancient Masons in Ontario, in the witness box. His Lordship also stated that if justices was done Mr. John Rodgers should be on his trial here for forgery.

Masonic Presentation.—Mr. W. H. Mitchell on the day past Chief Templar in the Lodge of Lakefield, adjoining the residence lately occupied by John Ledgate, Esq. The property is composed of half an acre of excellent land which is subdivided into three building lots, and will be sold separately or en bloc. There are two dwellings on the premises. See advertisement in another column.

Wear Him and Steve Dugan.—Mr. J. J. Reynolds, who for a number of years past has been connected with the Giant T., has commenced business for himself and opened out a new stock on Simcoe street, a few doors west of the Ontario Bank, where he is now receiving a full stock of all such goods as is usually kept in a first-class tin and sheet iron shop. From Mr. Reynolds's experience we have no doubt but that he will be able to give satisfaction to his customers.

Re-commencement.—A Haliburton correspondent to a Toronto paper says:—

"In the County of Haliburton a large number of the best settlers are leaving the County, and connecting to Manitoba, induced by the enormous inducements held out to which they are subjected. He also says that since the Provisional County was established real estate has depreciated in value, that farms once valuable are now begging for purchasers, and that farms sold for taxes by the County Treasurer barely realize the costs of sale. His conclusions by saying that the popular cry is now for re-annexation to the old counties.

Gold and Silver Plating.—Attention is directed to W. Langford's advertisement in another column. Having secured the services of a competent workman he is now prepared to replate in gold or silver, watch cases, chains, lockets, rings, jewellery and table ware, such as knives, forks, spoons, cruets, pitchers, &c. From several specimens shown us we have no hesitation in recommending those who require any articles replated to call and examine specimens and we feel confident they will leave their orders.

Messrs. Dixon Bros. stock of millinery goods this year although not as large as that of former years, has been selected with good taste, and embraces the leading styles, shapes, and fabrics of the season. In hats and bonnets, some very prettily trimmed ones are on view, and in mantles, costumes, and ladies and children's clothing a large stock is on hand to choose from. The stock of flowers, feathers, laces, ribbons, and ornaments is also well selected, and as all the goods this season have been bought for cash, purchasers are promised decided bargains.

Oratorio of Esther.—This beautiful Oratorio will be rendered in Bradburn's Opera House, May 2nd and 3rd, by a class of over a hundred voices. This is a kind of entertainment that all classes of people can attend without compromising their moral or religious standing, and all be benefitted and instructed. The terms that Mr. Bradburn favored with this entertainment speak in the highest terms of it as brought out by W. C. Teasey, and it only illustrates the fact that just as good and interesting entertainments can be given by amateur talent, if properly instructed, as towns of this size ever witness from travelling companies.

Personal.—John O'Donnell, Esq., who has been practising dentistry to this town for the past eighteen years has, as will be seen by advertisement in another column, removed to Toronto, where he intends continuing practising his profession. Mr. O'Donnell was one of the principal promoters in the formation of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario, and for a number of years was one of the Board of Examiners. He is also an Honory member of the Quebec College of Dental Surgeons. Their talents conferred upon John were the tributes of professional gentlemen to his skill and ability as a Dental Surgeon.

Spurgeon's Eloquence.—Spurgeon is undoubtedly among the most eloquent and gifted pulpit orators of the 19th century. Among the many fine passages to which he has given utterance, and which are treasured in the minds of thousands, there is none more true or eloquently suggestive than the following: "The first thing I notice about a man when he comes from his evil ways is, that he gets a decent suit of clothes." As a supplement to this, we have evolved this newly beautiful and inexpensive period. The first thing observed about a man when he gets a suit of clothes from Madden & Greene's is that he has formed friends with a coupon. The goods of this establishment are good, their suits suit, they do excellent trade and therefore find trade excellent. 17-21a.

Masonic Reinvestiture.—The Lindsay Post says:—The Masonic excursion to the city of Belleville, on the 1st of July (Dominion Day) under the auspices of the Freemasons of Lindsay, the arrangements for which are now being perfected, promises to be one of the most popular and attractive affairs of the kind ever started in Lindsay. The committee of management have already secured twenty-four magnificent coaches—12 of which go to Peterboro and Lakefield, and 12 to Lindsay—with two powerful locomotives to take the party through direct. The train will be dismembered at McCrimmon Junction. No change of cars whatever will require to be made between Lindsay and Buffalo. We understand the train will leave the depot here at 7 a.m. and reach Buffalo at about 3 p.m. the same day. A dining-room car will be attached to the train, well supplied, so that those who may wish can have breakfast and dinner also if desired on board. Tickets which are to be placed at the extremely low price of $2.50 to Buffalo and return, will be made good for seven days to allow the excursionists an opportunity to visit another the 4th of July celebrations and also of viewing Niagara Falls, as arrangements will be made with the New York Central Railway to take the excursionists down to the Falls from Buffalo for a very small sum. The Committee are purpose reading a proposition to Buffalo to make arrangements with the leading hotels to secure rooms for the party. Success to the undertaking.

The Escaped Nun to Coming.—Miss Edith O'Gorman, known to the world as "The Escaped Nun," who has been converted to Protestantism, and was for six years an inmate of St. Joseph's Convent, Jersey City, New Jersey, is coming to Peterborough some evening next week, and will deliver an eloquent, startling and thrilling lecture, entitled "Life in a Convent," also relating "How she Escaped" and "How she became Converted." She has recently been lecturing to crowded houses in other cities, and is the first and only Nun who has ever appeared before the public as a speaker. The Boston Journal says:

"She is a remarkably attractive in person, and a fine elocutionist—one of the best now in the lecture field. She has had a personal experience of the most thrilling character, some chapters of which she will relate. She has great talents and power as a speaker, and we can only urge our readers to attend and hear for themselves. Her appeals to Protestant parents are powerful and convincing. Few ladies in the lecture field to-day are her equals as a speaker, and none her superiors." She speaks of various points in the process of taking the veil, the [illegible] Nunnery, the requirements of Confession, the want of Bibles in the Convents, &c. The charm of her manners, and the air of truthfulness which pervaded her whole book the audience by storm, and [illegible] with loud marks of approbation. Miss O'Gorman is [illegible] manner, and at [illegible] The [illegible] Miss O'Gorman will be [illegible] Peterboro, where preparations are completed for a rousing reception. It is one of the most interesting and instructive lectures ever given to the public."

As this is her first and only appearance in Peterborough, she will be sure to have a crowded house. Further particulars will be given in a few days. 17-18a.

Farnworthen's Millinery Rooms.—The Millinery Show Rooms in connection with the extensive business carried on by W. Farnworthen & Co. are now open, and are visited daily by a large number of ladies. All the latest styles and novelties in hats and bonnets trimmed a la mode are displayed in an inviting manner. The most attractive hats shown are the "Camrise" and "Charles"—the former a white chip, trimmed with cerse and crimson, with rich brache tulle scarf, piped with white pearl trimmings; and the latter a fine British Tuscan, trimmed with Brussels net and rich jade silk, tipped with white ostrich feathers. In bonnets we were shown a pretty one of shad brown and French tulle with wreath of French flowers and coral ornaments. Another bonnet in pale blue and stone, ornamented with pearl and gold breach, finished with wreath of French flowers and tulle, looks very handsome. The display in real ostrich feathers and French flowers is as attractive as it is varied—the prices of the feathers ranging as high as $15. In silk mention there is an excellent variety shown in all the latest and most fashionable styles, in addition to which a number of copper-colored mantle cashmere are on the premises, and mantles can be made to order on short notice, in the newest and most approved fashions. There is also shown a nice assortment of black lace jackets and shawls. They are also prepared to supply dressmakers and milliners with all kinds of fancy goods at wholesale prices. In silks they are at present offering black and colored ranging from 65 cents a yard to rich gros Royals at $2. They are also showing a fine assortment of dress goods embracing lustres, debeiges, cashmeres and the newest fashionable shades, and an endless variety of parasols, kid gloves, scarfs, &c., &c.

Good Friday.—Friday last was generally observed throughout the town as a holiday, and with the exception of a few shops all the places of business were closed. The usual church service took place in the morning, and in the afternoon and evening people generally gave themselves up to enjoyment. The steamers Golden Eye and Whistle Wing ran excursions to Hastings and Idyl Wild, and several took advantage of the trip. In accordance with announcement that week, the Band turned out in the afternoon and played several selections. The marked improvement visible in their playing since last season was the subject of general conversation. The popular verdict being that more encouragement should be given the members, and that the citizens should take the matter in hand, and like other towns, assist financially the efforts of the band in there becoming a credit to the town. Much praise is due Band-master Millar and the individual members, for the manner they have in the past battled against adverse criticism—if not direct opposition—and now that they have attained through their own efforts and energies the position of one of the leading amateur bands of the Province. It is to be hoped that some of our prominent citizens will take the matter in hand and assist them in attaining further proficiency. A few hundred dollars donated yearly out of the town treasury would, we think, meet with general approval, and while such a sum would not be felt by the ratepayers, it would serve to give fresh energy and heart to those who have now for years struggled bravely to maintain their position as a band worthy of the town. We also think some suitable place might easily be arranged where open air rehearsals could be given weekly during the coming summer.

THE EASTER MARKET.

Splendid Display of Meats made by the Butchers.

Notwithstanding the hard times and the common cry of scarcity of money, the butchers of the town have shown their usual enterprise in making a splendid display of meats at their several stalls. At the Market House particularly is this statement borne out, and we venture to assert that few towns in the Province can out-do Peterborough in presenting such magnificent displays of meats as are to be seen at the Easterside and Christmas Markets each year. The following is a brief reference to the bill of fare provided by the principal butchers of the town, commencing at No. 1 stall, Market House.

MR. H. C. WINCH.

As usual Mr. Winch had spared neither pains nor expense in providing some of the best cattle to be had in the country, and had come to the fore this year with a splendid lot of rich beef, mutton, lamb, veal, &c. A thorough bred Durham cow imported from Aberdeen, Scotland, by John Isaacs, Esq., Hamilton, and purchased by Mr. Winch for the Easter Market was greatly admired, and from the number of names of our prominent citizens which were 'ticketed' upon this carcass as well as the others displayed, we believe Mr. Winch's efforts have been tangibly appreciated by the citizens generally. He had also slaughtered for the occasion a prime Durham heifer fed by Mr. Alex. Grieves, Smith; two heifers from the herd of Mr. T. G. Grieves, Lakefield; one steer raised by Mr. Wm. Graham and fed by himself; a two year old steer and a he'fer from the herd of Mr. Wm. Telford, Smith; a large number of sheep and spring lambs from the best breeders in the county; some fine specimens of calves and a mammoth pig fed for the occasion by Mr. George Webber. Besides these there were displayed a large quantity of smoked hams, sausages, bologna and fancy meats, the whole being handsomely decorated with artificial flowers, rosettes, tissue paper, &c., with red, white and blue streamers interwoven across the ceiling to

MR. JAMES HOWDEN'S STALL.

Where another magnificent display of meats was made; also decorated elaborately with flowers, rosettes, evergreens and bunting. Both Mr. Hawden and Mr. Winch always lead the Market in decorating, and each vies with the other for good taste and striking effect. Mr. Howden was nothing behind this year in catering for the wants of his customers, and had provided an abundant supply of fine looking meat, composed of three thorough-bred Devons from the herd of James Wallis, Esq., of North Monaghan, which had been specially fed for the Easter Market. Besides these he had slaughtered a number of excellent sheep, fed by himself; an extra fine calf, fed by Mr. Gough, of Otonabee, one of the best ever brought in to Peterborough; a number of excellent lambs of extra quality, fed by Mr. Knox of Otonabee. He also displayed a full supply of fancy and colored meats specially provided for the occasion.

MR. N. LEPLANTE.

Although Mr. Leplante had dispensed with decorations of any kind, his display of good and well dressed meats was nothing deficient. We find here a superior cow fed by Mr. Mark Curtis, of Dowro, that was greatly admired by all, who had seen her. She weighed 1628 pounds, and was pronounced equal to any in the Market. If we may except the Aberdeen cow slaughtered by Mr. Winch. He has also provided for the occasion two two-year old steers that run up the neat little weight of 850 pounds each of beef, and one two year old heifer that made 670 of beef. These animals were fed by Mr. John Garbutt of Smith. Besides these he had some fine calves, a number of choice lambs and pork, and fancy meats.

MR. F. W. HEATHER.

In Mr. Heather's stall was shown an extra beef, fed by Robert Nicholls, Esq., of Peterborough, and a quantity of other meat of good quality.

MESSRS. T. COE & BRO.

Have lately removed from the Market to the brick shop on George street, second door south of Alexander's grocery, and nearly opposite the new Methodist Church, since their removal to this stand they have greatly increased their business, and to meet the wants of their numerous customers had made extra preparations for Easter Market. They had provided for the occasion two steers fed by Mr. J. W. Lees of South Monaghan; a four year old heifer fed by Mr. Stark of Otonabee—both fine animals. A number of first class sheep from the field of Mr. C. Branch, of Smith, prime specimens that could not be beaten in town; some first class lambs from Mr. Benson, of Cavan; an extra calf, fed by Mr. H. Richardson, of Cavan; and a choice pork, fed by Mr. Smithson, of Otonabee. Besides these there was the usual d'splay of fancy meats usually to be seen in first class stalls upon such occasions. From the large number of visitors to this stall during the day and evening, we would infer that the residents of the north end of the town appreciate the establishment of this shop in the locality.

MR. S. WAINWRIGHT'S SHOP.

At this shop the quantity and quality of meat shown compared favorably with the display at the Market, and comprised three fine pows, one fed by H. Collins, Esq., of North Monaghan, that netted 1160 pounds dressed weight, and two others from the herd of Evans Ingram, Esq., of Otonabee. There were also four steers —two fed by John Miller, Esq., Otonabee, and two by Jas. Stubbs, Esq., Smith; five calves fed by George McKee, Esq., Smith; and a number of sheep from the fields of Thos. Stothart, Esq., Smith and Z. Burnham, Esq., Otonabee.

THE OTHER BUTCHERS

Have made extensive preparations for the Easter Feast, by providing abundance of first class meats.

LITERARY NOTICES.

A GREAT HISTORICAL WORK.—The National Publishing Company of Philadelphia have sent us advance sheets of The Pictorial History of the World, embracing full and authentic accounts of every nation of ancient and modern times and including a History of the rise and fall of the Greek and Roman Empires, the growth of the nations of Modern Europe, the Middle Ages, the Crusades, the Feudal System, the Reformation, the discovery and settlement of the New World, etc., etc., by JAMES D. MCCABE, a well known historical writer. This is one of the most valuable works ever issued by an American publisher, and it is in all respects the most complete History of the World ever published. The author does not content himself with a mere dry statement of facts, but sketches the life and manners of the various nations of which he treats, in "life-like colors, and points out the causes which led to the prosperity and decay of the great powers of the world. He shows us the famous warriors, statesmen, poets, sages, and orators of ancient and modern times, and makes them familiar to the reader. The book is a complete treasury of history, and there is not a question that can be asked concerning any historical subject but an answer to it can be found in this great work. It contains 1100 large double-column pages, and is embellished with over 600 fine engravings illustrative of the events recorded in the narrative, embracing battles and other historical scenes; portraits of the great men of ancient and modern times; and views of the principal cities of the world. These engravings are genuine works of art, and were made at a cost of over $25,000. The great number and high character of these engravings make this the most valuable art publication of the century. We cannot to highly praise the numerous and beautiful portraits of historical personages with which it abounds. A marked feature of the work is a complete History of the late War between Russia and Turkey, which is the only complete account of this war in print. This is on appropriate time to read the History of the World, and we predict for this book an immense sale.

It is sold by subscription only, and the publishers wish agents, as will be seen by their advertisement in another column.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—This magazine for May well bedits the month, with its Italian poem, its Western song birds, and its beautiful Easter poem. The number opens with a beautifully illustrated paper, entitled "Coast Rambles in Essex." The "Song Birds of the West" is contributed by Robert Ridgeway, our great ornithologist, authority, and is exquisitely illustrated by Gibson and Beard. Eugene Lawrence contributes an [illegible] illustrated paper on the "Italian Poets" which is happily supplemented by "The Silent Tryst"—a Sonnet and three Madrigals, "The Sailor Boy in Exile," and "Easter Morning." The two great serial novels of the year—"Macleod of Dare," by William Black, and "The Return of the Native," by Thomas Hardy—grow in interest with every monthly installment. There are also in this number, besides the illustrated story already mentioned, two other short stories —"My Nephew's Crotchets," by Lucretia P. Hale, and "Why Jack went to Europe," by Julian Hawthorne. A very suggestive paper entitled "Free Muscular Development," shows by how simple methods the best physical training may be secured. The Hon. F. H. Lloyd contributes a brief but important paper on the English Civil Service, with especial reference to its consular and diplomatic branch. Henrietta Hardy's poem, "May-Flower," concludes the body of the magazine.

"DRIFTING WITH THE TIDE."—Ninety thousand copies have already been sold of Will. L. Thompson's famous song "Gathering Shells from the Sea Shore," It is thought that "Drifting with the Tide," this author's last composition, will even eclipse "Gathering Shells in popularity. Any music dealer will mail either of these beautiful pieces to your address on receipt of price, 40 cents. Published by W. L. THOMPSON & CO., East Liverpool, Ohio.

THE OTTAWA FREE PRESS.—This paper—one of our most welcome exchanges—comes to hand now in an entire new dress. This change together with other improvements in matter and make up constitute it one of the best dailies in Ontario. The Weekly is as eight page journal of columns, the subscription price of which is only $1.50 per annum in advance. The publisher is now mailing to each subscriber on receipt of subscription money an elegant Oil Chromo of Lord Dufferin.

STANLEY'S NEW BOOK.—The appearance of Stanley's new book giving an account of his travels and adventures on his recent perilous journey through Africa, will be looked forward to with great interest by every one. Mr. J. B. Magurn, publisher Toronto, has secured the copyright for Canada, and will publish a Canadian edition, printed from facsimile plates of the English edition, giving all the illustrations and maps. The work will be issued in May.

NOTES ON THE 5TH. READER.—We have received from the publishers, James Campbell & Sons', notes on the examination papers in English Literature, for third class certificates by J. C. A. Armstrong, M. A., Modern Language Master, Collegiate Institute, Hamilton, and formerly Classical teacher in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. The object of the work is to assist intending candidates for third class certificates, and as a companion to selections in the 5th reader for that purpose. The work is neatly arranged, and contains useful questions, answers, and hints on varieties of metres, and versification. The biographical notes will be found very useful to students, whose means of obtaining information is limited, and the suggestions as to literal and poetic uses of words and phrases must lead to a more comprehensive knowledge of the English language, which, after all is the language demanding most incessant attention, because most used by the pupils. Etymology is a prominent part of the Notes, and the author has succeeded in giving a fund of information on this subject in a very narrow compass. The typography of the work could not be surpassed.

A Debatable Question.

While much has been written concerning the use of "pat up" [illegible] the question is still an open one, and [illegible] of the people a careful consideration. The subject points may be briefly stated, and answered as follows: 1st.—Are the sick capable of determining their need [illegible] 2nd.—Can a physician, no matter [illegible] judge [illegible] 3rd.—Is [illegible] opposed to the people [illegible] 4th.—Are people, residing in different latitudes, and subject to various climatic influences? In answer to the first proposition, we would say, diseases are named and known by certain "signs" or symptoms, and as the mother does not need a physician to tell her that her child has the whooping-cough, or indigestion is properly, so people when afflicted with many of the symptoms commonly in "nature's remedy," "sacred liver, and [illegible] require no other knowledge of their condition, or the remedy indicated, than they already possess. Second proposition—Many physicians argue that diseases are sectionally peculiar, and that their treatment must therefore vary, and yet [illegible] remedies are prescribed in all countries for certain complaints, and [illegible] to overcome certain conditions. In 3rd case, there is not a person that a physician whose large experience has made him familiar with the [illegible] and [illegible] properties of the [illegible] remedial and curative agents, [illegible] and [illegible] ability, [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

HELPING PAPA AND MAMMA.

Planting the corn and potatoes,
Helping to scatter the seed,
Feeding the hens and the chickens,
Fencing the garden from weeds;
Driving the cows to the pastures,
Feeding the horse in the stall,
We little children are busy,
Save there is work for us all,
Helping papa.

Spreading the hay in the sunshine,
Raking it up when it's dry,
Picking the apples and peaches
Down in the orchard hard by;
Picking the grapes in the vineyard,
Gathering nuts in the fall,
We little children are busy—
Yes, there is work for us all,
Helping papa.

Sweeping and washing the dishes,
Bringing the wood from the shed,
Ironing, sweeping and knitting,
Helping to make up the bed;
Taking good care of the baby,
Watching her lest she should fall,
We little children are busy,—
Oh, there is work for us all,
Helping mamma.

Work, helping, cheerful and happy,
Makes us both active and strong,
Play we enjoy all the better
When we have labored so long,
Gladly we help our kind parents,
Quickly we come at the call;
Children should love to be busy,
There is much work for us all,
Helping papa and mamma.

Scene in the House of Commons.

A Shame and a Disgrace.

(From the London Advertiser's Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, April 25.—

Nothing like the scene that transpired in the House of Commons since two o'clock this morning has, since Confederation at least, been witnessed within the walls of the Parliament building. Up to the hour named the debate on the Quebec Constitutional Question had gone on smoothly, having lasted for two days, covering a space of sixteen hours. Of these the Opposition members had engrossed twelve hours—sufficient time in all reason for fully setting their case before the House and the country. The Ministry desired to bring on a vote, as the business of the session could not be proceeded with until their motion before the chair had been disposed of. The Opposition urged an adjournment of the debate with a view to its continuance on Monday, but the Premier stated his opinion that the debate had fully exhausted itself, and that a vote should be taken. Then followed

A DISGRACEFUL EXHIBITION.

The Opposition, to disgust and weary the House, set up McDougall (Three Rivers) to talk against time. It was soon apparent that the member selected, to thwart the desire of the majority was far from being sober. It was painful to listen to his incoherent mandlin utterances and look upon the flushed face and its half-witted expression. The Speaker finally called him to order, but that did not put an end to the affair.

CHOSE NEXT TOOK THE FLOOR.

He had the merit of being sober. The hours slowly passed along, the House being a perfect pandemonium of noise. A motion to adjourn was made by Gibson in order to give unlimited scope for debate.

McDougall (Three Rivers) again in his half drunken condition took the floor and rambled away till it was half past six. By this time the House exhibited a scene never before paralleled in Canada. Frequent visits to the saloon had their effect upon the Opposition side. Domville turned up about 6 a.m., after having slept off a strong potation, and took his seat beside Plumb who had also slept a great part of the night in his place and looked as if he likewise had been afflicted with the prevalent complaint.

CONSTANT DIN OF PLUM'S VOICE

as he continued to read from a book could be heard in the intervals of the confusing sounds. Now the climax was reached. Campbell, of Gaysboro', known botter's "Tupper's goose," staggered across the floor of the House in an almost helpless state of intoxication. Balancing himself in front of the Premier's desk and between it and the Speaker's chair, he commenced to shout and gesticulate like a madman. For a moment all other noises ceased and nothing but the drunken shouts of could be heard. Flourishing his hat over his head with one hand and stamping his feet in drunken fury on the floor, he was heard declaring his utter independence of Governments and Speakers and Parliaments, and every other power or person. The strange noise aroused Sir John, who had been sleeping at his desk with his head buried in his arms. Raising a flushed face, and staring in a half-dazed sort of way at the extraordinary figure of his faithful follower performing a war dance in front of the Speaker, a broad grin spread over his countenance, his head dropped forward and he resumed his broken slumber,

THE OLD MEMBERS

UTTERLY INDIFFERENT, PERHAPS OBLIVIOUS,

to the fact that one of his supporters was disgracing himself and the House in a way that had never before been witnessed on the floor of Parliament. The leader's example—coupled and improved upon by his followers—had inflicted upon the House a stain of disgrace that will be felt with shame across the whole Dominion. Nothing more scandalous or undignified could be imagined. The whole conduct of the Opposition after two a.m. was an outrage. Out of growing out of a determination to obstruct the business of the House at all hazards, they refused to permit a vote to be taken, set up their men to talk against time and force the Ministry to abandon their purpose and to permit them to have their way. Following the train of this act of obstruction came the drunken scene above described,

PURE PERVERSENESS,

A great deal of the time-killing talk indulged in by the Opposition has been done in French, and under cover of that language some very wild and unprincipled remarks were made, the speakers trusting to the indifferent attention and general lack of familiarity with the French to enable them to make these remarks with impunity.

Mr. Holton caught Mr. Ouimet in such a scrape and brought him to task for it. Ouimet went so far as to say that Lieut.-Governor Letellier deceived the people and was a liar and conspirator with the Federal Government. Ouimet tried to wriggle out of it, feeling the humiliation of his position keenly, more especially as the Premier asked him if he was aware that indulgence in such charges amounted to bearing false witness against his neighbor.

THE GREAT PARLIAMENTARY PANJANDRUM

came to an expected close at 8 o'clock this evening by agreement between the Premier and the leader of the Opposition. The former concluded to adjourn the debate and the latter understood that there would be no more speaking, but that a vote would be taken without debate about ten o'clock Monday night. This, by concurrence on both sides the dead lock was broken after a session of twenty-seven hours' duration.

THE SCENE

in all its phases defies description. One incident is worth mentioning: Lady Dufferin took a seat on the floor of the House, near Mr. Speaker. In the afternoon the crowd was at its greatest—French members were singing the "Marseillais," English ones joined in "Auld Lang Syne" and "I Won't Go Home 'Till Morning." Toy balloons were squeaking, desks were groaning, members were shouting "order" and "call in the members." Her Excellency appeared greatly amused at the extraordinary scene. About 4 p.m., when she rose to leave, the members on the Ministerial side sprang to their feet, and, as if by concert, the patriotic strains of "God Save the Queen" burst forth from their throats. The Opposition took it up. The gallleries, which were crowded for the most part with ladies, echoed the anthem, and the entire chamber rang with the loyal melody. Three hearty cheers followed, and when the members resumed their seats a feeling of cordiality appeared to have spread over the chamber, softening the asperities that were creeping in as a result of the struggle that had been going on for so many hours. The compliment was no doubt appreciated by Lady Dufferin. The sight of some two hundred men forgetting for the moment their party contentions and uniting in an expression of good will to her Excellency and devotion the Queen, was one that could not be forgotten.

WHAT ASLED HIM?

It was a subject of remark that Pope (of Compton) was the only man in the House who did not rise to his feet and join in the demonstration.

THE PREMIER

remained at his post, as did most of the Ministers, during the entire night and day. Sir John left early in the morning, thoroughly exhausted, and did not appear again until late in the afternoon. He was not present during Lady Dufferin's visit. Hewett of the Opposition lasted all the time, his duty being to orators with newspaper clippings, scrap-books and almanacs, to sustain them in their patriotic efforts to talk time out of countenance. With the exception of the drunken scenes that cropped up chiefly between 2 and 3 a.m. there was nothing outrageously unseemly in the proceedings. Every thing was as amiable and gentlemanly on both sides as could possibly be expected. There is no doubt that the object of the Opposition in struggling against a vote being taken was a double one. First, they desired to prevent the result of the vote going to the Quebec electors at the Sunday meetings; and second, they expected to be able to return on Monday with fresh material with which to renew the debate and prolong it several days. They succeeded in the first, but the obstacle changed the plot, so that the result between the bottom side between both parties.

SPOON-FEED THE INFANT

The Orange-Catholic Alliance.

The Orange-Catholic Alliance, of which the Irish Canadian has been the persistent, though far from consistent advocate for some time, is flauntingly spurned by the Sentinel of this city, which is the recognized organ of the Orange party. It says:—"From our standpoint, and we believe we speak the sentiments of the Orange institution, we spurn the proposition and repudiate any let or part in so corrupt a bargain. * * * *

No Protestant, no Orangeman, should join in such an unholy alliance with Rome. If Irish Catholics want a representation on national and religious grounds, let them get it if they can. No Protestant should help them. The most transparent piece of hypocrisy is the Irish Canadian's appeal on national grounds.' The last few sentences sum up the deliberate judgment of the Sentinel, which is merely elaborated or defended in the other portions of the article quoted from. It shows plainly how the Orange sentiment regards the proposed alliance, and with what contempt the Orangemen spurn the proffered support of the Irish Canadian.—Toronto Tribune.

TWO DAIRY MAXIMS.

A leading American dairyman says there are two maxims in the dairying business which ought to be impressed upon every farmer's mind. The first is "No man can afford to keep a poor cow;" second, "No man can afford to keep a cow poor." To avoid keeping poor cows he frequently tests them by milking each into a separate pail, and noting the amount, solely solidity, and amount of cream, time required for the cream to rise, time required for churning, amount, color, and texture of the butter. In this way he can determine which cows are most profitable to keep. To avoid keeping his cows poor, he gives them good care, cuts his grass in June, first crop, and in August, second crop, feeds both the year round, varying from two to four quarts per day for each cow. He also feeds meal in varying quantities through the year. Until within a few years the average of butter sold per cow did not over two hundred pounds. From May 1, 1868, he sold an average of four hundred and thirteen pounds for the butter, feeding and supporting a family of three grown persons and three about half of the time with dairy produce.

Story of Dr. Tupper's Goose.

They tell a good story at Ottawa of C. J. Campbell, M.P. for Victoria, vulgarly known as "Dr. Tupper's goose," Mr. Campbell is a perfect curiosity in his way, with broad Highland accent, deaf as a post, but shrewd, like most of his countrymen, and well educated. He talks in a very high key, and when he does talk his gesticulations and his tone are inexpressibly comical. He was in one of the retreshment rooms of the House the other day along with a fellow-member—a brother Conservative, who tells the story in an inimitable way—and the conversation turned on the "Cartwright-Phairson" fund. "They tell me, Mr. S.," Mr. Campbell began, "this mon Cartwright has been sayin' some awfu' hard things aboot us Hielanders; he's been tellin' the people that we're a set o' thieves and robbers, that we used to come down on the Southern folk an' steal their black cattle. I tell you it's enough to make a Hielander's blood boil." And then leaning over to Mr. S. till his lips touched the latter's ear, he added with a voice like the bellow of a bull—"now, Mr. S., its true!" We wonder what the "Phairson" will say of this tribute to his "predatory instincts" by a brother Scot.

RULES FOR CHURCH CHOIRS.

Recollect one volunteer is worth any number of paid singers—in individual estimation.

Make the choir master thoroughly understand that you are conferring a favor upon him by singing at all.

Go to practice whenever you like and stay away when you want to. They will then learn to appreciate you.

If you can't sing at sight, you can at least be led by the ear.

If the choir master remonstrates at your irregular attendance, threaten to resign at once.

Be careful to talk while your rival is singing a solo, so that you can be heard during a pause. This will let the congregation know that you are in your proper place, and break the monotony.

Insist on having a cold when another soloist has the same. People have no right to monopolize nature.

If you have learned the Tonic Sol Fa method, introduce it on every possible occasion.

If you sing in Latin, do so with an English accent. People will then have the idea you are thoroughly acquainted with the German.

Never let the altos get ahead of you even on the "Amens," but prolong your notes until you are told to stop.

Be careful in your "phrasing," your nonsensical acquaintances will then think you know something.

Read books during the sermon; it will show you have an enquiring mind.

Leave your music at home. This will give you a chance of complaining about the stinginess of the committee of the choir fund.

When you clear a passage, always do it on a high note.

Have your head full of crotchets just to spite the conductor.

Bear in mind the rules of "harmony" in church choirs differ in more ways than one.

If the service goes wrong, blame the organist, as he is the only man who is paid to bear the responsibility.—Exeter.

The first tree cut on the Ottawa river was felled on the 7th of March, 1806. Since then 30,000,000 cubic feet of timber have been cut down in the forests of Canada, of which $15,000,000 worth have been exported.

A TYPE OF "PROTECTION."

(From the Lindsay Post.)

We have been afforded some entertainment by the fruitless and carping efforts of the Protectionist Peterboro' Review to disprove the well-grounded charge of a western contemporary that in procuring a new "dress" it did, feloniously to the cause of Protection, and with malice aforethought to the depressed industries of this country, pass by the Canadian type-maker and patronize the "foreigner," otherwise the "pauper labour" of England. Previous to this glaring act of inconsistency our western contemporary was in the innocence of its heart firmly persuaded that your average Canadian Protectionist was ready not "simply to give his money," but, if necessary go shed his life's blood in "the interest of Canadian manufactures;" but this impression has been rudely dissipated by the Review's free trade practices. The Review like a good many other Tory organs and politicians, is a living demonstration of the hollowness of its professions of patriotism and protection, as well as the weakness of the cause it pleads for the benefit of other communities than their own. Our Peterboro' contemporary essays to twist the charge into "another illustration of the necessity for protection for our native industries," but it would have been more to its credit if it had imitated the candour of a certain American newspaper publisher who, having done precisely what the Review has done, was asked how he could reconcile his practice with his profession. "Well," the Star Spangled Banner has always advocated Pro-tection to our native industries and our party has always supported that policy, but you see although I am a Pro-tectionist in principle I have a free trade pocket," slapping that capacious receptacle wherein good gold or honest silver coin had not jingled for many a long year.

The Review has evidently a free trade pocket and does not scruple to violate the principles it pretends to be the evidence of other industries. We do not blame the Review for obtaining from the celebrated Miller & Richard foundry perhaps the best and cheapest and most durable type made in the world; but as it has done this we call upon it to abandon the advocacy of Protection or stand convicted before the world of inconsistency and selfishness.

Even as a Protectionist it cannot advocate the imposition of a duty upon foreign type for type is the equivalent of raw material for a very large native industry, and it is we believe claimed to be a principle of protection to encourage or facilitate the importation of all such articles. Therefore the Review should devote its energies to advocating the abolition of the duty on type. Shall the thousands of printers and publishers in the Dominion be taxed heavily in order to secure enormous or large profits for one or two small concerns giving employment to no more than are employed in the Lindsay and Peterboro printing offices alone. This would be the result if the Tory Protectionists had their way.

This, too, is the question that is agitating the printing business of the United States. It is not the "thin edge of the Protectionist wedge" that is being driven in there. To such a pass have things come that the eleven type-founders already enormously protected have formed a ring and by lobby influence at Washington, have secured in the Wood Tariff Bill now before Congress an advance that will make the duty from 50 per cent to 120 per cent., according to the size and style of the type! A considerable quantity of the Miller & Richard type has been sold across the border by the Toronto agency, and an agency was recently opened at San Francisco; but the new tariff would be completely prohibitory, and up would go the price of American type from 25 to 50 per cent. in spite of the fact that improved machinery for casting and lower wages and expenses should make it cheaper. Of the eleven foundries all are thriving and long established with one or two exceptions, where there has been mismanagement, inefficiency or over-production. American newspapers transactive industry or economic ideas are vigorously protesting against the proposed extortion, and protesting in a way that will be felt at Washington and in the constituencies. They have organized not merely to oppose the advance but to get the duty abolished altogether—on the ground, briefly, that "cheap—in other words, free trade in type means cheap books, cheap papers, and the education of the masses," and that the fewness of the manufacturers would make combination an easy matter. The present almost prohibitory tax of 25 per cent., benefits a dozen men at the expense of twenty thousand master-printers; what benefit would not the greedy monopolists receive if the duty were to be advanced to 50 and 120 per cent. Quite a number of American newspapers point out a fact not less important than the duty, viz., that the American type is inferior, soft and short-lived as compared with the hard, clear, Scotch type, while the latter gives a larger quantity to the pound—an item worth considering especially in the requirements of the larger offices.

The honest Canadians can derive from the costly experience of our neighbours is not to allow monopolists to secure control of legislation and make or unmake tariffs at their own will, but to maintain a revenue tariff, at the same time affording to the imposition of duties reasonable encouragement and assistance to our manufacturing industries.

CASTILE SOAP IN HORSES.

With a brush rub well into the hoof, two or three times a week, equal parts of tar and oil liver oil or any fish oil. In severer cases to prevent or cure sand crack, cut down the hoof back of the crack, so that part cannot come in contact with the shoe; with a file or rasp cut across the end of the other to prevent it from extending; put on a bar shoe throwing the pressure entirely on the cog; cut down the edges of the crack along its whole length to the quick and stimulate the growth of that part of the hoof with a good ointment, such as one composed of tar, lard, and turpentine; keep the part clean and allow the animal as much rest as conveniently possible until a cure is effected.

BUTTER FACTORIES.

We learn from the Mimitoy Times that the farmers of Locknow, Ont., have resolved to establish a butter factory, similar to the one in the adjoining village of Toorwater. At a meeting held for this purpose, it was shown that a good factory could be established for $1,000—that it takes 22 pounds of milk to make one pound of butter—that the farmer selling milk at 6c. per gallon receives constantly 18c per pound for his butter and is at no trouble or expense in either its manufacture or sale—that he receives cash for the product of his dairy monthly or quarterly. Arrangements are also nearly completed for the establishment of a creamery at St. Jacobs. The milk of 400 cows is to be guaranteed and the farmers are promised eight cents a gallon for their milk. The product is to be shipped to England, where it is supposed that extra high prices will be obtained. The Belleville Intelligencer says in reference to the establishment of butter factories—"We should like to see this enterprise engaged in by the farmers of Hastings and adjoining Counties, as there is an unlimited market and high prices in England for a really first-class article of butter." Canadian butter is not in good odor there, for the reason that there is no uniformity of quality, and the best is bad, owing to carelessness of manufacture. By the establishment of creameries the standard of excellence can at once be raised and uniformity of of quality in large lots secured, by which means Canadian butter could soon obtain as high a reputation in the English market as Canadian cheese has gained since the factory system came into vogue.

A number of white fish fry have been placed in the lakes in Haliburton.

PETTIT'S EYE-SALVE.

An Infallible Remedy for all Diseases of the Eye (acute or chronic), Granulation of the Lids, Ulceration of the Lachrymal Glands, Film, and Weakness of the Vision from any cause.

THE AMERICAN EYE-SALVE is presented to the public with the assurance of its efficiency as a curative of the most diseases of the eye, acute or chronic inflamation, whether induced by scrofulous origin or otherwise, weakness or defect of vision, diminished tone of the optic nerve, or a diseased state of the tissues constituting that organ. Also for all persons whose vocation requires an incessant action of the eyes, the Salve will act as a charm in restoring a uniform healthy action, where weakness, pain, and misery may have long threatened a fatal termination. It is the most simple, safe, and effective remedy ever discovered. The materials of which it is made are pure, perfect, and costly, compounded with elaborate care and exactness, safe in its application, being used externally, and, of course, lessening the pain and danger which necessarily attends the introduction of minerals and eye-washes. Ringworm and Old Chronic Sores, of scrofulous origin, or resulting from whatever cause, yield to the AMERICAN EYE-SALVE. It is used successfully for Piles. Its soothing affect is immediate, permanent cure requires but a few applications. The proprietors of "Dr. J. PETTIT'S AMERICAN EYE-SALVE," while making new and improved machinery for making a more perfect box for the Eye-Salve, have changed the Trade Mark on the cover so as to correspond with the Cut on the Wrapper, Circulars, Advertisements, etc. We call attention to this, as it might otherwise be regarded as counterfeiting.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Olibanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of electricity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing mediums ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to act quicker than any other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

They possess all the soothing, warming, supporting and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have been relieved of RHEUMATISM, TIC DOLOREUX, and various other pains in the KIDNEYS, BREAST or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the electrical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus restoring them to a healthy condition.

They are very soft and pliable, still very adhesive; and a sure cure for WEAK BACKS, PAINS IN THE SIDE AND BREAST, and are invaluable to those who have a COLD of long standing, and often prevents CONSUMPTION. Some even tell us they believe they were entirely cured by the use of them of a long seated Consumption.

THE REGULAR SEASON.

BY M. QUAD.

Whack! Crack! Whack!
'Tis an old familiar sound;
The parlor carpet, entering the fence
Is being beaten around.

Crash! Dash! Smash!
From parlor, kitchen and hall;
A pelp from Tommy, a yell from Joe
'Twas only a mirror—that's all.

Mop! Scrub! Wash!
A painter on every hand;
Hangers of paper in every room,
And plumbers hanging the hand.

Growl! Scowl! Gnash!
The dishes mixed up with the chairs:
The sofa upset and pictures smashed,
And wife down sick with cares.

Bread! Cake! Tea!
Anything, most, will do;
Plates are sticky and knives are gone—
Lain over the butter in blue.

Rats! Roar! Howl!
Oh! when will it ever be o'er!
When can we go to bed,
A bed not made on the floor?

Ouch! Rats! Dash!
Paint from ceiling to base,
The white-washers coming at early dawn,
To make a—a basket of the place!

Bang! Dream! Wake!
And then fall asleep again
To dream that cholera came at last,
With autumn funeral train.

Once every year—
Rip things up and tear—
Smash! crash! bang!
Growl! snarl! clare!

YOUNG'S POINT LOCKS.

(From the Lindsay Post.)

The Peterboro' Review is endeavoring to gain a little notoriety in the scandal-manufacturing line, its special object being the locks at Young's Point at present undergoing repair. In order to make a point if possible, against the Ontario Government, the Review endeavors to stir up local jealousies by mis statements of fact, and to excite provincial attention by exaggerations of the grossest kind. This will be apparent as we take up one by one our contemporary's statements and compare them with the facts.

The Review had blamed the Government for sending a "gang of men" from "Lindsay" to make the repairs, and held that this was a slur upon Peterboro mechanics. The facts are that Mr. Thos. Walters, the foreman of works under the Ontario Government, took just one man from Lindsay, his sub-foreman, and of the other men on the works one was from Lakefield and six or seven from Young's Point. The Peterboro men have, therefore no reason to complain on the ground that Lindsay has been specially favoured. The fact that Mr. Walters lives in Lindsay is surely no ground for complaint, He must live somewhere; and Lindsay, owing to its superior railway and navigation facilities, is the most convenient place for his work. We have heard, however, that when the railway is built from Peterboro to the North Pole, via Mud Lake and Bobcaygeon, he may consider the advisability of becoming the fellow-townsman of our strabilicous contemporary.

It happens that after a stop-log dam had been put down for the purpose of repairing the locks and while waiting for the diver, the captain of the steamer Tiger desired to get above the lock in order to do some towing while the repairs were being made, and as it was impossible to tell the nature of the breakage and the number of days it would take to complete the repairs, Mr. Walters very properly agreed to "lock" the boat through. By so doing there would be one boat above the lock and one below to meet the public requirements, rendering necessary a short portage the length of the lock. The Tiger passed through safely; but a portion of the wall of the lock-chamber had been undermined by the action of the water and an end fell in. This the Review magnifies into throwing down a "large portion of the masonry of the lock" in the passage of the steamer, and conveys the impression that the repairs will require an expenditure of several thousand dollars, and that navigation will be stopped for a month or two. This is a ridiculous. Any Peterboro land-lubber ought to know that the Tiger could be and was "locked" safely and quietly, under the circumstances, and that the fall of the masonry was owing altogether to defective foundation, which had been undermined by the water. The Review tries to anticipate this by stating that it was not from "undermining" but that the "lock-walls fell in from the ignorance "or negligence of the men who attempted to lock through a boat by using "stop-logs." Any practical man, any man of common sense, who has seen the operation of locking will know that the Review's charge in the nearest rubbish as far as looking is concerned; and Mr. Thos. Walters is sufficiently well-known as a man whose practical experience and thoroughness renders the charge of "ignorance" or "negligence" equally absurd. Mr. Walters has been for eight years connected with the Department of Public Works and has made all the repairs on these waters and in Muskoka with the exception of Bobcaygeon. During that time he has satisfactorily carried out the work entrusted to him; and has won an excellent reputation. We are assured that the lock-chamber in question is not disturbed, owing to the prompt action taken by Mr. Walters the moment the breakage was discovered, and that the lock will be ready for navigation again by the 10th or 12th of May; while the cost of the repair will not exceed $800 to $1,000.

So much for a few of the Review's numerous exaggerations in a brief article. The Review goes on in a wild wail to speak of "enormous expenditures which are unnecessary and "unjustifiable," while operations are conducted in such a "bungling and "wasteful manner that the public "funds have been squandered with "little or no result," but we need not occupy space by dissipating such Truth, nor shall we now discuss the "constitutional question" as to the oversight of these waters by the Dominion or Ontario Government further than to say that the policy of the Ontario Government in the premises has been approved by the people and has proved highly beneficial to the country.

I tell you as a showman, you can't make animals drink whiskey. They know better. [Lecture by Barnum.

SERIOUS FIRE IN COBOURG.

THREE FIREMEN KILLED AND ONE MORTALLY WOUNDED.

A Falling Wall the Cause of the Accident—$500 Reward Offered for the Conviction of the Incendiary.

(From the Cobourg Sentinel.)

Of all the accidents that have occurred in this part of the Province for many years past we can safely say that none has exceeded in sadness the appalling occurrence of Thursday morning. About two o'clock the bells pealed forth an alarm, and it was immediately discovered that the third story of the "Windsor Hotel" on Division street was in flames. The Brigade was promptly on the spot, No. 2 getting to work in four minutes and a half after the alarm was sounded; but the flames were already licking their greedy way along until the whole upper part of the doomed building was one sheet of fire. Partition after partition disappeared quickly, and as there were no brick walls within it soon became evident that all efforts to confine the fire demon were spent in vain. The Branchmen of No. 1 Company were stationed on Division street in front of the building, and, receiving no orders to discontinue their endeavors, remained directing three streams into the flaming windows. About this time the crowds surrounding perceived that the wall immediately above these men was bulging out gradually, and frequent warnings were given for them to remove to a safer distance. Still no orders were received from the Brigade or company officers, and the Dauntless few stack to their post, as if courting the very destruction that was so shortly to ensue.

Sudden—fearfully sudden—was the fate of those below! The wall, entirely unsupported by walls within, or joists, was observed to tremble, to hang for an instant suspended in the air, then to fall with a dull resounding crash upon the devoted men who still persisted at their dangerous station. Firemen F. W. Beebe, James Forest, George Stevenson, G. W. Alexander, John Moyse, Chas, Patterson and Walter Grieve saw the man tottering as they stood beneath, and endeavoured to escape before it fell. Beebe narrowly escaped, being knocked down by several falling bricks. Alexander was also on the rick of time, and beyond a few bruises and a lame leg, was unhurt. Not so fortunate, however, were the young men Forrest, Stevenson, Patterson, and Grieve. The wall crashed to the ground and buried them! They tried to escape by running toward the other side of the street, but the wall in its descent outstripped them. A moment's silence prevailed among the horrified hundreds who witnessed the calamity, and then all rushed forward to extricate the noble fellows who had disappeared from view under the debris. The crowd was kept back and the firemen crased almost by the fearful catastrophe, tore the fragments of the wall from over the buried victims. The bodies were quickly extricated, but could scarcely have been recognised except by their clothes. It was found that Forrest and Stevenson were quite dead, and Patterson who was removed to Buchanan's expired shortly after. Grieve was removed and at the time we write is still alive; but from the frightful injuries he has received his recovery would be miraculous. Part of his skull was battered in, and one of his thighs broken. When it became known that three of our brave firemen had fallen victims to such a death, the feeling of sorrow and commiseration in every inhabitant of Cobourg was both intense and general. Before daylight those who had not been present at the fire, flocked in hundreds to the spot to view the smoking ruins and gaze upon the place where the brave young fellows had encountered death in the discharge of duty. Coroner C. E. Ewing was summoned and after impannelling a jury, proceeded to view the bodies.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held at twelve o'clock on Thursday, when the following most praiseworthy resolutions were passed unanimously :—

"Resolved,—That inasmuch as three of our brave Firemen, namely, Geo. Stephenson, Jas. Forrest and Charles W. Patterson nobly ascribed their lives in the active discharge of their duty at the burning of the "Windsor Hotel" this morning, therefore this Council tender their heartfelt sympathy to the friends of the late Firemen, and to request the privilege of providing for the expenses of the Funeral, thereby making it a public Funeral, and that the Mayor and Council attend in a body as a mark of respect to the deceased."

"Resolved,—That this Council does hereby beg to express and tender their sincere sympathy to Mr. Geo. Grieve and family on the occasion of the severe injury to his son, Walter Grieve, who was dangerously wounded while bravely discharging his duty as a Fireman at the burning of the "Windsor Hotel" this morning, and that they would further express the earnest aspiration that he may in the order of Providence be restored to perfect health."

"Resolved,—That the Mayor be requested to offer a Reward of $500 for the apprehension and conviction of the party or parties who set fire to the "Windsor House" in this town on the night of the 26th instant."

The following resolution comes too late to be of any use to the poor fellows who came to their death by the positive negligence in the erection of the "Windsor Hotel." It will, however, serve in future, and if the By-law is not carried out to the very extreme of strictness the inhabitants of Cobourg have the remedy in their own hands :—

"Resolved,—That the By-law Committee be instructed to confer with the Town Solicitor and submit a By-law at the next meeting to provide for the appointment of a Building Inspector, and to forbid the erection of any brick building within the corporation without necessary cross walls for preventing the building in case of fire, and to amend the By-law appointing Fire Wardens."

The "Windsor House," which up to Saturday of last week was occupied by Thomas Connor, was estimated as the time the insurance were effected, at $6,000; and it was insured for two-thirds of its value, viz: $8,324, in the "Northern of Aberdeen, $4,000 payable to the National Investment Co., of Toronto, and $1,334 to Hugh Devinsey. Besides the part of the building used as hotel, there were two stores on the ground floor. One, a grocery kept by Alexander Bocock, was insured for $300 in the "Queen" Company of England; the other, a boot and shoe shop kept by S. W. Lane, was insured for $500 also in the "Queen" of England.

Fireman Charles W. Patterson was a son of Mr. Thomas Patterson of Grafton. He had lived in Cobourg, however, for many years past, and was one of the crew of the Yacht Countess of Dufferin in the great race of '76. While on shore he worked as a painter; he was unmarried, and about twenty-three years of age.

James Forrest is a son of Mr. W. Forrest, saddler, King St. West. He was about nineteen years of age, and was unmarried.

George Stephenson was twenty-five years of age, and leaves a wife and two infant children to mourn his loss. He was a machinest, by trade, and had lately been working at Crossen's foundry.

Walter Grieve is a son of Mr. G. Grieve, carpenter, Havelock St. He is about nineteen years of age.

As we go to press at three o'clock on Friday afternoon the young man Walter Grieve, is about in the same condition, but suffering somewhat less pain. The Physicians have decided upon waiting for symptoms of compression before operating further. His condition on the whole is more favorable.

The four unfortunate firemen had the most exemplary characters, and the citizens of Cobourg regret their untimely fate.

The greater portion of the contents of the two stores were saved.

We think that in addition to the By-laws proposed above, one might—indeed ought immediately to be introduced for the purpose of appointing half a dozen Fire Marshals, whose duty it would be to compel bystanders to man the brakes of the hand engine, after the members of the company have become thoroughly exhausted. It is a fact that, at the late fire, men positively and openly refused to work, and it is time a remedy is had for this practice. Men stood by and saw the Mayor of the town working hard at the brakes, and yet made no offer of assistance!

The fire was undoubtedly that of an incendiary. A warrant was issued on Thursday morning for the arrest of Mr. Hugh Devinsey, the owner of the building, and he was brought before Dr. Beatty J. P. for trial on a charge of setting fire to the building that was burned on the site last year. Circumstances are against Mr. Devinsey, but we hope he may prove that the suspicion of his having been instrumental in this unfortunate matter is entirely groundless He declares he was not in town on Wednesday night, or that he is in any way connected with the late fire.

LATER.—The funeral of young Forrest, the only one of the firemen who were killed at the late fire who was buried in Cobourg, took place at ten o'clock on Saturday. Besides the town fire companies, the following bodies formed part of the funeral procession :—A deputation from the fire brigade of Rochester, N. Y., who brought over three very handsome memorial wreaths; a deputation from the Belleville and Port. Hope firemen; The Mayor and Town Council; the students of Victoria College; the Orange Young Britons, and a large number of the citizens of the town. The procession was headed by the 40th battalion brass band. All places of business were closed during the funeral. In the afternoon the firemen and a number of citizens went up to Port Hope by special train to attend the funeral of George Stephenson, who was to be buried there. Young Grieves, who was so badly injured, is still alive, but it is almost impossible for him to recover. He has his skull broken in two places, so that his brain is quite visible, and his thigh is broken also in two places.

ANOTHER FIRE.

We record this week with regret the destruction by fire of Mr. Geo. Plunkett's shoe shop and Mr. F. Meehan's harness shop. The fire, which was discovered about el.30 o'clock on Tuesday morning, had gained such headway that all efforts to keep it under by the fire brigade were fruitless until the building was completely gutted. But very little was saved, and Mr. Plunkett's stock was uninsured. The building was insured in the North British and Mercantile for $500, and Mr. Meehan's stock was insured for $200 in the Queen. Mr. Plunkett estimates his loss in stock at over $1000, and on building at nearly the same amount, while Mr. Meehan puts his loss at $700

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 2, 1878

MR. BERTRAM FOR WEST PETERBOROUGH.

The nomination of Mr. John Bertram by the Reform Convention for West Peterborough, on Saturday last, must be highly gratifying not only to the warmest of Reformers, but also to the quieter portion of the electorate who have hitherto supported the man more for his sterling qualities than as the mere candidate of a particular party. Even conscientious Conservatives whose reason has not been run away with by the poor and unpatriotic cry for protection will be reconciled for the certain defeat their party must meet, by the conviction that in Mr. Bertram the country's best interests, as well as the respect and honor of the constituency will be sustained. Since Mr. Bertram's entrance into public life, (made memorable by an attempt to defraud him of his seat, and the people of their choice of a representative) his has been a faithful and consistent course, in the service of his constituents and the Confederation. True to his "pledges, he has given the Administration a loyal, but not slavish support in carrying out the policy they advocated in opposition. His record in this is clear, and he has ever been ready to give his constituents an intelligent and straightforward account of the reasons which actuated his votes and speeches in the House. Earnestly deserving to maintain British connection, and to consolidate the Dominion, his views on fiscal matters could not be other than in favour of all possible Free Trade for Canada. He, as well as every other unbiased observer, knows that the closing of our ports against British trade, by the imposition of high import duties, would tend not only to weaken our connection with the Empire by curtailment of pleasant and profitable intercourse, but also prove highly displeasing to the home Government and to the popular sentiment of the old lands, from which we draw our national inspiration, to say nothing of our most intelligent and valuable immigration. It is perfectly plain also, that duties levied for the purpose of protecting the leading industry of one province must be distasteful to the other provinces on which the burden would necessarily fall; and that all this would tend to the disintegration of the Dominion. Mr. Bertram, during a practical and useful life has had the best opportunities for noting these things, and other matters pertaining to the well-being of the body social and body politic. That experience has produced his views and led him to the expressed belief that a tariff merely for purposes of revenue, throws the burden of taxation as lightly as possible on the great producing classes, the farmer, mechanic and labourer. In this we fully agree with him; and would be quite willing to support him on that declaration alone as against the opposite expressions of the party resisting his re-election. Mr. Bertram's experience, vigour and honesty of purpose has made him the best representative West Peterborough has ever had. The constituency has reason to be more than satisfied with him; and we believe it is proud of him. It will give expression to that satisfaction and pride by sending him again to Parliament with an increased majority over him who has the temerity to oppose his return.

Mr. E. H. Goff, of Montreal, has written a letter to the Montreal Herald, containing some most damaging charges of corruption and extortion against Mr. Baker, Solicitor-General under the De Boucherville Administration. Mr. Goff has taken the matter into the Courts. Mr. Baker gives the whole an unequivocal denial while Mr. Goff promises to substantiate his charges, by producing some startling documentary evidence.

TORYISM AND TEMPERANCE.

The Tory papers first misrepresented the accusation made against members of the Opposition for being drunk in the House of Commons, and then deny in toto the story they themselves have partly made. In this they but follow the lead of most of those Opposition members who spoke on the matter from their places on the floor of the House. No one accused Sir John Macdonald with being drunk "during the prolonged debate," as one paper puts it; but that he was drunk at a certain time has been clearly established. The frenzy into which the Opposition papers work themselves show that they fully believe the thing they attempt to deny. One characterizes the charge of drunkenness as totally without foundation, while another, not quite so reckless, declares that all he saw Sir John drink was a little sherry and water. Just fancy an old stager like Sir John Macdonald "refreshing" himself with a little sherry and water! The man who talk such rubbish know full well that the leader of the Opposition is used to stronger potations. The reporters who deny the statement were not in the gallery at the time the Chieftain displayed himself, and only act on instructions in the "you lie" argument. It is somewhat strange that the reputation said to have appeared in the Montreal Witness cannot be quoted by those who pretend to have seen it; and it is a notorious fact that the Mail had to be taken to task by the Ottawa Free Press for making an unfair quotation from its columns. The Free Press did say that Sir John has at other times striven stronger signs of intoxication. That the Globe rebuked the conduct of both parties shows rather the fairness of that journal; and that it did not immediately speak of the drunken scenes in no argument against their existence. The fact of Sir John's making a speech to open the debate is good proof that he drank something stronger than water, if we but connect it with his inability to make even a pic-nic speech last summer unless the contents of the pitcher were prepared for him. Yet those who pretend to know and follow Sir John actually expect people to believe an accusation of inebriety was trumped up against him! No need for that say time these ten years! Did these virtuous Conservatives never hear of their leader being drunk before, that they seem so incredulous! It were indeed useless to "concoct" any such story; and certainly such a charge applied to Sir John Macdonald is no "slander." This the Tory journals know, and feel; hence their frantic outcry, vehement denial, and ludicrous remarks upon disgraceful journalism.

We should not have said so much of this disgraceful matter had we not been accused of falsehood, in common with other journals, the reputation of which for veracity will certainly stand above that of those who challenge it. Who were they that denied, "on their honour as gentlemen," to Lord Dufferin, that there was not the slightest foundation for the charges of Mr. Huntington in connection with the Pacific Railway rascality? What papers then reiterated the lie, as it was afterwards proven to be! And these men and these journals now presume to appeal to the people on their unproven assertion! A denial from such source is strong proof of any statement. The Belleville Ontario in noticing the Tory denial says:—

"Sir John was shamefully drunk on the occasion referred to, and we can prove it."

The Ontario has a private letter written from Ottawa by a Methodist minister to a friend, in which epistle the writer speaks of the disgraceful exhibition Sir John Macdonald made of himself. This cannot be called a lie manufactured by political opponents. We see it stated in some of our Tory exchanges that proceedings for libel have been taken against the Globe for its remarks on Sir John's drunkenness. Action no doubt being merely taken to close discussion on the matter till after the elections. This may be thought clever; for decent and disgusted temperance Tories cannot be expected to uphold a drunken leader, or vote for candidates pledged in his favor.

Another reason why we speak plainly, and at some length on this matter arises from the attempt to make capital for the Tory party out of the temperance "principles" of Mr. Hilliard. But if that gentleman display the amount of principle in regard to his temperance record that he has shown in other matters, he must repudiate the present leader of the Conservative party, and a good many of his followers as well. Indeed he will himself admit that the late advances of the temperance in this country are largely owing to the action of the Reform Governments, Dominion and Provincial; and he cannot deny that the political party he seeks to uphold in Parliament, has obstructed such legislation as much as they possibly could. The chief organ of the Tory party was also that of the Anti-Dunkinites; and the Tory organ in this town was apparently the property of the liquor interest during the Dunkin agitation here. When Mr. Hilliard throws in his lot with such company, can he consistently ask temperance men to vote for him! Such an expectation would, under the circumstances be utterly absurd.

ISSUES IN ELECTIONS.

Last week's reference of the Tory journal of this town to "such papers as the Norwood Register" shows that the remarks of the village paper on the absence of any great political question in an over true one; and that the sneer at the lesser rival is actuated by a knowledge of the "little one's" influence. If not, why sneeze so loudly! Like every other paper, the Register tries to express such views as will be most acceptable to its constituency; and, being without a rival in its little circle, and hence comparatively free from those party temptations that catch many a so-called "independent" paper, the chances are all in favour of its fairly shadowing the views of the people in its locality. The Tory mouthpiece knows this, and knowing it, is wild, that the electors of Norwood and vicinity are not to be caught by any magnifying of the present cry of its party. We have no desire to drag the Register into party discussion. That, considering it and the Examiner's relative positions would be absurd. The paper of the other party would appear to have a desire to bully it, however, judging from a censure of its "attempting to talk politics" and yet 'maintain an unarmed non-political chance too.' Merely remarking that this censure may fall against the acknowledged Tory paper's own cause, we meet in justice under upon the Register's defence against an imputation of sailing under false colors. The Norwood paper made no unfair reference to either political party, or to the coming contest in the East Riding, of which it surely must take some cognizance. Its sole offence to the Tory party is contained in the declaration that "there is really no great political question before the country;" and the only political colour that judgment has been given was by the Examiner, a Reform paper, agreeing with it. The offence being done, we are willing to shoulder it; free the Register from insinuations and bullying; and take directly any blows that may be offered, and not over the shoulders of our innocent Norwood contemporary.

If there be "great political questions" before the country, what are they? The local tory journal talks of the policy and conduct of the Government. That is over before the people; and is therefore the very commonest issue of all. The policy of Reform Ministers has been successfully defended against every assault, and will be till the end of the election campaign proves the popular confidence therein. If it be a question of fitness or unfitness, that too is over a consideration; and cannot therefore be called a "great political question." Such an issue may receive itself into one of calumny against drunkenness; honesty against dishonesty; or the swell mob of the United Empire Club against popular representation and selection. And certainly these cannot be called "great political questions." But these is one other thing the Tories are trying to lift into importance; but the people can't be got to see it in the light the party would place it before them. All the "question," there is in it is upon the permanent tariff. The Opposition say it is "bad and unjust;" but they cannot point out any particular wherein it is so bad; neither can they tell to whom it is unjust. This "question" too is no uncommon one; for there is always a tariff to be condemned by the party in Opposition. But the present opposition cannot even offer objections to the duties imposed. They simply raise an insane cry, and avoid any "question." Were they sincere in their contentions their own interests would lead them to make definite objections to the Government's policy. Their duty as peoples' representatives should also impel them, if they have any views to state plainly what their views are; and to force attention to what they may consider beneficial to the country. That they cannot express objections plainly proves that they have none worthy the name. They have simply chosen a period of common commercial depression as a time to raise popular discontent, and turn it, if possible against the Government. Returning prosperity is to them a disappointment; and in order to delay it as long as possible they actually go the length of decrying their country as a place wholly unfit to live in. Yet these are the men that ask the country to restore them to the places they disgraced five years ago. That is their "great political question;" and they have their negative answer in the intelligence of the Canadian people.

There is little probability of the House being prorogued before the middle of next week.

The re-nomination of Mr. Bertram for West Peterboro' will be read with satisfaction. Mr. Bertram is one of the best informed members of the House, and is a credit to his constituents. There ought to be no doubt as to his election.—London Advertiser.—Neither there is.

Certainty in business is best attained under a uniform and unchanging tariff; for any new distribution of duties only tends to distract all steady trade and disturb all business till the commercial sea again finds its level. To meet a commercial crisis by change of tariff is simple insanity.

We quite agree with the Review that the tariff should not be framed "in the interests of any one class or of any particular section." This is the reason we cannot support those who prate in favor of a policy that would favour the manufacturers at the expense of their workmen and customers, and the cities and larger towns at the expense of the rural districts. Can it be that the local Tory journal is "going back" on its long and slavish party allegiance? Or is it only a little further mixed over the puzzle its party leaders have set it?

The Spartans used to make the helots drunk to give the youth a disgust for the offence. In Canada it is not the slaves that make the example; but men in the nations counsels. If (as the Review declares) Mr. Dumble favours electing drunkards to parliament to promote temperance, we can assure both the gentlemen and the journal that there is now in Parliament a sufficiently "frightful example" in the persons of the leader of the Opposition and a number of his followers. Carral would be enough for the Senate himself; but he too has rivals.

We have frequently had occasion to remark upon the Conservative characteristic of inborn snobbishness which leads to offensiveness towards those who are considered inferiors, yet whom these pseudo patricians expect to follow their command like so many cringing curs. Among late exhibitions of this Tory peculiarity is a remark at a Tory convention in Grey, made by a delegate who objected to pledging the meeting to support the party nominee. And what were his grounds?—Simply the fear that they might be called on to vote for "a nigger or a Roman Catholic." We commend this to the attention of the Irish Canadian's "Representation and Revenge" editor.

The report of the Dominion Public Accounts Committee, on the Moylan payments, establishes that they were "altogether questionable and highly irregular," and that "Mr. Moylan's claims on the Province of Canada were at least highly problematical in their character." Yet Sir John Macdonald years after payment had been refused by Mr. Sandfield Macdonald, not only paid these problematical claims; but hid the payment of sums so expended under the guise of "advances," to be repaid by printing, which printing was never done. Thus the payments were "virtually converted into a free gift," and by another of Sir John's "honest" transactions at least $2,200 has been lost. The Review calls it "a case of irregular book-keeping;" but if Mr. Ross had been guilty of such irregularity without express orders from Sir John Macdonald, it would have been called by the harsher name of embezzlement. The Review tries to comfort its Tory readers with the assertion that the report is a "partizan" one; but it fails to tell that only nine members of the committee voted against it. Would it wish its readers to believe that there are only nine Opposition members on the Public Accounts Committee? There are many more; but where were the others? Twelve are week to secure attendance of "whipping." Suppose they apply the term to this case,

DUNKIN BY-LAW APPEAL.

Court Quashes Municipality's Position.

The following is a [illegible] of Chief Justice Hagarty in the appeal case of Purser vs. County of Peterborough,—the appeal being entered to quash the validity of the Dunkin By-law passed by the electors of the County of Peterborough.

The By-law was passed by the County Council 30th Nov. 1877, and the notice to the Ratepayers was, that the voting was to take place on Wednesday 9th January, in the various Municipalities 13 in number.

The statute directs that the By-law (or requisition) be published for four consecutive weeks " " by posting up copies of the same in at least four public places in each municipality, with a notice signifying that on some day within the week next after such four weeks " " the poll would be taken, &c., &c.

There is no dispute as to the time when the notice was first published in each municipality.

The earliest notice was posted on 7th Dec., others in 8th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 14th, 19th, 20th, 22nd, 24th, 26th, 27th.

With the exception of the two or three first mentioned, all the notices were too late. In some municipalities the notices instead of the statutory time were only posted one or two weeks before the week in which the polling day was appointed. It is difficult to account for this almost general disregard of a matter so important to the validity of the proposed By-law.

The only answer given is that the time for polling was so well known throughout the county, that the admitted insufficiency of the notices could not have any real effect upon the result of the polling. 1365 voted yea; 447 voted nay; 918 majority in favour of the By-law.

In all 1719 votes were polled. It appears that something all the ratepayers in the county apparently entitled to vote, some 2000 abstained from voting.

If these figures be correct three times the larger majority recorded in favour of the By-law did not vote.

Of course no election ever brings out the full number on the rolls. And it is said that at a lately contested [illegible] election held lately in this County only about 7000 were polled.

Many affidavits are filed in which persons of respectability and means of knowledge swear that, in all parts of the county the resolutions of this By-law was heavily discussed, and those were fullest knowledge of the time of voting, and that they are perfectly satisfied that the result was in no way affected by the defects in the notices.

From the earliest date our Courts have always leaned to the upholding of Municipal By-laws and all proceedings connected therewith against merely technical objections. So long as every thing has been done in good faith and any legal difficulty has occured solely by mistake we have striven if possible to uphold them.

In the case of elections, whenever it was clear that any alleged irregularities could not possibly have affected the result, we have been hesitate to avoid yielding to merely technical objections.

But the case before us seems to call for a far wider exercise of this indulgent construction than any that has hitherto come under my notice.

There seems really to have been no attempt to perform the important substantial duty as to the notices in an honest manner.

It is not a question of the mistake of a day or two. It is simply an almost complete omission to do what the law plainly says was to be done.

As a matter of individual opinion, I may agree with many of the witnesses, that the result of the polling would have been the same whether the notices had been posted up four weeks instead of two weeks or one week.

But it is perfectly certain that for some cause or other there were votes enough unpolled in the county to have turned the existing large majority for the By-law into an equally large majority against it.

I cannot speculate on how many of the unpolled votes might have voted if the proper notices had been given.

The argument urged for upholding this By-law notwithstanding the admitted insufficiency of the notices given would be equally strong if no notices at all had been given.

It could be said and sworn to just as confidently that the submission of this By-law and the day appointed for voting thereon were perfectly well known throughout the county.

I must say that I am inclined to look upon the extraordinary neglect and delay in the posting of these notices very much as if no notices at all had been put up.

I am not prepared to say that any Court would sanction such a failure to perform a plain duty. If they did so the precedent might prove of very dangerous consequences.

Individually we must not give undue weight to opinions however honestly and confidently expressed as to the effect or non-effect of the want of due notice of the election day.

A case may be put where a majority is so large that the presence of all the unpolled votes could not have overcome it. But where the reserve is—as here far too large to admit of this suggestion the arrangement fails.

Even in the case suggested it is a serious thing to dispense in substance with all statutable formalities. Here it is sufficient to say that the facts do not require us to discuss our power or duty in such a case to dispense with obedience to the law.

The late case of Mace vs. Corporation of Frontenac 42. U. C. 70., cites all or most of the cases on this subject.

I have not noticed any of the other objections. They might perhaps have been found to be no unsurmountable.

I think the By-law must be quashed—and with costs as the failure to comply with the law was so marked.

SPRING ASSIZES.

The Peterborough Spring Assizes were opened here on Tuesday last, Chief Justice Harrison presiding. The first days Assizes were published in our last issue.

Ontario Bank vs. Rogers.—This was an action to recover from the wife of John Rodgers, Smith, the amount of a guarantee bond given by her for her husband's endorsements of Strickland paper. The first witness (MacKee) called said that he witnessed the document (bond) produced, but that he did not see the signature to it when he signed it, and that he supposed at the time he was witnessing the signature of Rodgers himself—at whose request he did so. The next witness called was Mrs. Rodgers who refused to answer the questions put to her, and the Judge committed her to jail for contempt of Court and postponed the case to the next Court. Bethune, Q. C., and Fenwick for Plaintiff's; Cameron, Q.C., and Hatton for defendant.

Sowden vs. The Standard Insurance Co.—This was an action brought by Mr. Sowden, of Millbrook, to recover from this company the amount of insurance on the building owned by him at the Millbrook Station, and destroyed by fire last August. The defence of the company was that the application which had been signed by the plaintiff in blank and given to the agent of the company with instructions to estimate the building himself and fill it up accordingly, stated that there were five walls to the roof when such only existed in the lower story. Verdict for defendants. Cameron, Q.C., and Hatton for plaintiff; Bethune, Q.C., and Scott Q.C., for defendants.

Owens vs. The Hand in Hand Insurance Co.—This was another action to recover the amount of insurance on the stock of the plaintiff destroyed by fire on Roger's runs last summer. The defendants did not dispute the loss, or the correctness of the claims but sought to escape payment, on the ground that in Owen's application Strickland's shop was described as a "Shop-master's shop" instead of a "Cash and Blind" factory—a distinction which will not seem very important to any but insurance men. The case especially on the fire in question did not originate in this building but in an adjoining one. Verdict for plaintiff for full amount claimed. Cameron, Q.C., and Hatton for plaintiff; Bethune, Q.C., for defendant.

TRUE BILLS.

The Grand Jury found True Bills against Hubbs, Murphy, and McEvoy for rape; against Mc'Namara, Dingman, and Marvin for assault; and against James Murphy and Alfred Tully for larceny.

PRESENTMENT OF GRAND JURY.

The Grand Jurors of our Sovereign Lady the Queen, beg leave to present:

That they have examined themself and found everything in and about the gaol kept in a manner which reflects credit on the Jailor and his subordinates.

The Grand Jury fully concur in your Lordship's opinion that the health and comfort of those attending this court from time to time requires that some proper mode of ventilating the court room should at once be provided, and they would venture to repeat the recommendations of former Grand Juries that this matter should receive the early attention of the County Council.

With regard to your Lordship's remarks as to the inexpediency of continuing to summon so large a number of Grand Jurors as twenty-four on each criminal court, the Grand Jury not only concur in the view of your Lordship, but are of opinion that, without prejudice to the interests interested in Grand Juries, their number might be reduced one half, provided the number required to agree to find a "True Bill" were reduced from twelve to six, or at most eight. In considering the action which might in this way be effected in the cost of Administration of Justice, a circumstance which came under their notice suggested to the Grand Jury that another saving might possibly be effected were the law or practice so amended as to render the preparation and consideration of the different indictments for what is practically one offence unnecessary, and allow one indictment to cover a charge against several persons for committing an offence conjointly.

This Grand Jury desire to record their warm acknowledgment of the prompt action taken by the County Council of the County of Peterborough for the apprehension of the persons charged with the crime of rape which came before them at this Assize, and as they are informed that the expenses thus incurred are very large, and could not be allowed by the Board of Audit in consequence of many of the items being unprovided for, and inasmuch as the apprehension and trial of persons charged with such serious offence is of Provincial importance, this Grand Jury is of opinion that the Government should under the special circumstances make a special allowance in this case.

This Grand Jury cannot conclude their presentment without taking the opportunity afforded by your Lordship's first visit to this county to congratulate you upon your elevation to the Bench, and to express the hope that you may be long spared to fill a position which your ability and learning are so eminently calculated to adorn.

His Lordship, in discharging the Grand Jury, among other things said that he would cause the Clerk of the Court to forward that portion of their presentment relating to the ventilation of the Court Room to the County Council, and expressed the opinion that any of those architects who made ventilation a study, could have all that was necessary done for $50. With regard to their representations relative to the number of Grand Jurors, and the number of indictments presented to them, he would give instructions that they should be forwarded to the Attorney General. The appointment of Crown Council rested entirely with the Government, and the number of indictments presented to them with the Crown Council, and concluded by thanking them for their kind reference to himself.

Mason vs. Bradburn.—This was an action brought by the plaintiff to recover a large amount for arrears of salary from the defendant, and for his wrongful discharge. It was tried without a jury and resulted in a verdict for the defendant on all counts except one on which the court awarded the plaintiff 50 cents damages, but refused to certify for costs, thereby leaving the plaintiff liable for the defendant's costs as well as his own. Smith, Q.C., and Dumble for plaintiff, and H. Cameron, Q.C., and Edmison for defendant.

Corlis vs. Cavanagh.—This was an action brought for a cask of brandy which had been sent him for another person, and had been put in the defendant's possession. His defence was that he had taken it and if he could sell it he would pay for it. Record withdrawn.

Jamieson vs. Lang.—An action on accounts. Verdict for plaintiff, $697.

Kearns vs. Leonard.—Case of ejectment, dispute as to boundary on side line. Verdict for defendant.

Sutherland vs. Mathias.—Interpleader. Stands till next Assizes upon payment of costs of court.

Carnegie vs. Delaney, et al.—An action for moneys advanced by plaintiff to defendant's. Defence in this action was that plaintiff was a conditional partner. Referred by consent to arbitration.

The Queen vs. Wm. Hubbs, Patrick Murphy and James McEvelly.—The prisoners in this case were arranged for committing a rape on Mrs. Margaret Jones and her daughter Louisa, of Chandos on the 7th of January last. The evidence in the case was of the strongest character, and the jury after retiring for thirty minutes brought in a verdict of "guilty, with a recommendation to mercy." His Lordship then sentenced the prisoners to penitentiary for the term of their natural lives.

The Queen vs. Peter Donovan, James McNamara and Thomas Mervin.—This was an assault case, and was laid over till the General Sessions. The defendants were held in $200 each, and three sureties $100 each.

The court closed on Saturday.

POLITICS IN LAKEFIELD.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Since my last letter to you there has been another meeting of the Conservative Association and the following officers were elected:—President, Josiah Blewitt; Vice-President, W. C. Sanders; Secretary, W. J. Watson; Treasurer, Dr. Armour; Committeemen, Messrs. Burgis, Hammond and Griffin.

You will see by the list of officers that my former communications have had some effect. Not the name of a Strickland appears. Although they have seen the error of their ways in that instance they have not got their eyes altogether open, for in the list published there are two names that should not appear, viz: the Secretary, and the last named Committeeman. If the last named gentlemen did not succeed in making as much out of the Insolvent court as the Strickland's, yet his intentions were the same, and the circumstances if possible worse, and shows that a father-in-law is sometimes a blessing, if a mother-in-law is not. As for the gentleman elected secretary, it would have been better had he been kept in the back-ground for the present, for there is a strong feeling in this village against the News men as well as the Strickland's, for their contemptible actions towards Mr. Dinwoodie; and Mr. Strickland had the audacity to charge Mr. Dinwoodie with selling himself politically for a few call saw logs. And now the News publishes what purports to be a copy of a private letter from Mr. Dinwoodie to Mr. McWilliams of Peterboro. Does he not see that he places Mr. Dinwoodie in the unenviable position of having betrayed his friend if he had sent him such a letter and then given a copy for publication. By publishing this letter he may damage Mr. Dinwoodie outside of Lakefield, but here where he is so well known, and also the friendship that is known to exist between him and Mr. McWilliams, the people will be of the opinion that the published letter was either purloined or forged. Why, the editor of the News should be elected to any position in the Association here, is a mystery to the people of this village, and I cannot think of any better illustration at present to show the opinion here, than the story of the fox finding the cow bell in the woods, and after turning it over and examining it for some time, came to the conclusion that it was a big, empty-headed, long-tongued thing, and that is the conclusion the people of Lakefield have come to about the News editor, as he is a great braggart, and always the hero of his own stories. I would prefer seeing our party remain in opposition for the next twenty years than have them attain power with the assistance of such men. Yours &c.

A Lakefield Conservative.

Lakefield, April 22nd, 1878.

[We object to publishing the remaining part of the communication, as it reflects strongly on the Editor and Proprietor of that sheet. What the people of this county have to do with any Sunday evening branch we cannot conceive. Men's public characters are public property, but their private habits, unless criminal in their nature, do not concern the general public and should not be a matter for discussion in the public journals. It is certainly to be hoped that such a style of warfare will cease. We cannot allow our columns to be taken up at present with correspondence discussing the private life of either of them.—Ed. Ex.]

THE YOUNGS POINT LOCKS.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—We the undersigned wish to correct the statements we see written upon the anonymous signature of "Navigator," in the Review of the 19th instant, which statements we know to be false in every particular, and we do not see fit to let such garbled nonsense go to the public without contradiction, as they cast reflections upon the abilities of the men who have the work in charge and are unjust and tend to do injury. We consider "Navigator" to be one of those who are particularly hard up for a subject on which to build a complaint against the present Government, and we are prepared to give proof against the article in toto, as an attempt to injure the reputation of men who are in every way qualified and competent to fill the place they hold in trust under the present or any other Government. And we hope you will find room in the next issue of your valuable paper, as we trust you are as advocate of fair play to inform "Navigator" that he has been misinformed about the whole affair, and, that before he rushes into print he would in vain to publish nothing but the truth. We would inform "Navigator" (if he is possessed of common sense) that there are no other than necessary repairs being done on the Young's Point Locks at the present time, nor could any blame be attached to those men who are in charge, as we are informed by the Lock Master whose signature is hereto affixed that there has been a bad leakage under the present fallen wall for over a year. If "Navigator" can spare time to come to Young's Point he will see, that although some of the men have been brought from Lindsay, the work is progressing rapidly, and we hope to see Navigation opened through here by the middle of May.

[Evidently the Review attempt to cast a slur on the Government, and the men employed in the repairs of the Locks has proven a failure, and instead of making votes when the time came for the Electors of Youngs Point, to cast their Ballot for a representative for the West Riding, they will show their disapproval of the unprincipled method taken by the party organ in this Town to injure the present administration. But perhaps the proprietor of the News wanted the job and hence the communication of "Navigator."—Ed Ex.]

Funeral Sermon.—The funeral sermon of the late Wm. Lundy, Esq., was preached in St. Andrews Church last Sunday morning, by the Rev. Alex. Bell.

W. J. Larmour has a special line of Boys Buckle Shoes which he is selling at a less rate than they can be purchased for at the factory. Call and get a pair.

Lost Cow.—Communications from "One of the People" "A Farmer who has raised a Son" and "A Friend of the Grangers," have been received and will appear next week.

Convalescent.—Mr. Marvin Knowlton is now convalescent, having got up from bed on Saturday and dressed himself. He is able to move around some, but is still very weak.

An Advantage.—It is a great advantage to have a large stock to select from, particularly in Boots and Shoes. That advantage can be had by purchasing from R. Stinson & Son.

Being Cleaned Up.—The streets are being relieved of their surplus mud, by energetic laborers. This will give the citizens less dust during the dry season, for which they will feel duly thankful.

The Fire Brigade.—Our present Fire Brigade are virtually disbanded, and in view of this fact, Chief Engineer Mitchell has been taking the necessary steps to reorganize a new company, and has received the names of a sufficient number of competent parties to form a new Brigade, as soon as the affairs of the old are finally settled.

Gentlemen, you can purchase from W. J. Wallace, Lakefield, a nice ready made Tweed Suit for $10; a good all wool tweed from $6.00 to $8 per yard; a good Regatta Shirt with two Collars for $1; a choice stock of new and fashionable Straw and Felt Hats from 50 cts. to $3; all the newest things in White Shirts, Collars, Ties, Scarfs, Braces and Under-clothing. 17-6in

Gone to Kingston.—Hubbs, Murphy and McElrain, the three prisoners who at the late Assizes were found guilty of a charge of rape, and sentenced to a life imprisonment in the Kingston Penitentiary were removed thereto on Monday morning last in charge of the Deputy Sheriff, Mr. Jas. McWilliams and Mr. George Cochrane, the detective who so successfully succeed in bringing the criminals to justice.

The Dunkin By-Law.—Yesterday was the 1st day of May and the 1st day of the Dunkin By-law is upon us. Owing to an unwillingness on the part of purchaser most to act hastily, and because their proper course of action is not perfectly decided—tavern keepers and shop keepers did not close their places of business. In a few days a decision as to their future course will be arrived at, and action taken accordingly. In the mean time—the tavern keepers are leaving themselves open to prosecution by any one who may choose to lay information before the Police Magistrate.

The Masonic Excursion.—We have just learned that the Masonic excursion to Buffalo by the Masonic Fraternity of Lindsay, has been changed from the 1st July to St. John's Day, the 24th June, one week earlier. Owing to the Grand Trunk finding it impossible to supply coaches on Dominion Day in sufficient numbers to meet the views of the Masons, they refused passenger traffic being so great on that day, therefore it was deemed more satisfactory to change the date in order to ensure every comfort to the excursionists. In all other respects the original programme remains the same.—Lindsay Post.

Class Sessions.—The class sessions, as established by the Fisheries Department for the Province of Ontario, are: For pickerel and muskinonge, from 15th April to 15th May; for bass, from 15th May to 16th of June. During the periods so limited the fish named must not be fished for, caught, killed, bought, sold or had in possession under a heavy penalty. Mr. Geo. Cochrane, the local overseer, will enforce the law strictly, and all persons should not only obey the regulations themselves, but assist that officer in protecting the fisheries. Complainants will receive half the fines, and be paid for their costs and attendance as witnesses.

A Temperance Candidate.—Messrs. Dunbie and Stratton were strongly in favour of Temperance as an supporting a Temperance candidate, but now that there is a Temperance candidate in the field their views have altered greatly.—Hamilton.

Mr. Geo. Hilliard is the candidate of a Party, and by the policy and the actions of that Party—whose standard-bearer he is—must he be judged. A man being known by the company he keeps, it is not difficult to judge what Mr. Hilliard's course would be should he succeed in his attempt to receive a seat in Parliament for West Peterborough, which however is a very remote contingency.

Personal.—We notice by an account of Convocation in Queen's University, Kingston, that Mr. Henry Bennett, son Joseph Bennett, Esq., of North Monaghan, has taken his degree of M. D., standing second on the list of a large graduating class. It always gives us pleasure to notice the progress made by young men, and particularly so in this instance, as the young gentleman deserves so much credit for his energy, and ability—qualities which will doubtless now enable him to occupy a good position in the noble profession he has chosen. Mr. Bennett studied with Dr. Elmsley, who now can boast of a long list of successful graduates from his office.

Spurgeon's Eloquence.—Spurgeon is undoubtedly among the most eloquent and gifted pulpit orators of the 19th century. Among the many fine passages to which he has given utterance, and which are treasured in the minds of thousands, there is none more true or eloquently expressive than the following: "The first thing I notice about a man when he comes from his cell keeps in, that he gets a decent suit of clothes." As a supplement to this, we have received this newly beautiful and impressive period. The first thing observed about a man when he gets a suit of clothes from Maclean & Green's is that he has formed from his end seams. The goods of this establishment are good, their suits suit, they do excellent goods and therefore find ready customers. 17-6in.

Another Old Settler Gone.—Wm. Nelson, Esq., of Otonabee, died on the 21st of April, at the advanced age of 77 years. Mr. Nelson was a native of Lanarkshire, Scotland. He came, united to Canada in 1822, and settled in Otonabee in 1825, when it was a wilderness; only a few persons from the same country having yet taken up their abode north of Rice Lake. A year or two or shortly afterwards six brothers settled in the same place, and the headquarters of one of the most prosperous settlements in Canada was laid. The deceased was [illegible] energy, and was chosen Councillor several years under the old law, before the present municipal system was inaugurated. He also served the township 10 years ago, when the office of reeve for was an honorary. He leaves four sons and five daughters behind him, one son and two daughters having gone to their account before him. He was an active and intelligent farmer, [illegible], and warmly attached to liberal principles. His remains were interred on the [illegible] followed to their last resting place by a large funeral cortege of relatives and neighbors.

To-night.—The Ontario to-night and to-morrow night to Bradburn's Opera House, promises to be one of the most attractive entertainments of the season, and of which the Rev. A. Williams, Ex-President of the Ontario Methodist Conference, says: "As a recreation I know of nothing more pure and elevating."

The Escaped Nun.—Miss Edith O'Gorman, well known as the "Escaped Nun," and who was for six years an inmate of St. Joseph's Convent, Jersey City, New Jersey, will deliver an eloquent lecture next Monday evening, May 6th, in the Opera House. She has visited nearly all the principal cities, where she has spoken to crowded and intelligent audiences. As it is her first and only appearance in Peterborough, there will be great curiosity to see and hear her. Her subjects are "Life in a Convent," "How she Escaped," and "How it was she became Converted to Protestantism." She comes highly endorsed by the press and clergymen of other cities. She is now a member of high standing of the Protestant church in New Jersey, and has just returned from a most successful trip to California, having spoken nine times in San Francisco. She draws as large audiences everywhere as Mr. Gough. She is possessed of a fine personal appearance, is young, sprightly, and smart, and a fine elocutionist, one of the best now in the lecture field. Miss O'Gorman will give some revelations that will startle the public. She has had a personal experience of the most startling character, some chapters of which she will relate. She has great talent and powers as a speaker, and has created a great sensation in the various cities she has visited. She always draws out the best class of society, and we can only urge our readers to attend and hear for themselves. Her exposés to Protestants are powerful and convincing. Her lectures has been the topic of conversation for several days past, and she will be sure to have a crowded house on Monday night at the Opera House. See advertisement in to-day's paper.—Advt.

THE SECOND ADVENT.

The Attendant Circumstances of the Personal Coming of the Son of Man.

The third of the series of sermons on unfulfilled prophecy by the Rev. Alex. Bell was delivered in St. Andrew's Church last Sunday evening. The Rev. gentleman took for his text the following:—

"When the Son of Man shall come in His glory, and all the holy angels with Him, then shall he sit upon the throne of His glory: and before Him shall be gathered all nations; and He shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats: and He shall set the sheep on His right hand, but the goats on his left."—Matt. xxv. 31, 32.

The following is a synopsis of the discourse:

Two weeks ago we established from our Lord's own words that all his comings, whether specially to his people, Jerusalem, or the world, only one was to be a personal coming, and only that one had no notice of time connected with it, so to the period that might elapse before its fulfilment. Our business to-night is to inquire what are the attendant circumstances by which this one personal coming is to be distinguished from all others? How shall it affect man and nations? Shall it concern only a few of the saints, or all men—the living and the dead? Proceeding with the subject it was shown that Christ's coming is to be in the clouds, in great glory, and accompanied by the holy angels. His descent to earth is to be with a "shout," "the voice of the archangel and the trump of God," "the dead in Christ shall rise first," and "we shall be caught up together to meet the Lord in the air." This is to be awful. [illegible] bring them from their graves to stand before the Lord seated on His throne for judgment. Immediately before the judgment begins, and while it is proceeding the heavens pass away, and the earth retires, and bursting into flame, it and "the works that are therein are burned up."

THE GENERAL RESURRECTION.

That the resurrection to take place at the Lord's coming is up to the general resurrection of the world was proved from Daniel xii. 2, which says that both the righteous and the wicked are to awake; and from John v. 28, 29, where Jesus tells us that it is the resurrection of all that are in the grave; and Luke xxiv. 15, where Paul declares that his hope is the one resurrection which is both of the just and the unjust; and from 1 Cor. 15th chap., and 1 Thes. 4th chap., both written by Paul, and in which he speaks only of one resurrection of the dead when the Lord comes, and tells us, too, that it shall immediately precede the end, when Christ "shall have delivered up the kingdom of God, even the Father, when He shall have put down all rule, all authority and power;" and from John vi. 39, 40, 44, 54, which disconnects all notion of a resurrection for the righteous only long prior to that of the Wicked at the day of Judgment, and where Jesus Himself distinctly states that the resurrection of the righteous shall be on the [illegible] day. And there is nothing to show that there is the least notion of anything but the one general resurrection in the mind of either Jesus, or Daniel, or Paul—the one resurrection including both the just and the unjust.

THE JUDGMENT.

It was next shown that the judgment of both the righteous and the wicked is to be another principal event of the Lord's coming. This was established from "The parable of the tares and the wheat." Matt. 13th chap. Matt. xvi. 27, Matt. xxv. 31, 2 Cor. v. 10, Tim. iv. 1, and 2 Thes. i. 6, 10, all of which manifestly connect judgment and rewards to both the righteous and the wicked with the Lord's appearing, when He comes in the clouds in His glory and with the angels. Being a time of judgment and reward the Lords coming must necessarily be the time of both blessing and wrath—blessing to His people and wrath to His enemies—peace, honor and joy to the saints, but trouble, shame, and the beginning of woe to the wicked.

THE GENERAL CONFLAGRATION.

The next circumstance in order, connected with the Lord's coming would likely be the general conflagration of, the heavens and the earth. This position was supported by the teachings drawn from 2 Peter iii. 7, 10, and Rev. xx. 11, 12, both of which manifestly connect the events mentioned in them with the judgment of all men, and consequently with that which takes place at the coming of the Lord.

After discussing fully the different points named, Mr. Bell concluded:—

Whatever else may take place when the Lord in person comes back from heaven these things are certain, namely,—the general resurrection, the angels gathering all nations before the throne, the general judgment, the location of the lost, the general conflagration, then the end. Unthinkable these events are all spoken of in connection, as happening [illegible] and the other immediately after the other. Evidently we have no right to separate their connection by an indefinite number of years, however long or short. From the way in which they are described to us we are bound to believe them to be either consecutive events, or following one another in the closest order of succession, at least all the contrary is proved. And since neither Scripture nor Apostles tell us anything of their separation, the only legitimate inference is that they are all immediately connected and

SMALL CHURCH TOGETHER.

And if so this reader we read the Scriptures aright, and the [illegible] and direct utterances of Daniel, and Jesus and Paul, and Peter, and John with us, it follows that the Second Advent shall not usher in the Millennium promised to the church, and consequently that all chapter bright on that assumption must fall. If we have spoken according to the mind of Jesus, and we think we have [illegible] the disposition of the Spirit shall not be here on earth and declared a failure by the Second Advent, as some have been driven enough to affirm, and [illegible] appointed agency shall go on to do His work, and to gather in His Church under the guidance and control of His government, established at the ascension and confirmed at Pentecost. If we have read the Scriptures aright, the Second Advent shall not take place till the time of the general resurrection and judgment of the world—till the end of all things, when the present dispensation shall cease—when the Kingdom shall be complete and he "delivered up to the Father.

REVELATIONS XX.

The only portion of the Scriptures which seems to stand in the way of the view of this subject which we have all along presented, and on which, as their strong foundation, pre-millenarians build up their whole system, is Rev. xx. 1-10. This passage we have omitted till now, but lest we have not forgotten it. We are aware of the importance attached to it by those who, instead of beginning with Jesus and interpreting all else by Him, begin here and make Satan, Apostles, Prophets and all subsist their pleasant and most positive utterances to be [illegible] into the mould of an enigma, and what is at best a very doubtful, if not an altogether groundless assumption. But we must not judge before the time. Next Sabbath evening we shall deal with the subject as presented in Rev. xx. 1-10.

Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

From Thos. G. Hazlitt, stating that he had tendered for the material required for streets and bridges, [illegible] supply both pine and cedar. He had only been awarded tender for pine, and although the town done right in accepting the lowest tender for cedar, he thought they should allow him $8.25 per thousand feet for pine, being at a figure much longer than any other tender.—Received.

From D. Hillier and others, asking for a sidewalk on Sherbrooke street from Park to Paterson.

THE ASSESSORS.

The Clerk stated that Messrs. Helm, Landy and McGrath, three of the Assessors had deposited with him their survolos.

Mr. Palmer's account was ordered to be paid The accounts of the Firemen were referred to the Finance Committee with power to act; those accounts certified to by G. L. Mitchell, in reference to expenditure connected with the Fire Department were ordered to be paid, and the other accounts referred to the Finance Committee.

FIRE WATER AND GAS.

Councillor Paterson, as Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, reported as follows:

The Committee beg to report on the communication of Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co., and others, and would recommend that Messrs. Elder and Dohm be paid their money for painting the water van—less the lettering and obliterating the lettering of their advertisement which will be nine dollars. Also that we can not recommend the forming of companies for the small hand [illegible] engines, as they were got for the use of the citizens generally.

Councillor Paterson said he did not altogether agree with recommendations of the report. He was told by Councillor Rutherford that one man had offered to give $35 for the privilege of advertising on one side. He would therefore move, seconded by Councillor Rutherford,—That the report be amended so as to call for tenders for the privilege of advertising, and that the present lettering be not obliterated until the tenders be obtained.

Councillor McBain opposed the making use of the water van as an advertising medium.

The report as amended was adopted.

Councillor Cahill thought the watering cart had been a bone of contention ever since we had purchased it. It was now going to become a source of revenue and he did not see why we should not take the benefit of it.

FINANCE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Councillor Cahill as Chairman of the Finance Committee reported as follows:—

The Finance Committee beg leave to recommend the payment of the following accounts:

Tobey & Co	$24 89
Wm. Brownscombe	4 50
J. R. Stratton	69 50
Wm. Morgan	6 00
W. H. Robertson	1 75

Your committee recommend that debentures to the amount of $2,000 be issued to meet a portion of the accumulative deficiencies of former years, which [illegible] debts of 1878, and also that the Mayor and Treasurer be authorized to sign debentures required by the Commissioners of the Town Trust to meet certain portions of the debentures falling due this year.

The propriety of giving the Mayor some remuneration for his services to the town having been [illegible] to the Council, your committee recommend that an open vote of the ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough may be taken in the several Wards to vote "yea" or "nay" on the following:—That the Mayor, Wm. Toole, Esq., be paid the sum of eight hundred dollars for and in respect of his services to the town.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

THOS. CAHILL, Chairman.

The Mayor then vacated the chair and called upon Councillor Rountree to occupy it.

The report was then submitted and on motion adopted.

APPOINTING A POLLING DAY.

Councillor Smith moved, seconded by Councillor Ormond,—That the following persons be appointed Returning Officers for the taking of a poll on the question of the grant to the Mayor, viz:—Joseph Lundy, for the First Ward; C. B. Macdonald, for the Second Ward; John Irwin, for the Third Ward; Wm. Lee, for the Fourth Ward; and that the vote be taken on Wednesday, the 15th day of May instant, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p.m.—Carried.

The Sinking Inspector said he had a matter to lay before the Council for their advice. He said Mr. Hill was about erecting a new fence on Dundas street, and wished to enclose one ten foot of the present fence for the purpose. He had asked him to remove the obstacle but had refused crushing the same.—Carried.

Councillor Douglas said he was one of the interested parties, but that would not prevent him from giving a true version of matters. Mr. Hill had told him where to locate his fence. He had measured from Mr. Hill's fence which was located from the original survey, and found, however, Mr. Dundas had bought some property on speculation and had a new survey taken, and in accordance therewith had moved his fence out ten feet on the street. Mr. Hill, as soon as this was done followed his example, and wanted to take that much off the lots on the opposite side of the street. He (Mr. Douglas) and those interested with him were prepared to prove they had erected their fence according to the original survey, and were prepared to go into the Courts with their case.

Mr. Hill asked to be heard before the Council. He was sorry that Mr. Douglas had asked him on a [illegible] He had [illegible] and had his all he had got. Other parties on the same street had had a survey made by Mr. [illegible] and had placed their fences in accordance therewith. If the others were right in moving their fences then he was right. All he wanted was his rights.

Moved by Councillor Smith, seconded by Councillor Ormond,—That the Street Inspector be instructed to consult the Town Solicitor as to the action of Mr. Dundas in enclosing the sidewalk on Donegal street, and that the Inspector act on the advice.

Councillor Cahill said this matter had been brought up last year, but the Council had taken no action further than requesting Mr. Stewart to settle the matter at the cost of the resident ratepayers.

The motion was then put and carried.

FOR SIDEWALKS MADE.

Councillor Rountree moved, seconded by Councillor Douglas,—That the Firemen's Band be allowed the use of the old Council Chamber during the pleasure of the Council.—Carried.

The Mayor stated that notice on the petition of T. W. Robertson and a number of others who had been handed in at last meeting in reference to a grant to the Band through an oversight, had been neglected. He would now refer it to the Finance Committee.

CONSTABLE MCGHEE'S APPLICATION.

Moved by Councillor Farquhar, seconded by Councillor Carlisle,—That as to Mr. John McGhee's application for two suits of clothes, he it therefore resolved that Mr. McGhee be granted one suit of clothes in recognition of past services.

Councillor Smith said that the position he had taken when this matter was before the committee was that the Council in increasing Constable McGhee's salary had shown they appreciated his services and this was the position he would take to-night. No doubt Mr. McGhee performed his duties faithfully, but if we now gave him the price of uniform we would also have to give others the same. The Treasurer's salary had been reduced at the time Mr. McGhee's had been increased, and if a further increase was made now he would not consider it fair.

Councillor Rountree said that Mr. McGhee's salary had been increased his duties also had been increased. He thought the Council should support the motion.

Councillor Burnham said some years ago when the streets were crowded at certain seasons of the year by strangers one constable was all that was required to keep order. Now when we were not troubled with those people we had two or three to keep order. He thought they were well paid those hard times. There undoubtedly who would be willing to take their [illegible]

Councillor McBain suggested that suits of clothes be purchased for all the officials of the town, and Councillors as well.

The motion was lost.

WATERING THE STREETS.

Councillor Paterson moved, seconded by Councillor Rountree,—That Mr. O'Donnell be paid $40 monthly for watering the streets.—Carried.

REQUIRING INTO AUDITORS REPORT.

Councillor Denne moved, seconded by Councillor McBain,—That the Clerk be instructed by order of the Finance Committee when convenient, to request the Auditor's and Town Treasurer to meet them to enquire into the report of the Auditors.—Carried.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE MARKET CLERK.

Moved by Councillor Denne, seconded by Councillor Smith,—That the Town Clerk be and is hereby instructed to notify the Market Clerk that he is required to have the room over the Market kept open during market hours, in accordance with the market By-law, so that persons desiring to sell articles which are authorized to be sold therein may do so, and so that Mr. Seavis may have a proper place wherein to keep for the use of the small scales.—Carried.

FIRE COMPANY FOR NO. 3 WARD.

Moved by Councillor Rutherford, seconded by Councillor Paterson,—That a Company be organized in Ward No. 3, for the proper working of the small fire engine belonging to the Ward, the said consist of nine members, each to be furnished with cap and belt, the Company in all other respects to be regulated by By-law passed last by this Council, except that they receive no pay.—Carried.

BLANK FOR STREETS.

Moved by Councillor Rutherford, seconded by Councillor Denne,—That the offer of T. G. Hazlitt to furnish pine plank only, for the sum of eight dollars and twenty-five cents ($8.25) be accepted.—Carried.

ISSUING DEBENTURES.

A By-law to authorize the issue of $2,000 debentures received its first, second and third readings and was finally passed.

FURNITURE IN FIREMEN'S HALL.

Councillor Paterson said he had received from the Fire Brigade a list of the furniture at present in the hall, the property of the Brigade and which they were willing to sell to the Council for the benefit of the new company. The value of the furniture was about $120.—Referred to Fire Committee to examine and report.

ADVERTISING ON THE WATER VAN.

Moved by Councillor Paterson, seconded by Councillor Douglas,—That the Clerk ask for sealed tenders for the use of the water van as an advertising medium, said advertisement not to interfere in any way with the regular use of the van; tenders to be opened and awarded by the Fire, Water and Gas Committee. Highest tender to be accepted.—Carried.

WORK ON BON ACCORD STREET.

Councillor Rutherford moved, seconded by Councillor Douglas,—That that portion of the street Inspectors' report referring to work required to be done on Bon Accord street be proceeded with at once.

Councillor Smith stated to have the matter laid over till next meeting, Councillor Rutherford however, pressed his motion, and Councillor Smith raised a point of order which was held good, and the subject was left over till next meeting.

WISHING TO PURCHASE OR LEASE A PORTION OF A STREET.

Mr. John Macdonald was heard before the Council in reference to a small portion of Lock street, adjoining the Little Lake, and upon which he had erected a house. He wished to either purchase it or lease it for a number of years.

MISCELLANEOUS.

On motion of Councillor Cahill, the account of W. H. Robertson & Co., presented this evening, was ordered to be paid upon being certified to by the Clerk.

Moved by Councillor Paterson, seconded by Councillor Denne,—That Mr. John Macdonald's application asking to lease a portion of Lock street contiguous to the Little Lake be referred to the Finance Committee to examine and report upon the same.

Moved by Councillor Denne, seconded by Councillor Rountree,—That the Clerk be instructed to communicate with Col. Chamberlin, in order to have the crossing reserved on the Cobourg Road north end of the town.—Carried.

Council adjourned for one week.

A Campaign Slander.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce was a candidate for State Senator, his opponents published a pretended statistic of his regular practice, thereby intending to prejudice the people against him. Dr. Pierce has never published a list of his patients, but he has now published a list of his prescriptions, which is a very different thing. It is a list of the prescriptions of the eminent physicians associated with him in the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and is a most valuable medical work. Any one who has a copy of it can write to Dr. Pierce and obtain free of charge a private consultation by letter with one of the physicians. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only blood purifier sold by druggists, and is guaranteed to cure all diseases of the blood, from whatever cause arising, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. Sold by druggists. See advertisement.

"OUR OWN."

(From the Record of the Year.)

If I had known in the morning
How wearily all the day,
The words unkind
Would trouble my mind
I said when you went away,
I had been more careful, darling,
Nor given you needless pain;
But we vex "our own"
With look and tone
We might never take back again.

For though in thought prolong
Yearning grows into life of pain,
'Tis it might be
That never for me
The pain of the heart should cease.
How many go forth in the morning
That never come home at night,
And hearts have broken
For harsh words spoken,
That sorrow can ne'er set right.

We have careful thoughts for the stranger,
And smiles for the casual guest,
But oft for "our own"
The bitter tone,
Though we love Them[illegible] the best.
Ah! the [illegible]
Of the [illegible]
'Twere a cruel fate,
Were the night too late
To undo the work of morn.

DUTY ON WHEAT AND FLOUR.

The Debate on the Proposed Duty on Wheat and Flour—Mr. Wood on the General Question of Protection.

After some delay, we place before our readers the official report of Mr. W. Wood's speech on the question of levying a duty on wheat and flour imported into this country. He by no means finished the remarks he was prepared to make, owing to Mr. Rochester captiously calling him to order for wandering from the subject. Mr. Rochester had been himself put down by some Ministerialists for the same thing, and, being out of humour, he retaliated very publicly on Mr. Wood, a member who never interrupts any speaker.

The following is a full report of what he was permitted to say:

Mr. Wood said he did not know that he would have attempted to address the House on this question had it not been for a few remarks made during the afternoon by the hon. member for South Ontario (Hon. Mr. Gibbs). He must say that when he heard these remarks coming from that intelligent and shrewd business man they almost upset him. He thought that his experience of thirty years in business had been all lost, and that he really did not know what true business principles were. The hon. gentleman had laid down a proposition which was something new to him (Mr. Wood), and if it were correct he could only say that in his time he had lost a large amount of money. The hon. gentleman had fairly and squarely laid down this proposition—that the exporter, instead of the importer of goods, is all cases paid the duty.

Mr. Gibbs (South Ontario)—I made no such statement.

Mr. Wood said that if the hon. gentleman could take barley and make it quite different to any other class of goods, he was right, and if the export of barley was different to the export of iron, or wheat, or anything else, then he (Mr. Gibbs) was right, and he (Mr. Wood) was wrong. He had always been taught that the importer always paid the duty. If a merchant bought a ton of iron in Liverpool, the seller in Liverpool did not ask about the duties levied on it here; he had nothing to do with this matter, and he did not care a single farthing about it. If a merchant imported the article into this country, he had to pay the duty on the invoice price. If it was a fact that we paid the duty levied on all the barley we exported then, as had been already stated, did not the States pay the duties on all the goods which we imported from them? Was it a fact that only in Canada the duty on exports and also on imports were paid by Canadians, or did the people of the United States pay the duties on the goods they exported to us, as the hon. gentleman said we did on what we exported to them? This was a fallacy from beginning to end. The hon. gentleman instanced an imaginary or, perhaps, a real friend of the hon. member for Kingston who lived down in the Eastern Townships, and whom the hon. gentleman went to see during his recent peregrinations, when he was making his picnic speeches, at the time the heather was on fire and the country ablaze. (Laughter.) This friend lived immediately on the line, having farms on both sides. Both of these farms were equally well tilled, barley sown on both and an equal crop was raised. The same showers that fell on the American side waters the barley on the Canadian side, and the same dew, he presumed, was distilled on both, and also that the same quantity of grain was raised on both farms. Where this friend of the hon. gentleman had stored his barley in his barns, a produce speculator came along and was shown the barley raised on the American part of the farm, and was asked how much he would give for it. "Seventy five cents a bushel," was the reply. "All right," said the farmer, and taking the purchaser to the Canadian barley, he asked, "What will you give for this?" "Sixty cents," was the answer, showing a difference of fifteen cents between the two prices. What was the reason of this? Why did not the farmer get as much for his Canadian barley of exactly the same quality as for the American barley, both having been raised almost side by side, the one under the Union Jack, and the other under the Stars and Stripes? The purchaser said he could not give seventy five cents for the Canadian grain because he had to pay fifteen cents per bushel into the Treasury of the United States, and therefore he could only pay sixty cents for it. The farmer said that this was all wrong; he would send for the leader of the Opposition who would come down and put a duty of fifteen cents a bushel on the American barley, which would make it all right. But this would not be the case, because we were not importing any American barley. The farmer said "Why should I pay that? I do not get the same for the Canadian barley simply because a duty is imposed by the United States." He (Mr. Wood) was prepared to admit that in consequence of the American duty the American farmer obtained seventy-five cents a bushel for his barley, but he denied in toto that, because of the American duty, only sixty cents a bushel was received for the Canadian barley. If the American duty of fifteen cents a bushel was taken off, would the American grain secure the same price? He said "no." It would, then, simply command exactly the same price as the Canadian barley was sold for, and for the Canadian barley not one cent would be secured. It was a self evident fact that the consumer must pay the duty on any article which he purchased; so the American purchaser who paid sixty cents a bushel for the Canadian barley he used, also paid the fifteen cents which was included in the price.

An Hon. Gentleman—The Americans grew five times as much as we did, but there was one class of grain which we beat them in, and that was our Canadian barley.

Mr. Wood—The hon. gentleman (Mr. Gibbs) said we will not raise the duty a single penny above what it is now; we are going to collect the same amount of duty and not increase the tariff. This showed that there was dissent on this point even on the Middle of the Opposition and one of his followers. The hon. gentleman himself admitted that we paid the duty on the barley we imported from the United States. But the hon. gentleman who followed him instanced the case of a Canadian cattle drover going to the United States. He (Mr. Wood) would ask if that drover paid the duty out of his own pocket? No, he charged the consumer so much more in consequence of what he had to pay. For the information of hon. gentlemen, he would read the following article which appeared in the Hamilton Times, and which expressed the views he wished to convey. (Mr. Wood here read an editorial article of a recent date, headed "How to make foodgrowers pay our taxes.") Mr. Wood then continued:—At this late hour he would not take up the time of the House by making a long speech. He would not attempt to go into the question of protection for farmers, because that had been well discussed by hon. gentlemen who had already spoken—gentlemen who, as practical farmers, knew better than lawyers, doctors and merchants what they themselves required. These gentlemen declared with no uncertain sound that they did not want protection; he (Mr. Wood) had repeatedly said there was no argument for protection to anything but manufactures. When he first came to the House in 1874, there was a duty of 15 per cent. for the protection of manufactures, but in consequence of the discount on American money which existed we were actually a free trade country. Since then matters had changed immensely; we had now greenbacks at par, and goods bought for $100 at New York could be laid down at Toronto, duty and all expenses paid, for $100 in Canadian money. Now the same articles could not be laid down duty paid of course for less than $120, showing an apparent difference of about 20 per cent., but in consequence of the fall in the value of some classes of goods the real difference was from 10 to 12½ per cent., better than they were in 1874. For example:

1874.		1878.
Goods	$200 00	Goods	$200 00
Duty	15 00	Duty, 12½	17 50
		Freight Charges	2 50
	$85 00		$220 00
6	12 75
Charges	2 50
	$100 25
	20 05
	$120 30

From his place in the House last session he had said that, with greenbacks at par and a 20 per cent. tariff, an industry that could not exist had better step down and out, and he was still of the same opinion. The hon. gentleman proposed a reciprocity of tariffs, paper only against the United States, but against all the world besides. The average tariff of the United States was equal to a tariff of 45 per cent., and he (Mr. Wood) asked the people of this country how they would like to be taxed from 45 to 50 per cent. upon all the goods they had to import? The leader of the Opposition stated that a reciprocity of tariffs would force the United States to give a reciprocity of trade. He (Mr. Wood) was opposed to free trade with that country, because Canadian manufacturers could not then compete with those of the United States. The leader of the Opposition said that we would have to have a 45 per cent. tariff in order to save our industries, and if that statement was correct how could we compete on free trade principles? If they could not compete with the manufacturers of the United States with a 17½ per cent. tariff, besides 2½ per cent. for marriage, how could they hope to hold their own when that tariff is wiped out? If the cotton mills of Dundas, Thorold, Cornwall, Valleyfield and Hochelaga could now only pay a dividend of ten (10) per cent. with a 17½ per cent. tariff in their favor, how could they stand to compete on equal footing when our present tariff was wiped out? He was prepared to admit that in the manufacture of some articles, such as stoves and sewing machines, we might compete with the Americans under a free trade policy, but on the whole the manufacturing industries of this country would be seriously injured. Yet this was the doctrine which certain hon. gentlemen were promulgating throughout the country. The hon. member for Kingston did not state whether he wished for reciprocity to apply to all classes of trade, but if he wanted to adopt the reciprocity of 1854 he (Mr. Wood) could understand his resolution, but he took it for granted that the hon gentleman's motion applied alike to manufactures as well as to cereals—a proposition to which he (Mr. Wood) could not assent. We all knew the position which the Hon. gentleman took in relation to this affair some years ago when Mr. Brown went to Washington to negotiate not a Washington but a Reciprocity treaty. Some articles of manufacture were included in the draft which was published, whereupon the whole Conservative press and party from Prince Edward's Island to Vancouver alleged that the manufacturers of this country could not stand against those of the United States. We all remember the open Sussex circular issued by the hon. member for Centre Toronto, in which he pointed out to the manufacturers of the Dominion their inability to compete with those of the United States, and yet these gentlemen came there to-day and declared as their national policy that which they condemned some three or four years ago. Was there any consistency in this? Then, what was their object? It was transparent to every one, namely, that by persuading the farmer, the manufacturer and others that they would be benefited by Protection, they might be able to catch a few stray votes. He thought the farmers understood this question quite as well as the leader of the Opposition. All this talk about protection on wheat, rye, barley and coal was got up for electioneering purposes. To propose a duty on coal was certainly a monstrous proposition. Coal is on the basis of our manufacturing industries, and to put a tax of $1 per ton on coal would take out of the pockets of the people of Hamilton, alone, $60,000 per annum. Last year, when the subject was under discussion, he telegraphed to some of his friends in Hamilton and asked, "How much are you willing to pay on coal?" He received in reply several telegrams and letters, which, with one exception, protested against any duty at all. The one exception was willing to pay fifty cents per ton additional, provided he received 2½ per cent. increase in the tariff, and he (Mr. Wood) still hoped the Government would see their way clear to raise the present tariff to twenty per cent., which he thought would give general satisfaction.—

Mr. Rochester—I would like to know what coal has to do with wheat or flour?

Mr. Speaker—The hon. gentleman is speaking on matters which are kindred to the whole question of protection.

Mr. Wood said it might be all very well for the people of Montreal to pay a duty of 50 cents per ton on American coal, but it would take from $1 to $1.50 to displace a single ton of American coal at Hamilton by Nova Scotia coal, and this would handicap the manufacturers to that extent in favor of eastern manufacturers. These political economists said they gave every poor man a free breakfast table; they said they had taken the duty off tea.

Mr. Speaker—I am afraid the hon. member has travelled out of order.

Mr. Wood said that not being a farmer he was not able to discuss the question of the duty on flour and wheat so intelligently as he might wish, and therefore he was shut out in a measure from the discussion. The remarks he had to make should have been made when the hon. member for Kingston moved his amendment, but he had not then an opportunity. When the hon. gentleman moved his resolution last year similar to the one he had moved this session, he (Mr. Wood) not only voted against it, but moved an amendment to it, which, although voted down, received a much larger support in the House than that of the hon. gentleman. And he would this year have moved the same amendment had not the hon. gentleman been too wily and had moved his resolution at a time when no amendment could be made to it.

Mr. Rochester having again risen to a point of order, Mr. Wood had to take his seat, saying that he thought he had been treated unfairly, inasmuch as the hon. member for Centre Wellington (Dr. Orton) had been permitted to traverse the whole record and discuss the question of Protection, not only to agriculture but to manufactures as well.

A machine that will knit stockings in one piece at the rate of one a minute is the invention of an inventor of Rockford, Ill. Twelve of these machines are to be operated by one boy, whose wages will be $3.50 per week—make the cost of knitting one cent for 50 stockings.

THE RULES FOR FARMERS.

1. Take good papers and read them.
2. Keep an account of farm operations.
3. Do not leave implements scattered over the farm exposed to snow, rain and heat.
4. Repair tools and buildings at a proper time, and do not suffer a subsequent three-fold expenditure of time and money.
5. Use money judiciously, and do not attend auction sales to purchase all kinds of trumpery because it is cheap.
6. See that fences are well prepared, and cattle not grazing in the meadows, grain fields or orchards.
7. Do not refuse correct experiments, in a small way, of many new things.
8. Plant fruit trees well, care for them, and get good crops.
9. Practice economy by giving stock shelter during the winter, also good food, picking out all that is unsound; half rotten or mouldy.
10. Do not keep tribes of dogs and cats around the premises who eat more in a month than they are worth in all their lifetime.

NOTICEABLE.

It is worthy of note that no farmer in the House either spoke or voted for the proposed duty on farm products. Those of them who did speak spoke against it. Their interests were taken charge of by lawyers, doctors and brewers.

It is also worthy of note that the leading manufacturers of the country have the least to say on behalf of the "national policy."

The national policy has, in fact, for its chief advocates and upholders the professional politicians and wire-pullers of the Tory party, who are using it as a cry with which to cover up the old and bad record of Sir John Macdonald when in power.

LORD DUFFERIN.

With reference to the departure of Lord Dufferin, it may be stated it is well known that before Lord Carnarvon resigned his portfolio as Colonial Minister he wrote to Lord Dufferin and offered him his choice of all the Governorships in his gift. His Lordship declined the offer, saying that it was his intention to spend south years at home, for the sake of his family. He also expressed his intention to take his seat again in the House of Lords, where he will do yeoman's service for Canada when required.

An item to the effect that Lord Dufferin would leave Canada early in May is not correct. It has long been known that he does not intend to take his departure until next October. He will spend another Canadian summer with us and will pass a considerable portion of his time in fishing on the Saguenay and its tributaries and the sea-side. While thus enjoying himself he will also be paying a compliment to the Province of Quebec, which he is desirous of doing before he leaves, and will reside at its capital.

A CUP OF COFFEE.

To make a cup of good coffee, an especial art is requisite.—Many women who pride themselves, and justly, upon their skill, fail here. For early risers and those who require an early breakfast, there is a mode of making coffee so generally practised as to be almost universal in this country, and that is simply to boil the ground coffee for a few minutes and then either settle the grounds with cold water or give them time to settle gradually. This mode can be greatly improved by corking the spout with a cork, cloth or paper, thus preventing the escape of the steam, which arises from the coffee. By the escape of the steam we lose much of the aromatic flavor that renders coffee so palatable. Let those who cook coffee after this method try this plan, and they will find a vast improvement. An eminent chemist recommends the following as a favorite way of making this now universal beverage: Three-fourths of the coffee should be boiled and the remaining fourth infused, after which the whole should be mixed. By this means both strength and flavor are increased.

GEMS.

It is surprising to see how near age brings a woman to death, and how little it prepares her for it.

The woman who confides to one man her partiality for another seeks advice less than sympathy.

We are always anxious to know why we are loved; they only care to know how much we love them.

It takes one less time to get over one's own misfortune than to be reconciled to a neighbor's good fortune.

There are people with whom penitence stands for repentance—people with whom wearing mourning dispenses with feeling sorrow.

A woman's friendship is, as a rule, the legacy of love or alms of indifference.

Women do not read; they listen with the eye.

Some conjugal fidelities can be explained on the hypothesis that many a woman is satisfied to be nothing in her husband's heart so that she is everything in his life.

Women who would hesitate about crying before a husband or a lover have no scruple about shedding tears before an audience. It is with their emotions as with their shoulder they are only displayed in public.

HOUSE CLEANING.

The editor of a Southern exchange presents the following picture of the pleasures of housecleaning:

"The housekeeper giveth a cheerful hop,
And we hear the musical flippertyflop
Of the motley, misty, maddening mop.

"And lo! the maddening horrors rush—
Athwart our souls at the mopy gush
Of the slippery, slimy scrubbing-brush.

"From early morn till evening gloom
We hear the scratching in hall and room
Of the boisterous, bustly bubbling broom.

"And now there cometh a venomous whiff—
That augurs a gun'ralty gusty gale—
From a man with his lair in the scrubbing-pail."

Unfortunately the above is a very graphic and truthful description of the proceedings going on in many houses at this season. We might further add that we never happened to know of a man—although such an anomaly may exist—who thought there was the slightest need of ever cleaning a house. "Why," said a gentleman the other day, as he perceived indications of the spring cleaning, "I used to sweep my room under my bed all through my college course, and I never had any trouble about it." We suppose he meant that he brushed the accumulations from his room under his bed, and innocently supposed that no further care was given to his premises during the entire four years' course. If ladies could only abandon all house-cleaning for a few years, gentlemen would become thorough converts to the necessity of it. At present they have a firm conviction that all women enjoy the bustle and confusion of having carpets up, floors scrubbed, walls brushed, and all the details of a regular house-cleaning.

Why is it that milk alone, of all commodities, must be carted about from door to door instead of being sold at the shops? It certainly does the milk no good to be churned several hours over rough pavements before it reaches the consumer. If milk could be sold in large quantities at the grocer's, it is probable that the saving in the expense of distribution would permit lower prices, and the responsibility for selling poor milk could be more easily fixed.

Slow Consumption.—Col. Valentine Baker, who left England under a black cloud, has won his way back to the English heart through his gallant conduct in the Turkish camp. He has been dined by the Savage Club and the Duke of Sutherland, and has also been elected member of the Marlborough Club, one of the most exclusive in London.

Mitchell's Belladonna Improved India Rubber Porous Plaster.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application on the person. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

The principal ingredients used in making these Plasters are Gum Ottbanum—or better known as the Frankincense of the Bible—Rubber, and Burgundy Pitch; which, when scientifically compounded, is full of elasticity, and when combined with the pure medicinal gums, is found to be one greatest healing medicines ever brought before the human race.

They are acknowledged by all who have used them to out-strip three times over other Plasters they ever before tried, and that one of these Plasters is all we ever need now to cure a headache of the ordinary kind. All other Plasters are clear of medicine, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different; the heat of the body is applied the patient and does its effect.

They relieve all the troubles, causing regulating and strengthening qualities of all other Plasters. Many who have used other Plasters, and have found no relief, will find STRENGTH, QUICK RELIEF and speedy cure in the MITCHELL PLASTER or SIDE, and believe it is solely done by the chemical qualities which the Porous Plasters contain, and which is imparted to the system, thus removing them in a healthy manner.

They can be worn next most tender skin, and will not blister or make sore. Price, 25 cents. PAINS IN THE SIDE, BACK OR LIMBS are unbearable at times when any of the above Plasters are not at hand. The Real Sandy MacKay.

Preachin' and practice are two different things,
And they're often pleased widely apart:
I canna help noticing whiles that what springs
From the tongue has no root in the heart.
It's easy enough aye to gie guid advice,
Maist o' folks can do that within they try;
But faith without work
Shows ye're still in the dark.
For it's no' the real Sandy Mackay.

The Diel tak' a' them that gang skellakin' aroun'
Wi' a sweet pleasant smile on the face,
Aye tryin' at a' times to rin folkes down,
While they keep themsel's out o' disgrace;
That man is a coarse and a knafe in his heart
That slanders his freens on the sly,
Never speak to him fair,
He's not worthy your care,
For he's no' the real Sandy Mackay.

A grocer may put a few pounds in his pouch
By gien licht weight ane and anes,
He may no'er be fund out till he makes himself rich,
But it's no' dealin' justly by man,
If there's ony in toon (and maybe there's nane)
To whom these line's would apply,
Let them alter their ways
A' the rest o' their days
For it's no the real Sandy Mackay.

A merchant that mairs his ten thousan' a year,
And yet thinks that he canna' pay
The men that work for him, perhaps ony mair
Than just four or five shillin a day.
If he lives a' the time on the fat of the land,
While they gang hoth hungry and dry,
Yes may say what you wi',
But, I stick to it still.
He is no' the real Sandy Mackay.

No, Sandy Mackay is a donce decent man,
And there's nothing about him that's mean:
He's kind and warm-hearted, and hauls out his han'
When he sees you in want o' a freend.
If you meet wi' a man that is honest and fair,
And does as he would be don' by,
Wear him next to your heart
Wi' his love never part,
For he's the real Sandy Mackay.
ALEX. H. WINGFIELD.

"An expression used in some parts of Scotland equivalent to saying "it is not the real thing."

WHEN IS MAN A DRUNK.

(From the London Advertiser.)

If the suggested libel suits against these newspapers which have hinted at the dipsomaniacal tendencies of certain M. P.'s should come to fruition they will no doubt result in some good in settling the disputed question, When is a man drunk? We presume the plaintiff's will all admit the indulgence of anti-dunkin beverages, but deny that they were sufficiently affected thereby to justify the charge of drunkenness. Then it will be necessary for some one to lay down as a legal principle the class of evidence necessary to legally determine inebriety. Would it be evidence of intoxication if a distinguished statesman should chase the waiter-girls around the dining-room of a St. Thomas hotel? If, when making a speech, he staggers and stumbles and hold on like grim death to the rails of the platform to keep from tumbling off, would that be proof of drunkenness, or would it be taken only as indicating premonitory symptoms of paralysis induced by drinking black tea? If an honorable member, wishing to retire from the legislative chamber, should, as a preparatory movement, lie down on his face before the Speaker, would you say he was drunk, or that he was introducing a new form of salutation to the presiding officer? Or if some other equally honorable member should rise to address the House in dishabille not usually recognized in polite society, would that be a sign of drunkenness, or only his first appearance in a new style of evening dress? Would it be necessary, in order to prove a man drunk, that you should testify to his having affectionately embraced one of the lamp-posts in front of the Parliamentary buildings and declared to it in audible tones that it was the dearest friend of his life from whom wild horses should not tear him away? Or, that he was unable to lie flat on the floor without holding on to the legs of a chair to keep him from falling off?
This will be, of course a very important point to settle; and we must confess that in view of the difficulties that seem to arise, we have grave doubts whether it would be wise to call any man drunk—no matter how much he may have imbibed, or how peculiarly he may act after the imbibition. Mr. Marrowfat, who resides in Simcoe street and who, from the fact of his name being Timothy, feels bound to take a little for his stomach's sake, was talking to his neighbor, James Smiley, the other night about the reported tendency to inebriety on the part of our public men, and was virtuously indignant threat.
'Well,' said he; 'no man ever saw me with more than I could carry.'
'That's so,' said James, who is as politely oblivious to passing events as a Tory newspaper reporter, 'but I have seen you when I thought you ought to have made two loads of it.'
And perhaps that is as far as we would be justified in going until the courts establish a precedent.
We may add, however, that a distinguished poet, who is entitled to speak on this subject with authority, but whose name, for obvious reasons, we are not at liberty to mention, has said that "Not drunk is he who from the floor
Can rise again and drink some more;
But drunk is he who prostrate lies,
And who can neither drink nor rise."

PROPOSED DUTY ON COAL.

Apropos of the proposed duty on coal and the "national policy" generally, it is interesting and instructive to get the opinions of a practical man who knows what he is talking about, and whose grasp of his subject is very different from that of the theorists and political quacks who have so much to say about a "national policy." One of the articles that needs protection, according to the protectionists, is iron, and the "cannibus" resolution was framed for the very purpose of catching the mining industry in the net. Yet here is what a man in the business says about protecting iron. Mr. Myles, owner of Snowden iron mines, in Victoria, is going heavily into the working of that mine; in the course of a recent interview he gave the following opinion to the Port Hope Guide:

"When other would the John Macdonald's national policy have on the iron ore business and that of smelting world?"

"Mr. Myles—It would utterly ruin them. The very existence of this mine depends upon the duty remaining as it now stands. The present duty allows, I would consider, a fair profit on the manufacture of pig iron, but if the duty were taken off I could bring it into Toronto from the United States and sell it cheaper than it could be made there. I could not only do this, but I could make a profit.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 9, 1878

THE LIBERAL VICTORY IN QUEBEC.

The fate that befel the Pacific Scandal Ministry of the Dominion has overtaken their prototypes in the Province of Quebec. And the causes which led to the utter rout of Sir John Macdonald's party in 1874, have brought about the still more sweeping condemnation of the De Boucherville party of Quebec in 1878. Both these governments forgot the interests of the people in designing the gratification of their own desires; and both of them withered and vanished before the blast of popular indignation, produced by a discovery of their perfidy. In these cases, if ever, is applicable the saying, "Vox populi, vox Dei." The causes which led Lieutenant-Governor Letellier to dismiss his late Ministry will be fresh in the minds of our readers, and the long and loud wail set up by the Tory press of the Dominion, over what they called the distruction of popular rights, will not soon be forgotten. The Joly Cabinet having been formed and on appeal made to the electors of the Province, it might have been expected that the people would naturally vindicate their rights, without further frantic denunciations of Her Majesty's representative and depreciation of the functions of the Crown. But no respect for the Royal prerogative will prevent your genuine Tory, with all his self-vaunted loyalty, from seizing an opportunity to make possible party capital, even if he must talk the veriest clap-trap. So the Tory contingent in the House of Commons brought in an indefinite and indefinable resolution, calculated to connect the Dominion Government with Lieutenant-Governor Letellier, and to promote Federal interference with the internal concerns of the Province of Quebec, at a critical time in its political history. So persistent were they in this ill-timed and impertinent interference, and in their desire to waste the time of the House, that they brought about the most disgraceful scene that has ever yet occurred in a Canadian Parliament. But all attempts to distract the attention of the Quebec electors from the real point at issue between the two parties in their province failed; and to the intense disappointment of unscrupulous Toryism throughout the Dominion, the action of Lieutenant-Governor Letellier has been sustained in a marked manner. It is altogether likely that the Conservative critics of that official's action will now do all they can to disassociate this election and the Dominion Ministry, notwithstanding their former efforts to connect the two. While they expected a condemnation of the Joly administration at the polls, they were eager to announce the coming verdict as affecting vitally Reform in the whole Dominion; but now that their expectations have been exploded, and their desires dashed, they would be quite willing to be relieved from any restraint put upon them by reason of their previous protestations. Even the studied prolongation of the Commons session by the Opposition members, in the hope of having another chance to bring the Quebec matter up after a vote in the Province adverse to the Joly government, has already given place to a laudable desire to get home as quickly as possible, without further waste of time at great cost to the country.

The full extent of the victory for popular rights in Quebec may better be judged from a comparison of the state of parties in the late House with a similar analysis of the present assembly. The DeBoucherville government had a following of 62 members, while Mr. Joly's supporters them numbered only 29; but the polling just past shows that Mr. Joly has, by the popular support given him, made up his minority of 19, and secured a small majority beside. No less than eighteen of DeBoucherville's old supporters have been rejected, among them being three of his ministerial colleagues. Every member of the new Cabinet has been returned, in spite of the predictions of the Tory press to the contrary. The result is indeed surprising and totally unprecedented.

The Quebec Ministry consists of the following Honourable gentlemen:—H. G. Joly, Premier and Commissioner of Crown Lands; D. A. Ross, Attorney-General; Pierre Bechard, Treasurer; G. F. Marchand, Secretary; Francois C. S. Langlier, Commissioner of Crown Lands; Henry Starnes, President of the Council; Alex. Chauveau, Solicitor-General. All are native Canadians except Mr. Joly, who was born in France. The Premier, the Attorney-General, the Solicitor-General and the Treasurer are barristers; the Minister of Crown Lands is also learned in the law, and a Professor in Laval. The Provincial Secretary is a notary and a newspaper man. The President of the Council has for years been a prominent banker and business man in Montreal. He is a Conservative member of the Legislative Council, in which body he has sat since 1867. Mr. Chauveau is also a Conservative, but since his election to the Assembly in 1872, opposed the late Government. He was re-elected by acclamation in 1875, and has just been returned for the third time, against the strongest opposition. He is but thirty-one years of age. As with his Cabinet, so Mr. Joly's full contingent in the House contains Conservatives, who are loyal in their support to a Liberal leader for the preservation of the liberties and rights of their Province. In like manner the members elected as Independents will give the Ministry a general support; and we shall not be surprised if not a few of these now agreed upon as Oppositionists will, in deference to the plainly expressed will of the people, be found generously assisting the new government in helping to lift the Province out of the moral as well as financial pit into which the old one had sunk it.

THE SENATE PARTISANSHIP.

If we should look for statesmanship free from the heat and strife of party in any legislative body, it should be in the Senate, composed as it is chiefly of old and experienced men, well versed in the examination of public affairs, and able to deal judicially with all matters connected with the weal or woe of the Dominion. One would think, too, that the gravity of superior wisdom, and the absence of the hot blood of youth, would prevent the indulgence by venerable Senators in mere partisan practices and party wrestles. But such is not the case; and the adage that "there are no fools like old fools" is proved by the extreme length to which partisanship is carried by Honorable Senators of the Dominion of Canada, in this year of grace, 1878. It is well known that the majority in the Senate is Tory, the late Government having filled that chamber with their political friends as far as in them lay. This we do not blame them for; but must remark that it is quite inconsistent with their cry against the Reform Ministry for giving appointments to Reformers, and taking no note of the exceptions. We saw an attempt during a former session to use the Tory majority in the Senate to forward the plans of the Opposition in the House of Commons; but it remained for this last session of the present Parliament to display the use of the party Majority in the upper House, as a mere instrument in the hands of members of the minority in the lower. In the summer of last year a couple of senators noted for their partisan bitterness were sent, or went of their own accord, to Thunder Bay and into the territory of Keewaydin, apparently for the express purpose of finding fault with the Pacific Railway terminus on the Kaministiquia and the locks at Fort Francis. The beloved survey of the Kaministiquia, and the tales sent back of the utter worthless of that stream for navigation are subjects of comical history; and the exaggerations concerning this river and the Fort Francis locks were so gross that they met with prompt denial by residents. But committees were appointed in the Senate to "investigate" the charges against the Government in connection with these works, and these committees have been brought in extraordinary reports. They do not attempt to analyze the evidence adduced before the committees. That would not do; for it would prove two much to suit the purpose of those who moved for the inquiries. They simply bring in reports which carry their intention on their face, inasmuch as they are wholly condemnatory of the Government. Happily the evidence taken is attainable, as well as that taken before the Public Accounts Committees in relation to the same charges. This is so directly contradictory of the Senate Committees' reports, that, as we have said before, the attempt to pass condemnation in the face of it proves that old fools are beyond rivalry.

We shall probably have occasion to refer more particularly to these matters again, as we had before in the case of Kaministiquia, and we now refer to them to show the spirit that actuates the Tory majority in the Senate. It has been displayed in other ways, such as threatened death to the new Temperance Act, which however was suffered to pass for fear probably of the electors at next election. The Senate's action in the Independence of Parliament Bill also showed their desire to obstruct the progress of reforms. It may be that this conduct is undertaken merely for the purpose of making capital for the coming elections, and that such tactics will be dropped next session. In any case the Tory Senators, as well as their party friends in the Commons may rest assured that they will have to fight against a Reform in the next parliament. It may be then that the Tory Senators will sometimes the obstructionist tactics, and if so they may produce a look between the two chambers. Should such be the case they need not hope to withstand the greater weight of the popular branch, and it may be that they may so weaken their own chamber as to make it a mere necessity in their eyes of the country. We should be sorry should such a result be brought about, but we must say that the Senate majority has been of late acting in a way calculated to end in such a disaster.

Tory journals attempt to throw discredit on the Liberal party because they have accepted, so far as they go, the concessions of the late Quebec government made by Mr. R. H. Goff, they declaring that Goff is charged with forgery and fraud. It may be,—though it has not yet been legally proved—that Goff is the scoundrel they declare him to be; but how comes it that he consented so long with them and they with him? The compromise proposed origin and special [illegible] the Tory leaders appear to have expressed Goff as hard that he let out the majority of the bill. "When rogues fall out honest men come by their own."

THE COMING VOTE.

As will be seen by our report of Council meetings, a vote will be taken on the 15th of this month, so as to get an expression of public opinion, in the matter of giving the Mayor $200 for past and present services in his office. The method of obtaining this expression of public opinion is called in question, but as it is not a final settlement of the matter it makes little difference how the vote be taken. Mayor Toole has his friends and his opponents, but if he had allowed some who oppose him, to thrust their hands at will into the public chest, he would have one less trying to thankmall him. For our own part, sometimes we have been pleased and some times displeased with his public actions, but this pleasure or displeasure has nothing whatever to do with our present judgment and course.

The question now is, does he deserve the sum spoken of or does he not? If he has given a full equivalent for the money, then he has a right to it, and the people should vote to give it, but if he has not served the town in such a way as to deserve it, then they should vote against it.

Were our individual vote to decide the matter we would vote for it, as we believe Mr. Toole has served the town as faithfully (even more faithfully) as any of those Mayors who drew their $500 and $600 a year, and it does not appear unreasonable to pay others so freely and refuse him even a small acknowledgment for his services.

The matter is now before the people, and we can only advise them to do what is right and just to all. Toole and to themselves as well. Let them look at the whole thing as a business transaction, and if Mr. Toole's services are thought worthy of acknowledgment, then acknowledge them gratefully. The communication in another column, signed "Ward No. 3," is in our opinion written in too severe language, but as the writter differs from us in opinion, and as our columns are always open for the free discussion of public questions, we in accordance with our defined principles, leave our columns open for both sides of the question.

It was rumoured round town last week that a local member of the legal profession, had instructions to take criminal proceedings against the proprietor of the Examiner, on a charge of libel on Sir John Macdonald. So far we have not been called on to show cause; and have strong doubts as to the preparation of the necessary affidavit, declaration of falsehood and malice. We can assure those who take such a lively interest in our going to goal, that we are not in the least alarmed. In fact, we have an idea that such a prosecution as that hinted at would do a great deal of good, in making plain considerable of the secret political history of Canada not hitherto published; and to that end we wouldn't object to occupy a moderately comfortable prison cell for a brief term—if such a sacrifice were necessary;—but we think it isn't. Now, bluff is a great game with political as with professional gamblers; and we would advise those who play it not to stake very high if they're quite sure the adverse player hasn't a bigger hand. Gentlemen show your cards' just when you like!

The Examiner is mentioned in the last number of the Lakefield News, no less than fifteen times, and the name of the Editor no less than three. Now don't feel so bad. We regret that a decent regard for justice and truth, compels us to mildly suggest to our contemporary, that its conduct in certain matters renders it liable to a charge of petty larceny, if, as it says, it has a letter of Mr. Dinwoodie's in his possession, what right has he to another man's property? Surely no man would be so contemptible as to publish a letter that did not belong to him. We don't admire the "you're another" style of warfare, and we cannot use the plain Anglo Saxon word lie to him, but then he handles the truth very carelessly. There was no letter or letters used against Mr. Choate at the convention, and we defy any person to prove to the contrary.

The Reformers of Peterborough have tendered the Commons nomination to Mr. John Bertram, the present member, whose public services have merited and have received the hearty approval of his supporters and indeed of the great body of his constituents. Mr. Bertram occupies a foremost rank among the Parliamentarians of the day as a speaker and legislato and though he seldom addresses the House, when he does he has much more effect than those who have a great deal to say. We trust he will accept the nomination, and if he does, we feel confident he will go in by a handsome majority.—Lindsay Post.

The Reformers of West Peterboro held a convention on Saturday last, when Mr. John Bertram was nominated as the Reform candidate. It is questionable if he will be opposed.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Mr. Geo. Hilliard is the opposition candidate, and he will take the ultra-Tory vote, but not a vote more, and there are just enough votes of that sort in this Riding, to elect him to stay at home.

The bill introduced by Mr. Blake for the purpose of dealing severely with plotting, such as has of late disgraced Montreal meets with general favour. We wonder that some people whom we have in mind do not complain that it is an interference with the liberty of the subject. Its best justification is that it is necessary.

The local Tory journal last week expressed some doubt as to Mr. Bertram's acceptance of the nomination tendered him by the Reformers of this Riding. No doubt the wish was father to the thought.

THOSE SUITS.

The suits of Sir John will obtain no other advantage than vindication of his character. So thinks the Nepanee Standard. We hope Sir John will proceed with the trials, in which case he will have all the vindication of character his heart seemingly yearns for.—Kingston Whig.

It is stated with a flourish by the Conservative press that Sir John A. Macdonald has commenced criminal libel prosecution against a number of publishers of Reform papers on account of what they said about the "disgraceful disclosures that is alleged to have taken place recently in the House of Commons. And as an illustration of the object in view that the threatened suits have created, the hon. organ of the Peterboro' Examiner contains an editorial upon Sir John, headed "Sensation and Excitement!" Our Reform contemporary's curiosity quickening with fear; and Mumbo pumpkins as that of the Examiner can only be warned and hence there is no necessity for legal proceedings. But otherwise we presume the cases will have to go to suit, with what result time alone can tell.—Peterboro' Review Record.

Mr. Cadigan's Communication.

To the Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In last week's Review there appeared a communication purporting to be from one Michael P. Cadigan, of this township, charging some Reformers with obtaining his (Mr. Cadigan's) name on a requisition to Mr. Bertram, by misrepresenting that it was for Mr. Hilliard.

Now, sir, parties here knowing Mr. Cadigan's Tory temperament and leanings, for a joke got him to put his name on a requisition, and then showed it to him for a measure at all, I trust they will see their duty clear in aiding in its defeat.

Lest it be said that my objections are merely sentimental, I will now come to the practical view of the case. The town is in no position to throw away money as uselessly as this resolution proposes. The very same report which proposed it had to recommend a large issue of debentures to meet deficiencies and old debentures falling due. The municipality has use for all its resources, without incurring the very extraordinary expenditure of an $800 vote to the Mayor. Besides if such a precedent is established, the town shall have an annual vote to the occupant of the civic chair, which, while it will prevent the best men striving for the position, will make it a bait for the merest mercenaries. Then too if remuneration be given the Mayor "for his services to the town," each member of the council will have a logical right to call for a like recognition of their services—and while I am willing to grant that the whole broad question of a salary to the Mayor is a proper one for popular consideration, and possibly popular vote, I certainly am of the opinion that the present plan is neither undertaken in the proper way nor at the right time, I hope therefore that the vote on the 15th inst., will be adverse, if for no other reason than that the subject be left for decision at the next municipal elections. Hoping you will give the above publicity, I am,

NO. 3 WARD.

"NO IMPORTANT ISSUES."

(From the Norwood Register.)

Our contemporary, the Peterborough Review, mildly, very mildly, brings us to task for giving utterance to our opinion upon the coming political contest for this Riding. In an article of the Register of the 18th ultimo, under this head, we stated that "there is really no great 'political question before the country,' which few words have brought down upon us the indignation of that paper. Now while we are prepared to make every allowance for the difficulties of such papers as the Peterborough Review in attempting to talk politics," we must, at the same time, state candidly that we cashier, either as a political or non-political journal, look upon the political questions of the day in the same light as the Review or any partisan paper.

We must respectfully and distinctly reiterate that Mr. Burnham's or Mr. Buck's fitness, irrespective of their political leanings, or irrespective of their views upon the question of Protection or Free Trade, is a matter of the utmost importance to the electors of this Riding. If a representative has the required abilities to properly qualify him for his Parliamentary duties, and is conscientious in the discharge of those duties, he will vote upon the important measures of the day, not as suits the political aims or exigencies of his party, but according to the well understood wishes of his constituents, and in the interests of the country at large.

We, though of that class of papers the Review styles non-political, have a right to our opinion, and fearlessly, though with the expectation of offending our big brother, we will express it when we think it necessary. With regard to the re-adjustment of the tariff, we really do not think it the great political—though we admit it to be a very important—question the Review would like us to believe it to be; for there is no doubt of the fact that quite a number of the electors of both Reform and Conservative tendencies are divided in opinion upon this subject, many of the former being in favor of the imposition of duties upon certain articles now entered free of duty; while on the other hand there are a number of Conservatives who are opposed to an absolute Protective policy. Further, we can assure the Review that far less than nine-tenths of the electors of this Riding will vote upon the merits or demerits of this "paramount question"; and that it is more likely the greater proportion will record their votes for the Candidate whom they opine will represent the Riding with ability and honour, and with justice to his constituents.

We can also assure the Review that we have no particular crochet to please; that we have no axe to grind; that we are not oblivious to the interests of the Riding; and that it will not be necessary for the electors to look only to the columns of that paper for light upon the important issues now before the country.

SUICIDE IN TORONTO.

A Married Woman Drowns Herself in a Cistern

Another melancholy case of suicide occurred yesterday morning in Queen street. It appears that at 5 o'clock on Monday morning Mr. Stanley James, missed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Brown who lived with him. Knowing that she was of weak intellect and that she had of late threatened to commit suicide, he went out to look for her. On entering the yard he went to the cistern whose lid was open and saw in it her body. A doctor was called in, but in vain, as it was seen that life had fled. Mr. James had heard her stirring at about 3 o'clock a.m., but had fallen asleep and had not heard her leave the house. Mrs. Brown was about 50 years of age and was of weak intellect.

The Pickering Outrage Trial.

Both Prisoners Condemned to Death.

At the adjourned Assizes held in Whitby on Thursday last, the prisoners Thomas Burk and John Macpherson were placed on trial for the committal of an outrage on the person of Mrs. Ellen Bennett. Chief Justice Harrison presided.

Thomas Burk is a finely developed young man about twenty-eight years of age, with a somewhat Teutonic cast of countenance and physique. He is of a massive build, has a florid complexion, and is the least prepossessing of the twain. His companion in crime, John Macpherson, aged twenty-six, is not quite as tall as Burk, nor as well developed. He is of a very nervous temperament, dark complexion, rather pleasing eyes, and dark hair. Each prisoner was clean shaved, excepting a moustache.

The jury after hearing the evidence retired, and in twenty minutes brought in a verdict of guilty with a strong recommendation to mercy.

His Lordship then in the usual form sentenced them to be hanged, on Tuesday, the 14th day of June, at 10 o'clock a.m. The facts of this outrage have already been published in the Examiner.

A Remarkable Result.—It makes no difference how many Physicians or how much medicine you have tried, it is now an established fact that German Syrup is the only remedy which has given complete satisfaction in severe cases of Lung Diseases. It is true that there are yet thousands of persons who are predisposed to Throat and Lung Affections, Consumption, Hemorrhages, Asthma, Severe Colds settled on the Breast, Pneumonia, Whooping Cough, &c., who have no personal knowledge of Boschee's German Syrup. To such we would say that 30,000 bottles were sold last year without one complaint. Consumptives try just one bottle. Regular size 75 cents. Sold by J. D. Tully & Co., Druggists, George Street.

Cough No More.—Thousands of persons at this season of the year are subject to colds, coughs, asthma and consumption. The very best medicine to cure you is J. Bower & Co's Cough and or Pectoral Elixir. Every bottle warranted. Go at once and get a bottle. Price 25 cents. Prepared by J. Bower & Co. Perth Ont. For sale in Peterborough at Dr. Sugden Drug Store. 6-1y.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Although containing no definite information of the progress of negotiations, the despatches from St. Petersburg continue to be of the most hopeful character. A complete change in Russian feeling seems to have taken place, and a sincere desire is now apparently manifest for an understanding with England. In fact, in the notes of the Czarewitch on Sunday the Emperor is said to have announced that an understanding was certain and peace was assured. The taking of the conduct of the negotiations into his own hands by the Zar has inspired great confidence, and the approaching visit of Count Schouvaloff to Russia is regarded as another hopeful sign. England is also reported to be considering a series of propositions personally submitted by the Zar. Gen. Todleben has offered to fall back behind the straight line drawn between Dedeagatch and Adrianople if the British fleet will withdraw at the same time. He is now retiring to the lines of Tchataldja, intending to leave only a small force at San Stefano, Russia having occupied the line of the River Argish, thus interrupting the communication of the Roumanian army in Little Wallachia with its head-quarters at Bucharest. Roumania has sent another protest to the Powers. Great opposition is being manifested to the Russian occupation at Varna and Batoum, the inhabitants of the former place threatening to take up arms against it, and the authorities of the latter city have appealed direct to England.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The "Reaction" boot is now on the other leg. There is a reaction, but it is a reaction against Canadian Toryism.

Mr. Bertram has been renominated for West Peterborough. He is one of the best informed members of the House and a credit to his constituents.—Belleville Ontario.

It is stated that the Bartlett cotton mills, Massachusetts, suspend half their works this week and discharge 130 hands. In Canada the cotton mills are all busy. The cause of this distressing state of affairs in Canada is that we have not the Yankee tariff.

The Paris International Exposition was opened with great eclat on Wednesday, by President MacMahon, who was accompanied by a brilliant assemblage, including the Prince of Wales, ex-King Amadeus, the Crown Princess of Denmark and the Netherlands, and other notables. The Canadian Department is spoken of as in a forward state, and notwithstanding the confined space allotted to it, highly creditable to the country, and giving a good idea of its resources and capabilities.

The New York papers are discussing the Quebec scandal, in which ex-Minister Baker and his quondam friend Goff, the railway speculator, are the central figures. They think the members of the Legislature sell themselves at a pretty low figure when they consent to take their pay in sleighs, buffalo robes, foot, mats, harness, and diamond rings. The Herald goes so far as to say that the "corruption of the Province seems to be about on a level with that of the black and tan carpet-bag, Government of South Carolina where everything, from velvet carpeting to a bottle of whiskey or a paper of tobacco, was accepted in lieu of cash for services rendered." This is the unkindest thing that has been said yet.—Telegram.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 9, 1878

LOCAL NEWS.

The Watering Cart.—It is thought by some that Vernor and the street watering man are conspiring together to have it rain every day.

Bible Christian Church.—The Rev. E. B. Roberts will preach a sermon on Temperance, in the Bible Christian Church, Peterborough, on Sunday evening, 12th instant at 6.30 p.m.

No Quorum.—There was no quorum of the School Board on Tuesday evening—but six members being present. Those present were Messrs. Donaldson, Menzies, Shaw, Errett, Edmison and Edwards.

St. Luke's Church.—The Consecration services in connection with St. Luke's Church Ashburnham, will be held at 3 p. m., on Friday, 17th instant. When a collection will be taken up in aid of the organ fund.

$10 Reward.—A reward of ten dollars will be given for such information as will lead to the conviction of the party, who threw a stone through one of the windows of this office, on Sunday night or early on Monday morning.

Recovering.—The many friends of Mr. Marvin Knowlton will be glad to learn that he is recovering from his late severe attack, and although as yet very weak, has improved sufficiently to permit of his removal from Otawa to London.

Novelties in Boots and Shoes.—Mr. R. Tennan, of the Dominion boot and shoe store, invites inspection of the novelties in new lines of ladies' misses' and childrens summer wear in boots and shoes, to be had at his store. Read his advertisement next week.

Toronto "Tribune."—Mr. John J. Smith, canvassing agent of the Toronto Tribune, paid us a visit yesterday. During the past few days he has been engaged canvassing the town, and has met with remarkable success. This week he will make a tour of the township of Douro, where we trust his friends will receive him heartily. We wish him success.

Pigeon Creek Bridge.—The bridge is now considered unsafe for travel and has been closed, and notice has been given by the Council of the County of Peterborough, that they are in no way liable to repair the same or keep it open for traffic, or for any damage that may be sustained through the said bridge being out of repair or closed for traffic.

Concert Next Week.—Messrs. Ormond and Dixons' concert—the preparation for which has been going along for some time—is announced for Friday evening of next week. The programme promises to be a good one, and as both young men have always been very willing to lend a helping hand in all our amateur entertainments, it is but right to expect their services will be duly appreciated by giving them a bumper house.

Complimentary Supper.—Mr. George H. Johnston was last evening entertained to a complimentary supper at A. P. Morgan's Hotel, by the members of Peterborough Lodge No. 111 I. O. O. F., previous to his departure to Welland, where he has accepted a situation in a leading dry goods house. Mr. Johnston is a young man of promise, highly respected by those with whom he is acquainted, and a general favorite among his companions. We wish him success.

The Crops.—A gentleman who lives in town and whose business requires that he travels a great deal, informs us that never before in all his life has he seen such prospects for a rich and glorious harvest as he saw last week. Wheat had grown to an unprecedented height, meadows were green as they never were before, and the outlook for a bountiful hay harvest was simply splendid. The farmers, saving the rain, are in great spirits and have hopes of filling their granaries and barns to repletion.

The Dunkin By-Law.—At an informal meeting of a few of the temperance people of the town held last Saturday evening, it was, we believe, decided upon to enforce the Dunkin By-law in the town, notwithstanding its defeat in the County. A resolution was passed appointing a deputation to wait upon the Council, asking them to take the responsibility of enforcing it as they would any other of their By-laws. An adjourned meeting will be held this evening for the purpose of further considering the action to be taken in the matter.

The 24th of May.—The citizens do not seem to be very enthusiastic over the celebration of the Queen's Birthday, and as yet very little action has been taken towards celebrating the day. We learn that the Boating Club will hold athletic sports in the Drill Shed grounds during the afternoon, and a promenade concert in the evening. A cricket match between the Lakefield and Peterborough Clubs is also spoken of. The regatta at Idyl Wild promises attractions, and no doubt many will avail themselves of the pleasure of an excursion on the Golden Eye that day.

Opera House.—Edith O'Gorman spoke in the Opera House on Monday and Tuesday evenings' to large audiences. She is a graceful speaker, fluent and eloquent at times. She gave a biographical sketch of herself from the time of her entering the convent, or taking the veil, as Rib termed. She speaks very kindly of Roman Catholics, but condemns their religion, and speaks strongly against Protestants sending their children to convents to be educated. She is about thirty four years of age from appearance, is finely educated in the art of public speaking, and manifests a will to carry out whatever she undertakes.

Delaney's Patent Heave Balm.—Mr. A. H. Delaney, of the firm of J. A. Delaney & Son's of this town, has recently received letters patent for a new and improved self dumping milky horse rake. The machine is of the simplest construction, and we are informed, has been tested by the most competent judges, who pronounce it to be the best, cheapest, and the only genuine self-dumping horse rake yet made, and is destined to supersede any other rake at present manufactured. Mr. Delaney has already received a number of applications for the purchase of the patent, both in Canada and the United States, and we trust he may find that "there is millions in it."

Who Can Beat It?—We think it was the London Advertiser man who, in answering the above question, put by a country contemporary, in regard to a mammoth egg, said that he could beat it if he had an old fashioned three tined fork. We have been shown a specimen in the egg line by Mr. James Gardiner, which we think would top the Advertiser man's climax, as the egg in question is of such that it would need likely half through the process. The egg is the production of a large light Brahma hen, and weighs exactly one drachm. Mr. Gardner thinks to many heads the hen in the adjoining egg business. That local poultry fancier, who acknowledged no mean through years of experience and experimenting, had better look to his laurels. The egg is on view at this office.

The Twelfth of July in Montreal.—At a large meeting of the Orangemen of Peterborough, held in the Orange Hall, on Saturday, the 4th day of May, the following resolutions were passed:—

Moved by T. M. D. Carly, seconded by James Peck, and resolved:—"That the Orangemen of Peterborough deeply sympathize with their brethren in Montreal, and pledge themselves to aid them in their procession on the glorious 12th of July, particularly the procession to be headed by the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge."

Moved by George W. Hall, seconded by F. J. Jameson, and resolved:—"That the Orangemen of Peterborough would respectfully petition the Grand Lodge of British North America, at their approaching session in Montreal on the 24th instant, to use their strongest and best influence there by all constitutional means to assist them in establishing the privileges they are entitled to as British subjects."

I. O. of G. W.—At the last regular meeting of Cornwall Lodge No. 411, the following members were installed officers:—

Bro. J. J. Esmond, M. D.	W.C.T.
Sist. M. McGee	W.V.T.
Bro. Wm. Toole	W.S.
" T. H. Cobb	W.A.S.
" Rev. E. B. Spencer	W.P.S.
" Wm. Ballagham	W.M.
Sist. A. Friend	W.D.M.
" K. Herridge	W.R.H.S.
" M. Watt	W.L.H.S.
" M. Moore	W.I.S.
Bro. S. Johnston	W.O.S.
" J. Wanless	W.C.
" Wm. Strain	P.W.C.T.
" D. Ballantyne	T.D.

This Lodge is doing a good work. Number of members in good standing 105.

Davy Crockett.—That eminent American actor, Mr. Frank Mayo, will appear next Tuesday evening in the Opera House, as "Davy Crockett." He will be supported by a first-class company. An exchange in speaking of the entertainment says:—

"The whole troupe is good—every part is well sustained. The stage management and the scenic effects were the best we have seen this season. The drama is a charming romance—one which will interest the sympathies of any audience. Mayo personates "Crockett" in the character of a true Christian, living reality—a warm-hearted, manly backwoodsman. His trials in the terrors of storm and desert, his struggles with a pure love which he tries to stifle, are all presented with a touching pathos and a moral sublimity. In many parts of the play he is truly eloquent. When he stands a living barrier, fatherless at the door with pain and exhaustion, to save for whom he rescued from a horrible death, he rises to the height of true heroism. The conception is true to life, and is magnificently executed. The audience was thrilled, and an encore followed every act—an honor well deserved by such dramatic genius."

The Oratorio of Esther.—This entertainment, which had been looked forward to with a great deal of interest during the past few weeks, came off pursuant to announcement in the Opera House, on Thursday and Friday evenings of last week, and by request repeated on Saturday evening. On all three occasions the hall was well filled, especially the two first nights, when nearly all the the available sitting room in the house was taken—not withstanding the unfavorable state of the weather. The entertainment was all that could be expected, and although on first night the timidity natural to amateurs appearing in a new role was somewhat visible; it gradually wore off, and on the second and third evenings the performers appeared before the foot lights with the confidence and bearing of those accustomed to appear in public. The programme was most successfully carried out in detail, and the parties assuming the representative characters—both ladies and gentlemen—acquitted themselves in a manner highly creditable both to themselves and their instructor, Prof. Tansey. The costumes were very appropriate—and in some cases rich looking and handsome. Altogether the entertainment was one very deserving of the liberal patronage bestowed upon it, and should Prof. Tansey come again to town he may expect to be received with bumper houses.

GEO. W. HALL thanked the members for the honorable position in which they had been placed to place him, and hoped by their united efforts to be able to give satisfaction to the townsmen and do credit to the town.

After some minor business had been transacted the meeting, on motion, adjourned till next Tuesday evening, when it again met and re-

The [illegible] to wear some distinctive mark and colour and resolutions of condolence with the Cobourg Firemen in their late calamity passed, and the Secretary ordered to transmit them to the Cobourg Brigade.

—The brick-work of the new Post Office is about completed. When the building is completed it will be a credit to the town.

—At the medical examinations in Toronto last week, between two and three hundred young men presented themselves, bursting with a plethora of health to relieve the sufferings of their fellow men. It is getting so now, in the Province, that you cannot throw a stone in any direction without hitting a doctor, unless you throw it up towards the sky, with some special arrangement to prevent its falling.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Many Petitions for Street Improvements—Report from the Street Inspector and the Fire Committee—The Temperance Act of 1864—A Deputation Addresses the Council, asking the Enforcement of the Dunkin By-law—Miscellaneous.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Treasurer, a statement of receipts and expenditures for the month of April.

From the Street Inspector, a report on petitions for street improvements referred to him, recommending as follows:—

I have examined the several places that there was petitions for improvements, and beg leave to report as follows:

1. Wm. Lee and others, asking to have George street from Smith to Argyle graded and waterboled, and the railway crossing removed and a sidewalk laid the full length. I think that if the street is graded and waterbolted, I would recommend a sidewalk from Smith street to the railway. I have been told that the grading and waterbolting can be done for $30, and the sidewalk to the railway would cost $95 or $96.

2. John A. Hartley and others, asking for a sidewalk on Dickson street between Murray and McDonel; I would recommend it; cost $22.

3. John Bradley's petition was recommended; cost about $12 to $15.

4. The prayer and petition of D. Hopkins and others was not recommended.

5. The prayer and petition of D. Hopkins and others was not recommended.

6. That of Peter Gifford and others was not recommended.

7. In reference to Wm. White's petition a crossing at a cost of $30 was recommended.

8. Mr. Cavanagh's petition was also recommended; cost about $30.

9. Joseph Pinder's petition for a crossing on Aylmer street was recommended; cost $3.

10. James Wasse's petition was recommended; cost about $25. There is a short piece of sidewalk north of Maurice Tegney's to the next street necessary; cost $6.

11. The petition in reference to the cleaning of the Monaghan drain was recommended, but the work could not be done till the hot weather; cost about $30.

12. The petition of Daniel Hoffer was not recommended.
